GREAT IMPROVEMENT

—IN THE—

PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL.

The great obstacle to the universal adoption of COD LIVER OIL as a remedial agent, has been the repulsive taste and smell which have adhered to the various Oils prepared for market. This disagreeable feature has been entirely obviated in

MARVIN'S COD LIVER OIL.

By a careful selection of the Livers of the Cod, preserving them in a fresh and sweet condition, and by a process, that whilst it retains all the medicinal qualities of the Oil, at the same time completely eliminates all animal matter, we are able to present that which all Physicians, who have seen and tested it, pronounce to be a great desideratum to the profession, viz.: a perfectly Pure, Inodorous, and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as sweet to the taste as Sardine Oil, leaving no unpleasant taste in the mouth, and producing no eructations from the stomach. Its superiority to any known preparation of Cod Liver Oil, is at once acknowledged by all at the first sight.

We believe it to be the duty of every one who prescribes or sells Cod Liver Oil, to secure for their patients or customers the VERY BEST ARTICLE that the persevering study of man has produced, and we invite you to a trial of its qualities.

It is put up in neat Bottles, containing One Pint each, and packed in boxes of one dozen each. We solicit your order for one dozen or more for trial of its virtues. We append below the letter of Dr. Hayes, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts:

Gentlemen:—I have made chemical analyses of three samples of Marvin's Deodorized and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as prepared by you, with the following results, one of the samples being marked new, one three months, and the other six months old. The samples do not differ in composition, the Oil in each case being free from animal tissue, or any trace of decomposition. This Oil is transparent, of a pale amber color, and remarkably free from disagreeable taste or odor. It is chemically Pure Cod Liver Oil, containing all its constituents and therapeutic properties, and its uncommon keeping quality is due to its purity. Respectfully, S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts. Jan. 27th, 1870.

For sale by first-class Druggists everywhere.

LIBERAL CHRISTIANITY.—Messrs. Editors:—As one of the most interesting of passing events is to occur in September of this year, viz. the Centenary of the initiation of Universalism in this country, it occurs to the writer that the descendants of any of the supporters of that movement, (of whom he will name one, the late David Pearce of Gloucester, Mass.,) might by concert of action make up an item that would be acceptable in the programme for the occasion.

As a reminder, it may be stated that Rev. John Murray came to this country, (as the Romanists went to England, and with their christianity supplanted Druidism,) at a time when the established religion, (Orthodox,) was running riot in its horrible teachings, among which was prominent, that which savors very much of liberty to "add to the sayings of the prophecy of this Book," that "Hell was paved with the skulls of infants," and he so jarred the corner stone of the edifice, that all the shoreing and propping force of the "establishment" had to be borrowed from those they formerly persecuted and drove hither and thither. By thus wisely borrowing, we rejoice to believe, that they are still instrumental in doing good, by frightening and driving, if they do not draw, stray sheep and lambs into good pasture.

It will give me great pleasure to confer with any person who may be alike interested with me in this matter.

A. J. PENHALLOW.

Portsmouth, April 12.

☞ The Rockingham House, renovated and refurnished, is announced to be re-opened next week, by the new landlords, Messrs. Peirce, also of the Sagamore House. The Rockingham is soon to be greatly enlarged, by the addition of a wing in line with the present front, and a French roof over the whole; which will make it one of the largest and finest hotels in the State. As a summer house, especially, it will then fill a need long felt here.

☞ An item was published on Wednesday, (not in the Chronicle,) stating that "a young man employed as a writer on the U. S. S. Plymouth was most severely punished on Tuesday evening because of hard words which he allowed himself to use towards a citizen." We are requested to state that the man who got hurt is not "a writer" on board the Plymouth, but an officer named Reiter, attached to that vessel.

☞ Probably the first lady who was ever paid for singing in a church choir in this city, was Mrs. Wm. F. Lawrence, now of Epping. She sang at St. John's Church, and was succeeded by Miss Eliza D. Moses, now Mrs. Ham. $50 a year was regarded a good salary then; though five or six times that amount has since been paid, at least in one instance.

☞ Lisa Weber and her blonde beauties are to show at the Temple next Monday evening. See advertisement. The list of performers is one of the largest and best of the kind that ever exhibited here; and they promise the same grand and varied entertainment they have given for eight months in New York city.

☞ Capt. Horatio Trefethen reports a large sick or wounded whale in the Lower Harbor,—he thinks 50 feet long. He has been round several days, floating and drifting about, and seems unable to help himself much. Sick whales fight, sometimes, so here is a chance for sport. "Stand up, boatsteerer."

☞ City Marshal Johnson on Wednesday arrested George Parks and Thomas Lyons of this city, for aiding and abetting deserters from the U. S. Marine Service. They were bound over in $300 till Saturday, by Commissioner Hackett.

☞ The Methodist Fair at Congress Hall was continued Wednesday evening, with good success. There are the usual attractions, and a chance for a pleasant hour. The Fair is announced to close this evening.

☞ The Dover Bee says "Portsmouth is going to sell its city farm, and let its paupers board out." That is news down this way—we wonder where the Bee learned it?

☞ The weather having become settled and the roads good, the Pilgrim, John Bunyan, will "take his staff and travel on" this morning, and we commend him to all, wherever he may visit.

New Hampshire Items.

Hampton Falls has a marvel—nothing less than a genuine, veritable "haunted house," which is situated in the south-easterly part of the town, near the Seabrook line.

Religious services were held at the County Alms House, in Brentwood, 27th ult., conducted by Brother Jones of the Park street church of Boston, and others. Four young ladies of Exeter attended and added much interest to the meeting by singing. The gratuitous labors of Brother Jones in the cause, at Stratham, Brentwood, and Exeter on the same day and evening, will be long and gratefully remembered. A weekly prayer meeting at the Alms House is conducted by the aid of Rev. Mr. Swett of the Baptist church in Brentwood.

A hitherto respectable woman of Concord, being jealous of her husband and a young unmarried lady friend, attacked her in the street, and they had such a fight that it took several men to separate them, by pulling the wedded one off the other, whose body she was astride on the ground, beating her pulling out her hair, &c.

Mrs. Mary Bucknay of East Washington, was 100 years old April 6th. She knit socks for the soldiers of the Revolution and all the wars since, and is smart and active yet.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,
BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,
February 15th, 1870.
The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.
Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS OF THE Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional East and West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other
The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.
Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.
Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.
The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 157 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.
Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.
Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.
The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.
The Bonds are in denominations of
$1000, $500, and $100.
They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or
The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or
The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only the registered owner or his attorney.
The three classes will be known respectively as:
1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."
2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."
3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.
They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.
The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.
The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.
A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.
The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.
Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.
The present price is 90 and accrued interest.
A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be at once appreciated and quickly absorbed.
Very respectfully,
FISK & HATCH, Bankers.
P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.
☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 22dawtm

The Electrical Arcanum for April, devoted to the Science of Electrical Therapeutics; a quarterly journal published by the Franklin Electrical Institute of New York. 50 cts per annum. At the Reading Room.

The Railroad Gazette, a Journal of Transportation; a large quarterly, $3 per year. Chicago, April.

Third Annual Report of the Saint Paul Chamber of Commerce, for 1869. By the Secretary, Ossain E. Dodge, and done up in his usual thorough manner.

The Technologist for April, a monthly "especially devoted to Engineering, Manufacturing and Building," we do not hesitate to recommend to all artisans. It is filled with useful and instructing matter.

The Manufacturer and Builder for April is a monthly worthy of an extended patronage. It contains descriptions of all new inventions of note, the latest scientific discoveries; and besides many other things, what is worth many times the price of the magazine, each number has really good plans for dwellings, &c.

Merry's Museum for April. $1.50 a year. Specimen number, ten cents. Horace B. Fuller, Publisher, Boston.

The American Odd Fellow for April, is a good monthly Magazine for anybody, especially for the I. O's. It is always full of good reading; and this number has an article on Portsmouth poets, from the pen of J. K. Medbery. E. P. Nowell is one of the editors.

Dr. Hayes' new and popular medical work, entitled "The Science of Life, or Self-Preservation," is a practical treatise upon matters deeply concerning the health and vigor of the old and young of both sexes. By A. H. Hayes, M. D., Boston.

The Hub, a new and good monthly Journal for the carriage and car shop. Published by Valentine & Co. Price 50 cents per year, in advance. Address, Editor of The Hub, care "Riverside Press," Cambridge, Mass. A copy may be seen at the Mechanics' Reading Room.

The Medical Gazette, a weekly review of the Medical Sciences, New York.

Smithsonian Institute Report for 1868, from A. F. Stevens, M. C.

Punchinello is the name of a new comic paper in New York. Their nonsense is as good as the average of such—but it is hard work to be really funny if you start to be only that.

The Advertiser's Gazette, April, 1870, by Geo. P. Rowell & Co., New York, appears in new shape, as a handsome Magazine; and is a publication of interest and value to all newspaper men and great advertisers, and not without attractions for the general reader.

The Bright Side, a beautiful little monthly for all children, Chicago; 50 cts. per year.

Man and Woman, Equal but Unlike. By James Reed. "Female and male God made the man; His image is the whole, not half." Published by Nichols & Noyes, Boston, price 75 cents, sent post-paid.

The Hohenstein, a Novel, by Frederick Spielhagen; from the German, by Prof. Schele De Vere. Leypoldt & Holt, publishers, New York, price $2, for sale by Foster Shores & Co. A large and handsome volume, full of interest. "The work is one of immense vigor; the characters are extraordinary, yet not unnatural; the plot is the sequence of an admirably-sustained web of incident and action. The portraitures of characteristic foibles and peculiarities remind one much of the masterhand of the great Thackeray."

The Little Corporal for April, Chicago.

The Travellers' Record for April. Hartford, published by the Travellers Life and Accident Insurance Co.

Receipts and Expenditures and School Reports of the Town of Kittery. From the Com. There are about a dozen School Dists. in this rambling old town. Appropriation recommended $3400.

—An Irish lover remarked that it is a great comfort to be alone, "especially when yer swateheart is wid ye."

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

NASHUA, April 11th.

The Forty-first Session of the N. H. Conference of Methodist ministers is being held this year in the Maine Street Methodist Church. This is the handsomest and most ample church in the city, and seems every way adapted to the glorious purposes of religious worship.

Early Tuesday morning the 5th inst. the young preachers of the first four years assembled for examination in "a course of study," and from after reports of the Committees, it seems that unusual attention had been given to these Literary and Theological requisites. On Wednesday morning, the Conference proper opened with Bishop Simpson in the Chair. He was the favorite preacher of the late President Lincoln, and was selected to attend his funeral obsequies, and indeed Dr. Simpson is the prince of pulpit orators and lecturers in the land, and his presence in Nashua is attracting an unusual crowd of the clergy and laity to this Conference. Rev. R. S. Stubbs, long the assistant, is now chosen Secretary of the Conference, with Revs. S. G. Kellogg and G. N. Bryant, Assistants

The moral and ministerial characters of all the preachers, but more critically of the younger men, is inquired into, but none at this Conference were found guilty, and none have died or left the Conference the past year; but several new men have joined, one an Elder from the F. W. Baptist people.

The usual plentitude of business is attended to, and the benevolent collections and funds of the Conference were never so well reported. The various public meetings or anniversaries of the Temperance, Educational and Sunday School interests were well attended to, and able discourses were preached, as Conference and Missionary sermons. The christian and ministerial experience of the young ministers related in the Chestnut Street M. E. church on Friday P. M., is spoken of, as exceedingly interesting.

The lay delegation question elicted much discussion Friday morning, several of the fathers and a few young men speaking and voting against the measure, while a few speeches and a large vote (66 to 23) were in favor of making arrangements for the reception of laymen in the Conferences. The vote was kept open, and by Saturday noon the yeas had reached 75, while the nays had decreased, several being allowed to change their votes.

A powerful sermon was preached Friday evening, on "A Divine Christ" as necessary to the aggressiveness of Christianity, by Dr. Warren, President of the Boston Theological School; which institution he also represented to be in a very flourishing condition, on Saturday.

In speaking of the wants of the Educational Society to help indigent young men in their preparation for the ministry, the case of one young preacher was related, which so touched the feelings of the Conference that a collection of some $75 was immediately taken for his assistance.—The unusual arrangement was made for Bishop Simpson to preach Saturday afternoon; his sermon was a masterly effort of 88 minutes, carrying the vast audience all before him. As the closing hymn was being sung, a telegram arrived, announcing the sudden death of Bishop Kingsley, while in Syria, on his Episcopal tour round the world. The singing ceased, silent prayer (tho' with many tears,) followed, and a profound sensation was produced. Two of the Bench of Bishops,—and this the youngest of them,—have fallen when engaged in vigorous work, within two weeks, besides, perhaps, our most eminent theologian, Dr. McClintock, President of Drew Theological Seminary. Sadly said Bishop S., "The Lord seems to be having a controversy with us." But woes seldom come singly,—"they love a train." So it has been also with the nation; Fessenden, Rawlins, Stanton, and now Gen. Thomas, "have fought their last battle." Loud are the calls for statesmen and princes in Israel, to take the places of the mighty dead.

Bishop Simpson preached again on the Sabbath morning, charging the ministers to "preach the word," and the people to receive the same, which effort was only outdone by his Saturday's sermon. Several young men were ordained Deacons in the ministry, and 8 older men as Elders, by the Bishop, in the afternoon, after an interesting sermon from Rev. Mr. Knowles, late of Lawrence. Most of the pulpits in the city were occupied by Methodist preachers. The Conference Love Feast at 8 o'clock A. M. was a refreshing season; 113 spoke, and 29 times singing was enjoyed—especially when Chaplain McCabe led off. Dr. Barrows, G. Haven and Mr. McCabe, gave stirring missionary speeches in the evening. B.

PUT OUT THE LIGHTS.

BY JAMES R. MURRAY.

Put out the lights,
He will not need them more,
Your work is done; his feet have gained
The fairer, purer shore.

Put out the lights,
For him the morning gleams,
The sweetest waking he has known
To-day upon him beams.

Put out the lights,
Sleep on and take your rest,
He is the patient watcher now
And we the souls distressed.

Put out the lights,
He walks the heavenly way,
And less than ever yet before
He needs our tears to-day.

Put out the lights,
The shadows all are past,
And everlasting glory breaks
Upon our friend at last.

New Publications Received.

American Enterprise is the novel title of the most elegant and altogether magnificent advertising sheet ever (we can safely say) issued; in which the best art is made tributary to practical business interests. It is a large folio double sheet, filled with engravings, one on each page except in the middle, where is the huge cartoon of Messrs. Perkins, Stern & Co., representing the Bacchus of the old time yielding up his thyrsus to the new wine-god of California. Edwin Booth occupies the first page with a marvellous portrait of himself as Hamlet, and smaller scenes, showing his theatre and his other impersonations. Mason & Hamlin cover a page with a picture of an organist playing. Fields, Osgood & Co. have an artistic page showing their magazines and where they go. Frang & Co. and the Travellers Insurance Co. occupy the same page, and the Waltham Watch Co. has a curious medley of humorous drawings symbolizing the birth of Time, his flight, course, march, and death; also beating time, a good time, and all sorts of a time,—on the next page. Hearth and Home is pleasantly advertised in a cottage scene by Darley on the last page. The artists are Hennessey, Linton, Darley and Bellew, and W. J. Linton is the engraver. Each page is most artistically designed and drawn, and the engraving and printing are as exquisite as anything seen in the most expensive gift-books. There is not one of the pictures that is unworthy of preservation as a work of art. The Am. News Company are the publishers, and the N. E. News Co., Boston, supply the Eastern trade. For sale by Batchelder & Co. Price ten cents.

The second number of The Technologist, the new Magazine in New York, for March, shows an improvement on the first, and seems bound to fill acceptably a place of its own. It has an elaborate set of engravings, illustrative of the proposed Brooklyn bridge, and original papers on such topics as "The Manufacture of Procelain," Street Railways," "The Great Ocean Lines of Telegraph," "Roads," "The Influence of Distillation on Health," and so on. May be seen at the Mech's. Reading Room.

RECONCILED.—Messrs. Butler and Schenck of the National House of Representatives have become friends again—after a long-standing quarrel.

Mr. Butler recently, in reply to Mr. Schenck, said it was due to the chairman of the committee on ways and means, as well as to himself, to make a few remarks by way of a personal explanation. In the commencement of this Congress he had in the heat of debate stated substantially that he intended to investigate the conduct of the gentleman as chairman of the committee on ways and means. At the time he had had many stories broached to him which had forced themselves on his mind. He had since investigated them, and found them in every instance to be of that class of slanders from which every public man has suffered. In the same place where he had made the assertion, he felt it due to that gentleman, Mr. Schenck, as well as himself, to make, as far as he could, reparation.

Mr. Schenck said he accepted the reparation in the spirit in which he believed it was offered. He had felt perfectly confident when he challenged the investigation, long ago, as to what the result of any investigation into anything impeaching his integrity would be, and he was glad that in the same place, and by the same gentleman by whom the intimation against him had been thrown out, there was now such a retraction made as would go to the world.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,
Coughs, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses,
Colds, Headache, Painting Fits,
Fevers, Convulsions, Palpitation,
Agues, Sleeplessness, Restlessness,
Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Dizziness,
Constipation, Liver Complaint, Children's Troubles
Diarrhœa, Consumption, &c., &c., &c.
Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS (and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, morphine or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs whatsoever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone.
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5tw

PLANTATION BITTERS.
S · T · — 1860 — X
This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid, it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits. For sale by all druggists.

One of the banners borne by the colored men at their celebration in Louisville read: "We will live on hash before we will vote the Democratic ticket." "God made us men," was inscribed upon a wagon filled with women.

Land is so cheap in Arkansas that "you have to look sharp or they will smuggle an extra forty acres or so into the deed."

"Pa," said a lad to his father, "I have often read of people being poor but honest; why don't they sometimes say rich but honest?" "Tut, tut, my son—nobody would believe them," answered the father.

A witty Republican in Washington says that the Senate is divided into three parties—the Republican, the Democratic and the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Prosser, member of Congress from the fifth district of Tennessee, has appointed a negro boy named Alonzo Napier, as a cadet at West Point, and claims to be the first to succeed in getting a colored youth into that institution.

The Massachusetts House of Representatives defeated the bill, which had passed the Senate, for the annexation of Charlestown to Boston, on Wednesday.

Chief Justice Chase has written a letter to the colored men of Ohio, saying he would have preferred they should be enfranchised by State rather than national authority, but it is all right as it is; and furthermore, their appreciation of the boon will be shown by recommending Congress to remove all disabilities imposed by the Fourteenth Amendment.

Canada is mustering its armies to repel the expected Fenians and subjugate the Red River rebels.

G. W. Thomas, a New York broker, got possession of $62,000 worth of railroad bonds, Tuesday, without paying for them, and mysteriously disappeared.

The Carlists are crossing into Spain, and trouble may be expected before long.

Lord Tenterden of England, and the Belgian violinist De Beriot, are dead.

The surviving officers and crew of the Oneida arrived in San Francisco, Wednesday.

Senator Cragin has introduced a bill in the U. S. Senate for the relief of the families of the officers and men lost on the Oneida, similar to that in the case of the Congress. It allows to the widows and children of the deceased twelve months' extra pay. In case there is no widow or children, the amount is to go to the parents.

Chicago distilleries use 7000 bushels of grain daily.

Umbrellas with windows are the latest invention. Umbrellas with thief traps would be of more use.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons is playing Ophelia in German in St. Louis.

Fanny Fern is paid $5000 annually for her exclusive contributions to the New York Ledger.

An astronomer predicts the coming of a comet, this year, of such brilliancy that night will be turned into day, and gas companies will be ruined.

Two old pumps in London, the handles removed, have been mistaken for letter-boxes by stupid people, and thirty or forty letters, supposed to have been "stolen in the post-office," have been recovered from them.

There is a very heavy freshet in the Mississippi river. Opposite Quincy, Illinois, the river is eight miles wide. West Quincy is entirely submerged, and many people have abandoned their homes. The water is over the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad track for five miles, and should the river rise a foot higher the track between Quincy and Hannibal will be submerged, and necessitate the transfer of passengers from Quincy to Hannibal by steamer. The river is still rising.

Frederick Conklin was killed and C. Gilden fatally wounded by a nitro-glycerine explosion in Sing Sing prison quarry, Wednesday morning.

April 10th, as a son of Mr. David C. Rogers of Wolfeborough, and another person, were driving upon the Lake, the horse while going at a rapid trot, dropped through the ice and slid beneath it, carrying the sleigh partially under. The young men getting upon the sound ice, were able to hold the sleigh, and eventually to draw it out, and afterwards the horse, but the latter was so nearly drowned, that he gasped but once or twice after getting him out. The News says the travel upon the lake is getting risky. There are weak spots in the ice, not discoverable until one is upon them.

Mr. Ela has introduced a bill to adjust the claims of the State, so that the towns that advanced bounties to soldiers, shall not be losers in those cases where the government officials paid the soldiers who had assigned it to the town, instead of the town, as the War Department agreed to.

A day's sport at the Heath House, Dover, was the same as in years gone by, consisting of Quoit pitching, Tenpin rolling and various other amusements. The most exciting game of Quoit pitching was between the Hussey Club and the Meader Club, and was easily won by the former; they pitched until darkness set in, Nat Turner acting as tally keeper, and Eph. O. Foss as referee. The prize for rolling the largest string of Ten-pins was awarded to John Crow Ham, who got 275, which was far ahead of all competitors.

PUBLICATIONS ANNOUNCED. — The Handy Book of Husbandry, a Guide for Farmers young and old. 600 pages, illustrated. By Geo. E. Warring jr. of Ogden Farm, a well known agricultural writer. E. B. Treat & Co., New York, are the publishers; the work will be sold only by subscription, and Agents are wanted.

The Private Life of Galileo, with selections from his correspondence and that of his daughter, is the title of a book soon to be published by Nichols & Noyes, Boston. "A happy blending of the scientific life of the great astronomer, and the Convent life of his saintly daughter."

☞ Oysters should be handled tenderly, and as little as possible, according to a Baltimore correspondent, who writes: "Thunder sours milk and kills oysters. You may load a vessel to its utmost capacity; start for market, and one good round clap of thunder will kill every oyster in the vessel immediately. Pounding with an axe upon the deck of a vessel when oysters are thereon, or pounding upon the side of a vessel with a heavy weight, will kill every oyster that feels the jar."

☞ The U. S. Senate has adopted the joint resolution for a joint committee on Indians affairs, established Abijah Gilbert of Florida in his seat, and agreed to consider the Georgia bill leisurely. The House voted that Mr. Shober of North Carolina was entitled to a seat as long as he could keep it, and that Mr. Sheldon's (of Louisiana) claim should not be any longer questionable. Mr. Butler again failed to get San Domingo annexed.

VALUE OF LIQUID MANURE. — The best use of liquid manure is undoubtedly absorption by muck. Many farmers who would not like to be called careless or wasteful, have their barnyards or stables so unfortunately located that the urine of the cattle escapes; or, if a good heavy rain comes, the soakings of the manure are in pools scattered here and there throughout the yard. It ought to be their first duty to cover all their manure, and not permit it to soak; but failing in that, the next best plan is to draw into the yard large quantities of muck from the swamp, let it be trodden over by the cattle, and let it absorb the liquid oozing of the entire yard.

At least once every three months the entire yard should be cleaned out, the manure piled in heaps, and replaced with muck again. If the farmer can afford the expense, it would be well to have the yard slightly sloping, with a cistern at the lowest end, to collect the liquid manure; this can be pumped out as fast as filled, on to a pile of muck close at hand, which will require very little time, and yet add many loads of valuable manure to the farmer's manure heap.

We cannot urge farmers too much to save all their manure, and make as much more as they can. Next to labor, the farmer's most important problem is manure. Prices may fluctuate, but a well manured field will never fail to yield a good profit.

GOOD FOOD AND PLENTY OF IT, produces the same effect upon a person who has been starved that the Peruvian Syrup and Iron Tonic, does upon the Weak and Debilitated: it makes them strong and vigorous, changing weakness and suffering into strength and health.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Newspaper Statements.

HOW THE PEOPLE TEST THEIR TRUTH.

This is not an age when people believe or trust whatever they see in the public journals. Fifty or sixty years ago when the accuracy of a statement that had appeared in one of the gazettes or "News Letters" of the day, was questioned, it was considered a sufficient answer to all cavil to say, "it must be so, for I read it in the newspaper." It is not so now. Newspaper assertions must be verified before they are taken for granted, and this is especially the case as regards statements setting forth the remedial properties of proprietary medicines. For example; it was not until the tonic and alterative properties of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS had been deliberately and thoroughly tested by thousands, and found to be in perfect accord with the printed claims put forth in its behalf, that it was accepted by the public at large as a Standard Remedy.

But when multitudes who had resorted to it as a safe-guard against malarious fevers, a cure for indigestion and biliousness, a means of strengthening the frame, cheering the spirits and imparting constitutional vigor, came forward and testified that its beneficial effects had exceeded their most sanguine expectations, of course the world believed. To resist such proofs was impossible. Great care has been taken from the beginning not to overstate the merits of the Bitters.

Exaggeration and bombast have been the death of many preparations that might otherwise have survived. They were "weighed in the balance and found wanting." HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, on the contrary, have never been announced in grandiloquent language as a cure for every bodily ill, but simply as a pure harmless vegetable specific, possessing the remarkable invigorating, regulating, anti-bilious and antiseptic properties. This is exactly what the public know the medicine to be, and its enormous sales is an argument in its favor.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. mh12dawlm

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Remember, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pain in the Limbs, Back, Chest. To those who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT
—IN THE—
PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL.

The great obstacle to the universal adoption of COD LIVER OIL as a remedial agent, has been the repulsive taste and smell which have adhered to the various Oils prepared for market. This disagreeable feature has been entirely obviated in

MARVIN'S COD LIVER OIL.

By a careful selection of the Livers of the Cod, preserving them in a fresh and sweet condition, and by a process, that whilst it retains all the medicinal qualities of the Oil, at the same time completely eliminates all animal matter, we are able to present that which all Physicians, who have seen and tested it, pronounce to be a great desideratum to the profession, viz.: a perfectly Pure, Inodorous, and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as sweet to the taste as Sardine Oil, leaving no unpleasant taste in the mouth, and producing no eructations from the stomach. Its superiority to any known preparation of Cod Liver Oil, is at once acknowledged by all at the first sight.

We believe it to be the duty of every one who prescribes or sells Cod Liver Oil, to secure for their patients or customers the VERY BEST ARTICLE that the persevering study of man has produced, and we invite you to a trial of its qualities.

It is put up in neat Bottles, containing One Pint each, and packed in boxes of a dozen each. We solicit your order for one dozen or more for trial of its virtues. We append below the letter of Dr. Hayes, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts:

Gentlemen:—I have made chemical analyses of three samples of Marvin's Deodorized and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as prepared by you, with the following results, one of the samples being marked new, one three months, and the other six months old. The samples do not differ in composition, the Oil in each case being free from animal tissue, or any trace of decomposition. This Oil is transparent, of a pale amber color, and remarkably free from disagreeable taste or odor. It is chemically Pure Cod Liver Oil, containing all its constituents and therapeutic properties, and its uncommon keeping quality is due to its purity. Respectfully, S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts. Jan. 27th, 1870.

☞ The Pilgrim didn't travel on, Thursday, but greeted an audience that evening glad to witness the beautiful painting.

☞ A report of the examination at the Reform School, Manchester, on Wednesday, is unavoidably crowded out, this morning.

☞ Wednesday and Thursday, day and night, were about as lovely as any days June will give us. Many farmers here were plowing April 12th, and a few still earlier.

☞ The Maine Gospel Banner advises the Universalist Society of this city, to set their Church up still higher than they propose to do, and says many vestries are set too low. No doubt of it, and other buildings too.

☞ A Brahma Hen of Mr. Lafayette Laighton of this city, has laid an egg measuring 8 1-2 by 6 inches, weighing 4 1-2 ounces. This is considerable of a lay, we should say; and Mr. Lay-ton is just the man to have such hens.

☞ A match game of base ball was played on Rundlett's Mountain, Wednesday afternoon, between two junior clubs, by the name of Piscataqua and Shoo Fly, both of this city, and resulted in the victory of the former, by 6 runs.

☞ The body of William Ladd, the young man who was drowned at the Atlantic Works wharf, East Boston, on the 28th day of February last, by falling from the steamer Emeline, was recovered Wednesday afternoon, and brought to this city for interment.

☞ The Congregational Church at Newcastle received, April 3rd, six new members by profession. This church is now 199 years old. In 1821 its membership had dwindled away to one, an aged female, but has since revived. Rev. L. Alden is now the pastor. The Sabbath school, now numbering 200, was founded py the late Dr. Goodell, fifty years ago.

The Congregational Church at Deerfield received fourteen additions at the last communion, mostly heads of families, and others are expected to unite in due time.

☞ We are pleased and proud to acknowledge the receipt of numerous letters of compliment to the memory of our late highly esteemed associate Uncle Toby, and condolence for his loss—so numerous that with the great and increased press of our other duties, we must be excused for alluding to them in this public manner, and for not replying to each directly, as we should be glad to do. These missives come from far and near; from personal friends, old and new; clergymen, editors, printers, philanthropists, who had been associated with him at one time or other, or who appreciated and admired his words and works; from intimate acquaintances, or those who knew him only by reputation — all, all send kindly words to his memory, and proofs of the respect and love in which he was held. This is indeed gratifying to us, and all the more from the fact that we know it is all heartfelt and real. Thanks, friends, all. F.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT, EXETER. The Grand Jury reported on Thursday; Mr. Thos. Tredick was the only member from Portsmouth. Messrs. John H. Slater, Samuel H. Emery and Geo. Annable of this city were excused from serving on the Petit Jury. Mr. Edward D. Coffin was drawn on the same Jury for the first and second weeks, and Messrs. John S. Rand, John S. Dodge, Jos. H. Foster and Richard H. Beacham of Ward Two; John O. Ayers 2d and Geo. S. Leach of Ward Three, for the third week. Sixty-three new actions were entered on the civil docket. The trial of criminal cases will be proceeded with on Monday.

The case of Lamprey vs. Jenness, action on notes, was taken from the jury on Thursday and entered neither party.

No 67—Jesse O. Bailey vs. Caroline Low, appellant, was tried on Thursday; —suit as to a vinegar hogshead, valued at $5, and other small articles, on an appeal from the decision of a Justice of the Peace. E. D. Coffin of Portsmouth, Foreman of Jury. Bartlett for Plf. Small and Hobbs for Deft.

John Bly of Epping, a minor, indicted for stealing bank notes, was sentenced to the Reform School for two years, conditional on his good behavior there, or to the State Prison instead.

We hear that judgment has been given in the case of Patrick O'Brien vs. Lt. Comdr. H. B. Seely, U. S. N., for the Plaintiff, for $525 without costs.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.
PORTLAND, April 11.

The great sensation of the past few weeks has been "The Masquerade," sometimes a dozen large parties in a single night. It has been overdone and every one is tired of it.

Spring is at hand. After such terrible rainy and uncomfortable weather as between the 2d and 4th, the past few lovely days have been welcome enough —perfectly delicious. Back in the country the snow still lingers; but here the streets are even dusty and cloaks and overcoats insufferable.

The political waters begin to be stirred, in view of the State election next September. Slates are being made up for Governor, members of Congress, U. S. Senator, &c.

In this (First) Congressional district, some desire exists to give York County the nomination. Mr. Lynch has proved himself an industrious, faithful and able Representative. He is an efficient man, though not a talker. He is a sharp, shrewd and successful business man, and therefore invaluable as a member—but in his distribution of offices, he has made several important mistakes; and weakened his strength somewhat, on this account. Unless York County can unite upon a strong man and present him in a more efficient manner than has been the case heretofore, we think Mr. Lynch will surely receive the nomination and election again, without great opposition. We should be sorry to lose him from the Congressional councils, especially at this time, when he is a most useful member.

The place of holding the next Maine State Fair is not yet decided. Lewiston, Bath and Bangor, are strongly competing for it, but as the Society have only been successful here, Portland may get it again after all.

The Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance will hold its next session at Cape Elizabeth on the 24th.

The Odd Fellows are constructing a fine hall for encampment purposes and Banquet hall, 20 by 60 feet in connection with their suite of rooms in Jose's block, Exchange Street. A convenient kitchen is attached.

The great musical treat of the season is to be Theodore Thomas' grand Orchestral Concerts by his unrivalled orchestra and eminent soloists—on the 14th and 15th. In New York, Boston and elsewhere they have carried off the palm. Last year they were here and produced a great sensation. Portsmouth ought to secure them for "one night only," if no longer. Their high standard of music can not be excelled.

The amount of Sugar imported here for the quarter ending March 31st, was 2,766,484 lbs. valued at $132,558; in 1869 (same months) 872,319 lbs. valued at $47,349. The amount of Molasses imported for the quarter was 1,718,446 galls. valued at $469,693; in 1769 (same months) 913,686 galls., valued at $198,511. Sugars are way down, the best granulated retailing at 13 1-2c.

The Hayden Association propose a grand State Musical Festival here in June. SANCHO.

—Troy has developed the latest thing in weddings. Man and woman stand up alone before a looking-glass, join hands, and "in the presence of those witnesses" agree to take each other for husband and wife.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,
BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,
February 15th, 1870.
The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.
Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
OF THE
Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional East and West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other
The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.
Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.
Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.
The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 150 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.
Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.
Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.
The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.
The Bonds are in denominations of
$1000, $500, and $100.
They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or
The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or
The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only to the registered owner or his attorney.
The three classes will be known respectively as:
1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."
2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."
3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.
They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent, per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.
The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.
The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.
A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.
The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.
Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.
The present price is 90 and accrued interest.
A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be fast once appreciated and quickly absorbed.
Very respectfully,
FISK & HATCH,
Bankers.
P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.
☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 22daw3m

DOMESTIC WANTED, by Mrs. LYMAN, at No. 1 Austin Street. Portsmouth, April 9.

LOST, on Wednesday evening, a GOLD PENDANT EARING. The finder will be rewarded on leaving it at this office. ap14

Transplanting Trees.—The ground should be thoroughly and deeply plowed, or subsoiled and highly manured, as much so as when prepared for growing a fine crop of wheat or Indian corn; for trees, however healthy and vigorous whilst growing in the nursery, when removed to a poor soil, or set out in sward ground, will cease to thrive. A generous outlay in properly preparing the soil by enriching manures and good cultivation, will be amply rewarded by the increased vigor, beauty of growth, and future productiveness of the trees. As the advantage of draining is now so generally understood, it is presumed that stagnant sub-soil moisture, if existing, will not be allowed to remain in the ground where trees are to be planted.

On the lawn, or where isolated trees are set out, and it is impracticable to have the ground prepared as is desirable in more extended planting, it will be well to have the holes for the trees made much larger than otherwise would be necessary, and a liberal supply of good garden soil substituted for a portion of that taken out of the hole, and such enriching compost or well-decomposed manure as may be at command, incorporated with the rest. When about to plant, let the top and roots of the tree be properly pruned with a sharp knife—the former is benefitted by having all the last year's wood cut back to within three or four buds of the base, and when the branches are crowded, some may be taken out. With trees of extra size the pruning should be in proportion. In pruning the roots, carefully cut off all bruised or broken portions, shortening those that are too long, and thinning out where too much crowded, being careful not to cut off any fibrous roots.

For a tree of moderate size let the hole be dug from three to four feet wide, and from twelve to eighteen inches deep, turning the earth several times to pulverize it. The bottom of the hole below the roots should be filled in with a mixture of well-decomposed manure or compost along with the soil, covering it lightly with mould, to prevent the manure coming in contact with the roots; then let the tree be held upright in the hole, being particularly careful not to plant the tree deeper than the base of the stem, gently shaking it several times; let the fine earth be distributed among the roots in such a manner that every root and fibre may come in contact with the soil (this is a very important item in the process, the neglect of which is the frequent cause of death to newly-transplanted trees).

Some enriching compost or well-decomposed manure may be advantageously used in filling up the hole with the soil, but should not be allowed to come immediately to the roots. When the roots are covered, press the soil firmly with the foot; and if it is not sufficiently moist, let a pailful or two of water be poured over the roots; and after it has settled, the remainder of the hole is to be filled up. The operation, when finished, should not leave the surface-roots more than two inches at most below the soil; and when the ground has finally settled, the tree should not stand any deeper than when growing in the nursery. Deep planting should be particularly guarded against, as one of the most fatal errors in transplanting.

There is oftentimes an advantage in staking trees when transplanted, to prevent their being swayed by the wind, and promote a straight, handsome growth. The stake should be planted with the tree, a hole being made for it with a crow-bar, and the tree fastened to it when planted, in such a manner as to prevent chafing. When trees are set out in the autumn, and particularly if they are not staked, it is a good method to make a mound about six inches high around the stem of the tree, (using soil a short distance from the tree for the purpose), and sloping to the surface of the ground, leaving the mould a foot or so in diameter; this helps to support the tree against the storms, and to prevent water from lodging and freezing and thawing about the stem. The earth should be thrown back from the tree when the ground is settled in the spring.

It is an excellent practice to mulch trees after being planted, using any rough manure or coarse stable litter to the depth of three or four inches, and extending six inches beyond the roots; this impedes evaporation, and keeps the ground from baking and cracking in the drought and heat of summer, and thus maintains a more uniform temperature about the roots, and in winter is a protection against the severity of the weather.

After-treatment.—Newly transplanted trees thrive well under good corn or similar cultivation. Care should be taken not to plant any crop within six feet of the tree. If in a lawn, or where the general surface of the ground cannot be kept in cultivation, let the soil about each tree be kept pulverized and mulched, being dug over and manured in the spring and fall to the distance of at least three or four feet; at the same time give the trees a washing with whale oil soap or a solution of potash water, made by dissolving one pound of potash in six or eight quarts of water. If fruit trees, let them be judiciously pruned before spring, forming the heads properly by taking off any limbs that cross others, or are likely to do so.

Distances for Planting:—

Apples, standard,	25 to 33 feet
Apples, dwarf,	5 to 8 feet.
Pears, standard,	20 feet.
Pears, dwarf,	8 to 10 feet.
Peaches, headed back,	12 feet.
Cherries, standard,	20 feet.
Cherries, dwarf,	8 to 10 feet.
Plums, standard,	15 feet.
Plums, dwarf,	8 to 10 feet.
Quinces,	6 to 8 feet.
Grapes,	10 to 12 feet.
Gossberries and Currants,	4 feet.
Raspberries,	4 feet.
Blackberries,	6 to 8 feet.

The Apple being the most valuable of all fruits, it is very desirable, in order to reap the greatest benefit from a small quantity of land, to plant the trees as close as will answer. The old method is to plant from 25 to 36 feet apart each way. From personal knowledge and experience I would recommend much closer planting — say 18 feet each way, which will give 135 trees to the acre—while trees planted 36 feet each way will only give 33 trees to the acre. If properly cultivated they will average the eighth year from one to two barrels apples per tree—even at one barrel each the difference would be over one hundred barrels per acre.

The trees will continue to bear in an increased ratio for ten or twelve years from that time without being overcrowded. Whenever that takes place, cut down every alternate tree (not alternate row), leaving the rows diagonally across the orchard, and trees 27 feet apart, and 72 trees in the orchard of one acre. The advantages of the plan suggested must be apparent from the fact of having 135 trees against 33 trees on the acre, bearing equally well for about twenty years, when one-half are removed, and the other half will be in full bearing, and have ample room without further reduction. Another advantage of close planting is, that trees protect each other from the wind, and, therefore, much less fruit blows off. An orchard planted in the way proposed, well manured and cultivated, will yield a rich return.

"How to Make the Farm Pay," was the subject of discussion at the Exeter Horticultural Society's rooms, on Saturday evening last.

Hervey Kent advocated greater reliance on their business, by the farming community. They are too apt to invest their money in Government securities, railroads, &c., to the detriment of their farms. He believed in farmers expending their money in bringing their farms up to the highest state of cultivation; and to do this, they must keep plenty of stock, use every precaution in making and saving manure, cultivate just what land they can cultivate well.

Pay much attention to grass, which is the crop for New England, root out and kill the worthless bushes and weeds that exhaust the soil as much as potatoes and corn, let a portion of poor pasture land grow up with wood, and bring the rest up by top-dressing. Most of our farmers are burdened with too much land, and scratch over several acre to get a crop that should be raised from one.

W. A. Currier thought no farm can be made to pay unless near a good market for the sale of early vegetables, &c., unless the profit can be realized from grass, fruit or woodland.

J. P. Cilley thought farmers generally are too niggardly in applying manure, and cited an instance of a gentleman in this town who, 12 years ago, put $1,500 worth of manure on a 13 acre lot, which has since received no manure of any consequence, and is estimated to have yielded $3,200 worth of hay, exclusive of expense of gathering. For the first few years it yielded three tons to the acre, but the crop has gradually been reduced, by neglect in dressing the land. A few years ago a man bought a small farm in Newmarket, which then cut ten tons of hay; now it cuts forty from the same amount of grassland. This result has been brought about by the free application of bleached ashes. Does not think this dressing can be used with advantage for any great length of time.

Wm. P. Moulton's idea is to get rid of continuous labor, and reduce the work of the farm to a few weeks. (His remarks applied more particularly to grass crop.) A Mr. Thompson of Durham sells $1000 worth of hay annually. He sells all his hay except enough to keep one cow, and buys manure. Mr. M. cuts $400 worth of hay, keeps seven head of neat stock and a horse. Thinks he would make more money to sell his hay and buy manure, than to keep stock.

Mr. Kent corrected a misapprehension of a reporter present at the previous meeting. He was reported as saying that Jersey cows' milk makes the best and richest cream, but is the poorest in quality. What he said was, that their cream was the best, but they were not the most profitable to keep for milk, to sell, the quantity they give being small.—News Letter.

New Hampshire Items.

Mr. George Cook, of Moultonboro', caught a trout from Lake Winnipisseogee that weighed 21pounds, was two feet and nine inches long and about eight inches through the body.

Manning C. Rand of Chichester was arrested for selling two horses which were under mortgage.

There is no state in the Union whose early history is so full of romance and events of interest as New Hampshire.

The city of Concord raises by taxation only $11,500 for schools; Dover, $18,500. Manchester appropriates $40,000.

The first policy ever issued in this State by a stock fire insurance company, was written last week by John C. French, General Agent of the New Hampshire Fire Insurance Company, on the residence of Mayor Weston of Manchester.

Messrs. S. H. Piper & Sons, who recently left Manchester because they could not rent a store, have opened a shop in Exeter.

Rev. Dr. Wallace and Dr. Leonard French, of Manchester, have been chosen as delegates from the Hanover-street church to attend the Congregational Convention at Chicago on the 26th inst.

The Chronicle.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.
WASHINGTON, April 13.

The weather here is warm, and overcoats and furs are generally discarded. The streets are dry, and as a matter of course, very dusty. It requires but 24 hours to produce a change from mud to dust, and we are reminded when the wind blows, as it always does at such times, of the Samiel of the Arabian deserts, that we used to read about in our geography, in our school boy days. Soda water is extensively advertised, and there is a growing demand for the same. The market is well supplied with dandelion greens, lettuce, and young onions; so you can judge how much our season is in advance of yours.

On Sunday the sound of the "church-going bells" drew large crowds to the several places of worship; but preferring the open Temple to a house made with hands, I went my way to Glenwood, solitary and alone. The solemn stillness which there prevailed accorded well with my mental frame. The graves of many of the sleepers were embellished with opening and full blown flowers, of varied hues and of sweet perfume. These flowers were growing in the soil which covers the slumberers beneath, and were most beautiful specimens of their kinds.

"Were I, O God, in churchless lands remaining,
Far from the view of teachers and divines,
My soul would find, in flowers of thy ordaining,
Priests, temples, shrines."

There was a grand torch-light parade of the colored citizens here in honor of the fifteenth amendment; it was an immense affair. Our colored brethren are straightening up, and evidently believe that "a white man is as good as a negro, provided he behaves himself," to which sentiment, I trust, we all fully subscribe.

The sad tidings of the death of good old "Uncle Toby" first reached me through a Boston paper; and I cannot realize as yet that "the places that once knew him shall know him no more forever," that I shall no more look on his pleasant countenance, no more hear the voice that always spoke so kindly and considerately. Peace to thy bosom, thou servant of God.

New Hampshire Items.

The State of New Hampshire in 1864 and 1865 overdrew some $150,000 on its quota of arms. By a recent arrangement with the War Department about $70,000 worth of fire-arms, consisting of Springfield and Enfield muskets, Remington pistols, carbines, &c., have been returned to the Watertown Arsenal for examination. The arms are in the same cases as received, not having been opened, and the government takes them at the prices originally charged.

The town of Hancock has paid all its debts, and has a balance of $300 in its Treasury.

Dover has an unlimited amount of stone materials like that put over a little space on Franklin Square, and a machine for breaking it up. The Bee's question is whether it would not be well to cover the Streets, while in the condition they have been the past few weeks with it? It would at once become firmly imbedded and make the roads hard, solid and free from mud. Good roads are important to the prosperity of the city.

Lyman R. Roberts and Mrs. Julia A. Sanders of Concord have been sentenced to State Prison for a year and a day, for adultery. Charles Webster, for larceny at Suncook, two years; and Wm. Downing for stealing money at Contoocookville, four years in State Prison.

Nashua has a Historical Society, David Gallis, President.

Thieves rob clothes lines and steal calves in Newmarket.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the prepa rations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention or incontinence of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dropsies, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.
Dr. H. T. Helmbold,
DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel, &c.
About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.
Very respectfully yours, &c.,
ECCLES & HINKLE, Druggists.

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.
H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,
DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered the spells every day for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with 'so hard.' I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.
Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.
Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised remedies of the day, without finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune directed me to try Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.
At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably effect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel ought to publicly proclaim the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,
DAVID ALLEN.

DR. J. KEYSER
is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:
Mr. H. T. Helmbold.
DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in question for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.
I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.
I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.
Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1868.
Mr. H. T. Helmbold,
DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Inclosed please find our rate advertising. Yours, T. B. H. STENHOUSE,
Ed'r and Prop'r of Telegraph.

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.
TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.
Dr. Helmbold.
DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know that I have ever spoken to you myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken pills, I may say by the quart, also liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.
It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me much? Well, I began taking it, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt that it was doing me good of another. By the time I took half of the second I still got worse (apparently.) When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had made up my mind it was of no use trying any more—and all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the last stage of the kidneys, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.
On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling so badly. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.
I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement saved me. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time. So I remain your ever well-wisher, EDWARD L. HOWARD,

N. Y. S. VOL. INSTITUTE,
Corner of 5th av. and 76th st., Central Park.
(A Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)
Dr. H. T. Helmbold,
Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of our little Lieutenant A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chamber-maid who has charge of his bedding.
I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save much misery. Bedwetting in Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering more from the sickness than from bad habit or spared punishment, that is (not knowing it as a weakness instead of a bad habit) most unjustly inflicted upon them. Thanking you on behalf of the children, most hoping your remedy may be alike benefitted, I am respectfully yours,
COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.
H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.
DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the care of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.
Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.
I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised medicines and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no Remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the Druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.
From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but from my improvement I thought it only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer, and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.
I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.
Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.
Yours, M. MCCORMICK.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,

Coughs,	Neuralgia,	Female Weaknesses,
Colds,	Headache,	Fainting Fits,
Fevers,	Convulsions,	Palpitation,
Ague,	Sleeplessness,	Restlessness,
Biliousness,	Dyspepsia,	Dizziness,

Constipation, Liver Complaint, Children's Troubles Diarrhœa, Consumption, &c., &c., &c.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. IT OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs whatever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from the use of all kinds as to keep somewhat quiet for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5 4w
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the eruption and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health—and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5 4w

An Elmira lad had a hawk that was partially tame. The other day he tied a small kitten to the bird's leg and set the two out of doors, when hawk, kitten and all swifully disappeared in the air.

LOVE AND MURDER.—At the trial of McFarland for shooting Richardson, in New York, more than 800 men were called before a jury of twelve was obtained who had not 'formed an opinion.' We have got one, too.—McFarland's counsel are trying to prove insanity—of course. And it is pretty evident that the beautiful lady loved her lover Richardson, more than her half-drunken, half-crazy husband; and she must have been either more or less than woman, if she hadn't. She seems to have had the good people all on her side, all the way along and under all circumstances; we think the best thing Mac could have done would have been to shoot himself, instead of Richardson. The latter insured his life $10,000 for Mrs. McFarland, and she has got the money.

CIRCUMSTANCES PREVENT.—A well-dressed woman, whose name was unknown, tried to commit suicide by allowing herself to be run over by the night freight train on the Boston and Albany Railroad near the Cottage Farm station. The engine and sixteen cars passed over her, but only tore her clothing, upon which she tried to drown herself in a tide pool near by, and was prevented by two men who took her to the Brookline police station.

☞ At the annual meeting of the Exeter Agricultural and Horticultural Society, the following officers were elected:—Daniel F. Hayes, President; W. A. Currier, H. Kent, Vice Presidents; John H. Bell, Secretary; Gardner Gilman, Treasurer; W. P. Moulton, Jacob P. Cilley, John P. Adams, C. W. Treadwell, John H. Kimball, N. A. Shute, W. Collins, Trustees.

TO DRIVE AWAY RATS.—A correspondent of the "Carolina Farmer" says that he succeeded in driving away rats by simply spilling coal oil about his corn crib. Another says he placed the oil in small open vessels about the room, in which he had spread his wheat to dry, and was not troubled with the 'varmints' at all, although they threatened to eat all his wheat until he applied this remedy.

The Juvenile Society of the North Parish will hold a Sale at their Chapel, Wednesday April 20th. An Apron Table will be among the attractions. Admission 25 cts. Children 15 cts. Doors open at 2 1-2 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 in the evening.

THE ANNUAL EXAMINATION of the State Reform School was held at Manchester on Wednesday. The buildings of the institutions were thrown open to public inspection and opportunity was granted to parents and friends of the inmates to see and talk with them, and learn the practical working of the institution.

The exercises in the school room were opened by prayer by Rev. Dr. Bouton of Concord. The School numbers one hundred, ninety boys and ten girls. The promptness with which the several classes in reading, spelling, geography and arithmetic acquitted themselves, was evidence of the great pains which the able Superintendent, Mr. Isaac H. Jones, aided by the three excellent teachers, Miss Rogers, Miss Rose and Mrs. Clark (the latter has charge of the girls) have taken, to have the studies thoroughly understood, by each of the pupils.

One of the most pleasing features of the whole exhibition was the singing, under the direction of Mr. J. P. Jones, a music teacher of Manchester; the whole school joined with heartiness and the effect was quite enjoyable. Music should be one of the regular exercises of the School, no more elevating and refining influence can be brought to bear upon children; it gives to these poor prisoners, the hallowing influence of happy homes.

The situation of the School is good in every respect, healthy, pleasant and retired. The view of the surrounding country includes mountains, hills, valleys, the Merrimack River and Manchester city. There were many visitors present from different and distant parts of the State; the Portsmouth delegation numbered about fifty. When the examination was concluded, Joseph Kidder of Manchester, Secretary of the Board of Trustees, presented three boys and two girls, each a beautiful book as rewards of merit for good conduct and scholarship. Eight boys and one girl were granted honorable discharges, [before the expiration of their terms,] in consideration of their great improvement, and the faithful manner in which they had discharged their school duties. They were then addressed by Hon. Horton D. Walker, President of the Board of Trustees. Mr. Walker's remarks were given in a kind and fatherly manner, and so touched the hearts of the children that tears flowed thick and fast, and many a watery eye told that the eloquent speaker's sentiments found a ready response, in the sympathies of the visiting audience; words of council so tenderly spoken can never be forgotten. Mr. Walker has been President of the institution since its commencement, 15 years ago, and Ex-Governor Smyth, in his address, expressed the wish that he might hold the position until the day of his death. Governor Stearns was introduced to the School and made a very feeling speech, expressive of great interest in its welfare.

Short and appropriate addresses were then made by Hon. Samuel M. Wheeler of Dover, speaker of the House of Representatives, Ex-Gov. Smyth, Col. Wm. Kent, a former Trustee, Rev. Dr. Bouton, Pastor of the Congregational Church of Concord, Rev. Mr. Lovering of the Unitarian Church of Concord, Rev. Mr. Spaulding of Dover, Rev. Mr. Gaylord of Nashua, Joseph B. Walker, Trustee of the N. H. Insane Asylum, Hon. Daniel Clark of Manchester, U. S. District Judge, John B. Clarke, editor of the Manchester Mirror, and Alderman T. E. O. Marvin of Portsmouth.

It was the unanimous opinion of all present, that the institution was one of the noblest evidences of christian civilization, and worthy the fostering care of our Legislature. The government of the school seems perfect in the minutest particular and reflects great credit upon the President, Trustees, Superintendent and Teachers. The School compares favorably in discipline and proficiency in study with many a school in apparently far more favorable circumstances.

The Reform School is an honor to our State, giving as it does many poor neglected children opportunities of becoming good and useful citizens.

MARRIAGE IN BOSTON.—Maj. Benj. F. Talbot, well and popularly known on Pearl Street, and very generally in the wholesale boot and shoe trade, was married in this city on Thursday evening, at No. 9 Bradford St., to Miss Eva A. Lowe, daughter of the late Capt. John Lowe, of Portsmouth. The ceremonies were performed by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth, of Weymouth. The occasion was extremely pleasant, and was graced by the presence of a numerous and highly gratified company, while not a few ladies were conspicuous for their beauty of person and dress. The gifts to the bride were many and elegant, and shone with appropriate lustre—but with no approach, we are bound to assert, to the bride herself, who was radiant with a delighted countenance, a pearl silk, and the most fragrant and gorgeous of flowers. The company tarried to a nameless hour, and music, dancing, refreshments and much else, served to commemorate a rite that will carry with it the pleasantest of memories. The pleasure of the guests was not a little enhanced by the polite and agreeable services of Major Loring B. Muzzey, who was a fellow-soldier in the late war with Maj. T. Major Talbot and wife certainly set out on the journey conjugal in a manner that is full of promise (as well as possession,) and we cordially wish them, as do many others, a long period to enjoy the same.—Post.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Newspaper Statements.
HOW THE PEOPLE TEST THEIR TRUTH.

This is not an age when people believe or trust whatever they see in the public journals. Fifty or sixty years ago when the accuracy of a statement that had appeared in one of the gazettes or "News Letters" of the day, was questioned, it was considered a sufficient answer to all cavil to say, "it must be so, for I read it in the newspaper." It is not so now. Newspaper assertions must be verified before they are taken for granted, and this is especially the case as regards statements setting forth the remedial properties of proprietary medicines. For example; it was not until the tonic and alterative properties of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS had been definitely and thoroughly tested by thousands, and found to be in perfect accord with the printed claims put forth in its behalf, that it was accepted by the public as the great Standard Remedy.

But when multitudes who had resorted to it as a safe-guard against malarious fevers, a cure for indigestion and biliousness, a means of strengthening the frame, cheering the spirits and imparting constitutional vigor, came forward and testified that its beneficial effects had exceeded their most sanguine expectations, of course the world believed. To resist such proofs was impossible. Great care has been taken from the beginning not to overstate the merits of the Bitters.

Exaggeration and bombast have been the death of many preparations that might otherwise have survived. They were "weighed in the balance and found wanting." HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, on the contrary, have never been announced in grandiloquent language as a cure for every bodily ill, but simply as a pure harmless vegetable specific, possessing remarkable invigorating, regulating, anti-bilious and antiseptic properties. This is exactly what the public know the medicine to be, and its enormous sales is an argument in its favor.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION
Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.
Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which lead the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."
THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Sprains, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to use internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.
What the Doctors Say:
AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koeciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."
ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have yet known."
NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.
Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about
ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,
Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT
—IN THE—
PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL.
The great obstacle to the universal adoption of COD LIVER OIL as a remedial agent, has been the repulsive taste and smell which have adhered to the various Oils prepared for market. This disagreeable feature has been entirely obviated in
MARVIN'S COD LIVER OIL.
By a careful selection of the Livers of the Cod, preserving them in a fresh and sweet condition, and by a process, that whilst it retains all the medicinal qualities of the Oil, at the same time completely eliminates all nauseous matter, we are able to present a article which all Physicians, who have seen and tested it, pronounce to be a great desideratum to the profession, viz.: a perfectly Pure, Inodorous, and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as sweet to the taste as Sardine Oil, leaving no unpleasant taste in the mouth, and producing no eructations from the stomach. Its superiority to any known preparation of Cod Liver Oil, is at once acknowledged by all at the first sight.
We believe it to be the duty of every one who prescribes or sells Cod Liver Oil, to secure for their patients or customers THE VERY BEST ARTICLE that the persevering study of man has produced, and we invite you to a trial of its qualities.
It is put up in neat Bottles, containing One Pint each, and packed in boxes of one dozen each. We solicit your order for one dozen or more for a trial of its virtues. We append below the letter of Dr. Hayes, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts:
Gentlemen:—I have made chemical analyses of three samples of Marvin's Deodorized and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as prepared by you, with the following results: One of the samples being manufactured new, one three months, and the other six months old. The samples do not differ in composition, the Oil in each case being free from animal tissue, or any trace of decomposition. This Oil is transparent, of a pale amber color, and remarkably free from disagreeable taste or odor. It is chemically Pure Cod Liver Oil, containing all its constituents and therapeutic properties, and its uncommon keeping quality is due to its purity. Respectfully, S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts. Jan. 27th, 1870.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITAL.—The Concord People says that the workmen lately discharged from the Navy Yard were employed there until after election "for no other purpose under heaven than to vote the Radical ticket, and save the city of Portsmouth and the 1st Senatorial district to the Radical party."

The facts of the case are that Portsmouth and the 1st Senatorial district were never thought to be doubtful or close by Democrats or Republicans before election. ☞ UNCLE TOBY'S SCRAP BOOK.—His genial yet pungent pen will work no more, alas! for us or our readers; but among his papers, we find much unpublished matter that will interest his old friends and admirers. Among the rest he had for several years kept a scrap-book, labelled, in his own hand, "Theol. Scraps," from which we present some selections in this paper.

As we never knew him to use the book of any of its contents, we do not see what object he had in making it, unless for use after he should be gone—and so we regard it almost in the light of a communication from him now. The book is made up mainly of items cut from [illegible] religious papers, interspersed [illegible] wes fond of doing, and [illegible] well.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,

BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,

No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,

February 15th, 1870.

The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.

Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the

OF THE

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional East and West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other

The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.

Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.

Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.

The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 150 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.

Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.

Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.

The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1000, $500, and $100.

They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or

The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or

The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only the registered owner or his attorney.

The three classes will be known respectively as:

1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."

2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."

3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.

They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent; per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

The interest is payable in MAY AND NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.

The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.

A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.

The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.

Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.

The present price is 90 and accrued interest.

A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be at once appreciated and quickly absorbed.

Very respectfully,

FISK & HATCH,
Bankers.

P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.

☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 22daw3m

RELIGIOUS SELECTIONS.

FROM UNCLE TOBY'S SCRAP BOOK.

DR. SPRING'S TESTIMONY. — Dr. Spring, reviewing his long ministerial career, gives the following testimony, which is instructive and full of warning:

"I have seen Universalists and infidels die, and during a ministry of fifty-five years I have not found a single instance of peace and joy in their near views of eternity. No, nothing but an accusing conscience and the terrors of apprehension. I have seen men die who were men of mercurial temperament, men of pleasure and fun, men of taste and literature, lovers of the opera and the theatre, rather than the house of God; and I never saw an instance in which such persons died in peace. They died as they lived. Life was a blank, and death the king of terrors; a wasted life, an undone eternity.—Watchman & Reflector.

[Not Universalists,—surely! It is not at all probable that the Doctor ever saw a Universalist die; his statement itself shows that he never did,—tho' he has seen people die, who were so near being Universalists as to have hoped to escape deserved punishment, and who now felt alarmed at the prospect of death and the dread of misery in another state. In a ministry of less than 40 years, I have happened to see quite a number of peaceful deaths, and some joyful ones, in the class of Universalists. — U. T.]

BOLDNESS AT A FUNERAL. — Dr. Spring, of New York, has never been wanting in decision to form his views or in courage to proclaim them. Some of the obstinacy belonging to the Puritan nature was inherited from his birth-place, and has found frequent exhibition in life. He tells in his reminiscences the following story of his course at the funeral of a Universalist, who had begged him on a death-bed to announce that he had abjured all Universalist views. Dr. Spring says:

I accordingly attended his funeral, which was very large, and composed of various characters, and some hard-visaged men. It was a Freemason's funeral; and as we stood around the vault in the north-east angle of the old cemetery, the chaplain of the lodge read their appointed burial-service, and closed with the memorable words, So mote it be! The whole proceeding was sufficiently ridiculous, absolutely unmeaning, and in my judgment not far from impious.

I did not interrupt it, but, abiding my time, felt nerved for an unembarrassed and bold deliverance of God's truth. I begged the attention of the audience, as I had a message from the deceased which he had requested me to deliver to them over his grave, and which I had promised to deliver. "There he lies, but being dead yet speaketh. He did not die a Universalist, but in the full belief of that Gospel which proclaims to every creature. He that believeth shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned. He wished me to say to you that he had no confidence in the soul-destroying doctrine that all men would be saved. It is a soul-destroying doctrine, my friends, and it is nothing else than the devil's lie. It is the worst form of infidelity, and the most subtle and alarming delusion of the age. It is the great deceiver's Gospel, and before you are aware of it, will conduct you to the world of despair.

As I proceeded, and with increased fervor, I perceived a confusion and bustling in the crowd, and heard the words, "Damn him." One of the ruling elders of the Brick church, the late Richard Cunningham, who from the first stood near me, took my hand and said. "Don't be afraid, they are chained, Go on." I went on, and was again assailed with the imprecation, "Go to Hell." Gentlemen, I am glad you have changed your minds. I perceive that you now believe there is a hell, else you would not tell me to go there, and when you say Damn him, I perceive that you no longer deny that there is a damning God in heaven. So your departed brother believed; but he believed also in Him who is the Saviour of the lost. I will not reciprocate your imprecation, and say to you Go to hell, but rather pray that "the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ may be with you all. Amen."—Watchman.

ESCHEWING TOBACCO.—The forty-first annual Conference of the Methodist Church, held in Nashua, seems to have agreed with the unknown poet who sang—

"Tobacco is an Injun weed—
It was the Devil sowed the seed."

At any rate, on the 11th, the following resolution, presented by Rev. O. H. Jasper of Lebanon, was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the use of tobacco is a species of intemperance which ought to be frowned upon by Christian people, and especially by Christian ministers; and that we extend our sympathies and our prayers to those brethren who are in the bonds of this iniquity, and still decline to admit any persons to our conference who are addicted to this vile habit.

IS OR IS NOT.—The latest official bulletin from Captain-General Dellodas announces the Cuban insurrection morally through, though not actually ended.

—The "sermons in stones" prove them to be text-tile fabrics.

NOBLE LADIES' LEGS.— Mrs. Anna Cora Mowatt Ritchie, in her London letter to the San Francisco Chronicle, talks very plainly about legs, which we think is a leg-itimate topic—for ladies, of course. She says:

"We trust our fair American sisters will not be shocked by our unhesitating use of the innocent word 'leg,' which they are accustomed to designate as 'limb,' or 'lower limb.' In England and all over Europe that subterfuge would be pronounced indelicate and affected, and it certainly is the latter, if not the former. But to our story.

White symmetrical feminine legs are said to be disappearing from American soil. They are so much in the ascendant in England, that ladies of rank have invented a new method of making known their fair proportions. We read in the March number of the Galaxy that in a work just published, two American medical men put forth the gross slander that 'a handsome leg is a rarity—we had almost said an impossibility — among American women!' We do not believe the ungallant libel, though American ladies certainly are not in the habit of publishing their charms by having casts taken of their shapely legs, as an ornament for drawing tables, or to be sold for the benefit of the vendor of casts, or to be circulated among friends as a delicate token of friendship and valuable work of art.

What we are about to relate appears, at the first blush, so incredible, that we hold ourself responsible for its exact truth. Upon the drawing room table of a lady of rank in London—a lady of high position and irreproachable character—may be seen, beneath a glass case, a lovely dimpled little foot, delicate ankle and rounded calf, up to the knee joint; it is the cast of the leg of Lady——, the hostess. In Soho square there is a small, rather humble-looking shop, in which you can purchase, for five shillings, a cast of one of the most exquisite of legs; the original (in the flesh) belongs to Lady——de G——and R——, who went to this shop incog., had her leg moulded, and afterwards generously gave the shopman the privilege of selling copies of the cast, which he does daily, for it was quickly discovered to whom this beautiful leg belonged.

One lady, the wife of a Mayor of a town in the provinces, came to London and had two casts taken of her leg; one nude, and one with the neat little shoe, stocking and garter. Strange to say, (though no artist will call it strange), the leg with the stocking and garter produce an effect much further removed from modest than the one quite unclad. Brucciani, the celebrated cast vendor in Covent Gardens, drives a brisk trade in casting ladies' legs and has any quantity of models of all descriptions, taken from life, and chiefly from noble life' for sale. How the leg mania originated we have not heard, but there is certes some explanation for this sudden passion among the aristocratic fair to have their legs recognized; perhaps it is only because "a thing of beauty is a joy forever."

FARMING INCONSISTENCIES.—Farmers dig their grounds two feet deep, but only plough their land five inches, and some think that is too deep and say it is bringing up the dead soil; just as though it was not necessary to plow deep to get a good crop of corn or potatoes as cabbages or turnips or any garden crop. Aside from this, the good it does in hoeing corn or potatoes, not to find anything but turfs, and then so tough that the boys get discouraged trying to get dirt enough to make a hill around the corn or potatoes.

Some farmers take much care of their carriage horse that is worth two or three hundred dollars, and have him blanketed and kept in a good warm stable, but their farm horse that is stiff and old, is exposed to all sorts of treatment. Now a kind farmer would respect the aged horse and see that he had the best of care, for he has been faithful and been banged and abused by all sorts of masters. Farmers that abuse the horse or ox, should be made to subscribe for that able monthly published in Boston, Our Dumb Aminals, and find out that they are not given to man merely to bang round, but for man's love and protection.

Another inconsistency is this: Some farmers deny the utility of drainage in strong clayey soil and yet they dare not dig a cellar in the same soil. And why not? Because the water will get in. And then you will find other farmers that let the liquid manure run to waste, and buy guano or some other artificial kind to make up the loss, and some practical farmers that are jubilant at the result of the urine of the sheep fold, have been known recently to doubt the benefits of liquid manure. But it may well be asked where is the capital to come from for all these improvements that the farmer needs. Our reply is, Where does the capital come from to build our railroads, and steam vessels, and villages? From the laboring class—the tillers of the soil.—Lake Vil. Times.

—Lansing Hard, a well known farmer of Ferrisburg, Mass., aged 76, had his hand scratched with a pin about two months since, and applied strong camphor to the wound, when it commenced swelling, and continued to grow worse, (the original injury healing in the meantime,) until the whole arm was affected, and in spite of the best medical skill he died on Friday last.

—Somebody says, "the Universalist Church recognizes God, but ignores the Devil."

—Peace on earth, good will to women, says the N. Y. Independent.

—All servant girls are subject to the hire law.

—The greatest want of the age is want of funds.

—Shoemaker's whacks—the Crispin's strikes.

The Chronicle.

A STATE HOUSE, COURT HOUSE AND TOWN HALL.—This stands at the side of the track of the Northern Railroad, in Concord. It is but a shell, and comes about as near being what it once was, as the frigate Constitution (if yet afloat) to the Constitution as she slid from the ways of a ship-yard at the North End, in Boston, in 1798.* It was occupied by the Legislature up to 1819, when that body took possession of the present house. The voices of the most eminent men of the State have been heard in this memorial of ancient days. Senators in Congress were there chosen, and laws enacted which escaped every revision and remain in force to this day. As an edifice in which judicial courts were held, it has a name to live. The most eminent lawyers who ever practiced in the State have there been seen and heard.

One of the earliest arguments ever made within the court room was by Jeremiah Mason. Ichabod Bartlett was always there in term time, whose trenchant style of argument will never be forgotten by those who saw and heard him. The musical voice of Geo. Sullivan, the cadences of which were melodious as the water-fall of a gentle brook in midsummer, dwell yet in the memory of crowds of listeners to his arguments.

It was in that court-house that Ezekiel Webster, who only lacked opportunity to acquire a national reputation, fell dead while arguing a case, April, 1829. Richard Fletcher, who died recently in Boston, was a practitioner at the Merrimack county bar in the first terms after the county was formed, with Parker Noyes, Samuel Fletcher, Boswell Stevens, Matthew Harvey, Henry B. Chase, and others who have all joined the congregation of the dead.—Statesman.

Note.*—This is rather an unfortunate simile, and decidedly retroactive, for the Constitution as rebuilt at this Navy Yard, and now in full service, is as much superior to the original Ironsides, as the amended and improved letter of the Constitution is to that which permitted, or at least did not forbid slavery.

—Mark Twain has been engaged to conduct a Department of Agriculture in the Galaxy magazine. The selection of the department was left to his own judgment, and in reference to his choice he says in a letter to the editor:

"After careful survey of the ground, I saw that the subject of Agriculture had been wholly overlooked by the magazines of the day as a sensational topic, and that all that was necessary for us to do was to enter in and seize this rich opportunity. Fortune is secured to us. Nothing can prevent such a consummation. In this virgin soil I will insert a reaping-hook that shall blossom like the rose; upon this sailless desert I will launch a triumphal barge; in this deep mine of affluence will I plant a sturdy tree of prosperity whose fragrance shall slake the hunger of the naked, and whose sheltering branches shall stretch abroad until they wash the shores of the remotest lands of earth. I never can touch the subject of Agriculture without getting excited. But you understand what I mean. Under the head of "Memoranda," I shall take hold of this neglected topic, and by means of a series of farming and grazing articles of blood-curdling interest will proceed to lift the subject of Agriculture into the first rank of literary respectability."

He adds in a postscript that he has no practical knowledge of farming, but he sees no reason why that should interfere with his ability to throw new light on the subject.

WHAT HORSES BRING.—Horses of great reputation, says the Turf, Field and Farm, have always commanded great prices. At Newmarket, England, in 1805, a bay colt, by Pipato, sold for $75,000. In the same year a two year old colt by Benningborough, a two year colt by Volunteer, and a three year old filly by Sir Peter, were sold for $76,000 each. For the celebrated horse Shark $50,000 were refused, and O'Kelley declined an offer of $100,000 for his stallion Eclipse.

Tradition says that the Duke of Devonshire refused for the Flying Childers his weight in gold. A few years ago the great sire Stockwell could not be bought for $100,000, and we presume that when Gladiator was carrying everything before him on the English turf, Count de LaGrange would not have parted with him for $150,000. Coming to America, we find that nearly $15,000 were paid for Lexington, and that his son Kentucky was sold for $40,000. Mr. Alexander refused $50,000 for Asteroid, Kentucky's half brother; and Norfolk, another half brother, was valued at $40,000.

A son of the venerable Signor Blitz is exciting much attention in Philadelphia in the profession in which his father has been prominent some forty years, more or less.

—A correspondent says: "When a musician is 'played out' and comes to a 'rest,' on what does he rest? On his 'staff,' of course."

—What cord is it in which you can find knots that no living man ever tied and no man living can untie? A cord of wood.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland or mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland or mint. It is given chiefly in timeous of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,
ECULES & HINKLE, Druggists.

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with "so hard." I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to state that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from a most painful kidney and bladder disease, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such decided relief and such permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an act of justice to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,
D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER
is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,
140 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.
August 11, 1865.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 22, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Inclosed please find our rate o advertising. Yours, T. B. H. STENHOUSE,
Ed'r and Prop'r of Telegraph.

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.
TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten years one of the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken all they say by the quart, also liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me so much? Well, I began taking it, and by the time I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I felt quite worse yesterday. When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had made up my mind it was of no use trying any more—and all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. It was the "Buchu" was doing its work, and though I was feeling so badly, I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.

I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire, also in Connecticut. The advertisement saved me. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time, so I remain your ever well-wisher,

N. Y. S. VOL. INSTITUTE,
Corner of 5th av. and 76th st., Central Park.

(A Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of our little Lieutenant A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chamber-maid who has charge of his bedding.

I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent and Matron of Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering more from Weakness than from habit, may be spared punishment, that is (not knowing it as a weakness instead of a bad habit) more unjustly inflicted upon them. Thanking you on behalf of the children, and hoping others may be alike benefitted, I remain respectfully yours,
COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised Remedies and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious. I was fearful of ever getting well, and determined to use no Remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, I procured a bottle of the article, and consulting again with the Druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about six months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and I therefore concluded to delay, and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not come to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS (and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETUDE OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and wholly free from any deleterious drug whatsoever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.

Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle into magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.

Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5tw

Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the fevers which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.

Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Chat.

Canadian volunteers are arriving at Montreal.

Senator Sumner has introduced a bill to simplify and reduce the rates of postage. It abolishes the franking privilege, limits the cost of carrying the mails and regulates the payment of postage. He gave notice of his intention to move it as a substitute for the pending bill abolishing the franking privilege. The bill makes a reduction of postage to one cent for half ounce letters, and substitutes for the franking privilege the system of stamped envelopes.

The town of Medina, Ohio, was destroyed by fire on Friday. In four hours every business block but two was burned. There are no engines, and the efforts of the people with buckets were unavailable to check the flames. Many persons were burned, some severely, but no lives were lost.

There are indications of an imminent prospect of difficulty with Mexico, relative to the violation of the revenue laws along the frontier, through the connivance of Mexican officials. Unavailing representations have been made to the Mexican government.

It is said that Secretary Robeson intends to resign.

REORGANIZATION OF THE NAVY.—The House naval committee has finished the bill for the reorganization of the line and staff departments of the navy. The number of lieutenant commanders is fixed at eighty, but none are to be mustered out. The number of masters and engineers is fixed at one hundred in each grade.

The medical corps is to consist of fifteen directors with the rank of captains, fifteen inspectors with the rank of commander, fifty surgeons with the rank of lieutenant-commander, and one hundred assistant surgeons with the rank of masters, who can be promoted to the rank of lieutenant on passing examination after three years' service, provided that no person under twenty-one nor over twenty-six years of age shall hereafter be made an assistant-surgeon.

The pay corps is to consist of thirteen directors with the rank of captain; thirteen inspectors with the rank of commander; fifty paymasters with the rank of lieutenant-commander; forty passed assistant paymasters with the rank of lieutenant, and twenty assistant paymasters with the rank of master.

The engineer corps to consist of ten chief engineers with the rank of captain, fifteen with the rank of commander, twenty-five with the rank of lieutenant-commander, one hundred first assistant engineers with the rank of lieutenant-commander, and one hundred first assistant engineers with the rank of masters. There are to be four naval constructors with the rank of captain, three with the rank of lieutenant-commander and four with the rank of lieutenant. The office of the naval judge advocate general is continued as a permanent fixture in the department. All staff officers are given positive rank, but line officers take precedence in command, and it is provided that no staff officer shall exercise command in the line by virtue of his rank, nor in any staff corps except the one to which he is attached. Line and staff officers are to take precedence according to rank in all processions on shore and in courts-martial, boards of survey, and all other courts and boards. This provision with reference to the line and staff officers is exactly like that in the army.

SECRETARY ROBESON ON THE RIGHT TRACK. — At a Naval General Court Martial held on board the U. S. S. Portsmouth, in the bay of Rio Janeiro, January 13, 1870, by order of Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman, commanding South Atlantic fleet, of which Court Captain Stephen D. Trenchard was President; Joseph King, ordinary seaman, was tried on various charges of using disrespectful language to several officers of the ship and attempting to desert. He had been tried May 7, 1869, the date of his insubordination, by a summary court martial, and sentenced to confinement in double irons, on bread and water, for thirty days, loss of three month's pay, and extra police duties for three months; and this sentence was carried into effect.

After the finding and sentence of the Court were published, he was punished, in addition to the sentence of the Court as follows:

On the morning of the 8th of May he was confined in the launch of the Portsmouth, his feet ironed to a ring-bolt, his hands in irons, exposed to the burning rays of the sun, and was forced to remain in this position, without food or drink, until towards evening, when he was taken from the launch to the berth deck of the ship, and there gagged and confined in a sweat-box of such dimensions that it was impossible to sit down in it. In addition to the ill ventilation of the place which he was not allowed to leave, a bucket was allowed to be placed in the sweat-box for purposes of nature, that was emptied but once in the twenty-four hours. His health was affected to such an extent that it was thought expedient he should be put under medical treatment, and he was so treated, still remaining in confinement, and the sentence having been carried out, he was fully restored to duty; nor was he informed that charges were pending against him.

On the 7th of December he was confined in double irons on the berth deck of the Portsmouth, and, on the same evening, was made to stand by a reel on the deck, and his hands, being ironed behind him, were attached to an eye-bolt above, and kept up for sixty hours or thereabouts, during about twelve hours of which he was gagged. He was so confined for ten days, with the exception of two periods of twenty-four hours each, and fully expiated any offence he may have been chargeable with at that time.

The court found him guilty on some of the charges "in a less degree than charged," and sentenced him to be confined in double irons till sent to the United States in a United States vessel; during the passage home, to be confined in double irons; and on his arrival in the United States, to be confined in such prison or penitentiary as the Secretary of the Navy should designate for five years at hard labor, the time of confinement in the prison or penitentiary to count from the date of the sentence; to forfeit all the pay which might become due him, amounting to ($925.09), he being then in debt to the government to the amount of thirty-four dollars and ninety-one cents ($34.91), with the exception of twenty-five dollars ($25.00), to be paid to him on his discharge from confinement, and, at the expiration of his term of sentence, to be dishonorably discharged the naval service of the United States.

Secretary Robeson in reviewing the case says "it is apparent from the record of proceedings in this case that Joseph King, the accused, had, before this trial, been severely punished for the offences set forth in these charges and specifications. The circumstances attending his confinement show that more was done than merely holding him in custody to await the action of a general court martial. Whatever was extra to legal confinement was punishment; and though sufferings were inflicted which no sentence could lawfully impose, and which were as illegal and cruel as they were unnecessary to his safe keeping, the fact that the punishment was illegal and cruel does not deprive of his right to plead that punishment as expiation of his offence.

The Secretary will not here comment upon the nature of the punishment as set forth in the pleas of the accused. This is under investigation, and will be dealt with hereafter as circumstances may require.

The finding and sentence in this case are disapproved and set aside for the reason that the accused had been already punished.

Ordinary Seamen Joseph King will, on receipt of this order, be discharged from confinement and restored to duty."

☞ We notice the appointment of D. H. Batchelder of this State, to be Consul at Londonderry, Ireland. Can this be intended for D. H. Batchelder of Exeter? We think not, because that gentleman belongs on the other side, though his living at Exeter would perhaps obviate that objection, as the politicians there go for their townsmen, as is seen in the late contest for Register of Deeds, no matter on what side he may run.

BRIGHTON CATTLE MARKET,

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, APRIL 14.

[Reported for the Boston Journal.]

At market for the current week—Cattle 1569; Sheep and Lambs 5116; Swine 2200; number of Western Cattle 934; Eastern Cattle 207; Northern Cattle and Working Oxen 428. Cattle left over —.

Prices Beef Cattle—Extra $13 50 @ $14 00; first quality $12 59 @ $13 25; second quality $11 50 @ $12 25; third quality $10 50 @$11 25; poorest grade of coarse Oxen, Bulls, &c., $7 50 @ $9 50 ℔ cwt, (the total weight of hides, tallow and dressed beef.)

Brighton Hides 7 @ 7½c ℔ lb; Country Hides 7 @ 7½c ℔ lb.

Brighton Tallow 6¼ @ 7½c per lb; Country Tallow 6 @ 7c ℔ lb.

Sheep and Lamb Skins $1 25 @ $1 50 each; Calf Skins 16 @ 17c ℔ lb.

The trade for Beeves has been quick and prices have advanced ½ cent ℔ lb from our last quotations upon the best grades of Beef. The supply of all sections was larger than that of last week. Most of the Cattle from Maine were Working Oxing Oxen, for which there has been a fair demand. There were several hundred head of Canada Cattle in market, the best of which sold at 13 @ 13½c ℔ lb.

Store Cattle—Most of the small Cattle that are brought into market at this season of the year, that are in a fair condition, are sold for Beef. There are but few sold for Stores except Working Oxen and Milch Cows.

Working Oxen—There has been a fair supply in market. We quote sales at $160, $165, $135, $190, $200, $170, $210, $225, $240, $255, $295, $290 ℔ pair.

Milch Cows—Extra $85 @ $115; ordinary $50 @ $80; Store Cows $35 @ $55 ℔ head. Most of the Cows offered for sale are of a common grade. Prices depend a great deal upon the fancy of the purchaser.

Sheep and Lambs—Most of the Western Sheep were owned by butchers and taken direct from the cars to be slaughtered. Some of the best lots cost 9½ @ 10c ℔ lb in Albany. We quote sales of extra lots at $5 @ $8 ℔ head; ordinary $2 50 @ $4 ℔ head, or from 4½ @ 9½c ℔ lb.

Swine—Store Pigs—Wholesale 11½ @ 12½c ℔ lb; retail 12 @ 16c ℔ lb: select lots 14½c ℔ lb. Fat Hogs—1100 at market. Prices 10½c ℔ lb.

TO THE HON. JUDGE OF PROBATE

FOR the County of ROCKINGHAM. Respectfully represents ABRAHAM G. WENDELL, Executor of the will of JOHN C. CORNELIUS late of Portsmouth in said County, deceased, that the Personal Estate of said deceased is not sufficient to pay the just demands against his estate by the sum of seven hundred dollars, and that said deceased died seized of a certain lot of land with the dwelling house thereon situated in said Portsmouth, bounded northerly by land owned by the heirs of the late JOHN RIDER, easterly by land formerly of WILLIAM STAVERS now owned by the heirs of the late THOMAS D. BAILEY, southerly by Jefferson Street, and westerly by land formerly of STEPHEN CHASE and others, now in the occupation of Mrs. SARAH CHASE, and that all of said Estate will be required to pay said debts and a part thereof cannot be sold without injury to the persons therein interested.

Wherefore he prays that he may be licensed to sell at Public Auction the whole of said Real Estate of said deceased above described, agreeable to the Statute in such case provided as may be sufficient for the payment of said demands. The tenth day of April 11, A. D., 1870. A. G. WENDELL, Executor, by his Att'y, WILLIAM H. HACKETT.

State New Hampshire, Rockingham, ss.

Probate Office at Exeter, in said County April 11, A. D., 1870.

Upon the foregoing Petition, it is Ordered, that a hearing be had thereon at a Court of Probate to be holden at Portsmouth in said County, on the second Tuesday of May next; and that the Petitioner notify the heirs of said deceased and all persons concerned or interested therein, to appear at said Court and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, by causing said petition and this order to be published three weeks successively in the Daily Chronicle, a newspaper printed at Portsmouth in said County, the last publication whereof to be at least one week prior to said Court.

By order of the Judge.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Help for the Miserable.

No wonder that the face of the dyspeptic has a dragged, worn, hopeless expression that is pitiful to see. No wonder that the miserable martyr to indigestion is fretful, irritable, and unsocial. Whoever can bear the pangs of this tormenting complaint cheerfully, and with an unruffled temper, is little short of a saint. But why should human fortitude continue to be thus severely tried, when an absolute specific for the disease is at hand? Everywhere within the limits of civilization in this hemisphere, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is obtainable, and the history of the first case of dyspepsia in which it has been administered in vain, has yet to be written.

The sickness at the stomach, the sense of weakness and stupor, feeling of emptiness and hollowness before eating, and of oppression afterwards, the fluttering of the pulse, the intense nervous irritation, the morbid vigilantation to exertion, the weariness of life, and indifference to all its pleasures, which are among the symptoms of the disease in its chronic form are rapidly ameliorated by the tonic operation of this palatable vegetable restorative, which seems to renovate and quicken all the dormant forces of the system, and rouse the mind from the apathy and gloom incurable from a derangement of the digestive and secretive functions. In ordinary cases a few weeks suffices to complete the cure, but when the disease is complicated, as it often is, with torpidity of the liver, severe constipation, impurity of the blood, and a sluggish circulation, a longer time may be required. Persevere, however, and the result is certain. An encouraging improvement will be perceptible from day to day, and the patient, knowing and feeling that he or she is on the high road to health, will await the happy issue with comparative patience.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take inwardly. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koscinsko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. I have confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medical properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; "I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs."

GREAT IMPROVEMENT

—IN THE—

PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL.

The great obstacle to the universal adoption of COD LIVER OIL as a remedial agent, has been the repulsive taste and smell which have adhered to the various Oils prepared for market. This disagreeable feature has been entirely obviated in

MARVIN'S COD LIVER OIL.

By a careful selection of the Livers of the Cod, preserving them in a fresh and sweet condition, and by a process, that whilst it retains all the medicinal qualities of the Oil, at the same time completely eliminates all animal matter, we are able to present that which all Physicians, who have seen and tested it, pronounce to be a great desideratum to the profession, viz.: a perfectly Pure, Inodorous, and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as sweet to the taste as Sardine Oil, leaving no unpleasant taste in the mouth, and producing no eructations from the stomach. Its superiority to any known preparation of Cod Liver Oil, is at once acknowledged by all at the first sight.

We believe it to be the duty of every one who prescribes or sells Cod Liver Oil, to secure for their patients or customers the very purest ARTICLE that the persevering study of man has produced, and we invite you to a trial of its qualities.

It is put up in neat Bottles, containing One Pint each, and packed in boxes of one dozen each. We solicit your order for one dozen or more for trial of its virtues. We append below the letter of Dr. Hayes, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts:

Gentlemen:—I have made chemical analyses of three samples of Marvin's Deodorized and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as prepared by you, with the following results, one of the samples being marked new, one three months, and the other six months old. The samples do not differ in composition, the Oil in each case being free from animal tissue, or any trace of decomposition. This Oil is transparent, of a pale amber color, and remarkably free from disagreeable taste or odor. It is chemically Pure Cod Liver Oil, containing all its constituents and therapeutic properties, and its uncommon keeping quality is due to its purity. Respectfully, S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts. Jan. 27th, 1870.

For sale by first-class Druggists everywhere.

Varieties—Dauchy & Co.
Legal Notice—Rockingham S. S.
Notice—Joshua K. Card.

☞ Easter has come and gone, and we hope easterly winds will go too.

☞ The annual meeting of the Rockingham County Teachers' Institute will be held in this city during the last week in April.

BANK STOCK.—Ten shares in the National Mechanics & Traders Bank were sold at auction on Saturday, by William H. Hackett, for $141 per share.

☞ U. S. Commissioner Hackett has discharged Thomas Lyons and George Parks, who were charged with aiding a marine to desert; cause, want of evidence.

☞ The Rockingham House will not be re-opened to-day, owing to delay in the reception of the gas fixtures; but "ground is to be broken" for the new half, says the landlord, at 7 o'clock, this A. M.

☞ We understand that Mr. C. C. Whittemore has resigned his position in the Boston Custom House, and returned to this city, to engage in the Insurance Agency with Mr. John S. Harvey. Also, that Mr. W. will reside in the new Rockingham Savings Bank Building, and designs opening a new Millinery establishment there.

☞ In our report of the annual examination of the State Reform School, we omitted to mention that the Portsmouth clergy were represented there by Rev. Mr. Alden, pastor of the Middle Street Baptist Church; who closed the exercises of the day with a fervent prayer for the well being of the members of the School, asking the blessing of God to rest upon the institution, its officers and friends, that it might continue its benevolent course of reformation, and become the means of restoring many young wanderers to the path of usefulness and virtue.

☞ We desire to disclaim any adoption or endorsement of an item respecting "honest and rich men," which got into our columns entirely by accident a few days since,—either by being attached to or on the reverse of some other item. The would-be joke was a still-born attempt at wit a hundred years ago, more or less, like many others now current; and the sentiment that no rich man can be honest, is as atrocious as it is absurd. Wealth or poverty have not much influence on a man's honesty, nor even on his benevolence.

☞ Rev. Charles C. Salter, of this city, who has been out of health for some years, and a week or two ago left New York per steamer Liverpool, in hope of benefit from foreign travel, died on the passage. His brother accompanied him, and telegraphed the sad news here to his family on Friday. The age of deceased was about 30 years, and he was a young man of good talents and acquirements. He was settled for two years or more over a Society in Cambridge, and was forced by poor health to sever a connection which was mutually satisfactory and desirable.

☞ The appearance of Lisa Weber's famous blond beauties at the Temple this evening, (whom, not to put too fine a point upon it, notwithstanding all their fine points, may well be called "girls of the period," will afford one class of our citizens good opportunity to point a moral, et cetera; while others will think, with Mrs. Ritchie, that a well turned limb is not a thing to turn away from. One thing is pretty certain, thatin their line, Miss Weber and her troupe can barely be outstripped; for details of performances, see illustrious post-hers at the street corn-hers.

Miss Lydia Thompson has another similar troupe, which was recently combined with this—and for calling them "fair and frail," she attempted to cowhide Mr. Story, an editor of Chicago; which a Southern editor calls "the flax and the flail."

The blondes, however, form only a portion of the principal attractions. Edward Righton is a famous comedian, the Brennans are favorite singers, and Delehanty and Hengler are the best song and dance men we ever saw. With such a combination of talent, we expect to see at the Temple this evening, one of the largest audiences of the season.

Mr. Wm. A. Currier of Exeter, is to remove to Boston, and engage in business at 94 Hanover Street.

Colonel Isaac Crosby of Hebron was, it is feared, fatally injured, a few days since, by being run over by an ox team.

S. J. COURT, EXETER.—The Grand Jury was composed of the following persons:—

Samuel Woodman, Deerfield; Chars. W. Bradley, Plaistow; Thomas Tredick, Portsmouth, Ward 2; Simon Page, Raymond; Eben L. Seavey, Rye; Josiah Cluff, Salem; Daniel R. Hoyt, Sandown; George A. Fogg, Seabrook; Andrew J. Currier, So. Hampton; Calvin Reynolds, So. Newmarket; Henry P. Wingate, Stratham; Robert Armstrong, Windham; Amos H. Noyes, Atkinson; Richard S. Clark, Jr., Auburn; Joseph B. T. Graves, Brentwood; Benjamin P. Colby, Candia; Ebenezer Marden, Candia; Jonathan L. James, Danville; Robert Rogers, Jr., Derry; Wm. S. Titcomb, East Kingston; Nathaniel G. Plumer, Epping.

The Petit Jurors, first and second weeks, are Edward D. Coffin, Portsmouth; Enoch P. Hoyt, Atkinson; Moses C. Clark, Auburn; Frederick Robinson, Brentwood; David Lane, Chester; Aaron P. Quinby, Danville; Stevens Sanborn, East Kingston; Chase P. Blake, absent, Epping; John Tilton, Luke Jullan, Exeter; Simon Foss, Joseph A. Smith, Fremont; Robert W. Norton, Jr., Shadrach Seavey, Greenland; Charles W. Peasley, Amos Ring, Hampstead; John Pearl, Joseph J. Mace, Hampton, Newell W. Healey, George C. Brown, Hampton; George W. Walton, Josiah D. Prescott, Kensington; Nathan Whittier, Thomas Elkins, Kingston; Thomas Tarlton, John Locke, Newcastle; Ephraim Pickering, Jr., Newington.

The indications thus far are that the term will be a very short one. The case of John Lamprey vs. Franklin Brickett was the first brought before the Jury, and after two days' trial was adjusted by the parties, and taken from the Jury. Hills and Small for Plff. Bell and Hatch for Deft.

Then the case of Jesse O. Bailey vs. Caroline Dow, (appt. from decision at a Justice trial) was tried and submitted to Jury. Verdict for appt. Bartlett for Bailey. Hills for Dow.

The case of Reuben Wiley vs. Henry Paul is for trial and will probably be submitted to the Jury, this (Monday) afternoon or Tuesday forenoon. Hatch for Plff. Hall of (Dover) and Small for Deft.

No. 166, James J. Wiggin vs. Stephen Brown is next in order for trial.

☞ A sad accident occurred on the Boston & Maine railroad last Thursday evening, three or four miles out of Boston. Three women, one the wife of Jos. Doran, another named Ann Dolan, and the third a cousin of the last named, all residing in North Cambridge, were walking upon the track, and while on the bridge that crosses the Mystic river between the stations of Somerville and Edgeworth, they were met by a train. Escape was impossible, and the engine struck two of them, the third fortunately being just far enough away to escape the danger. Mrs. Doran was thrown over the bridge guards and into the river, and the Dolan women was knocked down and had both legs horribly mangled, one being broken in two places, beside receiving other injuries, from which she afterwards died.

Timothy McClure of Kingston, whose wife was killed at Craft's crossing, on the B. & M. R. R., last summer, has received damages to the amount of $1500.

The recent death of Hall J. Jenness, Esq., of South Newmarket, causes sorrow in a wide circle. His funeral, held in the church on Sunday, was largely attended.

There have been eleven deaths in North Hampton since the first of January. This has been the average number for the whole year for several years past.

The Wankawa Company is rebuilding the lower mill at Meredith Village, which was recently destroyed.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH
BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,
February 15th, 1870.
The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.
Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the
OF THE
Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional Eastnnd West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other
The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.
Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.
Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.
The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 153 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.
Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.
Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.
The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.
The Bonds are in denominations of
$1000, $500, and $100.
They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or
The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or
The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only to the registered owner or his attorney.
The three classes will be known respectively as:
1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."
2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."
3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.
They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent) per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.
The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.
The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.
A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.
The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.
Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.
The present price is 90 and accrued interest.
A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be at once appreciated and quickly absorbed.
Very respectfully,
FISK & HATCH,
Bankers.
P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.
☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 22dawdm

CHRONICLES OF OLD TIMES.

BY UNCLE TOBY.

The Portsmouth Privateers of 1812.

NUMBER FIFTEEN.

The Oracle of April 29, 1815, contains some news in very large type, headed Bonaparte in Paris ! It has also a libel, by Capt. Penn Townsend, of the privateer sch. Macedonian, of Portsmouth, against the British brig Ocean, Capt. James Thompson. Also, the following Marine News:

Saturday, April 22.—Arrived, British brig Ocean, (late Capt. Thompson,) coppered to the bends, from Messina, bound to St. Petersburg. Hussey prize master, taken by the privateer Macedonian, Capt. Townsend, of this port, off Cape Finisterre, 45 days since. Her cargo consists of 40 pipes lime juice, 25 pipes pickled lemons, 24 hhds. sweet almonds, 300 cases roll brimstone, 34 casks pumice stone, 13 bales orange buds, 1950 boxes lemons, and 650 boxes oranges. Six sail of vessels in sight when the brig was captured—a large ship bore up to engage the Macedonian, but after the brig struck she made sail. The master of the Ocean informs us that he had heard of no Algerine captures, or Algerine cruisers being out. An American privateer had sent four prizes into Tunis. The Macedonian had manned a brig laden with dry goods and crates, 30 days before, Knap prize master.

The Macedonian's first prize was a schooner from Fayal for St. Michaels—took out some hats, and having nothing else on board but some on Portuguese account, let her go. Next took a few English goods, being English property, out of a Swedish galliott. The next prize was a brig with a cargo invoiced at 3000*l.*, which we manned — Knap prize master, (captured early in Feb.) Since then we have burnt an English sloop from Poway for Naples, cargo fish, in sight of a frigate and gun brig to windward; and boarded in the night a Portuguese Braziliman of 16 24lb. carronades and 60 men. Feb. 8th, burnt an English ship from Newfoundland for the Mediterranean. Feb. 18, put into Porto Santo and watered. March 3, spoke the American privateer brig Scourge, from New York—had captured nothing, and had thrown all but 3 of her guns overboard in a gale—she had spoken a prize to the Portsmouth.

The Macedonian had boarded a number of neutral vessels—she had been cruising from the Western Islands to the Rock of Lisbon, from thence down to Madeira, &c.—Had heard some rumors of Peace, but nothing positive.

Arrived at Cape Ann on Tuesday last, British brig James and Charlotte, (John Bishop, of Cape Ann, prize master.) from Newfoundland, bound for Alicant, with a full cargo of dry fish in bulk, prize to the private armed schr. Macedonian, Townsend, of this port. The prize was captured on the 21st of March, off the coast of Portugal. She is an elegant, fast sailing vessel of 181 tons, 3 years old, coppered to the bends. We understand the brig is given up to the owners, she having been taken in a latitude where hostilities had ceased.

The Grand-Turk, Green, of Salem, has made two prizes on her present cruise, both of which have been re-captured—one sent to Barbadoes and one to Halifax.

The Oracle of May 6 has the following Ship News:

Tuesday, May 2.—Arrived, the private armed schooner Macedonian, Capt. Penn Townsend, from a cruise of nearly four months, in which she has made 9 captures, manned 5, burnt 2, and given up 2. Of the 5 manned, 2 have arrived, 1 is supposed to be re-taken—the other two are the ship Somerset, from Alicant for Belfast, with wine, brandy, fruit, &c., taken March 8, lat. 42:52, lon. 9:58, (W. Rogers prize master); and brig Mercury, from Oporto for London, cargo wine, taken March 11—Wm. Coombs, prize master. The Macedonian has on board a quantity of merchandise.

The brig Louisa, prize to the Harpy, which was re-taken and sent to Halifax, after the Treaty term, it is said would be restored, if there was any person at Halifax properly authorized to reclaim her.

London, Jan. 27.—The Nancy, from Malaga for Belfast, cargo fruit, taken by the American privateer Portsmouth, has been re-taken by the Papillon sloop of war, and sent into Gibraltar.

London, Jan. 29.—The ship Garland, from St. Vincents for Newfoundland, cargo rum, sugar and molasses, captured Nov. 17, by the Harpy privateer, has been re-taken by the Hamedryad frigate, and arrived at her port of destination.

The elegant new hermaphrodite brig New Hampshire, 370 tons, pierced for 20 guns, was offered for sale at auction June 1, 1815.

The noted privateer Fox was sold at auction June 15. — James Shapley & Wm. Flagg, agents.

The brig Ocean, prize to the Macedonian, was sold May 29, with her cargo of lemon juice, salted lemons, shelled almonds, &c., at Hill's Wharf. The boys had a great feast of almonds and orange buds; and two men got dead drunk on the lemon juice, or something else, and lay all night between the rows of casks, the night before the auction.

Two interesting items of ship news are here copied from the Oracles of June 3 and 10, 1815.

From Lloyd's List, April 6.—"The Triumverate has been taken and sunk by the Portsmouth, American privateer."—[This article, which has excited the feelings of the friends of the crew of the privateer Portsmouth, is a mistake.—The Triumverate was captured and destroyed by the Macedonian and not the Portsmouth.]

Sunday, June 4.—Arrived, ship Hantonia, Adams, 53 days from Gottenburg, with 300 tons iron, and 20 tons hemp, to Hon. Wm. Hale.—Sailed in co. with several vessels arrived.—The Hantonia was the last ship that sailed from this port previous to the war, and is the first that has arrived since peace.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE PRESS.—We have before us a list of the Newspapers published in this State in 1840, thirty years ago, with the names of the proprietors or editors. Of the 34 papers then issued, but 14 are w published. These are the Journal, and Gazette, Portsmouth; the News-Letter, Exeter; Gazette, Enquirer and Star, Dover; Patriot and Statesman, Concord; Cabinet, Amherst; Gazette and Telegraph, Nashua; Sentinel Keene; Spectator, Newport; and Eagle, Claremont. Of the publishers of that day, Carleton & Harvey of the New Hampshire Spectator, at Newport, appear to be the only ones who have come down to the present generation without change, through some of their cotemporaries of that day are now connected with other papers. Mr. J. M. Hill then one of the publishers of "Hill's" New Hampshire Patriot," being now of the old Patriot. The oldest editor in the State then, as he is the oldest ex-editor now, was and is the Hon. John Prentiss of Keene, who commenced his labors in 1799 and put off the harness some twenty years ago, though ever since and now at the age of more than 93 years, he has been busy with his pen, commenting upon men and things, with all the freshness and vigor of half a century ago. But most of the well known newspaper men of that day are resting from their labors. Hill, Barton, Boylston, Miller, Brewster, Burr, Beard, Rix,—are dead. Others "still live,' enjoying, we hope that otium cum dig. which they have so well earned. The number of papers now published in the State, not counting those weeklies which are made up of daily issues, is 30, or four less than were issued to it This was before the advent of the telegraph and railroads, when the newspapers from the cities were not showered upon us two or three times a day, and the people of the State relied more upon their home journals for the news from abroad than they are accustomed to do now. At that time there were no daily papers published in the State. Now, Portsmouth, Manchester and Concord support two each and Nashua and Dover one each. The oldest editor, at this time connected with the press is, we believe, Asa McFarland, Esq., of the Concord Statesman, who though not in continuous editorial service, must have fully completed his "fifty years in a printing office" and with his ample qualifications, we trust will not fail to give his juniors of the press many of the reminiscences which he has stored up in that long period. The oldest paper now published is, of course, our neighbor, the Gazette, unless its union with the young and sprightly Chronicle has destroyed its identity and taken the better part of a century from its age,—such rejuvenescences do occur,—and in that case the patriarch's staff must belong to the Journal.—Journal.

ELECTION OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.—The House of Representatives have passed a bill requiring all the States to make choice of their members on the Tuesday following the first Monday in November, in every second year. This is a move in the right direction. New York, Massachusetts, and several other of the larger States, now elect their representatives on that day, while others choose on different days, several of them, as is the case in New Hampshire, not electing until after the organization of the Congress to which its members are chosen. By electing them all on the same day, the result in one State will have no influence on the choice of members in another State, nor can voters be imported to carry doubtful districts, as is sometimes done under the present system. The day fixed upon, by the bill which has now passed the House, is that on which the Presidential election occurs in every fourth year, so that in States which do not hold their State elections at that time, it will not be necessary to hold special elections for representatives only at those elections which occur half way between the Presidential terms. The bill has yet to pass the Senate, but there ought to be no doubt that it will promptly pass — in which case it will be necessary for the Legislatures, at the coming session in June, to adapt the laws of this State to the required change. Journal

REMARKABLE MIRAGE.—Samuel D. Walden, master of the steamship Glaucus, at Boston from New York, reports the following remarkable phenomenon: "At 7 1-2 o'clock Sunday evening, April 10, when three miles north of Nauset Light, saw distinctly the lights upon Thatcher's Island, Cape Ann, and distant fifty-three miles. They appeared high above the horizon and were visible about twenty minutes. They appeared again when off the Highland Light, Cape Cod, very distinctly, and remained in sight twenty five minutes. Soon after passing Highland Light, Minot's Light appeared, distant about thirty miles, and remained visible. Saw Boston Light also when off Race Point. The weather at the time was clear and moonlight, nearly calm (a light air about S. S. E.,) barometer standing at 30.05."

—"Where was I, ma," said a little urchin to his mother, as he stood gazing at his drunken and prostrate father, "where was I when you married pa? Why didn't you take me along? I could have picked out a better man than he is, I know."

THE RULE OF THE ROAD.—As the sinking of the United States corvette Oneida, by the Peninsular and Oriental steamship Bombay,' has reopened the vexed question about "The Rule of the Road," which means how to handle ships when a collision is imminent, it may be interesting, says the Shipping and Commercial List, to know the import of the lawful regulations which govern in such cases. By consulting the "Regulations for the Government of the United States Navy," issued under the authority of the Secretary of the Navy in 1865, we find this rule laid down in Article 1. of Section 2:—"In the following rules, every steamship which is under sail, and not under steam, is to be considered a sailing ship; and every steamship which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a ship under steam." And Article 13, "If two ships under steam are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, the helms of both shall be put to port, so that each may pass on the port side of the other."

The next section reads: "If two ships under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the ship which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other." According to the testimony elicited on the trial of Captain Eyre, at Yokohama, these last two rules cover the case of the Bombay and Oneida, and it would seem that they were obeyed by the British ship and not by the American; although that is no excuse for the criminal desertion by the captain of the former of the drowning officers and crew of the latter. The same rules are recognized in the English, French, German, and probably other marines; but it would seem that they are not always infallible.

The putting the helm to port, or larboard, is the same as the order to turn to the right—which is also the rule ashore, in the United States, but not in England, nor we believe in France. On a visit to New Brunswick, a few years since, we were liable to several collisions in driving about, by those we met always turning to their left, while we turned right; and once we came imminently near being run over by an open "stage," or wagon with four horses, from which we had dismounted to walk through a narrow covered bridge and up a tremendous hill beyond; when the driver came after us into the left compartment of the bridge, instead of the right, as we expected—and his team being on the clean run, to get good headway for the next rise, as is their wont, on their hilly roads, we had as much as we could do, to save ourself, by climbing up the side of the bridge, as the stage whirled past us.

Hon. Oakes Ames, M. C., of Massachusetts, who was of that party, laughed at us pretty well,—he being safe in the wagon; and he disapproved strongly of the running of the teams in the hollows and up the hills; but for short routes, we did not see that it wore the horses more than trotting, and certainly the speed of the travel was greatly increased thereby. Running is a more natural gate than trotting, and an easier one, for horse or rider, under many circumstances.

New Hampshire Items.

The following patents were issued to residents in this State, for the week ending April 12. To Sylvester Marsh of Littleton, for atmospheric brake for railway cars; to David F. Smith of Sullivan, for paper collars; to Jos. H. Wilkinson of South Newmarket, for lubricator; to Jos. H. Wilkinson of Concord, for wood pavement.

We learn that it has been decided not to abolish the office of Inspector of the Customs at Lancaster, lately held by Mr. Blood—as requested in petitions, and that William H. Shurtleff of Colebrook, has been appointed to the position referred to.

In Peterborough a travelling agent's horse got cast in a barn, kicked a hole through the side of the barn, fell ten feet, slid two rods and brought up against a tree, where it would have died kicking but for timely aid.

It is announced that Hon. John P. Hale has engaged passage from Havre, France, in the steamer leaving there May 19th. He will be gladly welcomed home by a multitude of friends. His effective services in the cause of freedom and equal rights are historic; and it will not soon be forgotten how prominently and honorably New Hampshire was by him represented in the mighty struggle which has just been crowned with the culminant triumph of the Fifteenth Amendment.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c., &c.,

Coughs,	Neuralgia,	Female Weaknesses,
Colds,	Headache,	Fainting Fits,
Fevers,	Convulsions,	Palpitation,
Agues,	Sleeplessness,	Restlessness,
Biliousness,	Dyspepsia,	Dizziness,

Constipation, Liver Complaint, Children's Troubles Diarrhœa, Consumption, &c., &c., &c.
Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonises perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs—hatsever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5tw
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, there is no medicine more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are always followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5tw

The Freedmen's Bureau investigating Committee were puzzled to find that the points of secretly taken evidence got into the papers. Further enquiry astonished the committee with the knowledge that the reporters, as well as themselves, had been examining the witnesses.

The bill providing for the election of members of Congress in all the States hereafter on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, every two years, has passed both Houses of Congress.

PARAGUAY.—The regular mail steamer from Rio Janeiro arrived at New York Saturday, bringing the details of the termination of the war in Paraguay. On the first day of March the Brazilian general attacked and carried the position of President Lopez. Lopez himself, his son, Colonel Lopez, F. Sachez, the Vice-President of the Republic, General Caminos and several other high officers of Paraguay were killed. The mother, brother, and four children of President Lopez, Mrs. Lynch, and many officers were made prisoners. A large quantity of arms and ammunition was also captured. At the last advices, a treaty of peace was being prepared with the provisional government of Paraguay, which had convoked the constitutional assembly for the purpose.

STEPHEN SCAMMON.—Few men in this or any other State have been the occasion for more work for the Courts, than Mr. Scammon; and this in cases mostly technical or legal, and rarely or never on criminal charges. If he ever refrains from being plaintiff, then somebody or other — generally some lawyer, compels him to be defendant.

At the March term of Court in Belknap County, the case State vs. Woodsum and Day, indictment for robbing Scammon, at Alton in Sept. last, was given to the jury Saturday night, and as they had not agreed when it was nigh upon the Sabbath, they were discharged, and the respondents remanded to jail. It is understood they stood 9 for conviction to 3 for acquittal. Blair, Solicitor, for the State; Whipple for Defence.

☞ Jere. Rothwell, the Director of the Dover Band, is to have a benefit in that city, April 29. He deserves it, if he plays half as well as he did while a member of the Portsmouth Cornet Band.

A LARGE AND FASHIONABLE AUDIENCE greeted the Lisa Weber Blonde & Burlesque Troupe, Monday evening, at the Temple. Notwithstanding the drenching rain the reserved seats were filled at an early hour by ladies and gentlemen, quite a large number being from Kittery.

The performances were varied enough to suit all kinds of people. Legs not all of the handsomest shape were exhibited profusely by the blondes, and delighted Young America and some of the old 'uns. "Ixion," one of the poorest and most nonsensical sensations of the day in the line of burlesque, was well brought out, and Righton played Minerva to perfection. The Brennans made their first appearance in this city in their comic songs, and were well received; we hope they may appear here again before long.

The "song and dance duet" of Messrs. Delehanty and Hengler was perfection in that line, and drew loud and persistent applause, which was well deserved; and they were encored four times, the audience not appearing willing to let them off, even then. Their movements in the dances were easy, graceful and in perfect time; and their last act was a really splendid piece of acting. As double-song-and-dance men we have never seen them equalled.

SERVED THEM RIGHT.—We have previously noticed that certain "lewd fellows of the baser sort," in Seabrook, were in the habit of getting drunk, and then exhibiting their rum-begotten courage in disturbing religious meetings. This nuisance has at last got to be unbearable, and on Monday two young men, named Wm. H. Randall and Valentine Bagley, were requested by Judge Odell to pay for their fun. Randall handed over $55, and gave $50 bonds to keep the peace for one year; but Bagley was committed, not having the $28.46 required of him.

The respectable people of Seabrook have been much too forbearing with the wanton disturbers of their meetings; but their forbearance seems only to have made the rowdies more bold in their encroachments on the rights of others. Possibly Judge Odell's little admonition may be understood better. If the town authorities of Seabrook know their duty, and did it, they would long ago have taken effectual steps to prevent meetings of peaceble people for religious worship being interrupted and annoyed by drunken rowdies; but tho they have had the case repeatedly represented to them, they have done nothing.

☞ The Committee on Fire Department of the City Council, have contracted with the Amoskeag Co. of Manchester, for a new Steam Fire Engine, to be delivered in July, and to cost about $4000.

NAVAL.—Capt. E. G. Parrott of Portsmouth has been ordered to Washington, for examination for promotion in the navy.

THE CITY OF BOSTON.—A correspondent of an English paper, urging that search should be made for the missing steamer City of Boston on the Eastern side of the Atlantic rather than on the Western, says:—

I came over from New York in the Cunard steamer Russia, which sailed on the morning of the 2d of February, when the City of Boston had been four days out. We heard of no heavy gales on that side at that time, and for the first two or three days of our voyage we found the sea smooth and the sailing fine—no signs whatever of previous bad weather. But afterwards it became very rough. * * * It was, indeed, a stormy time, and instead of making the passage in nine days, as is usual with the Russia, we were 11.

I have no doubt that this was the weather from which the City of Boston suffered. Indeed, we heard apprehensions expressed for her safety the first moment of our arrival at Liverpool. She probably encountered the storm several days before we did, and it may then have been even yet more violent. I cannot imagine how a vessel could make her way through such a sea without being very strong and perfect in all her parts. If there was any weak spot in her machinery it must inevitably have succumbed. If, therefore, the steering apparatus of the City of Boston was defective, as is alleged, she was no doubt disabled by this weather, and may be lost.

I have no purpose of dissuading from search being made in all directions for the missing vessel, but it is well to know the facts of the case, with a view of acting intelligently.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Help for the Miserable.

No wonder that the face of the dyspeptic has a dragged, worn, hopeless expression that is pitiful to see. No wonder that the miserable martyr to indigestion is fretful, irritable, and unsocial. Whoever can bear the pangs of this tormenting complaint cheerfully, and with an unruffled temper, is little short of a saint. But why should human fortitude continue to be thus severely tried, when an absolute specific for the disease is always at hand. Everywhere within the limits of civilization in this hemisphere, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is obtainable, and the history of the first case of dyspepsia in which it has been administered in vain, has yet to be written.

The sickness at the stomach, the sense of weariness and stupor, feeling of emptiness and hollowness before eating, and of oppression afterwards, the fluttering of the pulse, the intense nervous irritation, the morbid indisposition to exertion, the weariness of life, and indifference to all its pleasures, which are among the symptoms of the disease in its chronic form are rapidly ameliorated by the tonic operation of this palatable vegetable restorative, which secures to renovate and quicken all the dormant forces of the sy-tem, and rouse the mind from the apathy and gloom inseparable from a derangement of the digestive and secretive functions. In ordinary cases a few weeks suffices to complete the cure, but when the disease is complicated, as it often is, with torpidity of the liver, severe constipation, impurity of the blood, and a sluggish circulation, a longer time may be required. Persevere, however, and the result is certain. An encouraging improvement will be perceptible from day to day, and the convalescent, knowing and feeling that he or she is on the high road to health, will await the happy issue with comparative patience.

PAIN KILLER
Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors,
1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.
Time tests the Merits of all Things.
☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER
The Great Family Medicine of the Age.
THIRTY YEARS
Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.
THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of All its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a safe and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.
☞ Directions accompany each bottle.
Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION
Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended
Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye
as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.]
CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. mh12dawlm

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.
Their great value consists in this: They may be be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.
Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.
Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."
THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhaea, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. Depot 10 Park Place, N. Y. mh12

For Moth Patches, Freckles and Tan,
USE "PERRY'S MOTH & FRECKLE LOTION." The only Reliable and Harmless Remedy known to Science for removing brown discolorations from the Face. Prepared only by Dr. B. C. PERRY, 49 Bond St., N. Y. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

Pimples on the Face.
For Comedones, Black-Heads, Flesh Worms or Grubs, Pimply Eruptions and Blotched Disfigurations on the Face, use Perry's Comedone and Pimple Remedy. Reliable, Harmless, and contains no Lead poison. Depot, 49 Bond St., N. Y. Sold by all Druggists everywhere. 4mdawmh10

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.
What the Doctors Say:
AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koscicusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."
ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."
NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.
Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about
ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,
Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT
IN THE
PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL.
The great obstacle to the universal adoption of COD LIVER OIL as a remedial agent, has been the repulsive taste and smell which have adhered to the various Oils prepared for market. This disagreeable feature has been entirely obviated in
MARVIN'S COD LIVER OIL.
By a careful selection of the Livers of the Cod, preserving them in a fresh and sweet condition, and by a process, that whilst it retains all the medicinal qualities of the Oil, at the same time completely eliminates all animal matter, we are able to present that which all Physicians, who have seen and tested it, pronounce to be a great desideratum to the profession, viz.: a perfectly Pure, Inodorous, and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as sweet to the taste as Sardine Oil, leaving no unpleasant taste in the mouth, and producing no eructations from the stomach. Its superiority to any known preparation of Cod Liver Oil, is at once acknowledged by all at the first sight.
We believe it to be the duty of every one who prescribes or sells Cod Liver Oil, to secure for their patients or customers the VERY BEST ARTICLE that the persevering study of man has produced, and we invite you to a trial of its qualities.
It is put up in neat Bottles, containing One Pint each, and packed in boxes of one dozen each. We solicit your order for one dozen or more for trial of its virtues. We append below the letter of Dr. Hayes, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts:
Gentlemen:—I have made chemical analyses of three samples of Marvin's Deodorized and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as prepared by you, with the following results, one of the samples being marked now, one being marked six months, and the other six months old. The samples do not differ in composition, the Oil in each case being free from animal tissue, or any trace of decomposition. This Oil is transparent, of a pale amber color, and remarkably free from disagreeable taste or odor. It is chemically Pure Cod Liver Oil, containing all the constituents and therapeutic properties, and its uncommon keeping quality is due to its purity. Respectfully, S. DAVIS HAYES, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts. Jan. 27th, 1870.
For sale by first-class Druggists everywhere.

S. J. COURT EXETER, Monday — Judge Sargent.—Frank W. Miller and George W. Marston, publishers of the Portsmouth Chronicle and N. H. Gazette indicted by the Grand Jury for libel on Albert R. Hatch of Portsmouth, n publishing an advertisement of Stephen Scammon of Stratham on Christmas day, plead nolo contendere—and Miller put in affidavit that he admitted the advertisement (which charged Hatch with collecting forged notes from Scammon) in the usual course of business; that he never felt malice against Hatch; and that Marston had nothing to do with the affair. Case laid over until after Scammon's trial on a similar charge of libel.

Stephen Scammon demurred to his indictment, that it contained printed matter, and that the statements of the advertisement are true. Case appointed for Tuesday afternoon. Attorney Gen. Clark for State in both cases; W. H. Y. Hackett for Miller & Marston. J. W. Towle for Scammon.

John Brackett of Newmarket for perjury, plea not guilty.

Eliza D. Ham, Kingston, three indictments for liquor selling, plea guilty. Fined $50, and costs on all.

John Simmons, colored, and Artie Barney, Portsmouth; fornication; plea not guilty.

Chas. A. Dearborn, Jos. W. Chapman and John H. Brackett, Selectmen of Greenland, for refusing to put the name of John H. Pottle on check list. Plea not guilty.

Nathaniel Wiggin, Greenland, for bribing Jos. G. Simpson to vote. Plea not guilty. Case continued to next term.

Jos. A. Holmes, Greenland, attempting to bribe David A. Tuttle to vote. Plea not guilty.

Joseph L. Langley, Nottingham, six indictments for selling liquor. Plea guilty. Fined $50 and costs on all—that is fined on one, and the others dropped.

Andrew J. George, Sandown, ten indictments for selling liquor. Plea guilty. Fined $50, and costs on all.

John Tuttle, Seabrook, ten indictments for selling liquor. Plea guilty. Fined $50, and costs on all.

George P. Hadley, Portsmouth, illegal voting in Ward 3. Plea not guilty.

Winthrop Manson, Portsmouth, illegal voting in Ward 3. Plea not guilty.

Samuel Dennett, Portsmouth, illegal voting in Ward 3. Plea not guilty.

Carrie Swain, Portsmouth, keeping house of ill fame. Plea not guilty. Trial assigned for Tuesday morning.

Alvah S. Sanborn, Sandown, selling liquor. Plea not guilty.

William Hayes of Newmarket, for stealing a harness from Stephen Chapman of Newmarket. Plea guilty—sentenced 30 days in jail, and payment of $30 and costs, and stand committed till paid.

Thomas Lamb of Newmarket, for assault on Police officer Robbins. Plea not guilty; trial Tuesday.

Case Reuben Wiley of Seabrook vs. Henry Paul of Rollinsford, dispute about use of a "gundalow" for drying purposes. Hatch for Wiley and G. Hall and Small for Paul. Not on trial.

FIRE.—Some weeks since we chronicled a slight fire which occurred at the residence of Mr. Augustus Brown, No. 8 Jefferson street, and which was put out by Assistant Marshal Chas. A. Mortimer. On Monday morning, shortly after midnight, Mr. Mortimer was roused by a member of Mr. Brown's family, to put out another fire in the same house. He found the fire in a closet near the chimney, and extinguished it with a bucket of water, without giving an alarm. It would not be a bad plan for the City to organize Mr. Mortimer into a special Fire Department for the protection of his neighborhood, this being the third conflagration he has prevented within a few months. On the first occasion he deprived some unlucky pig of a bucket of nice swill, as he used the same to quench the fire; but the end justified the means.

NEWCOMB'S MINSTRELS appear at the Temple, this (Tuesday) evening, assisted by the genuine Chang, and his wife, Lady King Poo. The troupe is large, and includes a number of well-known and favorite burnt-cork artists; and their programme is an attractive one. The Chinese giant, too, is "a big thing;" and the varied attractions should ensure a full house. Admission, 50 cts; see advertisement.

MAINE ITEMS.—The Town officers of Eliot are Democratic. James G. Jenkins, Town Clerk; Moses Goodwin, Andrew P. Fernald, Andrew J. Dixon, Selectmen, Assessors and Overseers of the Poor; Alexander Junkins, Town Agent; William O. Jones, Collector and Treasurer; Horace Parker, Superintending School Committee; Solomon Staples, Overseer of Almshouse; Jeremiah P. Shapleigh, Constable; William Hammond, Abram Brooks, Auditors.

In Biddeford, officer Hill found a boy who was only nine years of age, dead drunk in a gutter, and the Democrat thinks that the man who would sell a boy of his age intoxicating drink, should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. So do we—but why not he who sells the grown up boy, also?

Of the old Maine Legislators, the only surviving member of the first Legislature (fifty years ago) from York county, is Hon. Mark Dennett of Kittery, now eighty-four years of age, who is still in the enjoyment of excellent health. Hon. T. Robie of Gorham, and Peter C. Virgin Esq., of Rumford, are the only surviving members from the counties of Cumberland and Oxford.

The contract for building new college buildings at Kent's Hill, and which is intended to be one of the finest in the State, has been awarded to Messrs. Dearborn & Downs of South Berwick.

Dr. Foster of Portland, cut from the neck of Hon. Joshua Herrick of Alfred, a few days since, a large sized wen, and the operation was successful.

Mr. Jared Bates of Concord, Me., has a team of six yokes of two-years-old steers, which have been driven by a boy 15 years old all winter, hauling railroad sleepers, lumber and wood.

The Spring term of Eliot Academy commenced under the instruction of Edward E. Fogg of Chelsea, a graduate of Bowdoin College, highly recommended as an experienced and popular teacher.

One of the most extensive collections of house plants may be seen at the green-houses of John Rogers in Kittery. His Camelias, Japonicas, Smilax, Geraniums, Verbenas, and other rare and choice plants now in bloom, are well worth seeing. Those of our readers who are in want of house plants of any of the choice and hardy varieties, or flower seeds of reliable kinds, should send their orders to Mr. Rogers and they will be promptly and satisfactorily filled. His Smilax plants are the most gracefully and beautiful for vases or hanging baskets.

A machine for scraping roads, which promises to be of great utility, has been invented by W. H. Deering of Saco. It has been tested and said to work well. It consists of a 'scraper' with a metallic edge, attached diagonally under the perches of an ordinary two horse wagon, and acting on the principle of a plane. This shaves off the inequalities above a certain height and deposits loads in the holes and hollows as it passes.

☞ On Sunday evening, between 7 and 9 o'clock, Mr. Gilman Randall rescued a man named Cronan from drowning in Puddle Dock. The latter had been taking liquor, previous to taking water from Liberty Bridge.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH

BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,

No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,

February 15th, 1870.

The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.

Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the

OF THE

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional East and West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other

The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.

Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.

Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.

The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 153 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.

Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.

Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.

The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1000, $500, and $100.

They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or

The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or

The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only the registered owner or his attorney.

The three classes will be known respectively as:

1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."

2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."

3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.

They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.

The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.

A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.

The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.

Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.

The present price is 90 and accrued interest.

A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be at once appreciated and quickly absorbed.

Very respectfully,

FISK & HATCH,

Bankers.

P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.

☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 20lawdm

Morning Chronicle.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

ROADS.—The Boston Transcript discourses on the bad roads with which we are cursed in this country, and thinks there is nothing in which we are so far behind the age as in the art of road-making:

It is easier to get a ton of freight to Boston than six miles into the country. Stages are stuck fast and passengers are compelled to lift them through the sloughs. Courts have been obliged to adjourn, and the administration of justice has been suspended by an interdict of mud. The great potato trade of the Penobscot valley is entirely suspended by the impassable state of the roads.

Now good roads are the first necessity of a civilized country. The less the difficulties of transportation the more cheaply are the people provided with supplies and the greater is the value of their products that are to find a distant market. The Romans consummated their conquests by their skill in road-making. They held what they gained and extended their civilization by the great roads which they opened through the provinces they captured. Our roads are far behind those of European countries, and are a disgrace to our civilization. The evil lies in our system of supervision. Towns are left to look after the roads, and they entrust them to men who have no more knowledge of road-making than they have of preaching the gospel. If a town-house is to be built the work is entrusted to an architect, but if a road is to be made it is left to men who have no knowledge of engineering. The result is that the same old system of plowing a little on each side and scraping a little earth into the middle of the road, to be washed away again by the first rain, is pursued year after year, no matter how great the travel may be over the highway.

A competent engineer, with power to hire the necessary labor, could do twice the work for half the expense. All the great thoroughfares leading to the business centre of the county should be placed in charge of the County Commissioners and thoroughly constructed by a competent engineer. In New Brunswick, where the Province has charge of highways, the roads are admirable.

The system of earth roads, constructed by a neighborhood contribution of labor, or working out the taxes, is adapted only to uncultivated regions, and belongs to a low state of civilization. The country has outgrown it, and it should have been long ago discarded. As a matter of economy, a broken-stone road, constructed on the plan of Macadam or Telford is the most profitable investment a community can make. Over the well-built roads of England and France a horse can draw two tons where he can draw but half a ton here.

On the best gravel roads, far superior to ours, three times the power is needed that is necessary on a broken stone road. Thus our farmers, besides being delayed in their operations at the busy season of the year, spend four times as much labor to cart the same amount that the English farmer does. When to this we add the great item of wear of wagons, we can comprehend the great loss to which our people are subjected by their miserable roads. Nothing will do more to draw wealth and refinement into a country village than good highway. Every one will drive where the wheels roll smoothly over a macadamized road, but all people shun a place content to lie sunk in a slough of mud.

We have no doubt this is all true; nor do we question but what it would pay this city of Portsmouth to spend $50,000 (yes, fifty thousand dollars,) on all our roads, instead of the $5,000 or $10,000 which the people think is a large outlay—for the taxes in repairing carriages, renewing horseflesh, and loss of time, are ten times greater on the community, than all those the assessors ask for.

GOVERNORS FOR 1870.—The following is a list of the Governors of the thirty-seven States of the Union for 1870. Six States are Democratic, viz: California, Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, New Jersey and New York; all others are Republican;

A DEMENTED EDITOR.—The editor of the Queens Advertiser lately said in his paper, "We used to think it delightful to hug the girls; but it is positive ecstacy to hug babies." As to the correctness of his first statement I am not qualified by experience to judge; but from the last one I emphatically and unequivocally dissent. I have tried hugging a baby, and there is no such thing as ecstacy about it.

A friend of mine has got a new baby at his house, and I went to see it. Persons who are posted about such things, told me before I went, that I must express great wonder and admiration for the baby, no matter what I thought of it; armed with this knowledge, I made sure of pleasing everybody. Had I foreseen the miseries I was to undergo, I would almost rather have joined the U. S. navy than have made that visit.

I was shown into a room containing the baby and its mother, and a dozen other ladies of various ages; and the baby was held up to my admiring gaze. I supposed I was expected to say something, and therefore made the following original remark; "Why, it's the very image of its father;" upon which one of the ladies asked, "How in the world can you tell that, by looking at the back of its head?" The baby was then turned round, but I couldn't see that it made much difference—it looked just about the same. Then another lady said she thought the child looked like its mother the most; and as I was determined to do the right thing, I said I thought just so, too.

This was doing nicely; but suddenly the nurse stepped up to me and said, "Don't you want to take the little angel?" My blood ran cold, but I managed to gasp out, faintly, "Yes, of course I do—the little darling;" and the atom of humanity was handed over. How it is with other babies I do not know; but this one had a hinge in its spine, and the moment the nurse let go of it, it doubled over backwards till its head touched its heels; I made sure I had broken it in two. The nurse quickly relieved me from my fearful responsibility. But this was not the end of my sorrows.

I was next asked, "Don't you want to kiss the little dear?" Now I would much rather have saluted the baby's mother, all its aunts, and all their cousins, than to kiss that baby; but I didn't dare to say so. On the contrary, I replied, "Certainly; that's just what I came for—the little beauty,"—and I did it. That baby must have known that I had just told a whopper, for it managed to twist one hand into my whiskers, and pulled so as to loosen all the teeth on that side of my jaw; and when I got away finally, I left of my cherished facial adornment, in the baby's hand, enough to make her a nice chignon when she grows big. After that I kept clear of the baby.

I tried to get up a little talk on general topics, such as the weather, but it wouldn't do; I wasn't allowed to speak of anything but the baby. So I managed to get seated on a sofa near a nice young lady, and by way of making myself agreeable, observed, "What horrid homely things babies are, ain't they?" to which she replied, a little stiffly, "I hope, sir, you do not refer to my lovely little niece?" "O dear, no—not at all," said I; and then I took a chair nearer the door, by a benevolent-looking elderly lady with specs on, to whom I remarked, "What perverted ideas that young lady there has; she calls that horrid little villain lovely!" "Sir," said the benevolent-looking lady, sternly, her specs sparkling with honest indignation, "you cannot mean to apply that cruel epithet to my charming little grand-daughter?" "By no means," I answered; "not at all—I meant that boy out there in the street." But I felt that it was time to leave; so I made a general bow to the centre of the room, and retired. As I was putting on my coat outside the door, I heard various remarks made, such as "heartless old brute," "odious old creature," and "abominable old bachelor." I asked no explanations—I left.

If that western editor likes to hug babies, he may; and he need not be jealous of me, for I promise him never to interfere with his pleasure. I don't want to know any more about handling babies than I learned on this visit, either, for I shall never go within a row of brick houses of one again; I had rather hold a live shell than a live baby. But as a mere matter of curiosity, I should like to know if there is any way in which one baby can be told from another. I have seen several babies besides this one, though I was never so near one before; and they all look as exactly alike as do sheep or green peas. And the question I would like to have answered, is: if three women were to put their babies in a heap, would they ever be able to untangle them, so that each mother would be certain she had got her own child? PAKEHA.

New Hampshire Items.

Chas. W. Smith, Esq., the new Register of Deeds for Coos County, who has for eleven years been foreman of the "Coos Republican" office, is a brother of Mr. Edwin Smith of Rochester.

B. Barker of Rochester, recently sold Mr. D. McDuffee, a cow for beef which weighed 1380 pounds. Hon. Hiram Barker of Farmington has a cow which weighs 1660 pounds.

New Hampshire people pay annually about forty dollars a piece for liquor. If the same sum was spent for books, newspapers, clothing, or things spiritual, would not the result redound more by a hundred fold to the welfare of the individual, and the prosperity of the State. No subject is of more vital importance to the community at large, than the Temperance question, by which all are more or less affected. In Vineland, N. J., where there is no liquor sold, there are no paupers and no rowdyism. Banish the evil intemperance, and nine tenths of the misery and woe that now afflict us, will be done with.

At Nashua, Saturday evening, a fire broke out in the First Congregational Church, and spread with great rapidity. In less than half an hour the church was in ruins, and also the adjoining building, owned and occupied by O. H. Phelps as a saloon. The Post-office block was nearly destroyed. Several other buildings were burned, and the loss is about $100,000. Two firemen were injured by falling timbers.

Stephen G. Philbrook, of Tamworth, aged 100 years, has voted every year in that town for seventy-nine years.

Spriggins in a half hours walk about Rochester on Sunday afternoon, counted forty-seven baby carriages in which the "little ones" were being trundled.

Among the resolutions, on the subject of temperance, passed at the recent session of the Methodist Conference in Nashua, was one to the effect, that "we will vote upon temperance as we talk and pray." Mr. Stubbs moved a substitute, that "we will vote according to our conscience," but the proposition tion was defeated by a large vote. A ministerial vote on lay delegation was taken, sixty-eight in favor and twenty-five against. Conference is to be held next year at Rochester, which has once before had the honor, in 1851.

John S. Hayes, Auctioneer, sold at public auction the homestead of the late Paul Meserve in Madbury for $2800 to John Meserve; also the Hodge place at Blackwater to Capt. Samuel Varney for $1000. The sale of the Capt. Wm. F. Estes farm at Fresh Creek was postponed for the present, and will probably be disposed of at private sale. From the present look of things there are more sellers of real estate in the market than buyers.

The Fast-day sermon of Rev. S. L. Blake, pastor of the South Congregational church, at Concord, excited much interest and comment, and was formally replied to by Rev. E. R. Sanborn, pastor of the Universalist church.

☞ We hate monstrosities in a newspaper—great, staring cuts, or showbill type, whether in the news columns or advertisements. Such displays of course come only from the desire of people to be more conspicuous than their neighbors; and in the struggle, it comes inevitably, that the more showy or more hideous the better. But if advertisers think, (as we do not,) that monstrous notices are better than those neat and genteel—why not have some congruity, some similarity and adaptedness between the advertisement itself and the articles advertised?

The latest instance to the contrary of this, that we notice, is that of a new Salve advertised extensively in some parts of this State, and headed by a large cut of the man on horseback, who in his mad speed has lost his hat, which a boy has picked up, and is running behind, to give it to him; and in their haste, or that of the engraver, the boy is holding the hat in his left hand; and by the poor perspective, it looks as if placed directly behind the horse. The rider, too, has his reins in the right hand, and holds a box of the salve in his left—all which are exactly opposite the usual course. Really, great is show-bill advertising in a newspaper.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,

Coughs,	Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses,
Colds,	Headache, Falling Fits,
Fevers,	Convulsions, Palpitation,
Ages,	Sleeplessness, Restlessness,
Biliousness,	Dyspepsia, Dizziness of
Constipation,	Liver Complaint, Children's Troubles
Diarrhœa,	Consumption, &c., &c., &c.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS [and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any delerious or injurious ingredient. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5tw
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet, which the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5tw

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 20, 1870.

Chat.

The Senate judiciary committee has reported against re-organizing the Supreme Court.

The Prince Edwards' Island legislature has voted strongly against confederation.

Returned English vessels report a successful season of whale and seal fishing.

It is reported that a provisional government has been formed for Paraguay under the patronage of Brazil.

Seven hundred New York ship carpenters are on a strike.

Navigation is open on the Great Lakes.

In the National House of Representatives, Monday, a bill was passed providing for a new apportionment of Representatives. It provides that the eastern States shall not lose any members in the next Congress, and that additional members for western States shall be chosen at large. It is thought this will give the next Congress 300 members.

The boiler of a large linen factory near Brussels, Belgium, exploded Monday. Twenty men and women were killed outright or frightfully scalded. After the explosion the factory burned to the ground.

Council Bluffs has a fire company composed of young ladies.

Philadelphia is killing all its unlicensed dogs.

Georgia has a town named Cousin John.

The Mississippi River is infested with pirates.

Gold, Tuesday, 113 3-8.

Freshets are reported in all directions.

New Publications Received.

Alleghany Musical Journal, for April. A. M. Johnson, Utica, New York. 50 cts. per year.

Die Modenwelt is unquestionably one of the first fashion magazines in this country. It contains in the course of the year 1600 illustrations, 200 patterns, 400 diagrams, and 12 large highly colored steel engravings, $3 a year. Two specimen copies mailed for 30 cents. Address, S. T. Taylor, Importer of Ladies' Fashions, 391 Canal Street, New York.

Harper's Weekly will publish "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" in monthly supplements, the first of which was issued last Saturday. It reproduces the original illustrations by Mr. Fildes.

DIFFERENCE IN THE QUALITY OF EGGS. — The Journal of Agriculture says, though most farmers keep fowl and raise their own eggs, there are many who have not learned the difference there is in the richness and flavor of eggs produced by well fed hens, and those from birds who have been half starved through our winters. There will be some difference in the size, but far more in the quality. The yolk of one would be large, fine colored and of good substance, and the albumen, or white, clear and pure; while the contents of the other will be watery and meager, as in the parent fowl, to properly carry out and complete the work nature has sketched. In order, therefore, to have good eggs, the fowls should be well fed, and also provided during the months they are unable to come to the ground with a box containing an abundance of fine gravel, that they may be able to grind and prepare their food for digestion. Of eggs, those from the domestic hen are decidedly the best, but those of ducks and geese may be used for some of the purposes of domestic cookery.

—If the reports we hear are true, the company for Selwyn's Theatre next season will be one of the best ever brought together in this city. With Lester Wallack, Mrs. Chanfrau, Josie Orton, Fanny Morant, together with the favorites of the present company, the prospect for the dramatic season of 70-71 at Selwyn's are glorious.—Boston National Chronicle.

—The chief constable of Massachusetts, makes the following report for March: Liquor prosecutions, 637; other prosecutions, 200; liquor seizures, 204; seizures of gaming implements, 8; gamblers arrested, 27; fines and costs paid in, $12,797, 78, expenses of department $8, 872, 26.

—A chemist in Albany, while expatiating on the discoveries of chemical science, announced that snow possessed considerable heat. An Irishman present said chemistry must be valuable science, and asked the lecturer how many snowballs it would require to boil a tea-kettle.

—Mrs. Partington says that Ike, having become enamlled of a syren in Boston, has led her to the menial halter. He didn't appear the least decomposed. On the backs of his wedding cards were little cubebs with wings.

—The medical schools, are now discussing the question whether a black man can have a "white swelling."

New Hampshire Items.

A new map of the State is to be published on a large scale, embracing every village and ward in the State.

Milford dedicates its new town hall on the 27th instant.

Mr. T. McClure of Kingston, whose wife was killed at Craft's Crossing, on the Boston and Maine Railroad, last summer, has been awarded the sum of $1500 damages.

In June, 1800, at the raising of a barn owned by Mr. Palmer of Hampton, there were present eight women of that town, each with a male infant in their arms. Seven of the infants aforesaid are now living in Hampton, and paid taxes this year. The other died at the age of fifty.

Our Deerfield correspondent, sad to say, states that there has to his knowledge, been no marriages in Deerfield, for some 6 months, and but few births; but there have been a number of deaths.

Horace Chapman of Belmont went to Boston a few days since with a pair of horses, and sold them to an irresponsible party, taking a note for $825, in pay. After this he was robbed of his pocket-book containing that with other notes and what money he had. He had to borrow money to get home. The horses were worth $500, but as the party buying did not intend to pay, the price was of no account. Take it all together Mr. Chapman is out some $800. He is father of Mrs. Farrar of the late poisoning case.

The Unitarian Society of Manchester have received an offer of $10,000 for their church from the directors of the Elm Street Freewill Baptist Society. It is probable that the offer will be accepted and that the Unitarians will build a new church.

E. S. Davis, the auctioneer on Franklin Square, Dover, has a tea-pot in his store that was made in 1756.

George L. Folsom, Esq., is one of the most enterprising business men of Dover. His extensive advertising is what manifests this. — Mr. Daniel Emerson, well known in Dover, died on Friday last, aged 80.

A fireman in Dover, Simon D. Young, a man about 32 years of age, a shoemaker, a man of unusual energy, but who has been troubled with disease of the heart, returning from a fire, fell and expired almost immediately, leaving a wife and four children.

Adjutant General Natt Head has issued circulars to the clerks of towns and cities, calling attention to the requirement of the law in regard to the enrollment of militia, with a request that the returns be made early in May.

Edwin Burr brought into Dover a string of splendid trout, caught in some brook near. The first sea fishing party from Dover was taken out by Capt. Moses Young, consisting of Joseph Cushing, Esq., and his friends. They went as far as Whale's Back and the Shoals, found fish scarce and the catch consequently light. A man by the name of Huntress, from Elliot had rather better luck. He caught at Dover Point, one day last week, 200 lbs. of codfish.

DEEP OR SHALLOW PLOWING.—In reply to a question from a correspondent, as to the comparative merits of deep and shallow plowing, the editor of Hearth and Home says:

"That there are some soils that will yield fair crops by being stirred to the depth of three inches, is a fact; but the teaching that shallow ploughing is always, or even generally the best, is wrong and most pernicious.

We believe that, as a rule, the deeper the soil is stirred, exposing, as it will, more of it to the action of the elements, the more plantfood will be formed. All this does not necessitate putting the enriching material six or ten inches under ground, where the roots of plants feeding near the surface cannot find it, but it means letting the air in, and giving to the earth a large capacity to gather and hold what the air always carries.

When the ground is sandy and loose, subsoiling or deep tillage is in no wise necessary. The earth admits the air without additional breaking up, and as applications of manure on such soils have a decided tendency downward, it might possibly be an injury to make the soil looser than it naturally is.

But when the ground is heavy and wet, when water in a sense stagnates within six inches of the surface, subsoiling is invaluable, and deep tillage, if what virgin earth is brought to the surface is properly enriched, is the best —indeed, the only rational way of treating such land.

The truth of both of these positions we have demonstrated by actual experiment. Sandy soil, sowed to rye, we plough four inches, and find our greatest return. Heavy black loam, with a mixture of loam and clay underneath, we subsoil, put the plough a little deeper each time the fields is planted, and the crop by the treatment has increased at least thirty per cent.

—Mr. Prilleux, in a paper "On the Effects of Frost upon Plants," has shown that if the thaw is conducted gradually the plant will always revive.

— A sentimental youth says he prefers hanging on the neck to hanging by the neck; but both are dangerous.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

RESUMPTION OF SPECIE PAYMENTS. Our remarks in the Chronicle of the 11th of April upon the important subject, compact with the popular opinion. We alluded to the powerful combination of interested persons against resumption. But their opposition will soon be overcome by the mighty voice of the people from whom, in this country, all political power is derived. There are in Congress but few very eminent statesmen, and a less number of able financiers. Among the latter are Senators Sumner, and Patterson. Both are strong advocates of speedy resumption as a safe and practical measure to promote our national prosperity. Our Senator, Patterson, bids fair to be an eminent statesman, and an able financier.

In his speech in the Senate, Jan. 27th, on the currency bill, he said "Let me tell gentlemen they will never get out of this evil (a depreciated paper currency) until they adopt the system proposed by the Senator from Massachusetts, and come to specie payments. There is no other remedy—there is no other way to get out of this evil. One currency of one value is the only policy which will rid the country of this evil." A more sensible and rational position has not been taken in Congress during its present session, and we trust that our Representatives and our other Senator will support the same position.

There can be no stability in business and exchanges, while we have two currencies of unequal value, one a depreciated currency, irredeemable, which rests entirely upon the public confidence that it will be redeemed at a future period, although now it has no intrinsic value. Silver and gold is the only standard of value in all civilized nations. Our paper currency will not be received in foreign countries. But even the value of specie is liable to some change. When there is a redundancy over what is requisite for business and exchanges, its value is lessened, and therefore prices of products rise. And when there is not a sufficient amount, its value rises, and prices fall.

And so it is with our paper currency. Its inflation at this time would be attended with great injury to the nation. Its rapid reduction would hasten the time of a return to a specie basis, Resumption would be the means of spreading specie over the country to places where specie is most needed, and then when paper money is convertible, it would be at par with a metallic currency. We need a return to our old fine Banking system, and the Banks should replenish their vaults with specie enough to redeem the notes they issue.

When suspension took place, they sold their specie at a high premium, and therefore can afford to purchase at a premium. Converted into national Banks, they have since been realizing large profits dealing only in paper. This has tended to make the rich richer, and the poor poorer. With three or four hundred millions of specie in the country, the idea that specie payments cannot be resumed immediately with safety, is entirely fallacious.

We have before stated that the war debt can be no objection to resumption, as it is to be liquidated at future periods, when our national wealth and population will be largely increased. Senator Patterson on Feb. 24 ult. made another able speech upon this subject, and the "Funding Bill," and as the subject is of more importance than any other subject before the people and their Representatives in Congress, we will briefly review some of his correct positions. HARD PAN.

"THEIR NAME IS LEGION," may be applied to those who die annually of consumption, although science has of late years sensibly diminished their number. It is gratifying to know that the general use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is largely instrumental in attaining this end.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Help for the Miserable.

No wonder that the face of the dyspeptic has a dragged, worn, hopeless expression that is pitiful to see. No wonder that the miserable martyr to indigestion is fretful, irritable, and unsocial. Whoever can bear the pangs of this tormenting complaint cheerfully, and with an unruffled temper, is little short of a saint. But why should human fortitude continue to be thus severely tried, when an absolute specific for the disease is always at hand. Everywhere within the limits of civilization in this hemisphere, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is obtainable, and the history of the first case of dyspepsia in which it has been administered in vain, has yet to be written.

The sickness at the stomach, the sense of weakness and stupor, feeling of emptiness and hollowness before eating, and of oppression afterwards, the fluttering of the pulse, the intense nervous irritation, the morbid indisposition to exertion, the weariness of life, and indifference to all its pleasures, which are among the symptoms of the disease in its chronic form are rapidly ameliorated by the tonic operation of this palatable vegetable restorative, which seems to renovate and quicken all the dormant forces of the system, and rouse the mind from the apathy and gloom inseparable from a derangement of the digestive and secretive functions. In ordinary cases a few weeks suffices to complete the cure, but when the disease is complicated, as it often is, with torpidity of the liver, severe constipation, impurity of the blood, and a sluggish circulation, a longer time may be required. Persevere, however, and the result is certain. An encouraging improvement will be perceptible from day to day, and the convalescent, knowing and feeling that he or she is on the high road to health, will await the happy issue with comparative patience.

PAIN KILLER.
Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors,
1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.
FOR THIRTY YEARS
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER
The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor sect nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

Directions accompany each bottle.
Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. mh12dawlm

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you will spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup where my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 for a bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Chilblains, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, as that they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautifully black or brown. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 6 Bond Street, New York.

ARE YOU GOING TO PAINT?

IF SO, SELECT THE BEST, which is the AVERILL CHEMICAL PAINT.

It has proved the best, West, North and South, to be the best Paint known. It will not peel, crack, nor chalk off, and will last twice as long as the best Lead Paints.

It is cheaper, handsomer and more elastic, than the best of other Paints. It is the most convenient Paint made, being mixed, ready for application; it dries rapidly, and retains its shade perfectly, with a beautiful surface and glossy finish, and for years retains its gloss and beauty. It is excellent for walls inside, in the place of paper, making a smooth glossy finish, which can be cleaned with hot suds without injury.

One Gallon of Mixed Lead Paint weighs 20 lbs. and costs $2.72, and will only cover 16 square yds, 2 coats: while one gallon of the Chemical Paint only weighs 10 lbs., and costs but $2.50, and will cover 30 square yds., 2 coats.—thus making a saving of 23 cts., per gallon, besides covering 4 yards more than Lead Paint, and will last twice as long and look far better.

The Chemical Paint is sold by the gallon in quantities to suit purchasers, in 40 different shades and pure white, and will be applied by experienced workmen and satisfaction given in every case; or in case of dissatisfaction in one year after put on, the whole cost of Paint will be refunded.

The sale of these unequalled Paints are daily increasing. Call and examine these ready mixed Paints, both in kegs, and applied to Buildings one year ago, before buying elsewhere, and save your money and money, and beautify your dwelling by using the

☞ The heavy gale that has prevailed since Sunday reached a climax, Monday night, and may have another before it leaves for good. A friend suggests that the March winds and April showers will bring forth a good crop of June bugs, which we don't dispute.

☞ Gen. Butler has prepared a resolution which he will offer in the House, on the first opportunity, directing the ways and means committee to report a bill abolishing the income tax, assessing a tax of five per cent. upon the interest of all bonds, of whatever description, all dividends, mortgages, and leases, to be always witheld by the payer, and turned over to the United States treasury; five, three and one per cent. on legacies and successions, according to character, to be collected by the probate officers, and stamp taxes of one per cent. on all loans, and five cents on each railroad ticket, telegram and express package. The commissioners are to provide for whiskey and tobacco as they think proper. They are to abolish the present offices of assessors and assistant assessors of internal revenue, and the new system will repeal all other internal revenue taxation whatever.

HAVE SOME?—Professor Silliman of Yale college a few days since analyzed what was sold for Port wine in Stonington, and the following was the result of his analysis:—The liquor was turbid, heavily laden with sugar or molasses and some coloring matter; contained 21 per cent. alcohol; over 10 per cent. of sugar or molasses; about 100 grains of sulphuric acid to the gallon, part of it free, as oil of vitrol, and part combined in alum; oxide of lead or lithargе, in poisonous quantities, or about 45 grains to the gallon. The alcohol had an acid taste and the coloring matter an offensive odor. The liquor was stronger of lead than most waters that are poisoned by it.

☞ Benj. B. Bowen, a blind preacher of Boston, has testified in the McFarland case, that McFarland's voice had changed greatly, and that it sounded like the voice of an insane man! No wonder it was found necessary in these days to construct the word "ridiculosity."

☞ The Portsmouth Journal really seems to think that a squid can do anything better than squirt mud, or a lizard get clean of his slime, or a buzzard crave any food but carrion, or a blackguard be a gentleman; or a pimp hired to belie his betters, be content to do anything else. Our neighbor, whether older than the Gazette or not, should have learned better than to foster any such ideas. Only one paper that we ever heard of, spoke ill of Uncle Toby while living, and that stultified itself when he was dead, by taking back all that it had been saying of him for years. We should prefer such a sheet would never speak well of us; as we could but regard its praise as our deepest censure.

☞ Mr. Chas. H. Hutchings has shown us a pine tree cent, which was found by his little boy in the rubbish removed from the site of the Savings Bank extension. On one side is the pine tree, and the date 1776; on the reverse is the motto "American liberty," around the edge of the coin, and the letters "W. M." in the centre. What the initials stand for we do not know; and there is nothing to show by whom or where it was coined.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,

BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,

No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,

February 15th, 1870.

The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can be found, or be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.

Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the

OF THE

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional East and West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other.

The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.

Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.

Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.

The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 159 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.

Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.

Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.

The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1000, $500, and $100.

They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or

The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or

The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only the registered owner or his attorney.

The three classes will be known respectively as:

1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."

2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."

3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.

They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.

The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.

A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.

The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.

Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.

The present price is 90 and accrued interest.

A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be at once appreciated and quickly absorbed.

Very respectfully,

FISK & HATCH,

Bankers.

P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.

☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 22dawm

New Publications Received.

What the Physician Should Be, — a Address delivered at the commencement of the Medical School of Harvard University, Boston, Mch. 9th, by A. P. Peabody. Published by request of the Faculty.

Every Saturday, No. 17, for April 23, contains a pictorial supplement of remarkable attractiveness and great merit as a work of art. It represents Edwin Booth as Hamlet, and will be recognized by all who have ever seen the great tragedian in his favorite character, as a striking and admirable likeness. The next number will contain a companion picture, representing Mr. Fechter as Hamlet. This number has a continuation of Dicken's new Story, "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," which has already excited great popular interest. Fields, Osgood & Co., publishers, Boston.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

YORK, ME., April 18.

Messrs Editors:—As schooner Adia, Lowe, laden with bricks, was attempting to drop through the draw of Sewall's bridge, last Wednesday afternoon, she grounded. After obstructing the public travel two hours, much to the annoyance and discomfort of many persons on either side of the bridge, (your correspondent among the number) the draw was lowered between the masts of the schooner and several teams passed safely over. After sticking fast some four hours, she succeeded in dropping through, without sustaining any material damage. P.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTES.—The session of the Teachers' Institute for Merrimack County, which was recently held at Franklin, seems to have been highly appreciated by the citizens. A committee of citizens reported resolutions, which were unanimously adopted, congratulating the managers on the unqualified success they had achieved, the teachers for the instruction received, and thanking the instructors and lecturers for awakening and bringing forth new ideas in behalf of the schools and advancing educational interests.

A KIND-HEARTED DOG.—When the brig Fred Bliss was wrecked at Swampscott, last week, there were on board a cat with two kittens, and a dog. The cat and one of the kitten was killed at the time of the wreck. The dog took the other kitten in his mouth and swam ashore with it and dug a place on the beach as a nest for it, and has since protected it. It was found by some men who went to photograph the wreck. The captain gave the dog and protege to a citizen of Swampscott, who doubtless will see that they are cared for.

—Hon. Thomas L. Tullock has received from a friend at Yokohama a photograph of twenty-three naval officers—seven of the Oneida, among whom was Paymaster Tullock, six of the Idaho, and ten of a Russian war vessel. They were at a dinner party the day before the Oneida sailed, and sat for the picture the same afternoon.

—A woman travelled on the line of Prince Arthur's route while he was in the United States. He met her at "Arlington" clandestinely, while at Washington, and received a severe scolding from his keepers. The descendants of William the Conquerer are as big "haljons" as any of their ancestors.

—The practice of the violin by ladies is a subject which is beginning to claim the attention of our musical reviewers, and we think it one well worthy of consideration by all who are interested in musical (not to say woman's) progress.

—A Michigandress has recovered from a saloon-keeper all the money spent for rum by her husband for six years, the law not recognizing liquor as property.

—One of the gentle sex says that the heaven of the strong-minded woman is, "where buttons grow in their places, and where men cease from bothering, and needles are at rest."

—A Missouri town is raising money to buy a tomb-stone for a man hanged for horse stealing, who has been found innocent.

—Whiskey sometimes carri s elections; but in Connecticut the Radicals claim that they were defeated by (rain) water.

—Bishop Simpson thinks it better to eat early and dilate, than to eat late and die early.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN'S RELIGION.—F. E. Abbott, formerly Rev. Mr. Abbott, pastor of the Unitarian society at Dover, some time since, established a paper at Toledo, Ohio, called The Index, in which he advocates his religious and philosophical views. He is opposed to the idea that the Bible is a special revelation from God, or that Jesus was a supernatural person. Hence he does not claim to be a Christian, although no one can be a firmer believer in religion itself; he insists that the religious element in man is his crowning glory. He believes that "religion is the effort of man to perfect himself and that the root of religion is universal human nature."

In the last number of the Index we notice a long communication from W. H. Herndon, Esq., of Springfield, Illinois, the former law partner of President Lincoln, and his most intimate friend for many years. In this letter, Mr. Herndon discusses the question as to what were Mr. Lincoln's religious views. He states most unequivocally that Mr. Lincoln wholly rejected the idea that Christianity was a revealed religion, or that it stood on any higher basis as to its origin than any other religious system. He states that in 1835, Lincoln wrote out a small work which he intended to have published. This book was an attack upon the whole grounds of Christianity, and especially upon the idea that Jesus was the true and only begotten son of God. He did not believe in a special creation or in miracles, but did believe all things were regulated by universal laws. Mr. Herndon states that Mr. Lincoln never denied his honest convictions even to help himself to an office. He would rather die first.

He also states that Mr. Lincoln's views underwent no change when he went to Washington. Mr. Herndon also declares that Mr. Holland, one of Lincoln's biographers, came to him when he was preparing his book, and he, Herndon, told him freely all he knew of the President's religious views, and he intimates pretty clearly that Mr. Holland knowingly misrepresented the whole matter in his biography for a selfish purpose. He says the citizens of Springfield know that Mr. Lincoln was what is called a free thinker in religion.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

TRUE TEMPERANCE. — Messrs. Editors:—An impression has got abroad that Rev. Mr. Robie of Greenland, in a late discourse on the text "drink no longer water, but take a little wine for the stomach's sake and thine often infirmities," drew an argument in favor of the common use of ale, wines, &c. If this be true he should certainly be brought to the bar of public opinion. Such an idea, coming from a man in his position, who from his constitutional good qualities and his christian sincerity is loved and respected by every loving person, would need a great deal of additional explanation.

But whether he so intended or not, time will not be wasted in looking a little at the idea in all its bearings; for there are not wanting persons who are liable to the temptation to "take a little," availing of such a plea.

In God's name we may ask; in the name of Jesus we may ask; in the name of parents who with anxious hearts view the pitfalls of drunkenness; in the name of the dear youths who are putting forth their first motions on life's pathway, and whom one step out of a true course may give an impetus to a long period of absence from happiness; in their name, I say, we ask: "If a physician should tell a patient to take certain medicines, would it be right for said patient to adopt them thereafter as a part of regular food and drink?"

And when Paul advises Timothy to drink no longer "not wholly," as more understandingly rendered by Noyes,) water, but take a little wine, &c., (and why? because strong, full-blooded beef, pork and grain-fed men need such an article? No! No! but because of a weak digestion and generally infirm state of the system—very likely as a palliative of extreme and irremediable suffering,) does it follow that a general endorsement is to be made of the reckless use of mixed, or vitiated, or alcoholic drinks, with which our country and the world generally is at present corrupted, and which renders all Baptist preaching, and all Orthodox preaching, and all Liberal preaching, powerless to lift the great mass of mankind out of the depths of misery into which it has fallen?

There it still lies and there it will continue to lie, until, firstly, all who undertake to teach christianity shall be careful to give a "demonstration of the Spirit" rather than an exhibition of human corruption and imbecility; and secondly, a way be found to get rid of the manufacturing of vicious drinks.

Yours as ever, HUMANITY.

—Col. Geo. H. Pierce, and Charles B. Gardner of Dover, and Mr. Flynn of Berwick, have contracted to build 47 miles of the Vineland Railroad from Delaware Bay to Atson, and they have already commenced operations. Col. Pierce has also a contract to build a Railroad from Little Rock to Fort Smith, Arkansas, a distance of 150 miles. J. W. McDaniel started for Little Rock on Monday last, to look after the interests of the Col. at this point.

Communication.

NEWCASTLE, April 20.

Messrs. Editors.—As this is the time when the members elect to the General Court are looking around to see what are the wants and what new laws are needed for the advancement and protection of the people, I would respectfully call to their notice one of the most important subjects, that can possibly claim their attention, viz: — An improvement in the Laws regulating and governing our Common Schools. It is a subject that has been sadly neglected. Our common schools are far below what they should be. Is it because we do not expend money enough? because we lack able and efficient teachers? It certainly is not because the rising generation are wanting in mental ability, for the world testifies to the energy and ability of New Hampshire men and women.

Now, in my opinion the chief difficult lies in the want of popular and efficient Laws, upon which to act. It must be admitted by all who have given the subject a moment of thought, that the whole system needs a wholesale and radical change; this must be done, before we can start right, before we can raise the rank of our schools with those of our sister states. I will as this time cite only one great difficulty. Take for instance the subject of Text Books, and you will find almost as many series of different authors as there are schools.

Now see how this state of things operates. A man in this city with a family sends his children to the public school, and buying them a set of books. Now he finds he must move to some other town; there he will find a different series of books. Of course he is (at great expense) obliged to purchase new books. This is not the worst feature in the case. The children have been instructed from one author; now they find they must go back and learn new tactics, thereby losing much valuable time as well as money. This is only one of the many annoying aggrievances to which the people of this state are subjected. There is a remedy and let us have it applied so that our common schools may rank with the foremost. S.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

REPORT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.—The report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction has just come to hand. It was made to the Legislature last June, we suppose; some of the stutistics are interesting, other parts show a decline in School affairs. The number of scholars attending is reported 74,913, being a decrease of 2,225 from the previous year. The increase of male teachers is 44, decrease of females 33. Increase of the wages of male teachers per month $1.45; of females 33 cts. It appears that in the State there was raised for schools more than the law requires $66,331, and that the whole sum expended for schools was $372,218, being an average amount to each scholar of $4.96.

The Report gives an account of the Teachers' Institutes held during the year and makes suggestions relative to Common School Education, important and would be useful, if the Report was so widely circulated as to be read by the masses of teachers and parents.

A very instructive part of the Report is made up of abstracts from the Reports of Superintending School Committees. In these, tardiness, absenteeism, the employment of teachers too young to have judgment in managing schools, poor school-houses and too many school districts are condensed, and we wish all could read the Lancaster Report, which shows how in many of the schools instead of teachers governing scholars, scholars govern teachers. N.

☞ Jeff. Davis, in his letter denying the report of Senator Cameron's remarks to him at the time the Southern Senators withdrew, says, characteristically:

"Men had not reached the degree of stultification which caused the withdrawal of States from the Union to be called 'Rebellion,' and the only remark, so far as I know, made by any Senator, which had the least practical bearing, was the expression of Mr. Hale of New Hampshire, that he expected us all soon to come back."

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,
Coughs, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses, Colds, Headache, Fainting Fits, Fevers, Convulsions, Palpitation, Agues, Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Children's Troubles Diarrhœa, Consumption, &c., &c., &c.
Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drug whatever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap54w
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, by inging out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap54w

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

THURSDAY, APRIL 21, 1870.

Chat.

Sunday was the anniversary of the death of Benjamin Franklin, who died 80 years ago.—April 17, 1790.

Monday made 46 years since the death of Lord Byron, in 1824.

Tuesday was the anniversary of the battle of Lexington, the first battle of the Revolutionary War, which preceded the battle of Concord, Mass., a few hours, both of which were fought April 19, 1775, 95 years ago.

Wednesday made 62 years since the birth of Louis Napoleon, the present Emperor of France, who was born Apr. 20th, 1808.

Next Saturday will be the anniversary of the birth and death of Shakespeare. He was born April 23d, 1564, 306 years ago, and died April 23d, 1616, aged 52 years.

Cromwell was born April 24th, 1599, 271 years ago next Sunday. It would be well for our youth, who are giving attention to history while at school, to make themselves familiar with thousands of historical facts, like the above, and fix them upon their minds.

In the Senate Tuesday a report was made in favor of appropriating $100,000 for an Arctic expedition. The Georgia bill was debated until nearly midnight, and then Mr. Pomeroy's amendment declaring the government of the State provisional, making the State a military district and ordering a new election for members of the legislature next November, was adopted as a substitute for the Bingham clause, and the rest of the bill stricken out. In the House, Mr. Twichell made a long explanation of the circumstances of the Boston Post-office investigation. The duty on scrap cast iron of all kinds was reduced to $5 per ton, and that on scrap wrought iron to $6 per ton.

The trial of McFarland still continues. No more evidence on the matter of insanity has been offered, but much is given as to the relations of Mr. and Mrs. McFarland and Richardson at their several boarding-houses.

The recent long-continued, copious rains have occasioned troublesome freshets in New Hampshire, New York, and Pennsylvania.

The ninth anniversary of the march of the "Old Sixth" through Baltimore was celebrated at Worcester, Tuesday.

The remains of the late Hon. Anson Burlingame arrived in New York, Tuesday.

Mr. Burlingame's funeral will probably take place next Saturday forenoon.

It looks as if the Fenians were on the war path.

A Washington special states that in the case of Hepburn & Griswold, on motion for a rehearing and involving the reopening of the legal tender decision recently made, the motion was unanimously denied by the U. S. Supreme Court, no judge who was concerned in said decision desiring to hear the case re-argued. This ends that matter, and the decision requiring gold contracts made prior to the passage of the legal tender act to be paid in gold stands.

Gold, Wednesday, 113 5-8.

Senator Sanlsbury's term expires next year, and already the Republicans anticipate the selection of his successor. They expect to carry the State this year with the aid of the colored voters.

The U. S. Senate passed the Pomeroy amendment as a substitute for the House Georgia bill, Tuesday night.

A bottle has been picked up at Staten Island with a note inside signed "James Nas ——" stating that the steamer City of Boston was burning, 35 days out.

☞ Vice Admiral Belcher writes to the London Times that he does not yet despair of the City of Boston. He says, "If she stood south-easterly and fell into the Horse latitudes—where few ships care to go, or have any business—and be disabled, she may, like a transport I recollect, be detained there from one hundred to one hundred and fifty days, and would eventually find her way, by the trade winds, into some port in Florida or the West Indies."

The farmers around Concord are rushing last year's wool crop into the market, fearing that the new supply will lessen prices. The best quality sells for forty cents per pound. Some farmers have a four years' clip on hand.

The fifty dollars which the proprietors of the "Blanchard Churn," residents of Concord, offered for the best essay on butter-making, has just been awarded by the committee appointed by the American Agriculturist to Mrs. M. A. Deane of Farina, Fayette County, Illinois. There were over one hundred competitors for the prize.

THE LOST CHILD FOUND. — Nellie Burns, the little girl who has been missing from her home in Boston for three weeks, has been found! The simple announcement will thrill with joy the hearts of thousands throughout New England, who sympathized deeply with the bereaved parents. She was found in a house leading out of Endicott street. Officer Houghton of the Boston police heard of her whereabouts and visited the house finding the little "three year old" with a woman named Lizzie Chase, and conveyed both to the Second Police Station.

The news of the finding of the child spread rapidly through Court square and the immediate vicinity, and but a few minutes elapsed before a crowd of several hundred persons, all anxious to see the lost one, assembled in front of the station. In the meantime, the father of the child had been summoned from his place of business in Morton place, and the scene on meeting his child was affecting in the extreme. Nellie looked bright and happy, and stroking her father's face, repeatedly exclaimed; "Papa! Papa!"

Mr. Burns being desirous to reach his home at the earliest moment, a carriage was procured, and they left the station. As they left he lifted the little girl so that all could see her, and the clapping of hands and three cheers for the lost child signified the joy of the crowd.

The arrested woman, Mrs. Chase, states that she found the child three weeks ago on the Common, and another woman with whom she boards states that Mrs. Chase brought the child to her house three weeks ago and claimed it as her own offspring.

The child had on the same clothes which it wore when it went out on the sidewalk to play three weeks ago.

A DARING ATTEMPT TO RESCUE A DROWNING CHILD.—In Bethel, Vt., on Wednesday, a little boy of five years, while at play on the highway bridge which spans the deep stream passing through the village, fell into the water. 50 feet below the bridge the water pours over a high dam among the rocks and snags below, tumbles along for another hundred feet, leaps a second dam higher than the first, and sweeps down under and beyond the railroad bridge for two hundred yards, a perfect cataract.

A young man of 18 years, named Edward Burnett, who stood near, saw the child fall, and at once divesting himself of his coat and boots, plunged boldly into the river. He reached the drowning child, clasped him in his arms, raised the little fellow's head from the water and turned shoreward, when the current took them over the first dam into the foaming vortex below. For the space of a minute and a half the horrified spectators lost sight of the heroic young man and the child.

At last, when hope had nearly fled, young Burnett was seen drawing himself out of the water by some bushes, fifty rods below the lower dam, bruised but not dangerously injured. The body of the child had not been recovered at last accounts. Young Burnett's heroism is the theme of universal praise in Bethel, the opinion being general that not one in a hundred could pass down that jagged torrent bed and come out alive. Burnett says he was conscious all the time, and saved himself by holding his breath.

☞ The storm on Monday night was severe throughout the State. The water in the Merrimack River rose very high, and there are fears of a great freshet. The melting snow from the woods and hills in the interior, added to the rain, greatly swells the volume of water coming down the streams and rivers. The railroads in many cases were impassable. There is a washout on the Montreal road, near Tilton, and no train came in over that line Tuesday morning. On the Northern road one of the abutments of the bridge at Moosam, in Andover, has been carried away and the structure is probably not passable for trains. The Contoocook River threatens much damage. The Valley train is unable to get out of Hillsboro' on account of damage to the track. The freshet in the valley of Warner River is the greatest since 1825. At Bradford that stream is rising very fast, and the freshet there is without a parallel for many years in that section. A considerable portion of the railroad track in that town is four feet under water, and several of the streets are impassable. The dam at Bailey's Mills is tottering, and the contents of the buildings in the vicinity are being removed.

Merrimack river is higher than since 1852. Otis Allen's drive of logs have broken away the booms, and much lumber will be lost.

Colonel James Fisk, Jr., has added to his other occupations that of essayist.

New Hampshire Items.

The house and barn of Mr. Samuel Whitcher, Jr., of Warren, were destroyed by fire, Sunday, the 10th, together with nearly all their contents.

The Congregational Church burned at Nashua, Saturday night, was built in 1835, at a cost of $10,000.

Walter S. Drew, a printer, recently of Concord, fell from the upper story of the Rensselaer House, at Albany, N. Y. Monday, and was instantly killed. He was about 32 years old.

Hon. George Bartlett, a leading lawyer, died in Binghampton, N. Y., last week, aged about fifty-two years. He was a descendant of Gov. Josiah Bartlett, of this State, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

A strange disease prevails among the horses of Dover, which has carried off a number of valuable animals.

The inventory of Newport is $960,982.00; poll tax $2.46; tax per hundred dollars $1.86. Dexter Richards pays the largest tax in town, $951.12.

Otis Allen of Lowell is said to have 3,000,000 feet of logs at Squam Falls, Holderness. Sixty men were employed on this drive. Following this about twenty miles in the rear, is Norcross & Sanders' drive of over 6,00,000 feet.

New Publications Received.

Godey's Lady's Book for May. Beautiful always.

Advertising Agency, for 1870, from the New York Agency of Hudson & Menet. A large and handsome volume of 216 pages.

Putnam's Monthly for May. G. P. Putnam & Co., New York. $4 per year, "Political Degeneracy," and Parker Godwin's "Out of the Past," are leading articles.

Watson's Art and Musical Journal, of New York. Weekly. $4 per year. Good.

Our Dumb Animals, for April. Boston; Published by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. An Agent is wanted in Portsmouth. A good cause, and good commision paid.

Phrenological Journal and Packard's Monthly. A grand publication. Only $3 a year.

The Galaxy for May, a first-class illustrated Magazine, by Sheldon & Co., New York; $4 a year. Charles Reade's great story is continued.

The widely literary newspaper Wide World of Boston and Western World of New York, have been combined, under the name of Western World, and may be had of all newsmen.

Arthur's Home Magazine and the Childrens' Hour, for May, are sweetly attractive, as usual.

The Printing Gazette, of Cleveland, for March.

The Illustrated Australian News, Melbourne, Dec. 27. A large and handsome paper very much like our illustrated weeklies.

The New Idea, a sensational weekly, started in Boston some seven months since, has ceased to exist. A well known citizen is said to be out some $10,000. The paper was edited by Mr. Charles H. Davis, a fiction writer, formerly of this city.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle Office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle. ☞ Subscriptions may commence any time.

"THEIR NAME IS LEGION," may be applied to those who die annually of consumption, although science has of late years sensibly diminished their number. It is gratifying to know that the general use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is largely instrumental in attaining this end.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Help for the Miserable.

No wonder that the face of the dyspeptic has a dragged, worn, hopeless expression that is pitiful to see. No wonder that the miserable martyr to indigestion is fretful, irritable, and unsocial. Whoever can bear the pangs of this tormenting complaint cheerfully, and with an unruffled temper, is little short of a saint. But why should human fortitude continue to be thus severely tried, when an absolute specific for the disease is always at hand. Everywhere within the limits of civilization in this hemisphere, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is obtainable, and the history of the first case of dyspepsia in which it has been administered in vain, has yet to be written.

The sickness at the stomach, the sense of weakness and stupor, feeling of emptiness and hollowness before eating, and of oppression afterwards, the fluttering of the pulse, the intense nervous irritation, the morbid indisposition to exertion, the weariness of life, and indifference to all its pleasures, which are among the symptoms of the disease in its chronic form are rapidly ameliorated by the tonic operation of this palatable vegetable restorative, which seems to renovate and quicken all the dormant forces of the system, and rouse the mind from the sullen gloom inseparable from a derangement of the digestive and secretive functions. In ordinary cases a few weeks suffices to complete the cure, but when the disease is complicated, as it often is, with torpidity of the liver, severe constipation, impurity of the blood, and a sluggish circulation, a longer time may be required. Perseverance, however, and the result is certain. An encouraging improvement will be perceptible from day to day; and the convalescent, knowing and feeling that he or she is on the high road to health, will await the happy issue with comparative patience.

PAIN KILLER.
Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors,
1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nect nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a sure and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.
Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. mh12dawlm

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use taken out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swelling, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: "I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

☞ The services of Noah, the ark-builder, will be required if April runs into May.

☞ Sheriff Morse, who sent in his resignation last February, is to be succeeded by Deputy Sheriff Caleb Moulton of Hampstead.

☞ The Rockingham House was reopened to the travelling public on Wednesday, under the charge of those capital landlords, the Pierce Brothers.

☞ Col. John S. Godfrey is to be in Portsmouth on Friday, and persons desiring to consult him on the subject of Drainage, can do so, by leaving word at the Chronicle Office.

☞ The Teachers' Institute for Rockingham County will be held in this city, commencing on Monday, April 25, and continuing through the week. This occasion will be one of great interest to the Teachers of Rockingham County. It is expected that reduced fair over the different Railroads will be given. The daily sessions of the Institute will be held in the High School Hall; the evening sessions in one of the churches. The citizens are cordially invited to attend all the sessions, both day and evening, as the lectures will be such as to interest and instruct both teachers and citizens.

NEWCOMB'S MINSTREL TROUPE are a lively set of caterers for the amusement loving public. Johnson and Wilson furnish fun enough for a whole evening, and Harry Robinson is considerable of a circus all alone by himself. The cow-bell quartet make good music with their odd instruments. Chang is an immensity and sports a queue that if unravelled might excite the jealousy of many of the gentler sex. His wife is a "little folk" with almond eyes, and looks up at her "lord" with compassion and confidence.

We hope the company will come this way again when April showers are scarcer than now. They are among the best of travelling troupes and deserve what we are quite sure they will get next time—a crowded house.

☞ Rain, rain, every day and every night. News of floods; of bridges carried away and embankments washed out; of cities overflowed; of human life lost; of property destroyed; of railroad trains delayed; of disasters in all parts of the country by the falling of the rain, causes us to wish that May flowers might be brought forth without the aid of quite so many April showers. The wind at the time of writing, is trying hard to work around to the northwest, but we fear with a poor chance of success, and if it does, it will back in, and more "April showers" very soon will be the result. A very large store of May flowers ought to be the reward of such a plenteous supply of rain, and with their fragrance dispel the cerulean fancies left by this most depressive weather.

S. J. COURT, Exeter, Wednesday.—Judge Sargent.—In the case Wiley vs. Paul, the jury found a verdict for the Piff. for $535.

The Judge overruled the demurrer to the indictment against Stephen Scammon Gen. Marston, counsel for Scammon, submitted exceptions, and waived a continuance of the case another term, unless imprisonment should be part of the sentence. Judge Sargent then sentenced Scammon to pay a fine of $600 and costs on the indictment of libel in authorizing the insertion of the "Scammon vs. Hatch" advertisement in the Portsmouth Daily Chronicle, Dec. 25, 1869.

The case of Messrs. Miller and Marston for publishing the above mentioned advertisement in the Chronicle was then argued by Hon. William H. Y. Hackett, for the defence, and Attorney General Wm. C. Clarke, for the State. The Judge held the respondents guilty, although the alleged libelous matter was an advertisement inserted as all advertisements are, and fined Messrs. Miller and Marston $150 and costs.

Porter, admr. vs. Brown—Suit to recover $50, note. Defence, that note was without consideration, given for a worthless patent hay-fork. Given to jury Wednesday evening.

Linihan vs. Shehan, next in order.

On Tuesday, Thos. Lamb of Newmarket, for assaulting an officer, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, and to pay costs.

John Simmons, colored, and Artie Barney, white, for fornication, were sentenced, John to 60 and Artie 30 days in jail and to pay costs.

Private Letter From a N. H. Lady Teacher, South.

My dear ——— The barrels are here—were received 2nd inst., all safe. This receiving, so direct from friends, here in this almost exiled State, gives a sensatibn which few know! May you never need to know! Your special gifts to us, claimed first attention; and it is not too much to say, none ever seemed half so good to us mortals before! Many thanks to thee, dear friend, and through thee to other kind donors.

Of the clothing, every article is useful; none could be more timely! It is impossible to be out of season in gifts to this poor people; they are so soon, like leaves in Autumn all scattered, carrying comfort, we know, in every direction. The news of the arrival soon spread, by some electric medium, and as early as Sunday morning, callers came,

The first applicant,—a man who walked nine miles—one with a large family, (small ones are the exception). He works for a large, rich land-owner, who pays him $100 per year for his and wife's labor. $100 income! What a price for food, clothing, &c! He looked half-fed, and was half-clothed. Do you wonder? We furnished him with a complete outfit, making outside a new man, all from your bounty! I only wished that you and your good associates who have so generously helped us, could have seen the change—you would have been repaid in part, for your labor, I think.

If to do good is earth's greatest joy, none here need lack enjoyment! We have distributed every day since the arrival until all is gone. Then they come, at the eleventh hour! This is the only mission in the country, and there should be twenty, to begin to meet the general destitution! Summer is coming and the good warm sun will do his best to cheer and comfort—this is a precious fact. It is utterly impossible for one to breathe this air, so full of past and present wrongs, and thrive! I long for deliverance from this woe-begone State! Every day fresh bits of history are adding to my stock—in all, enough to build a tower, which would well nigh reach heaven—and it is wrong and injustice from base to top-stone!

The enormities practiced upon the blacks, not only during slavery, but since, would make you blush for your race. Such instances of intensely selfishness in real life are new. Verily, truth is stranger than fiction! Since this new experience, I fully subscribe to that abominated doctrine of total depravity—a doctrine fully lived up to in Va.! I cannot express half I wish, to you, as the prime mover in this act of charity to our poor—receive my warmest gratitude on their behalf.

☞ The easterly storm has brought considerable debris to the beaches and shores of our coast. At Newcastle, quite a large amount has been driven ashore. Mr. Verney, of the Whalesback Light House, reports that the topsail of a schooner passed into this harbor on Wednesday, with rigging attached.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,
BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,
February 15th, 1870.
The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.
Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the
OF THE
Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional East and West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other.
The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.
Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.
Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.
The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 157 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.
Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.
Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.
The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.
The Bonds are in denominations of
$1000, $500, and $100.
They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or
The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or
The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only the registered owner or his attorney.
The three classes will be known respectively as:
1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."
2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."
3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.
They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.
The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.
The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.
A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.
The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.
Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.
The present price is 90 and accrued interest.
A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be at once appreciated and quickly absorbed.
Very respectfully,
FISK & HATCH,
Bankers.
P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.
☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 22daw3m

DOMESTIC WANTED, by Mrs. LYMAN, at No. 1 Austin Street.

Morning Chronicle.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

DEERFIELD FARMER'S CLUB.—Will the Farm Pay?—Many say no. Farming is unprofitable. I can tell you when it don't pay.

1. When you hate it, and only stay on it, because you have no where else to go. When you make no improvements on it; but skin it, and put into other business all you can get from it. Farms treated thus, don't pay; and no other business will pay, if one feels no interest in it, and gives no energy to it. If you deal unfairly with the farm, you cheat yourself,

2. When you use no capital. Land has little value unless capital is expended upon it. No other business succeeds without capital. In other business men often add profits to their stock; but most farmers carry away the profits they get to invest in something else. Few farmers keep any correct account with the farm, or give it credit for half of what it pays. How many purchase upon credit, and find the interest eating up a large share of the profits, for many years. When the land is freed from this tax, and the profits appear, how often are there children to educate; and then to settle off in life, with funds drawn out for the soil. When the farm has been squeezed dry, some of them that have been nourished from it will tell you it don't pay to cultivate it.

3. If you are short-sighted, and can see nothing beyond the crop for this year, you may fail. In Manufactures men invest large sums for buildings, machinery, material and labor, and then wait patiently, years for a dividend. But many farmers grudge every cent that goes into the soil, as it it were sunk in the sea. If instead of roving about, and never doing so well but that he would gladly leave, to do better, the Yankee would, like the Pennsylvania German,—put more capital into his land and his barns, he would find them much more profitable. A good farm, in the hands of a good farmer, is the safest kind of property. Whatever may be the changes in the price of gold, or stocks or merchandise, the real value of this land will remain unaffected by the financial disturbances that ruin so many, in other occupations.

C. J.

SOIL FOR FLOWERS.—The best soil for most flowers, and especially for young plants and for seedings, is a mellow loam, containing so much sand that it will not "bake" after hard showers. If we have not such a soil, we must, of course, use the best we have. A stiff clay soil can be much improved by a little sand, or ashes or manure, and by pretty constant working. It must not, however, be handled when too wet. Always drain the flower garden so that no water will be on or near the surface. Don't try to grow good flowers in a poor soil. Always have a little pile of manure in some outer corner. It is as convenient as money in purse. Those who keep cow or horse will, of course, have manure enough; but those who have no such opportunity can get a load of sods from some meadow or the sides of the road; lay them in a pile to rot, and give a soaking with soapsuds on washing days. When the leaves fall get all you can handily and throw them upon the pile, and no one will be able to boast of better flower food; in fact, this is the very poetry of manure.

BUGS IN PEAS.—Dr. I. P. Trimble, of Newark, N. J., says this bug or weevil in the pea is well nigh universal, at least over wide sections of the country. In the northern part of New York and New England he does not usually affect the pea so seriously. Hence seed peas ought to be raised north of Albany and Boston. A very small egg that soon becomes a minute worm is laid on the back of the pea pod. The little animal eats his way into the middle of the pea, and slowly matures into the weevil that we find in these peas. When the pea is green, he is so small as to be before notice. But when the ripe pea is brought to market, the size of the worm, and afterwards of the bug, is such as to make most dried peas unfit for the table. Fowls prefer them, and they will generally do as well for seed as sound peas. They do not affect the earliest of our peas, nor the very late varieties; but the Marrowfats and English Mammoth are always infested with them. As nine-twentieths of our pea crop is eaten green, the difficulty is one of little practical importance.

CELERY.—A Correspondent of the Practical Farmer says, "I have known many men and women too, who from various causes, had become so much affected with nervousness that when they stretched out their hands they shook like aspen leaves on windy days and by a daily moderate use of the blanched foot stalk of the celery leaves as a salad they became as strong and steady in limbs as other people. I have know others so very nervous that the least annoyance put them in a state of agitation, and they were always in constant perplexity and fear, who were effectually cured by a daily moderate use of blanched celery as a salad at meal times. I have known others cured by using celery for palpitation of the heart."

THE CENSUS OF 1870.—The ninth census of the United States will be taken under the provisions of the act of May 23, 1850, on the first of June next. The assistants are paid as follows: Two cents for every name taken; ten cents for every farm; fifteen cents for every productive establishment of industry; two cents for every dead person; and two per cent. of the gross amount of the names enumerated, for social statistics, and ten cents per mile for travel. It will be seen by the foregoing that the compensation allowed an assistant or enumerator, provided the district allotted to him shall not contain less than 20,000 persons, will be about $600 or more.

The law provides that each assistant, after qualifying, shall perform his duties by a personal visit to each dwelling-house, and to each family in his subdivision, and shall ascertain by inquiries made by some member of each family, if any one can be found capable of giving the information, but if not, then of the agent of such family, the name of each member thereof, the age and place of birth of each, sex, color, etc., and shall also visit personally the farms, mills, shops, mines or other places respecting which information is obtained and entered in his blanks; then his memoranda shall be read to the person furnishing the facts for revision.

There is a penalty for refusing to furnish the required information to the assistant. The act provides that every person more than twenty years of age belonging to any family, in the case of the absence of the heads and other members of the family, shall be an agent of such family, and is required, to render a true statement of the information required, on pain of forfeiting thirty dollars, to be used for and recovered in an action of debt by the assistant, to the use of the United States.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

LEWISTON, ME., April, 16th.

Messrs. Editors:—The Grand Lodge of Good Templars of Maine met in Auburn, Wednesday, in annual session, and made choice of officers. On Thursday a strong debate arose relative to the third party movement, but a resolution to that effect, was finally defeated. Some 1200 gallons of condemned liquor was emptied into the street on Thursday—witnessed by a large crowd of Good Templars. This is the first destroyed under the amended law of the State.

There seems to be unsurmountable obstacles in the way, as to the location desired for the coming State Agricultural Society. All of our large cities have bid for the entertainment of the Society, and not a little jealousy exists as to which city the Committee will be likely to select. The conference of the Committee at the De Witt House, in this city, Tuesday, resulted in no final conclusion. I think our city will have to forego the pleasure of entertaining the Society—as the new Trotting Park is hardly in proper order for the trotting.

The city officers are rigidly enforcing the law against the sale of liquor, and at present there is not an open bar in the two cities. All kinds of schemes are resorted to, to smuggle liquor into the city. At Cobbs' bridge on the G. T. R. R., liquor has been shipped to this city by night, the distance of six miles, on wheels, but the City Marshal has finally put an embargo on the traffic in this direction. Another trick that has been in force for some time time, is as follows. A job wagon would approach the train on the Androscoggin Road, at a point where it was known that the train moved slowly, and the kegs of liquor would be loaded into the wagon, while the train was in motion, and trucked away. This device has also come to the observation of the Marshal and been stopped.

The Summer term of the Maine State Seminary, commenced to-day. Bates college is to favor us with public debates soon. Yours, H.

—Dr. Osgood is very warm in his praise of the manner in which Mr. Bancroft performs his duties as our representative at Berlin. "I was really proud of the man," he says, "when, at the great festival in memory of Humboldt, he was called up to answer for our America, and he spoke out our American feeling in pure German that brought the immense company to their feet with cheers."

RECOLLECTIONS OF AN OLD BACHELOR.—The complexion of a girl of the period differs from a railway ticket—the one is, and the other is not, transferable.

Curious how this life resembles billiards— kisses and smiles are generally found near together.

A cramped waist generally betokens brains in a similar condition.

—Henry Smidt blew out his brains in New York, because his sweetheart was not smitten with the tender passion and would not be smidt.

SOME MORE DOGGEREL.

We lately published David Barker's
Under Dog in the Fight, the story of the Outside Dog by an anonymous author, the Dog that keeps out of the Fight, the Dog that goes in for the Right, &c. Since then there has come under our notice another litter, comprising a new Outside dog, two Upper pups, the pup that Wasn't There at all at all, and the four dogs combined, all which we give below for the benefit of whom it may concern:

The Upper Dog in the Fight.
BY PHILLIP GOLDON.

The world gives in for the upper dog,
And so sometimes do I.
The world cares not for the under dog,
When the hair begins to fly.
The world looks on when the strife begins,
It cares not for the right;
But it is always ready to loudly cheer
The upper dog in a fight.

No matter which begins the fight;
No one takes the trouble to ask.
No matter what the strife is for,
But "which was on top last."
No matter which is in the wrong,
Nor which is in the right;
The world goes in and always has
For the upper dog in a fight.

Some say the world is growing worse,
But they I think deceive,
Some say the world is growing better,
The latter I believe.
But still there's one bad habit
In this world so fair and bright,
The habit of always shouting
For the upper dog in a fight.

The Outside Dog in the Fight.
BY JOHN JONES.

You may prate of your upper and bottom dog
And blow an alarming sight,
But as I have found, the safest dog
Is the outside dog in the fight.

He never desires to be counted in,
Thus showing an instinct bright.
He saves his grinders for polishing bones,
Does the outside dog in the fight.

Mr. Bulldog may try as long as he likes,
To damage his foeman's sight,
But the pleasant position of looking on
Has the outside dog in the fight.

Utterly heedless if in the strife
The might prevail or the right,
The appetite's good and tranquil the life
Of the outside dog in the fight.

When danger threatens, the rapid way
That he runs is refreshing quite,
And simply evinces the sound good sense
Of the outside dog in the fight.

Then here's to his healthy and happy days,
Luck send him abundance of prog,
And drink to the hero of private life,
A health to the outside dog.

The Pup that Wasn't There.
BY RICHARD ROE.

You may brag of your under and upper dogs,
As long as they bark or bite;
And commend the caution of outside dogs
That hover around the fight;
But the luckiest dog, I am bound to swear,
Was the little lame pup that wasn't there.

The noise of the yelling he hears from afar,
And wishes he might go in,
But sighs as he buries his nose in the straw,
Knowing he couldn't win;
For little lame pups are always outlawed,
And in all such fights get terribly "chawed."

His straw is clean, his kennel is warm,
And the sun is in front of the door;
He has gnawed on the nicest chicken bones,
Till naught can be gnaw any more;
Yet I haven't a doubt that the pup if he might,
Would instantly mix in the manderous fight.

And lucky it is for that small dog,
That perforce he cannot mix,
Id the noise of barks, and yelps, and bites,
And chokes, and stones, and kicks;
He saves his honor and saves his bide,
Which he couldn't do if he wasn't died.

The Four Dogs.
BY FRANK GARDNER.

Have you heard or read about the dogs?
The four that belong to the fight;
The upper under, and outside dogs,
And the dog that kept out of sight?
A dog fight you know always draws a crowd,
For 'tis very affecting, quite,
And the crowd is always sure to go
For the upper dog in the fight.

Little they care for the under dog,
The top dog takes their eye,
Little they care for the outside dog,
That is quietly standing by.
Little they care what the strife is for,
Still less for the wrong and the right,
Cheers for the upper, and kicks and blows
For the under dog in the fight.

Standing by and looking on,
Never once joining in,
Is the outside dog who knows too much
To lose his precious skin.
He cares not for the snarling dogs,
He keeps his bone in sight,
This is the noble old dog for me,
The outside dog in the fight.

TOM SAYERS was a famous boxer, you know. "Well, Tom," said a gentleman one day, "when you are training, I suppose you use plenty of beefsteak, London porter, and pale ale."

"No, no," answered the boxer, "when I have business to do, there is nothing like cold water and the dumbbells."

After giving up "business" Tom took to drink, and died a sot. Cold water made him a Samson. Alcohol laid him low in the grave. Health, strength, and long life do not come from strong drink; be sure of that, boys.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,
Coughs, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses, Colds, Headache, Fainting Fits, Fevers, Convulsions, Palpitation, Agues, Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Dizziness, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Children's Troubles Diarrhœa, Consumption, &c., &c., &c.
Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine;—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which it PROMOTES RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs whatever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5tw
Children's Diseases.
FOR WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the whiskey compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5tw

SUGAR HOUSE SYRUP,

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1870.

Chat.

Thos. Manning and Eliza Chase of Boston, the kidnappers of little Nellie Burns, have been committed for trial.

The disabled steamer City of Brussels has arrived at Crookhaven, England.

At Buenos Ayres on the 9th of March, the wind blew a hurricane, and the water flooded a great portion of the city; men and horses were drowned in the streets, and many people barely escaped with their lives; a great number of buildings were undermined, which subsequently were destroyed with the weight of goods in them; ships were driven ashore and wrecked, or sunk at their anchors; many sailors were drowned; the damage was immense.

The Paris workmen are on a strike.

The Fenian congress is in session in New York.

The cholera has raged like a plague in the Island of Zanzibar. 15,000 deaths within a month are reported, among them five seamen of a Boston vessel.

English, Dem., has 844 majority for Governor of Connecticut, the total vote being 87,415. The average democratic majority for State officers is 820.

RATHER TOUGH ON EXETER.—The struggle for the appointment of Sheriff of Rockingham County was rather sharp. The candidates were Messrs. Isaiah S. Dustin of Derry, James W. Odlin of Exeter and Caleb Moulton of Hampstead. Hon. Chas. H. Bell of Exeter presented Mr. Odlin's papers and ably advocated Mr. Odlin's claims. Mr. David Currier of Derry did the same for Mr. Dustin, and Hon. Nathaniel Gordon of Exeter presented the claims of Deputy Sheriff Caleb Moulton of Hampstead; in a speech which dismayed his Exeter opponents considerably. Mr. Gordon is Senator from the second district, a lawyer by profession and is one of the most wealthy men of Rockingham County. His address was made to the Governor and Council in public session and a friend from Concord has furnished us with an abstract of his remarks. Senator Gordon commenced by apologising for this his first appearance on such an errand. To use his own words:—

"I would not have come did I not desire the success of the Republican party. The result of the last election has indicated to us that we must be prudent in selecting candidates and making appointments. It is well known that political jealousies have existed for years between the people of Portsmouth and Exeter, the two largest places in the county. In this case Portsmouth (by the resignation of Sheriff Morse) has given up this office and recommends Mr. Moulton from the western part of the county for the position.

As soon as it was ascertained that there was to be a change, a little clique at Exeter started a petition about the county for the appointment of my good friend and neighbor, Mr. Odlin, as Sheriff, although he didn't want the office, having business enough for himself and two clerks to attend to. One reason for my appearing before you is to state that we are not all office seekers in Exeter. Most of us are able to get our own living, but there is a little clique there that want everything. They will, during the present year, have candidates for Governor, Member of Congress, Judge of Probate, Register of Probate and for every other office that is spoken of. They remind me of a nest of young birds, who, when they hear the flutter of the old bird's wings, open their mouths immediately to receive all the food they can get. I never attended a political caucus until last year, but have voted for whoever this clique put in nomination, but the necessities of the case and my desire to secure an appointment which will tend to allay these jealousies caused my appearance here to advocate the appointment of Mr. Moulton."

These remarks seem to have had the desired effect, for Mr. Moulton was the successful man. Senator Gordon's prediction as to Register of Probate has proved true already, and Mr. Thos. H. Leavitt of Exeter has been re-appointed to the position, we are glad to say.

ONLY A 0.—Would-be Congressman Sypher of Louisiana, who failed to be chosen Congressman because General Hancock allowed the rebels over a year ago to drive Republicans from the polls, was admitted to the House by a vote of 78 to 73 on Wednesday and then the vote was reconsidered and Sypher wasn't admitted 95 to 68. Queer work.

LIFE INSURANCE.—To give an idea of the extent of the Life Insurance business in the United States, we take the following items from a statement of the business of the principal companies compiled from official returns:

Total amount insured January 1st, 1870, $915,364,699. Of this there was insured in 1869, 639,635,351. Total premiums paid in 1869, $20,460,022. The gross assets in January 1st, 1870, were $283,010,298.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

DOVER, April 20.

They say "it never rains but it pours." Whether it is true or not we won't pretend to say, but the pouring of the past few days has been a decided damper to showers, and the state of water in the river shows that they have been having rain somewhere in New Hampshire within the past week. It is many years since there has been such an amount of water in the Cocheco river, as now. The mills and print works have had to shut down, on account of the backing up of the waters; and there are indications and fears that the Central Street bridge is getting "shaky." But it's an ill wind with no luck, and we shall probably have a good lot of nice May flowers to pay us for patiently enduring the April showers.

Dover is slowly crawling out of its lethargic state, and going strong into the Bohemian branch of business. We now have one daily paper, four weeklies, and a monthly, printed here. The "Daily Bee" is the title of the last sheet started, and the busy little organ is buzzed about by the newsboys every morning by the time Somnus has left the Doverites to rub open their eyes to see what is going on.

Easter Sunday was observed here with appropriate and impressive ceremonies. Most of the churches made some floral decorations, and in every church some fitting allusion was made to the importance of the events which the day commemorates. The Episcopal (St. Thomas) Church was of course most enthusiastic in the celebration. The church was made very attractive by the ladies of the parish, with decorations in rare flowers, and appropriate emblems. The altar, pulpit and desk were dressed in white, with clusters of flowers as relevos. On the altar was a delicate marble cross, twined with tiny ivy. The baptismal font was filled with callas and rare exotics, with an immaculate cross in the centre.

The anthems and chants by the choir were very fine, and the discourses by the Rector, Rev. Mr. Richmond, extremely interesting. The afternoon service was devoted to the children and some note of it will doubtless be of interest to the numerous readers of the Chronicle.

The singing by the children was excellent, and loud and distinct responses showed the effects of thorough drilling. The chief feature was the offering for Mission, for the diocese of Bishop Tuttle in Utah. A member from each class went forward to the altar, bearing the offering of his or her classmates, the Rector receiving them, and depositing, after reading the name, motto, and teacher's name, which were in this order, with the various insignia, Little Reaper's class Sheaf of Wheat, Miss M. Woodman; Bishop Clark class, collection of flowers, Miss E. Husband; Bishop Chase class, white silk banner, with black trimming and written motto, "In memoria," Mrs. J. Hanson; Richmond class, tray of flowers, Miss J. Browne; St. Thomas class, cross and anchor, Miss E. Duxbury; Bishop Eastman class, flowers, Mrs. Richmond; Bishop Tuttle class, marble cross trimmed with ivy, Mr. A. Tufts; Birds of Promise class, bouquet of flowers, Miss. M. Sampson; Little Workers class, marble cross and lamb, Miss N. Duxbury; Diligent Worker class, miniature bee hive, Mr. D. Hocroft; Lillies of the Valley class, basket of flowers, Miss N. Hardy; Wide Awake class, garland of flowers, Mr. E. Brown; Spring flower class, cluster of arbutus flowers, Mrs. G. Rollins. The total amount of cash presented was $52.45, more than enough for one years schooling in Utah.

Mr. Richmond entertained the members of the S. S. at his residence on Monday afternoon. It was, though very rainy, a happy and pleasant affair.

The Congregationalist, Unitarian and Catholic churches paid due remembrance to Easter in various floral decorations, and at the former sermons especially adapted for the occasion and previously announced, were delivered.

Business here, with the exception of the Shoe manufacturing line is very good, unusual for the season. But the latter is as "dead as a door nail," and hardly a shop is running.

A Levee was inaugurated by the Catholic Society at the City Hall last night, to raise funds for the completion of their church. Yours, WILSON.

☞ Harper's Bazar is said to have originated in rather a curious way. A German servant girl, employed in the family of Mr. Fletcher Harper, jr., used to receive the Bazar of Berlin from her friends at home. The ladies of the family, happening to see the paper, suggested the feasibility of establishing a similar periodical in this country, and the project was at once carried into execution.

THE MANCHESTER POULTRY SHOW was good, although the rain lessened the display. There were one hundred cages of birds of all descriptions common to this section of the country, with some rare breeds. Of gallinaceous fowls from their own locality there was a better show than ever before presented, but nothing from out the State, as has been the case heretofore, (no inducements were offered them, the officers preferring competition of home stock,) and very little from out the city. Pigeons, singing birds, and caged birds generally were almost wholly wanting. A small show of ducks and geese. Mr. Stark's superb collection of water fowls and other fancy stock, was beyond competition, of course. The exhibition should have been four weeks earlier. Many birds are now incubating and cannot be disturbed.

The home part of the show was really better than at any previous time. Brahmas, as usual, lead, and in the same class were other varieties, some Buff Cochins, and a superior show of Javas or Black Cochins. There were some Dorkings, though the number was small; but we admired both the milk white and mammoth buff Dorkings more than any other varieties. The show of Black Spanish and Leghorns was good; so of the Polish and Hamburgs. A fair display of French fowls, the Crevecœurs and Houdans. The Games were limited in number. The Bantams were out in all their pride, and attractive as usual.

The water was higher in Dover river last week than it has been with one exception for upwards of 20 years.

At the Unitarian church in Dover, an agreeable surprise was prepared for the pastor, Rev. Mr. Brown, in the most beautiful adornment of the pulpit and its surroundings, with choice flowers, most of which had been obtained from Conservatories in Exeter and were arranged in floral fountains and sprays, in the most exquisite manner, with the sacred emblem of the cross, in evergreen, reclining against the pulpit.

Col. John E. Bickford has purchased an interest in the Oil-cloth Manufactory with J. B. Folsom, at Dover.

— A letter from Heidelberg says that when German students get drunk, they are entirely satisfied if they can succeed in getting each other home; but when the Americans get drunk, they insist on whipping out the whole beer house, and seeing the establishment properly closed up before they leave.

"THEIR NAME IS LEGION," may be applied to those who die annually of consumption, although science has of late years sensibly diminished their number. It is gratifying to know that the general use of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is largely instrumental in attaining this end.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Help for the Miserable.

No wonder that the face of the dyspeptic has a dragged, worn, hopeless expression that is pitiful to see. No wonder that the miserable martyr to indigestion is fretful, irritable, and unsocial. Whoever can bear the pangs of this tormenting complaint cheerfully, and with an unruffled temper, is little short of a saint. But why should human fortitude continue to be thus severely tried, when an absolute specific for the disease is always at hand. Everywhere within the limits of civilization in this hemisphere, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is obtainable, and the history of the first case of dyspepsia in which it has been administered to a man, has yet to be written.

The sickness at the stomach, the sense of weakness and stupor, feeling of emptiness and hollowness before eating, and of oppression afterwards, the fluttering of the pulse, the intense nervous irritation, the morbid indisposition to exertion, the weariness of life, and indifference to all its pleasures, which are among the symptoms of this disease in its chronic form are rapidly ameliorated by the tonic operation of this palatable vegetable restorative, which seems to renovate and quicken all the dormant forces of the system, and rouse the mind from the apathy and gloom inseparable from a derangement of the digestive and secretive functions. In ordinary cases a few weeks suffices to complete the cure, but when the disease is complicated, as it often is, with torpidity of the liver, severe constipation, impurity of the blood, and a sluggish circulation, a longer time may be required. Persevere, however, and the result is certain. An encouraging improvement will be perceptible from day to day, and the convalescent, knowing and feeling that he or she is on the high road to health, will await the happy issue with comparative patience.

PAIN KILLER.

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors, 1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle. Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle. 1mdawap18

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. mh12dawlm

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many children owe their life to it. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Price only 50 cents per bottle, and you will not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to use, and full and full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. Depot 10 Park Place, N. Y. mh12

For Moth Patches, Freckles and Tan,

USE "PERRY'S MOTH & FRECKLE LOTION." The only Reliable and Harmless Remedy known to Science for removing brown discolorations from the Face. Prepared only by Dr. B. C. PERRY, 49 Bond St., N. Y. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

Pimples on the Face.

For Comedones, Black-Heads, Flesh Worms or Grubs, Pimply Eruptions and Blotched Disfigurations on the Face, use Perry's Comedone and Pimple Remedy. Reliable, Harmless, and contains no Lead poison. Depot, 49 Bond St., N. Y. Sold by all Druggists everywhere. 1mdawmh10

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, when they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

CITY COUNCIL, Thursday Evening.—In the Aldermen, the Com. on Claims recommended that the City Solicitor's bill be paid—which was done.

The Mayor reported that a conference had been held between the City officials and other parties who had been indicted for the Creek nuisance, and W. H. Y. Hackett as messenger from the Court, and that the Eastern Railroad would fill in the same up to high water mark for the sum of $500; and it was suggested that the Railroad, the City, and Messrs. F. Jones and H. Eldredge jointly bear the expense. The Mayor was authorized to adjust the matter if possible, the expense of the City not to exceed $125. The Mayor was also requested to report the expense of completing the drains at said point.

The board concurred in the resolutions of the Com. Council, relative to selling the hand fire engines and condemned hose. Ald. Cotton wished to sell the hose at auction, but the resolution passed as drawn.

The Board also concurred in the amendment of the Council, that any bids for the City Farm be opened in Convention of both Boards, instead of by the Aldermen.

Eben'r Lord was granted sidewalk at Franklin House.

Robert Drew's request to lay drain from the cellar of his residence into Middle St., was referred to Com. on Sts. and the St. Com'r.

The Mayor announced that on complaint of the City Marshal, of improper and insubordinate language from Officer Entwistle, he suspended Mr. E. from duty last Friday. He also read a communication from the Marshal, withdrawing all charges for the hasty words of the officer, and asked that he be reinstated. The Mayor recommended a hearing of the matter by the Board; but after a good deal of discussion, and some wrangling—in which the opposition members did a good deal of kicking against the will of a strong majority—the Officer was reinstated. Ald. Cotton moved to pay him for his lost time, but the Board refused to condemn the action of the Mayor.

The grade of the new Summer St. was referred to the Joint Com. on Sts. with the St.. Com'r added.

The Com. on City Lands and Buildings were authorized to repair the roof of the 3d Ward Room.

The Com. on Sts. were authorized to confer with the Ex'rs. of Mrs. Cutts' will, relative to improving Richards Avenue.

The Mayor was requested to confer with the Aqueduct Co. relative to furnishing larger supply-pipes to the city reservoirs.

The specifications for the new Primary School at the Creek Village, were adopted and sent down. It is to be of wood, one story, with slate roof.

The Com. on Sts. reported that the Cutter heirs would accept $600 for land taken to widen Congress St. as proposed, and to make necessary alterations of house, fence, &c., the City also to lay sidewalk. This was deemed high, and after discussion, the Com. were authorized to offer $250 in all. The St. would be widened about 5 feet, and 281 feet of land taken. The Leavitt heirs will accept $200 for land and all expense of alterations.

The Common Council concurred in the Ordinance relative to selling a portion of the City Farm, and the old hand Engines and hose. They refused to reconsider the vote non-concurring in the Summer St. grade.

THE FRESHET.—The Dover Bee of Thursday says:—

The Cocheco River has not been so high before for thirteen years. Pike's Saw Mill at Whitcher's Falls has been swept off and considerable damage done. At Barrington, Trickey's Pail & Tub factory, was carried off. The old house below the Landing what is called Squall Point, was so nearly submerged yesterday morning at high tide that the people in it had to go out of it in boats from the second story windows.

All the Factories and the Printery were obliged to suspend work on Wednesday on account of the height of the water.

In the height of the freshet a hog was seen navigating the raging Cocheco on his own hook, without boat or sail, heading directly for the rapids. As he drew near the fearful plunge, a good deal of interest began to be manifested in his welfare. On he went and shot like an arrow over the dam. It was supposed he would be dashed in pieces, but to the wonder of all, he fetched up at "Squall Point" sound on all fours.

The Concord, Suncook Valley, Manchester and North Weare and Concord and Portsmouth Railroads continue impassable, above Manchester.

The Merrimack river fell 15 inches on Thursday.

The freshet has been a heavy one in New York State.

— People should not use tobacco in churches, and other public places. The world is all before them where to chew, and they should have some consideration for the comfort of other people.

☞ Carrie Swaine was indicted at the present term of the Supreme Court, at Exeter, for keeping a disorderly house on Water Street, in this city. She pleaded nolo contendere to this indictment, was ordered to raise the costs of prosecution,—and thereupon was allowed to go at large on her own recognisence, with an intimation that the case would be called up at a future term for sentence, unless said Carrie should cease from following her wicked courses.

During the war, while it was the fashion in the army of the Potomac to allow rebel prisoners to take the oath of allegiance and then go at large, one or two of our soldiers, who were walking near a Southern camp, captured an old rattlesnake; and turning to his comrade, asked him what should be done with his snakeship? "Oh," replied he, "administer the oath of allegiance and let him slide." It was done, and it is supposed that its moral effect on the snake and his kindred was eminently beneficial. x.

ANOTHER GOOD APPOINTMENT.—Mr. Thomas J. Whittem of this city, formerly editor and publisher of the Messenger, afterwards the American Ballot, has been appointed Clerk to Chief Accountant at the Navy Yard. This is a tardy recognition of the political services of Mr. Whittem, who conducted an able paper and wielded a trenchant pen in days when "Democracy" was rampant and more powful for mischief than now.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,

BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,

No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,

February 15th, 1870.

The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.

Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the

OF THE

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional East and West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other,

The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.

Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.

Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.

The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 152 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.

Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.

Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.

The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1000, $500, and $100.

They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or

The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or

The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only to the registered owner or his attorney.

The three classes will be known respectively as:

1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."

2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."

3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.

They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, but may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.

The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.

A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.

The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.

Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.

The present price is 90 and accrued interest.

A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be at once appreciated and quickly absorbed.

Very respectfully,

FISK & HATCH,
Bankers.

P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.

☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 22d

DOMESTIC WANTED, by Mrs. LYMAN, at No. 1 Austin Street.

Morning Chronicle.

GOOD SEED.—Premiums for seed—the best and second best hundred ears, of different varities, to be raised in New Hampshire—have been offered by J. D. Lyman, of Exeter. This is a move in the right direction, and shows intelligence and public spirit that we hope will be imitated in our own State, by private individuals or agricultural societies, and be extended to the seeds of other staple products as well as corn. We think farmers generally are not aware of the almost transcendent importance of selecting the best seed, as a preliminary to the raising of any crop. The seed contains, before it is put into the soil, the germ of all that will spring from it; and its character, good, bad or indifferent, will surely appear in the crop; and just as certain as that a "bitter fountain cannot bring forth sweet water," cannot small, inferior, late ripening or unripe seed produce an early, healthy and luxuriant growth.

Many farmers indeed select their seed, but they pick for the poorest, instead of the best, as if it was a waste to bury up a good article in the ground, that might be used for food. So small potatoes, wormy peas and mildewed, unripe beans are thought to be good enough for the purpose. We have even known agricultural papers to take the ground that small potatoes were as suitable for seed as large ones, because the bulb was not the true seed, which is contained in the ball, and as the potato springs from the eye, so long as that is planted, the bulk of the bulb, which is merely adventitious matter, is of no consequence, and a small potato is as good as a large one to rot in the ground. This would be quite true if the only difference between them was in the size, but in point of fact the small ones are those that set late, and consequently are undeveloped and unripe, an imperfection shared by the eye or germ, which will be transmitted if planted.

Those who heard the address of Mr. Ware, before the Essex Agricultural Society in this city, will remember his very convincing illustration of the importance of thorough bred seed, in the details of the experience of one of his neighbors in onion raising. He had two acres of land of uniform quality and preparation, which was sowed with one variety of seed, but which was obtained from three different sources, a part being thorough bred, the result of careful and scientific selection for several years; a part good home-raised seed, the best of one year's selection; and the residue the common market seed, raised to sell.

The thorough bred produced hardly one imperfect onion, and the largest crop in the town. The home-raised was ten days later, less in quantity and inferior in quality, the crop being valued a quarter less than the first. The store seed gave a crop still later, of a much worse quality, and valued only one-half of the first. Any one walking across the field could tell at a glance, and to a row, where the different qualities of seed were sown. The best seed yielded three hundred bushels an acre more than the common market seed, making a difference of five or six hundred dollars in the value of the crop.

How much ploughing, subsoiling, draining and manuring would an enterprising farmer not feel justified in doing to add five hundred dollars to the net profits of an acre of land. It would pay more than seven per cent. on an expenditure of seven thousand dollars, and yet all the outlay required in the above case was a little care in the selection of seed, at a difference in cost hardly worth mentioning.

Dr. Nichols says that half the disappointment in the growth of crops is due to bad seed; and perhaps his success in making scientific farming pay is due as much to care in this respect as to his "apothecary manures." When other farmers complain that Indian corn is not a paying crop, he tells them to raise a hundred bushels an acre, as he does, and they will find it pays even at fifty cents a bushel. Mr. Lyman, whose offer of premiums suggested these remarks, evidently has similar views, when he says that two hundred thousand dollars that is sent out of New Hampshire a year, to buy corn, might be saved in the State by improved culture.—Newburyport Herald.

BRIDAL TESTS.—How thankful our "well-educated" young ladies of this day must feel, that they do not live among such a half-civilized people as the Nestorians must be, from the following account of one of their wedding customs:

After the marriage ceremony has taken place, the wedding party is taken in wagons from the church to the house of the bridegroom's parents. When the second wagon, in which the bride is seated alone, reaches the gate opening into the yard in which the house is situated, it is halted, and the bridegroom's mother comes to meet it, with a baby and three suits of baby clothes in her arms. She throws the child and the clothes into the arms of the bride, who is required to undress and dress the child three times in the presence of her mother-in-law, who watches every motion as only a mother-in-law can watch a daughter-in-law.

If the newly-made bride does not perform the operation to the satisfaction of her severe judge, she is considered unfit for her new position, the wagon is turned around, and she is taken back home for further instruction, and the poor bridegroom is compelled to live in single blessedness until his wife is educated up to the proper standard.

—The editor of the Clark County (Wis.) Republican says he is willing to give the fair one who sent him a valentine "a practical illustration of locking up a form."

SMALL FRUITS FOR FARMERS' FAMILIES.—Farmers have altogether too limited a supply of the different varieties of small fruits. How many farmers' families have had all the strawberries, currants, raspberries (black and red) blackberries, currants and gooseberries they wanted upon the table every meal through the season? I fear that a truthful answer would show that not one farmer's family in ten had indulged in a satisfactory supply, even in this highly favored state. Now, why is this? It is not for want of land; for I presume most farmers have enough land around the house and barn grown up to burdock and other weeds to produce an abundant supply, if properly cultivated. It is because farmers neglect to plant small fruits, partly for want of time and partly from an improvident carelessness.

Now, I advise every farmer to hold a family council immediately, and see what can be done in the matter. I think the boys and girls, or even the over-labored wife would agree to plant and cultivate the fruit, if the farmer would plow the land, and afford a few dollars to buy plants. Try it, and see if the results are not beneficial in more ways than one—if the boys do not develope more industrious habits and a greater attachment to home, if the flush of health does not return to faded cheeks of the girls, and if something of the careworn look does not leave the brow of the mother, then I shall be ready to confess that I am entirely ignorant of the wants and conditions of farmers' families.—American Farmer.

WHAT HORACE GREELEY SAYS ABOUT IT.—Mr. Greeley, referring to the mania which possesses Eastern people to move West under the mistaken impression that they will be better off, remarks that when his father was over sixty years old, and had lived some twenty years in Erie County, Pennsylvania, he said to him: "I have several times removed, and always toward the West; but, were I to do so again, it would be towards the East. Experience has taught me that the advantages of every section are counterbalanced by disadvantages and that where any crop is easily produced, there it sells low, and sometimes cannot be sold at all. I shall live and die right here; but were I to remove again it would not be towards the West." We regard this as sound and sensible, and worthy of serious consideration.

FIFTEEN FOLLIES.—First. To think the more a man eats, the fatter and stronger he will become.

Second. To believe the more hours children study at school, the faster they learn.

Third. To conclude that if exercise is good for the health, the more violent and exhausting it is the more good done.

Fourth. To imagine that every hour taken from sleep is an hour gained.

Fifth. To act on the presumption that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in.

Sixth. To argue that whatever remedy causes one to feel immediately better is "good for" the system without regard to more ulterior effects. The "soothing syrup," for example, does not stop the cough of children, does not stop diarrhœa, only to cause, a little later, alarming convulsions, or the more fatal inflammation on the brain, or water on the brain.

Seventh. To commit an act which is felt in itself to be prejudiced, hoping that somehow or other it may be done in your case with impunity.

Eighth. To advise another to take a remedy which you have tried yourself, without making special inquiry whether all the conditions are alike.

Ninth. To eat without an appetite or to continue to eat after it has been satisfied, merely to gratify the taste.

Tenth. To eat a hearty supper for the pleasure experienced during the brief time it is passing down the throat, at the expense of a whole night of disturbed sleep and a weary waking in the morning.

Eleventh. To remove a portion of the clothing immediately after exercise, when the most stupid drayman in New York knows that if he does not put cover on his horse the moment he ceases to work in the winter, he will lose him in the winter, by pneumonia.

Twelfth. To contend that because the dirtiest children in the street or highway are hearty and healthy, therefore it is healthy to be dirty; forgetting that continuous daily exposure to the pure outdoor air in joyous, unrestrained activities, is such a powerful agency for health, that those who live thus are well in spite of dirt and filth.

Thirteenth. To presume to repent in after life, without injury, the indiscretions, exposures and intemperance which in the flush of youth were practiced with impunity.

Fourteenth. To believe the warm air is necessarily impure, or that pure cold air is necessarily more healthy than the confined air of a crowded vehicle; the latter at most can only cause faintness and nausea, while entering a conveyance while walking briskly, lowering a window, thus still exposed to a draught, will give a cold inhalthly, or an attack of pleurisy or pneumonia which will cause weeks or months of suffering if not actual death within few days.

Fifteenth. To "remember the Sabbath day" by working harder and later on Saturday than any other day in the week, with a view of sleeping late next morning and staying at home all day to rest, conscience being quieted by the plea of not feeling very well.—Hall's Journal of Health.

The Chronicle.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.—Corry O'Lanus thinks he has "got em" this time, sure, and woman suffrage will soon be a fait accompli if his reasons are good. He favors the entrance of women into the political arena, on the ground that "every woman is bound to do a certain amount of scolding, and if she does a good deal in public, she won't do so much at home." Corry deserves to have his hair pulled.

—An imaginative young man, laboring over the encroachment of womankind on masculine territory, in the matter of dress, breaks into song as follows:—

"They took our coats—at first we hardly missed 'em,
And they aped our dickeys and cravats;
They stole our socks—we only laughed and kissed 'em;
Emboldened, then, they stole our very hats;
Until, by slow and sure degrees, the witches
Have taken all—our coats, hats, boots, and breeches."

☞ The present situation of the woman's campaign may be thus summed up:

The Minnesota House of Representatives has passed a bill providing for submitting to the people (both men and women, though the votes of women are deposited separately) an amendment to their constitution, allowing women to vote at all elections on equal terms with men. Missouri is passing a provision like that of Kansas, allowing women suffrage in school matters. Utah and Wyoming have led the way in extending the full right of suffrage. In Utah it is evidently a masculine movement, as at the recent election, out of 20,000 women having the right to vote, only half a dozen voted.

☞ Miss Lillie is a bright little girl of four summers. Her Sunday School teacher, in questioning her a few days ago on the extent of her bible knowledge, asked her if she knew any of the commandments. "Oh! yes, I tin say some," said Miss Lillie. "Then commence my dear," replied the teacher. Miss Lillie confidentially commenced thus:

"Mudder tin I do out to swim,
Yes, you tin, my daughter,
But hang your close on a hic-wory lim,
And don't do fur in the water."

—A story is told of an old hunter in Michigan who, when the country was new, got lost in the woods several times. He was told to buy a pocket compass, which he did, and a friend explained to him its use. He soon got lost and lay out all night, as usual. When found, he was asked why he did not travel by the compass. He stated that he did not dare to. He wished to go north, and he "tried hard to make the thing point north, 'twant no use; 'twould diddle, diddle, diddle right round, and point southeast every time!"

—A certain judge was reprimanding an attorney for bringing several small suits in court, and remarked that it would have been much better for all parties if he persuaded his clients to leave their cases to the arbitration of two or three honest men. "Please your honor," retorted the lawyer, "we did not choose to trouble honest men with them." The judge wilted.

RAISING FRUITS.—When rightly cultivated, nearly all kinds of fruit grown in New England pay good dividends. J. B. Moore, of Concord, Mass., states that the fruit-growers of the town of Concord, situated twenty miles from Boston, received the past year, after deducting commissions, about eight hundred thousand dollars.

In reference to the profits of raising small fruits for market, we quote the following from the Agricultural Report for 1868:—"From Ulster Co., N. Y., $100,000 worth of strawberries was shipped in 1867 to New York markets, and at least $200,000 worth of whortleberries from the Shawangunk mountains. From $400 to $1000 worth of small fruits were sold from the acre."

— There is being introduced into Maine the Barcelona or Sicily nut tree, and it promises to be an important addition to the agricultural industry of the state. The trees do well in this climate, having been tested in northern New Hampshire and the Androscoggin valley, where they were subjected to the most intense cold. The nut is similar to the English filbert, but larger and of much finer flavor.

—Neatness generally is the best economy. Prevent untidy accumulations of manure; avoid confusion in barns, sheds and outhouses. Do not allow hens to roost on carriages, reapers, and horse-rakes; if you have not a good hen-house, either set off at once an apartment in one of your buildings, or procure immediately enough lumber and erect one.

VAULTS may be kept inodorous by throwing down daily a quart or two of dry sifted coal ashes. This will allow the contents to be shoveled out with as little trouble as to shovel sand. This mode of using coal ashes requires scarcely a minute's attention daily, and is nearly as good as the vaunted earth-closets.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention of the urine; tinctura of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

TESTIMONY.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold.

DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,
ECCLES & HINKLE, Druggists.

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from pain, which I have suffered with "so hard." I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as my self, to state that after spending the services of eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and such permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment of my gratitude, and a humble suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,

D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER

is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold:

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or know to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognisant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,
149 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.
August 11, 1868.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Incosed please find our rate o advertising. Yours, T. B. H. STENHOUSE,
Ed'r and Prop'r of Telegraph.

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.
TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken pills, I may say by the quart, also liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me so much? Well, I began taking it, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I felt got worse (agravated I say) but now I walked, I seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had made up my mind that it was of no use trying any more—and all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little pieces of it all jumbled together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling bad as I thought worse after bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that his passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have taken no more, or I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.

I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Rockville and in Connecticut. The advertisement saved me. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I can't write enough, I think I have said enough this time, so I remain your ever well-wisher, EDWARD L. HOWARD,

N. Y. S. VOL. INSTITUTE,
Corner of 5th av. and 76th st., Central Park.
(A Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu presented to this Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the care of our little Lieutenant A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chamber maid who has charge of his bedding.

I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent and Matron of Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering more from Weakness than from habit, may be spared punishment, that is (not knowing it as a weakness instead of a bad habit) most unjustly inflicted upon them. Thanking you on behalf of the children, and hoping others may be alike benefitted, I remain respectfully yours,

COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years from gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted one of my physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised Remedies without finding them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no Remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that induced me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physicians as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the Druggist, and many a poor child suffering more from Weakness than from habit, may be spared punishment, that is (not knowing it as a weakness instead of a bad habit) most unjustly inflicted upon them. Thanking you on behalf of the children, and hoping others may be alike benefitted, I remain respectfully yours,

COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years from gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted one of my physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised Remedies without finding them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no Remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that induced me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physicians as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the Druggist, and many a poor child suffering more from Weakness than from habit, I concluded to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might be only temporary, and therefore concluded to defer, and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,

Coughs,	Neuralgia,
Colds,	Headache,
Fevers,	Convulsions,
Agues,	Sleeplessness,
Biliousness,	Dyspepsia;
Constipation,	Liver Complaint,
Diarrhœa,	Consumption,
Female Weaknesses,
Fainting Fits,
Palpitation,
Restlessness,
Dizziness,
Children's Troubles
&c.,	&c., &c.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS [and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine to offend [or narcotize] your complaints, and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs whatsoever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.

Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.

Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap54w

Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.

Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fire of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap54w

CONGRESS.—The Senate on Thursday passed the Northern Pacific Railroad bill, authorizing the company to issue its bonds for the construction of its road and to secure the same by mortgage, by a vote of 40 to 11. A provise requiring the road to be built wholly of American iron or steel, was previously agreed to, 27 to 18.

The House in committee of the whole considered the Naval Appropriation bill, which appropriates $16,641,844, including the following principal articles. Pay of commissioned and warrant officers, $4,000,000; pay of petty officers and seamen, $2,550,000; contingent expenses, bureau of yards and docks, $800,000; equipment of vessels, $1,500,000; bureau of ordnance, $389,000; bureau of construction and repair, $3,585,000; bureau of steam engineering, $1,040,440; bureau of provisions and clothing, $884,000; bureau of medicine and surgery, $141,000; naval academy, $183,000; marine corps, $1,025,000.

Mr. Washburn of Wisconsin, in explaining the bill, said that the ships of the navy did no credit to the country at home or abroad. The position of the navy was most humiliating, the warships of the United States being the derision of the world. The committee on appropriations were unanimously of the opinion that before spending large sums of money for a class of vessels that were confessedly useless as cruisers, they should pause and consider the question of a future policy. He declared that the iron steamships of England could sweep from the ocean in 30 days what little American commerce was left, and it was well to consider whether the United States government ought not wisely to divert part of the money now spent for the navy for encouraging the building of vessels that would be useful in peace and in war. As to the question of the extension and improvement of navy yards, it would be considered in another bill. The English government is now having most of its work done in private yards, and he had no doubt that the work done in the navy yards] cost twice as much as it would in private yards.

Mr. Hale of Maine addressed the committee in defence of the Navy Department against the aspersions or insinuations of Messrs. Cox and Dawes and of the newspapers.

Mr. Morgan of Ohio asked Mr. Hale whether he was aware that the Secretary of the Navy had estimated for the pay of naval officers $2,000,000 more than their legal salaries?

Mr. Hale said he was not, and did not know anbody who was.

Mr. Morgan — I know it and will prove it.

Mr. Hale went on to compare the American navy with that of other nations, to thow its inferiority. He said the British navy had a total of 719 vessels, with a tonage of 600,000 tons; a proportionate tonnage to the commercial marine of one-eighth. The French navy consisted of 430 vessels, including fifty armored ships. The Russian fleet in the Baltic alone consisted of 81 vessels, with a tonnage of 112,637 tons,—nearly double the force of the whole American fleet in all its [squadrons. Spain had a navy of 128 vessels, and had now in the Cuban waters alone 61 vessels, mounting 560 guns—fifty per cent. more of a naval power than the United States could bring against her if all our squadrons were grouped together.

EPISCOPAL SERVICES.—The rite of Confirmation was administered at St. John's Church, Thursday evening, to ten applicants, the services and sermon on the occasion being by Bishop Clark of Rhode Island. There were beautiful floral decorations, and the event was highly enjoyed by a large audience. Bishop Clark, who is uncle to the Rector, stated that thirty years have passed, and a whole generation of men, since he last preached here — which must have been before the present Rector was born. His discourse was eloquent and impressive, and the beautiful confirmatory rites gracefully gone through with.

☞ We notice that some of our contemporaries, the New York Tribune among them, reckon New Hampshire among the States where "the exercise of the franchise has either been denied to colored citizens, or limited by property or other qualifications." But New Hampshire should be counted out of this list. She has never denied or limited the franchise in the case of such citizens. Let it be put to her credit that it was not to do away with illiberality in her laws, that the Fifteenth Amendment became requisite.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Help for the Miserable.

No wonder that the face of the dyspeptic has a dragged, worn, hopeless expression that is pitiful to see. No wonder that the miserable martyr to indigestion is fretful, irritable, and unsocial. Whoever can bear the pangs of this tormenting complaint cheerfully, and with an unruffled temper, is little short of a saint. But why should human fortitude continue to be thus severely tried, when an absolute specific for the disease is always at hand. Everywhere within the limits of civilization in this hemisphere, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is obtainable, and the history of the first case of dyspepsia in which it has been administered in vain, has yet to be written.

The sickness at the stomach, the sense of weakness and stupor, feeling of emptiness and hollowness before eating, and of oppression afterwards, the fluttering of the pulse, the intense nervous irritation, the morbid indisposition to exertion, the weariness of life, and indifference to all the pleasures, which are among the symptoms of the disease in its chronic form are rapidly ameliorated by the tonic operation of this palatable vegetable restorative, which seems to renovate and quicken all the dormant forces of the system, and rouse the mind from the apathy and gloom inseparable from a derangement of the digestive and secretive functions. In ordinary cases a few weeks suffices to complete the cure, but when the disease is complicated, as it often is, with torpidity of the liver, severe constipation, impurity of the blood, and a sluggish circulation, a longer time may be required. Perseverance, however, and the result is certain. An encouraging improvement will be perceptible from day to day, and the convalescent, knowing and feeling that he or she is on the high road to health, will await the happy issue with comparative patience.

PAIN KILLER.

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors, 1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor sect nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.]

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. mh12dawlm

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. Depot 10 Park Place, N. Y. mh12

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WCOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautiful black or brown. ☞ Friday was a pleasant day, and the sun was visible.

☞ Rev. Mr. Adams will repeat, by request, Sunday evening, in the North Church, his last Thanksgiving Sermon.

☞ We understand that the North Church in this city are about making a change in their arrangement of Sunday services,—having a Bible Service in the afternoon and Preaching in the evening.

☞ The Pearl St. F. W. Baptist and Court St. Christian Baptist Societies will unite in Baptizing from Noble's Island some 20 candidates, next Sabbath morning at a quarter before 6 o'clock.

BENEFIT CONCERT.—We learn that the various musical organizations of which Mr. Chas. H. Tompson is director, propose to give him a complimentary benefit about the first of May. Mr. Tompson has been prominent in organizing and directing musical talent for years, being conductor of the Stone Church choir for six years, leader of the Portsmouth Cornet Band for seven years and one of the prime movers in organizing the Philharmonic Society. We hope his benefit will be a big one and a decided pecuniary success. He will be assisted by the musical associations with which he is connected and probably by Mr. J. P. Cobb of Boston, the well known humorist.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE.—One for Rockingham County is to held in Portsmouth, commencing on the afternoon of the 25th inst. We regret that it is to be held so late in the season, several schools having commenced or being just to commence. We regret more that the notice is so short, and fear the attendance will be but small. But competent teachers have been engaged and we hope all teachers who possibly can, will be present and avail themselves of its benefits. Superintending Committees, parents and the friends of education in general will do well to attend.

From the imperfect manner in which Institutes were conducted in former years, confidence in them was lost. Lost confidence may be redeemed. We trust they will be of such a character that they will have the confidence of all. Institutes are very necessary and will be till we shall have a State Normal School, which we hope will be soon. EX-TEACHER.

OLD TIMES.—Nearly sixty years ago, we believe, among the apprentices employed in the Portsmouth Oracle office, (Mr. Charles Turell being the publisher,) were Charles Gordon Greene, of Concord—now senior publisher of the Boston Post; George W. Bazin, of Portsmouth, now a printer in Boston; and Thomas Spinney of Portsmouth, now living retired in South Boston.

Greene and Spinney were democrats, (as they are called now, but republicans then,) and Greene used to write sharp political articles for the Gazette, and being in the opposition office, he had good opportunity to know who were his opponents. Afterwards, when Mr. Greene (or Col. Greene) came to be Collector or Postmaster of Boston, he did not forget his old office-mates, but gave them and other Portsmouth boys good berths in the Post Office or Custom House.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

THE LATE MR. MILLER'S APPRENTICESHIP.—It has been stated that Mr. Miller served his apprenticeship at printing in the office of the Oracle at Portsmouth. This was the fifth News Paper published in the town. It commenced June 4, 1793, by Charles Pierce, and was called "The United States Oracle of the Day." In Jan., 1796, Wm. and Dan'l. Treadwell became publishers; afterwards Wm. Treadwell alone, till Sept., 1813, when Charles Turell became editor and publisher. The title was altered to "Oracle of New Hampshire," and later to "Portsmouth Oracle." Mr. Turell sold the paper to Tobias H. Miller, who changed the title to "The Portsmouth Journal of Literature and Politics."

There were other changes of proprietorship, and in 1825 Mr. Miller and the late Charles W. Brewster became proprietors, and continued 10 years. The name at some date became "Portsmouth Journal." It is still being published. J. F.

—When his physician asked him to "take a walk upon an empty stomach," Sidney Smith asked, "Upon whose?"

—If there is anything more annoying than a non-attentive waiter, it is a too attentive one.

THE FRESHET. — On the Northern Railroad, a bridge one hundred and eighty feet long is gone at Andover. The Concord & Claremont and Contoocook Valley roads are in a terrible condition, no trains having passed over them since Monday, and it is probable that they will not be in running order until next week. On the Concord & Claremont road, seventy-five yards of grades were washed away at Mastyard, while at Contoocookville the track is submerged and the streets of the village are navigable by boats.

As far as heard from the damage to highways, mills, dams, bridges, &c., in the country towns is very large. Bridges are reported gone in Deerfield, Epsom, and other towns, but owing to the bad condition of the roads, comparatively few towns have been heard from.

THE LEGAL TENDER CASES.—The Boston Advertiser's Washington special says:—

The withdrawal of the appeals in the legal-tender cases by the plaintiffs has caused a general feeling of relief. There is little doubt that if the recent decision had been reversed in the manner foreshadowed, there would have been a formidable political movement started to reverse the second decision by the addition of more judges, which would of course have entered into the next Presidential election. This movement had already taken some shape and embraced some of the most influential republicans in the country.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

BOSTON, April 21.

"The lost child has been found." That was the topic in this city yesterday. Words of gratitude were spoken on every hand. When the coach containing Mr. Burns and his little daughter left Court square, cheers went up from the crowd that had gathered so hastily upon the report that the child had been found. Tears of joy were upon the father's cheek, and the gamins who knew so little of parental care were enthusiastic in their demonstrations of delight.

This is a case that reaches far into every home. A little girl suddenly snatched away, in broad daylight, and kept secreted in the heart of the city for weeks, despite the vigorous search made by those stimulated by love, duty or the large rewards offered. Every family, high or low, rich or poor, feels the insecurity of their household if such an attempt to invade its sanctity be unpunished.

The traditional weather of April is upon us, around us, and down on us if we dare venture far away from our umbrellas. The Common is quite green, strawberries have ceased to be a novelty, early vegetables are quite abundant, and Crœsus can afford to look at the hot-house peaches in the fruit store windows.

I don't think I will emulate Mark Twain and edit an agricultural department for your paper, but I wish to mention the fact that I saw men plowing in this city on the 18th of March. The scene of the operation was on West street, and a very heavy furrow was turned, although four horses were required to draw the plough. I forgot to mention that it was snow the men were ploughing, preparatory to hauling it from the streets.

Mr. Joseph F. Paul, formerly of your vicinity, but now of the Bay State Wood Works, has received an order from a member of the firm of Baring Brothers & Co., in London, to fit up two rooms with black walnut and butternut. The plans were received by steamer. This is certainly a compliment to American industry.

The new postage stamps are very handsome, or at least the samples forwarded to this city. They could hardly fail to be an improvement on the wretched failures of the last issue.

Chelsea was visited recently by a "praying band," from Rochester, N.Y., (I think). After a few days the citizens concluded it was a preying band and threatened an indictment of the party as a nuisance, whereupon the missionaries abandoned the field.

MARRIAGES.

In this city, April 21st, by Rev. L. L. Harmon, GEORGE S. WHITE of Newcastle, and Miss ANDY HARDING of this city.

In Hampton, March 31st, by Rev. Mr. McLane, Mr. GEORGE MOULTON of Kensington and Mrs. ELIZABETH D. BERRY of Hampton, daughter of Capt. Nathan Godfrey. At the wedding were the father, mother and thirteen brothers and sisters of the bride. Three of the brothers served in the Union army during the Rebellion and were all honorably discharged.

DEATHS.

In Brickton, Ill., April 6th, Mr. TILTON FRENCH, aged 76. Mr. French was formerly well known in this and other towns in the County as a school teacher.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,

BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,

No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,

February 15th, 1870.

The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD Loans have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.

Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the

OF THE

Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional Eastand West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other.

The importance of this Road as a new outlet from the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.

Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.

Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.

The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 150 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.

Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.

Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.

The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1000, $500, and $100.

They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or

The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or

The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only the registered owner or his attorney.

The three classes will be known respectively as:

1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."

2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."

3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.

They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.

The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.

The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.

A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.

The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.

Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.

The present price is 90 and accrued interest.

A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be at once appreciated and quickly absorbed.

Very respectfully,

FISK & HATCH,

Bankers.

P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.

DOMESTIC WANTED, by Mrs. LYMAN, at No. 4 Austin Street.

* Now in the P.O. office of Samuel Wheeler

Morning Chronicle.

From the American Odd Fellow.

A NEW ENGLAND POET-NOOK.

BY JAMES K. MEDBERY.

An opulent literateur, with plenty of time and a taste for quiet topics, would find a rare field to work up in the characteristics and traditions of those genuine old Ports, lying, cobwebbed and inconspicuous, within the adjoining angles of three New England States. Portland, in the southwestern corner of Maine; Newburyport, in the northeastern corner of Massachusetts, and Portsmouth, New Hampshire, sandwiched in the center, are possessed of rich mines of personal anecdotes, curious reminiscences, and quaint legends, the odds and ends of local history, which, if duly explored and developed, would afford magnificent material to a writer.

Most especially is this true of Portsmouth. To people in general this ancient city is known merely as the seat of one of our national navy yards, and the only seaport of New Hampshire. But Mr. Brewster, a local historian, in highly interesting "Rambles," shows that there is a great deal more to be said about it. The place boasts, for instance, of being the second settlement in New England. It was founded, moreover, as Carthage and Marseilles, for the simple purpose of trade—the close communion and proscriptive principles of the Puritans having no place in the ideas of the earlier inhabitants. It was once the shrewdest and most driving of all the commercial ports of the country. There was more colonial court life in this place than anywhere else, except, perhaps, in Philadelphia. The first coach on this side the water, was imported by a citizen of Portsmouth. One of the earliest stage lines was projected from that city; the first almshouse in America was established there; and to-day it has the honor of publishing the oldest existing newspaper in the United States.

The old records, and the curious traditions of legislators, constitute a feature by themselves. Mr. Brewster's book overflows with romantic and humorous stories of the last century. The distinguished personages who have from time to time visited or resided in the city would make an entertaining chapter by itself. Portsmouth has had some celebrated guests in its day. Tallyrand, Louis Philippe, Washington, Lafayette, General Knox, Paul Jones—have traversed its shadow-haunted streets. Hancock, Gerry, Rutledge, and other signers of the great Declaration once found their way there. The distinguished jurist, Jeremiah Mason, made Portsmouth his home: and in Daniel Webster who resided in the town for nine years after entering the bar, he had no unworthy successor. The churches also, show some notable names on their list of pastors; Dr. Buckminster, one of the Cottons, Starr King, and Dr. Peabody, long editor of the North American Review, and now Plummer Professor of Christian Morals at Harvard College.

Not less notable is the aspect of the city and of its encircling neighborhood—a town of quaint streets and century-old houses, each with a definite legend, strange or grotesque; a beautiful environment of meadow, woodland, seaside, interlaced with elm-shadowed drives; a strong, deep sea-rushing river; and, lastly, the broad ocean which, from the roof of the "Athenæum," spreads out illimitable below the town, with the little islands of Captain John Smith glittering dimly on the edge of the horizon. A stranger of sentimental tendencies might not unwisely call it a fit home for poets.

How far accurate such a surmise might be, in reference to the body of the inhabitants, we can not undertake to say; but that the town has a certain claim in this direction, is shown in the book published some years since with the title of "Poets of Portsmouth." This curious volume contains the names of forty writers, and although the editors have given the word, poet, even a broader latitude than did Griswold in his "Poets of America," yet not a few of those whose selections grace the pages of the book evince genuine inspiration, while at least five have to a greater or less degree lifted themselves to the level of our national literature. Of these, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, James T. Fields, of the famous house of Fields, Osgood & Co., Boston, and B. P. Shillaber, the "Mrs. Partington" of the newspapers, are the most widely known. Wm. B. Tappan also stands prominent among the sacred poets of the country—his "Gethsemane," and "There is an Hour of Peaceful Rest," occupying a place in almost every collection of church psalmody.

Miss Harriet McEwen Kimball has also acquired a fine and enviable reputation by her exquisite volume of "Hymns," one of the happiest contributions to the realm of religious poetry which the century has witnessed. Some idea of the range of this lady's power may be formed from the following extract, taken from a secular poem entitled "Day Lilies:"

"O summer day,
Delay! delay!
One waving of thy beaming wing,
One stirring of thy hazy wing,
And noontide light and heat
Will find my dewy shadow-lair,
And burn the coolness from the grasses
That swathe my feet.
Its rank and billowy masses;
And to this classical twilight bring
The sun's profanest glare.

"O summer day,
Delay! delay!
Let naked hill and bare brown field
Parch in thy torrid rap,
So this dim nook be unrevealed,
Where I,
Deliciously concealed,
Among the lilies lie—
The delicate day lilies!

"The white and wonderful lilies!
My dark green haunt so still is,
The wildest birding dare not sing;
Nor insect heat a prisoned wing;
Nor zephyr lift the lightest thing—
Here, where the lustrous lilies,
The clear, resplendent lilies,
Pour out their heavenly sweet perfume,
And with their snowiness,
In cloisters chaste illume
This dark recess."

It is

"Soft-footed Silence, royal nun!"

who makes this exquisite appeal. The lilies are her holy cell, and the poet bids her ever linger there.

"Here, one by one
Tell o'er thy glistening beads,
A rosary strung on tangled weeds
And leaves and stems that intertwist.
The breath of lilies be thy prayer!
Sweet-colored, wafted unawares
Up through the morning's recent airs
And evening's pallid mist."

But the prayer of "Silence" is vain; the poet's wish is vain.

"A gleam, as of a crystal wand!
And day peers in with curious face;
The jealous sunshine, stealing round,
Doth warily chase
The cool, dark shadows on the ground.
The cloister walls no longer stand:
A garish glory fills the space,
And lights the lush grass, loose and long;
While, startled by the wild-bird's song,
Soft-footed Silence flees apace;
But still screens the lilies white,
Pure-fashioned, before her virginal shrine!"

Were ever the saltriness of a summer's noon, and the dewy coolness of woodland haunts, more admirably pictured forth? Nor is it merely among the flowers that Miss Kimball has proven herself of the true choral throng. She has, also, like Mrs. Browning, close human sympathies and a fervid patriotism—as when she sings, in the darkest days of the late war, of the mission of her own sex:

"The strong man arms him for the fight; he hears the bugle calling;
And while between the patriot shouts her tears
have time for falling,
Pale woman piles the threaded steel, nor shapes her lips to singing,
But still, with every stitch she draws, the pearls of prayer is stringing."

It may well be supposed that where poets are as thick as whortleberries, there must be a powerful creative cause, and this, as the reader will have already partially divined, lies in that evanescent something, which is vaguely expressed by such a phrase as—the spirit of the place. If Swinburne could succeed in bringing the old mythological vocabulary into vogue, we might readily make ourselves understood. But failing of classical help, we can only say that Portsmouth has an unusual capacity for producing strong local attachments, and for coercing its writers into frequent local allusion.

Aldrich, whose name belongs to the highest literature of the country; whose poetry is rich, tender, full of lyric outbursts, and remarkably free from anything like a provincial complexion (an assertion which will not hold good of some of our more-talked-of writers,) has never been able or willing to forget his birthplace. His earlier efforts, especially "The Bells," and "Pampinea," are replete with reminiscences of his early home. In "Paul Lynde's Sketch Book," a part of that charming volume "Out of His Head," there are at least two stories, the scenes of which are laid in or about his native town. His late clever publication, called the "Story of a Bad Boy," derives its scenes, plot, and personal touches from Portsmouth. Yearsago, when he wrote "Pampinea," he must have had a dreamy remembrance of Rye Beach, a watering place near the old city. Of the heroine of the poem it is noted that—

"On a ledge of coltie, half in sand,
She stood and looked as Apheloire."

In those young days he must have been as thoroughly under the sway of the reveries as the author of "Hasheesh," or he would not have begun his poem with—

"Chalky cliffs and miles of sand,
Mossy reefs and salty caves,
There the sparkling emerald waves
Faded."

"Miles of sand" there surely are along the Rye sea-marge; but for "chalky cliffs" Mr. Aldrich must have looked in vain even with the best London spy-glass. Perhaps, however, there was floating in his mind the story of old John Alcock, a Portsmouth trader, who once attempted to sell off his stock of chalk by advertising that the chalk-maker of England was dead, and that consequently there would soon be a scarcity in the market!

But it is not to the author of the "Ballad of Babie Bell," nor to any one as yet mentioned, to whom the title of the poet of Portsmouth is to be ascribed. This name belongs, by virtue of the pre-eminent local coloring and feeling of his poems to Mr. Albert Laighton, a gentleman who has given to party, or rather, to the dry routine of a government office, what was meant for the world. We give below one or two stanzas from a poem of his, entitled "My Native River"—premising that the first line of the piece is fine fact as well as fine poetry; the Piscataqua being really an estuary fed by the sea—a sort of American frith and no river at all:

"Like an azure vein from the heart of the main,
Pulsing out and back
By venturous tides with dimpled smiles,
Floweth my native river.

"Singing a song as it flows along,
Hushed by the ice-king never;
For he strives in vain to clasp a chain
O'er thy fetterless heart, brave river!

"Singing to me as full and free
As it sang to the dusky daughters,
When the light canoe, like a sea bird, flew
Over its peaceful waters.

"Or when, by the shore of Sagamore,
They joined in their mystic dances,
Where the lover's vow is whispered now,
By the light of maiden glances."

Next to the river, the ocean is close to the poet's soul.

"The Ocean sang to my heart last night,
When I folded my hands to rest,
A song as sweet as a mother sings
To the child upon her breast.

"But to-day it wails like a funeral dirge
As they toll in the quiet town,
How the English ship, in sight of land,
With a hundred souls went down!"

We regret that it is impossible to give Mr. Laighton's beautiful ballad of "Ruth Blay," and that several other illustrative poems must be omitted; but our restricted limits compel us to simply reassert his right to the laureateship without further proof.

The editors of the "Poets of Portsmouth" quote from the privately printed volume of Mr. Field's poems which must be our excuse for an allusion that otherwise might be one of questionable propriety. One of the selections is the "Ballad o' the Tempest," so frequently sung in bygone days by the Hutchinson Family; a ringing, touching song, which invariably brought tears in the eyes of the audience, and was sure of being called for again and again. Another excerpt, entitled "Lot Skinner's Elegy," has a fine satirical flavor:

"Lot Skinner was the meanest man
That ever saved his neck:
He grudged the very breath he drew,
As if it were a check.

"When he was in the grocer line,
And turning fruit to gold,
He'd bite a raisin straight in halves,
To make the weight be sold.

"He welcomed in the rising moon—
'Twas such a cheerful light;
For then he'd blow the candle out,
And use the gratis light.

"At last, it cost so much to live
(Per day some twenty cents)—
I won't stand this!" he inly groaned,
And died to save expense."

Portsmouth, indeed, has given birth to a fair quota of satirists. Thus, in Shillaber's "Benevolence:"

"A benevolent man was Absalom Bess:
At each and every tale of distress,
He blazed right up like a rocket;
He felt for all who needed poverty's smart
Were doomed to bear life's roughest part:
He felt for them in his inmost heart,
But never felt—in his pocket."

So, quaint Jonathan M. Sewall, a master of epigram, "On a Quack who died of Asthma:"

"Here lies death's caterer, breathless with the phthisic.
Who lived by what killed all his patients—phiziz."

Mr. Edward P. Nowell is in the list of the Portsmouth poets, and the readers of the AMERICAN ODD FELLOW do not need to be told that his reputation has already very thoroughly outgrown provincial limits.

Among the minor poets, are Drown, whose early and painful blindess gives to his verses an extrinsic charm; Kennard, who died before his prime, and whose volume of "Remains" recieved a very favorable notice in the old N. Y. Literary World; Nathaniel Appleton Haven, likewise reviewed in the same paper; and finally, Mary Cutts, author of "Grondella" a poem that has run through two editions, and of which Park Benjamin ventured to say that it compared favorably with Tennyson's "Enoch Arden." The writer of the present paper does not feel called upon to endorse this opinion; nor yet to explain why the editors have refrained in their book from all mention of Henry Goddard, Esq., a native of Portsmouth, who published in Portland, Maine, a poem called "The World's Catastrophe; an Essay of Imagination with Revelation in View." There is, to be sure, no great novelty in the subject, and the author has unwittingly placed himself in contrast with Pollok and "Satan" Montgomery; but it is something to know that an epical imagination once hovered over the city.

HOW TO GET FAT.—It is a striking fact that most persons want to weigh more than they do, and measure their health by their weight, as if a man were a pig, valuable in proportion to his heaviness. The racer is not fat; a good plough horse has but a moderate amount of flesh. Heavy men are not those which experienced contractors employ to build railroads and dig ditches. This man, the world over, are the men for work, for endurance; they are wiry and hardy; thin people live longest; the truth is, fat is a disease, and, as proof, fat people are never well a day at a time,—are not suited for hard work.

Still, there is a medium between being fat as a butterball and as thin and juiceless as a fence-rail. For mere looks, a moderate rotundity is most desirable, to have enough of flesh to cover all angularities. To accomplish this in the shortest time, a man should work but little, sleep a great part of the time, allow nothing to worry him, keep always in a joyous, laughing mood, and live chiefly on albuminates, such as boiled cracked wheat, and rye, and oats, and corn, and barley, with sweet milk, and buttermilk, and meats. Sugar is the best fattener known.

How Much to Eat.—The answer to the question how much to eat, depends so largely on the circumstances of age, sex, season, latitude, and employment, that it would be impracticable to name any amount as applicable to the majority of any class of persons; in fact, it is one of those questions which each man should aim to answer for himself, that answer being founded on his own close observation and sound judgment. The following rules, however, will perhaps meet all cases as to general habits:

1. Eat at regular specified times, and at no others.

2. Hard workers, especially those who are most of the time in the open air, should eat as much as they want at breakfast and dinner.

3. Those who are in-doors most of the time, as women, literary men, and students, should never eat full as much as they want. This would be a safe rule for all sick persons also.—[From Dr. Hall's Health by Good Living. Published by Hurd & Houghton.

DINNER TIME should be at Noon, as to the great masses of society. An unfortunate necessity may impel some business men in the large cities to take dinners late in the afternoon, and some may follow the practice with apparent impunity; but the risk and responsibility are their own, and there it is left, at least for the present. As a common thing, persons cannot take into the stomach more food than will last six or seven hours; if more is taken, it can not be acted upon to advantage by the stomach, nor can the person work well.

Ordinary labor exhausts the strength contained in a common meal in the time specified. Persons may habituate themselves to eat more and to work more; but taking everything into account, families, consisting of old and young, of strong and weak, of the robust and the sickly, will find it most convenient, as an average, to eat at about six hour's interval; and this, with an early breakfast, brings the dinner at noon.

The work since breakfast whets up the appetite for dinner; the work after dinner grinds up the food, manipulates it in such a manner as to enable the body not only to obtain from it the power to work in the afternoon, but to give something of a surplus, to answer the wants of the system during the night, in connection with a light supper. Hence, the world over, the noon dinner is the great meal of the day; it supplies the wastes of the forenoon's work, and, as just said, gives power to labor through the afternoon.—From Dr. Hall's Health by Good Living. Published by HURD & HOUGHTON.

CONCERNING DOGS.—A yelping cur owned by a citizen of this State has just cost his master $150, that sum having been paid by him to a man whose horse was frightened by the barking of the dog. A jury of twelve men so decided in a case tried in Manchester last week. The action was brought under that provision of the Statute found in Chapter 105, Section 7 of the Revised Statutes as follows:

Any person to whom or whose property and damage may be occasioned by a dog not owned or kept by said person shall be entitled to recover of the party who owns or keeps, or has said dog in possession, all damages which may be occasioned, except in cases where the same has been occasioned to the party suffering such damage while engaged in the commission of a trespass.

It appeared at the trial that the plaintiff was driving on the highway where the dog frightened the horse, causing him to run away, and things were generally smashed. Although it was proved that the dog was young and was not in the habit of assailing travellers, the court instructed the jury that this made no difference, for if the dog was owned or kept by any person, he was liable for all damage which might result from his conduct.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention of the incontinence of urine. From a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

TESTIMONY.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to inform you that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,
ECCLES & HINKLE, Druggists.

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with "so hard." I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as my self, to state that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated Kidney and bladder disease, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found sufficient unpeasable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and in humble suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,
D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER
is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the different Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold:

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or know to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have tested it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,
140 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.
August 11, 1865.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Incosed please find our rate of advertising. Yours, T. B. H. STENHOUSE,
Ed'r and Prop'r of Telegraph.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken nearly three quarts of their, so-called medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it, thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me much? Well, I began taking it, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I still got worse (according, I say to myself). When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had taken the second, that I had made up my mind it was of no use trying any more—and all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I got up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest piece of gravel you ever saw. I covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling so badly. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that time I have passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.

I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement saved me. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I could not do more than I think I have said enough this time, so I remain your ever well-wisher, EDWARD L. HOWARD,

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted our family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised Remedies to the detriment of my purse, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no Remedies but those recommended by our physicians. It was this that prompted me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the Druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might not be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer; and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using four bottles of your Extract. I have not used any new for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,

Cough,	Neuralgia,	Female Weaknesses,
Colds,	Headache,	Fainting Fits,
Fevers,	Convulsions,	Palpitation,
Agues,	Sleeplessness,	Restlessness,
Biliousness,	Dyspepsia,	Dizziness,

Constipation, Liver Complaint, Clubfoot, Troubles Diarrhœa, Consumption, &c., &c., &c.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no poisonous mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs whatever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.

Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.

Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5w

Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.

Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health, and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5w

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Help for the Miserable.

No wonder that the face of the dyspeptic has a dragged, worn, hopeless expression that is pitiful to see. No wonder that the miserable martyr to indigestion is fretful, irritable, and unsocial. Whoever can bear the pangs of this tormenting complaint cheerfully, and with an unruffled temper, is little short of a saint. But why should human fortitude continue to be thus severely tried, when an absolute specific for the disease is always at hand. Everywhere within the limits of civilization in this hemisphere, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is obtainable, and the history of the first case of dyspepsia in which it has been administered in vain, has yet to be written.

The sickness at the stomach, the sense of weakness and stupor, feeling of emptiness and hollowness before eating, and repletion afterwards, the fluttering of the pulse, the intense nervous irritation, the morbid indisposition to exertion, the weariness of life, and indifference to all its pleasures, which are among the symptoms of this disease in its chronic form are rapidly ameliorated by the tonic operation of this palatable vegetable restorative, which seems to renovate and quicken all the dormant forces of the system, and rouse the mind from the apathy and gloom inseparable from a derangement of the digestive and secretive functions. In ordinary cases a few weeks suffices to complete the cure, but when the disease is complicated, as it often is, with torpidity of the liver, severe constipation, impurity of the blood, and a sluggish circulation, a longer time may be required. Persevere, however, and the result is certain. An encouraging improvement will be perceptible from day to day, and the convalescent, knowing and feeling that he or she is on the high road to health, will await the happy issue with comparative patience.

PAIN KILLER.

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors,
1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proposed claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.
Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.]

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT.

mh16dawlm

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many stated if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. Depot 10 Park Place, N. Y.

For Moth Patches, Freckles and Tan,

USE "PERRY'S MOTH & FRECKLE LOTION." The only Reliable and Harmless Remedy known to Science for removing brown discolorations from the Face. Prepared only by Dr. B. C. PERRY, 49 Bond St., N. Y. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

Pimples on the Face.

For Comedones, Black-Heads, Flesh Worms or Grubs, Pimply Eruptions and Blotched Disfigurations on the Face, use Perry's Comedone and Pimple Remedy. Reliable, Harmless, and contains no Lead poison. Depot, 49 Bond St., N. Y. Sold by all Druggists everywhere. 2mdawmh10

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. TORRANCE, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says; "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautifully black or brown. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 6 Bond Street, New York.

☞ A correspondent at Gosport, Isles of Shoals, regrets that their pastor, Rev. D. W. Barber, is to close his labors with them the coming month. He has been a faithful missionary, performing his many duties with true christian zeal for a year. Prayer meetings have increased from one a week, to three; a young folks' meeting was organized and conducted every Monday evening, when they were taught singing and other useful knowledge; a Sunday morning prayer meeting was called and continued during the year; the Sunday School has been made particularly interesting by him; and the religious interest of the people has greatly increased under his preaching and through his influence.

In our Saturday's list of New Publications, we mentioned the Nunnery as a beautiful Magazine for youngest readers. Types play queer tricks sometimes, and in this case the change of two letters has given a name as wide as the poles from the one meant, viz., Nursery; a place as much better and more beautiful than any nunnery is or can be, as the little periodical of the name is than the queer old brown paper books which used to be provided for children half a century ago. In truth, even in this age of beautifully illustrated books, it would be hard to find any surpassing some numbers of this little magazine. Mr. Foster is the agent for Portsmouth.

☞ The public schools have a vacation this week, during the session of the Teachers' Institute, instead of a week's vacation in May. We don't think it will injure the teachers or scholars if a week additional in May shall be given them. It's rather a poor exchange from a May vacation to one in April—a month of showers and disagreeable weather.

NAVAL.—The U. S. steamer Frolic arrived at this station Saturday morning; after coaling she will proceed to the British American waters, to look after the interests of our fishermen in that quarter. She was formerly the blockake runner A. D. Vance; is iron built, and said to steam eighteen knots.

SUNCOOK.—The Pittsfield Times says a foundry is being built near the depot by a gentleman from Portsmouth by the name of Williston. The office and practice of the late J. E. Stanyan, Esq., have been taken by John B. Haselline, Esq., late of Portsmouth.

APPOINTMENT.—We hear that Mr. William O. Sides of this city has received an appointment as Inspector in the Boston Custom House.

☞ Betton & Co. sell at auction at noon to-day, House Nos. 14 and 16 Hanover Street.

☞ First Assistant Engineer A. H. Able has been detached from the Plymouth and placed on waiting orders.

S. J. COURT, EXETER.—The action James Lenihan vs. Michael Shehan, and Portsmouth Savings Bank, (Trustees,) to recover $90, alleged to have been wrongfully taken from plf., Shehan claiming that he took the money by direction of its owner, his sister, Lenihan's wife, (now deceased,) to be sent to her mother in Ireland, resulted in a verdict of $116.50 for Lenihan.

Ira H. Woodman vs. Town of Nottingham was next on trial.

A robbery was perpetrated at the Great Falls Post Office, Wednesday night, the robbers entering by a back window. About $50 in money and $75 worth of postage stamps were stolen. The money was in a pocket book that was concealed in a closet—$25 of it being for a registered letter, put into the office that evening by a lady.

The Dover Bee understands there is a new branch of business started on the Landing, namely, pleasure boat building, the editor having seen a fine specimen.

☞ A well known railroad man and ex-governor of Maine, a few days since, was enjoying a quiet shave in one of the barber shops in Augusta, intending to leave in the next train that was then about due. The locomotive whistle sounded when the operation was about half through, and a person entering the shop informed the gentleman that the train had just started from the depot. With hat and carpet bag in hands, and a week's growth of beard on one side of his face, the venerable ex-governor started upon a run for the receding train. His situation was observed by the conductor, and although time, tide and railroad trains generally wait for no man, the engine was reversed and the half shaved individual taken on board, where he was the observed of all observers.

MARRIAGES.

In this city, Thursday afternoon, April 21st, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. Geo. M. Adams, Mr. ELIAS R. EMERY of Boston, and Miss ADELAIDE B. ADAMS, youngest daughter of His Honor Mayor J. B. Adams of this city.

In Rochester, C. W. TEBBETS of Berwick, Me., and MARTHA TAPPAN of Brookfield.——JAMES A. KAY and MARGARET M. MARDEN, both of Rochester.

DEATHS.

In Eliot, Me., April 23, suddenly, MRS. HANNAH S. KENNEY, widow of the late Capt. Joshua W. Kenney, who sailed from this port in about the year 1832 on a sealing voyage to the Falkland Islands in the schooner Samuel Atkins, and was never heard from. Mrs. Kenney was much beloved by a large circle of friends who will miss the cheering influence which always shed its light about her path, and made life pleasant to those within its reach. Funeral this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In Kennebunk, after a short sickness, Mr. FRANCIS FISHER, aged 54 years.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,
BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES,
No. 5 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,
February 15th, 1870.
The remarkable success which attended our negotiation of the Loans of the CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY and the WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD LOANS have maintained in the markets, both in this country and Europe, have shown that the First Mortgage Bonds of wisely located and honorably-managed Railroads are promptly recognized and readily taken as the most suitable, safe, and advantageous form of investment, yielding a more liberal income than can hereafter be derived from Government Bonds, and available to take their place.
Assured that, in the selection and negotiation of superior Railroad Loans, we are meeting a great public want, and rendering a valuable service—both to the holders of Capital and to those great National works of internal improvement whose intrinsic merit and substantial character entitle them to the use of Capital and the confidence of investors—we now offer with special confidence and satisfaction the
OF THE
Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, connecting the Atlantic coast and the magnificent harbors of the Chesapeake Bay with the Ohio River at a point of reliable navigation, and thus, with the entire Railroad system and water transportation of the great West and Southwest, forms the additional East and West Trunk Line, so imperatively demanded for the accommodation of the immense and rapidly-growing transportation between the Atlantic seaboard and Europe on the one hand, and the great producing regions of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the other.
The importance of this Road as a new outlet fi om the West to the sea magnifies it into one of national consequence, and insures to it an extensive through traffic from the day of its completion; while, in the development of the extensive agricultural and mineral resources of Virginia and West Virginia, it possesses, along its own line, the elements of a large and profitable local business.
Thus the great interests, both general and local, which demand the completion of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD to the Ohio River, afford the surest guarantee of its success and value, and render it the most important and substantial Railroad enterprise now in progress in this Country.
Its superiority as an East and West route, and the promise of an immense and profitable trade awaiting its completion, have drawn to it the attention and co-operation of prominent Capitalists and Railroad men of this City, of sound judgment and known integrity, whose connection with it, together with that of eminent citizens and business men of Virginia and West Virginia, insures an energetic, honorable and successful management.
The Road is completed and in operation from Richmond to the celebrated White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, 227 miles, and there remain but 200 miles (now partially constructed) to be completed, to carry it to the proposed terminus on the Ohio river at, or near, the mouth of the Big Sandy river, 150 miles above Cincinnati, and 250 miles below Pittsburg.
Lines are now projected or in progress through Ohio and Kentucky to this point, which will connect the Chesapeake and Ohio with the entire Railroad systems of the West and Southwest, and with the Pacific Railroad.
Its valuable franchises and superior advantages will place the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY among the richest and most powerful and trustworthy corporations of the country; and there exists a present value in completed road and work done, equal to the entire amount of the mortgage.
The details of the Loan have been arranged with special reference to the wants of all classes of investors, and combine the various features of convenience, safety, and protection against loss or fraud.
The Bonds are in denominations of
$1000, $500, and $100.
They will be issued as Coupon Bonds, payable to Bearer, and may be held in that form; or
The Bond may be registered in the name of the owner, with the coupons remaining payable to bearer attached, the principal being then transferable only on the books of the Company, unless re-assigned to bearer; or
The coupons may be detached and cancelled, the Bond made a permanent Registered Bond, transferable only on the books of the Company, and the interest made payable only the registered owner or his attorney.
The three classes will be known respectively as:
1st. "Coupon Bonds payable to Bearer."
2d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons attached."
3d. "Registered Bonds with Coupons detached," and should be so designated by Correspondents in specifying the class of Bonds desired.
They have thirty years to run from January 15, 1870, with interest at six per cent per annum from November 1, 1869. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW-YORK.
The interest is payable in MAY and NOVEMBER, that it may take the place of that of the earlier issues of Five-Twenties, and suit the convenience of our friends who already hold Central and Western Pacific Bonds, with interest payable in January and July, and who may desire, in making additional investments, to have their interest receivable at different seasons of the year.
The Loan is secured by a mortgage upon the entire Line of Road from Richmond to the Ohio River, with the equipment and all other property and appurtenances connected therewith.
A SINKING FUND OF $100,000 PER ANNUM IS PROVIDED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF THE BONDS, TO TAKE EFFECT ONE YEAR AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE ROAD.
The mortgage is for $15,000,000, of which $2,000,000 will be reserved and held in trust for the redemption of outstanding Bonds of the Virginia Central Railroad Company, now merged in the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO.
Of the remaining $13,000,000, a sufficient amount will be sold to complete the road to the Ohio river, perfect and improve the portion now in operation, and thoroughly equip the whole for a large and effective traffic.
The present price is 90 and accrued interest.
A Loan so amply secured, so carefully guarded and so certain hereafter to command a prominent place among the favorite securities in the market, both of this Country and Europe, will be just appreciated and quickly absorbed.
Very respectfully,
FISK & HATCH,
Bankers.
P. S.—We have issued pamphlets containing full particulars, statistical details, maps, etc., which will be furnished upon application.
☞ We buy and sell Government Bonds, and receive the accounts of Banks, Bankers, Corporations, and others, subject to check at sight, and allow interest on daily balances. 22d

DOMESTIC WANTED, by Mrs. LYMAN, at No. 1 Austin Street.

TO THE HON. JUDGE OF PROBATE

FOR the County of ROCKINGHAM.
Respectfully represents ABRAHAM G. WENDELL, Executor of the will of JOHN G. CORNELIUS late of Portsmouth in said County, deceased, that the Personal Estate of said deceased is not sufficient to pay the just demands against his estate by the sum of seven hundred dollars, and that said deceased died seized of a certain lot of land with the dwelling house thereon situated in said Portsmouth, bounded northerly by land owned by the heirs of the late JOHN RIDER, easterly by land formerly of WILLIAM STAVERS now owned by the heirs of the late THOMAS D. BAILEY, southerly by Jefferson Street, and westerly by land formerly of STEPHEN CHASE and others, now in the occupation of Mrs. SARAH CHASE, and that all of said Estate will be required to pay said debts and a part thereof cannot be sold without injury to the persons therein interested.
Wherefore he prays that he may be licensed to sell at Public Auction the whole of said Real Estate of said deceased above described, agreeable to the Statute in such case provided as may be sufficient for the payment of said demands. The tenth day of April 11, A. D., 1870. A. G. WENDELL, Executor, by his Att'y, WILLIAM H. HACKETT.

State New Hampshire, Rockingham, ss.
Probate Office at Exeter, in said County April 11, A. D., 1870.
Upon the foregoing Petition, it is Ordered, that a hearing be had thereon at a Court of Probate to be holden at Portsmouth in said County, on the second Tuesday of May next; and that the Petitioner notify the heirs of said deceased and all persons concerned or interested therein, to appear at said Court and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, by causing said petition and this order to be published three weeks successively in the Daily Chronicle, a newspaper printed at Portsmouth in said County, the last publication whereof to be at least one week prior to said Court.
By order of the Judge.

EASTERN AND B. & M. RAILROADS. The Special Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature on Cheap Transportation by Railway, met at the State House to consider the report of the State Commission on the subject.

Edward Crane appeared first before the Committee, and presented his well-known views. He contended that consolidation in railroads was the order of the day, and that Massachusetts had got to adopt the principle. This he said would unite a large financial interest under one management, and create a moneyed and political power that would make itself felt whenever it was encroached upon.

Referring to the recommendation in the report of a union of the Boston & Maine and Eastern Railroads, he said they were asked to unite two railroad corporations, which, running through pretty much the same section of the country in parallell lines, have long carried on competition with each other.

He gave a history of these roads, showing the extent to which this competition has been carried, and the injury which has been done to the community by this and by their system of levying taxes on them. He advocated the union of these roads, on the ground that they should become a public corporation in fact, and that these highways should become free ways at the earliest possible day.

His plan—as subsequently presented—is to have the two roads consolidated and three millions of additional stock issued; this additional stock to be presented to the State. The State is to run the united corporation by means of thirty corporators, to be appointed by the Legislature, who are to choose from this number a board of five directors. They are to pay to the present stockholders a dividend of 7 per cent. The dividend on the 3,000,000 belonging to the State is to be formed into a sinking fund, which will in the course of about twenty-one years be sufficient to pay for the whole road, which is then to be purchased by the Commonwealth.

Mr. Brown of the Eastern road was the first witness called. He said the subject of the union of these roads was a matter that had received more or less of consideration at various times, but not in a formal manner until last autumn. When the question of joining with the Lowell road in taking property for a terminus, came up for consideration, it was suggested by some members of the Board that they had better bring the matter of a union with the Boston & Maine before the Board of Directors. He did so, and was requested to bring the matter before the other corporation in a letter which he now read to the Committee. The witness gave the details of the negotiation, the last phase of which was a proposition by the Boston & Maine to buy the Eastern road.

He thought if the two roads were united under one management, a saving of ten to fifteen per cent. could be made on the rates, and quite as large dividends be paid to the stockholders as they at present received. In regard to Mr. Crane's plans he had not examined them sufficiently to be able to give an answer. He thought the men appointed on the Commission proposed would be political men. If the two roads were united the depot of the Maine road would be sufficient for passenger purposes; but he did not think that would warrant this road in giving up any of their present property.

Col. George appeared for the purpose of correcting an impression in regard to their position, and said their road would go on with the building of their new depot in this city without regard to the action of other roads.

Mr. Appleton of the Commission thought Mr. Crane's proposition was the best he had seen, the only danger in it being the selection of the corporation. The hearing then adjourned.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF A STOLEN MARE.—In September last, the well known trotting mare "Belle of Boston," the property of Mr. Lon Morris, was stolen from a pasture in Brighton, and although a reward of $250 was offered for her recovery, the owner was unsuccessful in securing her return until Wednesday morning, when, as Mr. Morris was riding in a Washington St. coach, he espied the animal in the shafts of a milk wagon, driven by a German of the Highland District. Mr. Morris accompanied the driver to the Second Police Station, where he proved his claim. The German satisfactorily accounted for his possession of the mare, which was by purchase of a neighbor for ninety dollars. He stated that he had driven her through Boston twice a day since the purchase. The neighbor asserted that he bought the mare in Brighton, and officers are now busy in tracing her several transfers to the thief. The mare is a very valuable animal, $2000 having been refused for her.

NEW ENGLAND FAIR TO BE HELD AT MANCHESTER.—At a meeting of the New England Agricultural Society, held at Manchester, N. H., it was decided to hold the great fair of the society in that city on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 6, 7, 8, 9. Col. M. V. B. Edgerly of that city was chosen Chief Marshal, and Col. George W. Biddle, the Treasurer of the Society, was appointed General Superintendent.

FOUND EACH OTHER OUT QUICK.—At Biddeford, as a gentleman and lady were returning in a carriage after having the "knot" tied by the residence of a clergyman, the horse being quite lively, upset the happy couple; and although they escaped injury, they were covered with mud, and the gentleman's beaver was a beetle flattened.

A REMINISCENCE.—In the year 1840 there were but two pieces of artillery in this city. One was a small brass field-piece, belonging to the old Columbian Artillery, which made but a wretched report compared with the ear-splitting detonation of the other—a large, iron twelve-pounder, as unwieldy as the one now standing in front of the State House. Two nights prior to the seventeenth of June, when the famous "log cabin and hard cider" procession in honor of the nomination of Gen. Harrison came off, a party of youthful Democrats possessed themselves of both pieces and "boosted" the lesser one up stairs into the Patriot office.

The same night, for it was in the stilly watches that both were stolen, the big gun was transported to a secluded, woody dell, called "Paradise," opposite what is now Blossom Hill Cemetery, where

"By the struggling moonbeam's misty light,
And the lantern dimly burning,"

it was buried and half a dozen cords of fence rails laid over the spot to conceal the fact of any inhumation. But a premature resurrection came about, for sharp Whig noses had smelled out the secret, and over this metal carcass the eagles gathered together.

At early dawn, the piece was dug up and brought down town again. When the Democrats found themselves balked in point of concealment, they made strong but futile efforts to make the fact of possession vain by spiking the piece. The gun was carried to Kent's Hill, near the present residence of Judge Sargent, then an open pasture, with scarcely a house upon it west of Green and between Pleasant and Centre streets; and in order to preclude any possibility of its being spiked in the night, a young man of twenty-nine years, who was one of a large delegation from Keene, then encamped upon the hill, named "Bob Wilson," volunteered to be strapped to the ponderous mass and sleep there all the night preceding the celebration—which was accordingly done.

That loud-mothed gun jarred horribly on Democratic ears all the next day. Col. Robert Wilson of Keene, whose decease we chronicled a day or two since, was the young man who spent the night in such a novel position.—Concord Patriot.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

OUR SHOE MANUFACTURE.—It swells much satisfaction thatwe record the evidence of the growth of this branch of business here. We are informed that while it is elsewhere generally dull, and the manufactories of Lynn and other places are reducing the amount of their production, Mr. Nowell has been obliged this week to make quite an increase to his working force, and that he is taking advantage of the depression of business in other places to secure first class workmen in order to meet the increased demand for his goods. We have been shown this week a superb article of, "Bon Ton Congress" boots turned out at his factory, than which none more handsome will find their way into either the Boston or New York markets.

We are pleased to learn that Messrs. A. F. & C. Davis are increasing their business in the manufacture of slippers, finding a ready market for all the goods they can make.

NEW HAMPSHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.—At last we have a stock Fire Ins. Company established on a solid basis in our own state—The New Hampshire Fire Insurance Company, starts off with one hundred thousand dollars cash capital, a long list of influential stockholders, a competent Board of Directors—experienced officers and a corps of efficient agents.

The people know but little about foreign companies, and doubt the security of Mutual Companies, and the popular current will gladly teem towards this new enterprise which seems to possess all the elements of stability and success.

The list of officers and Directors advertised in another column will give reputation and standing, and secure the patronage of the property holders in New Hampshire.

CHURCH COMMUNION.—A paragraph that has for several months been in the papers was copied into the Journal last week, stating that a majority of the members of the Piscataqua Association of Congregational Churches have expressed themselves in favor of extending an invitation to the Lord's Supper, based upon Christian character rather than upon church-membership.

This is, we learn, incorrect. A few of the clergymen of that denomination in an informal manner at a meeting of some of the ministers, rather favored a liberal view of the question, but the number is far from a majority.

The subject of open communion is becoming extensively agitated among the Calvin Baptists.

The first direct importation into this market by Portsmouth merchants for a long time, is now on the way from Liverpool for Messrs. C. E. Walker & Co., of a cargo of Liverpool coarse salt, by ship Trident.

This young firm have recently occupied Pier wharf in connection with the one formerly held by them, and intend carrying on the salt business in addition to their coal business. See their advertisement.

THE ASHES OF LIFE.

Ten o'clock, and the echoes
Die out in the silent hall,
And I shade my eyes from the firelight
That shadows the parlor wall.
Over there in the corner,
A gleam in the dancing light,
Still precious beyond all telling,
Lie the letters I burn to-night.

The parting is hard, my treasures,
It will darken my life, I know,
The dream I have dreamed was a folly,
It is better to let you go.
And I brush from my throbbing temples
The heavy, clinging hair,
And smother my anguish, trying
To believe I do not care.

I gather them all together,
Not heeding, though tear-drops roll,
Though the chime of gladsome memory
Is ringing through my soul.
I gather them all together,
My idols, which proved but clay—
Red flames tenderly fold them,
They are burning my heart away.

They drop from my quivering fingers
Into the flame's dull roar,
And I know that my dream is ended
Forever and evermore.
The dreaded task is over,
Uttered the last good-bye,
And the smoke of my burning incense
Floats up to the blind, black sky.

NECESSITY OF SLEEP. — There are thousands of busy people who die every year for want of sleep. Sleeplessness becomes a disease, and is the precursor of insanity. We speak of sleep as the image of death, and our waking hours as the image of life. Sleep is not like death; for it is the period in which the waste of the system ceases, or is reduced to its minimum. Sleep repairs the waste which waking hours have made. It rebuilds the system. The night is the repair-shop of the body. Every part of the system is silently overhauled, and all the organs, tissues, and substances are replenished. Waking consumes and exhausts; sleep replaces and repairs; waking is death, sleep is life.

The man who would be a good worker must be a good sleeper. A man has as much force in him as he had provided for in sleep. The quality of mental activity depends upon the quality of sleep. Men need on an average eight hours a day. A lymphatic man is sluggish, moves and sleeps slowly. But a nervous man acts quickly in everything. He does more in an hour than a sluggish man in two hours; and so in his sleep. Every man must sleep according to his temperament—but eight hours is the average. Whoever by work, pleasure and sorrow, or by any other cause, is regularly diminishing his sleep, is destroying his life. A man may hold out for a time, but the crash will come, and he will die.

There is a great deal of intemperance besides that of tobacco, opium, or brandy. Men are dissipated who overtax their system all day and undersleep every night. A man who dies of delirium tremens is no more of a drunkard and a suicide than the minister, the lawyer, the merchant, the editor, or the printer who works excessively all day, and sleeps but little all night.—H. W. Beecher.

NEW SHERIFF. — Caleb Moulton, Esq., of Hampstead, was nominated as Sheriff of Rockingham county at an Executive session of the Governor and Council held in the Council Chamber in this city Tuesday. The appointment was to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Joseph P. Morse, Esq., of Portsmouth. There were two applicants for the position, James W. Odlin, Esq., of Exeter, and Capt. Isaiah L. Dustin, of Derry, both of whom were strongly recommended by their friends.

Considerable interest was manifested in this appointment, and many leading men from the country were here at work for their favorite candidates. Hon. Charles H. Bell presented the claims of Mr. Odlin, Hon. Nathaniel Gordon Mr. Moulton's, and David Currier Capt. Dustin's, whose claims were mainly urged upon the ground of his services as an officer in the 6th N. H. Regt. during the late war.

Mr. Moulton is a man about 50 years old, and is well known in Rockingham county, as an active and energetic business man, having served as deputy sheriff for about fifteen years, three years as County Commissioner, and two years as a member of the Legislature. Mr. Moulton is an active temperance man, and was strongly recommended by members of the bar, and prominent business men of the county. From Mr. Moulton's long experience, we have no doubt he will discharge his responsible duties in a manner satisfactory to all.—Concord Monitor.

☞ The bible vote of the negroes in the Cincinnati election, shows that we have given votes to five million Africo-Americans, which will be a set-off to five millions Europo-Romanists.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,
Coughs, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses, Colds, Headache, Painting Fits, Fevers, Convulsions, Palpitation, Ague, Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Children's Troubles Diarrhœa, Consumption, &c., &c., &c.
Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS (and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which it PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drug whatever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and transquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone.
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the whiskey compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5tw

Chat.

Alleghany, Pa., has a doctor of divinity, who, after writing ninety-six notes to a young lady about marrying her, now wants to get out of it. He says there is a "divinity that shapes our ends" in Boston, only eighteen years old, and rich too, that he wants to marry. The Alleghany girl says she never did have any luck with ministers.

A Connecticut baby leaped from his nurse's arms the other day through a window. The nurse went down to pick up his lifeless remains, when she saw him banging safely by his dress to the blind fastening.

A smart minister in Toledo, within ten months, has married a couple, baptized their first child, preached the funeral sermon of the husband, and married the widow.

John Smith has at last got into trouble and is going to be hung in Louisville, for murder.

A Delaware woman is getting a divorce because her husband jumped on the back side of the bed at an alarm of burglars.

A Cincinnati horse ran over a boy, last week, but fortunately "no bones were broken, except his skull." He died just the same, though.

An Ohio woman has coughed up a fishbone which she had in her throat 42 years. It restored her voice and her husband wants a divorce.

An Irishman being asked on a late trial for a certificate of his marriage, exhibited a huge scar on his head, which looked as though it might have been made with a fire-shovel. The evidence was satisfactory.

The News, of Atlanta, Georgia, is in a bad way. It says: "Our editor and foreman are absent on business, our pressman is sick, and ye local completely exhausted by a severe struggle had at dinner, with a large trout."

The losses by fire in Philadelphia for a year past amount to over $5,000,000, on which the insurance was about $4,000,000.

Blossom Rock, a dangerous obstruction in San Francisco harbor, was blown up Saturday. Twenty three tons of powder were used, and an immense mass of water and rocks was thrown 100 feet in the air.

The captives held by the Grecian brigands for a ransom have been executed.

The Senate, on Friday, refused to agree to the proposition to transfer the naval pension fund to the treasury.

In the dispute between Great Britain and Portugal about the ownership of the island of Zolama, General Grant, to whom the matter was referred for arbitrament, decides that the island belongs to Portugal.

The Fenians in New York have elected a full set of officers, and the Western Fenians have succeeded, making serious charges against President O'Neill, and establishing headquarters in Philadelphia.

There were great demonstrations of rejoicing at Liverpool on the announcement of the safe arrival of the steamer City of Brussels; crowds collected, salutes were fired, and other evidences of general satisfaction were indulged in.

It is estimated that twenty-five thousand people visited Mr. Burlingame's remains while lying in state at Faneuil Hall, on Saturday.

May Day this year comes on Sunday.

Mattie Johnson, the young girl who was enticed away by Rev. Horace Cook, has since been married to a young man to whom she was previously engaged.

The naturalization laws are now the only ones in our statute books that recognize distinction of color among persons. Mr. Sumner carried a bill through the Senate on Friday, repealing the act of 1803, which prohibited the importation of colored persons, and in the debate on that, the fact about the naturalization laws was mentioned.

Important incidents in this era of the French nation crowd upon each other closely. The Emperor, Saturday, issued a decree ordering the plebiscitum on the 5th of May, and at the same time published a circular giving directions as to the manner of taking the vote. On Sunday, he published to the French nation a proclamation rehearsing the story of former approvals of his reign, and setting forth the reasons for this new appeal.

S. J. Court, Exeter; Ira H. Woodman vs. Nottingham—action to recover damages of defts. for injuries sustained by plf. in consequence of a defective highway; given to the jury Monday afternoon.

Stevens vs. Emerson next in order.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

KITTERY, ME., April 25.

Rev. Mr. Hutchingson of Ohio has accepted a call from the Christian Church at Kittery, and they are considered very lucky indeed to get so well educated and able a man for a preacher.

Rev. Wm. H. Pillsbury, of the Second M. E. Church, who has very ably filled the pulpit there for the last two years, took leave of his people on Sunday; he baptised 5 by immersion and 3 by sprinkling in the morning. They had a very interesting meeting in the evening—nearly 50 prayers and exhortations. There is quite an awakening in both churches here.

The Hall of Wentworth Encampment G. A. R. is to be decorated with pictures of the soldiers from this place, or serving in regiments raised in this vicinity, who lost their lives during the Rebellion. Likenesses of nearly all have already been procured; but two are still missing — Thomas Hubbard and John Q. Locke, formerly of Kittery, and late of the 32d Maine Volunteers. Should the friends of either of them see this, they will confer a favor by loaning the deceased soldiers' pictures, if they have them, to their former comrades, for the purpose of being copied and enlarged, and hung in the public Hall, as is due to their patriotism and memory. The pictures may be left at Davis' Daguerrean Gallery.

Virginia Railroads and Virginia Prospects. — The coal field on the West slope of the Alleghanies, extending from the Monongahela to the Big Sandy rivers, is by far the largest, the richest, and is destined to become the most valuable in the world. In Europe, nearly all the coal deposits lie far beneath the general surface, and far below water level. Deep shafts are sunk at immense cost, to reach them; the mines are then ventilated and drained as they are being worked, only after the most astonishing outlays. On the Kanawha and collateral valleys, the coal crops out of the hill sides in veins from 5 to 12 feet thick, far above water level, and can be dumped into the cars by the force of gravity, for merely nominal cost, and carried thence to wherever it is needed.

A few miles eastward of this immense store of coal, on the eastern slope of the Alleghanies, are found inexhaustible deposits of iron ores of the best qualities. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, now in course of construction from the navigable waters of the James River to the river navigation of the Mississippi Valley, the greater part of which is already in operation, crosses both the iron fields and the coal fields, and unites them to the seaboard on the one hand and the Great West on the other. Nearly 7,000 men are employed upon this great work, and it will not be many months before the cars will travel continuously from Memphis, Saint Louis or Chicago, to and from these great iron and coal deposits, and it need be, on to the navigation of the Atlantic at Richmond.

These natural advantages, together with the encouraging rush of immigration now finding its way to Virginia and West Virginia, will give to those States a vast wealth and industry. The completion of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad itself will set free a wonderful amount of latent power, and is to rank as one of the most important works of improvement now in progress.

The Loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, which is announced elsewhere in our columns, by the well known Banking firm, Fisk & Hatch, of New York, it will be seen is being steadily absorbed for investments. These Bonds have several features of convenience and security not hitherto found combined. To all persons contemplating investments of capital, or the exchange of securities, their remarks will be of special interest.

☞ The project of uniting the Boston & Maine and Eastern Railroad corporations is now before the Massachusetts legislature, and is thought favorably of. There would be advantages and disadvantages to the public derived from such a union. In those places where there is now competition between the two Roads, the disadvantages would be soon apparent.

☞ At a recent meeting in New York Mr. Beecher told an incident that occurred in a class in his mission school. A banner was offered to the class that behaved the best. One Sunday a youngster made a disturbance, when the rest took him out and punched him until he promised to reform. That class got the banner.

The Apportionment Bill.—Under the operation of the previous question, the House rushed through a new apportionment bill for the 42d Congress, which increases the number from 240, the present basis, to 275 members. The Eastern members fought it with every available parliamentary motion, but it was carried by three majority. The effect of the bill is to decrease the representation of Vermont, New York, Massachusetts and Maine, and to increase it in Ohio, Kentucky, Kansas, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Alabama, Tennessee and Wisconsin. An effort is to be made to defeat it in the Senate.

New Hampshire Items.

Governor Stearns has pardoned M. A. Hanna, Alvah Combs, Alfaretta Boyce and James H. Wright out of State Prison. Boyce was in for murder in the second degree, and the others for cattle stealing and highway robbery, and all had served out half their sentences.

The man whose body was found in the water at Haverhill recently was Mitchell Radford, a Frenchman, who disappeared in December with $300 in money.

Charlestown is to have an extensive boot and shoe factory.

The Typographical Union of Albany, N. Y., appropriated $50 to purchase a coffin and forward the remains of Walter S. Drew, the young printer who sustained fatal injuries by falling from one of the fifth story windows of a hotel in that city, Tuesday morning, to the relatives of the deceased at Concord.

In the town of Durham, near the residence of James Bunker, Esq., a perfect mirage of his buildings may be seen from the bridge close by. The best view is obtained at high tide, and towards sunset, in the summer months.

The Dover Bee states that the young stallion, Gen. Hancock, sired by Ajax, owned by the late Gilman Hall, of Barrington, was sold by Col. Dan'l Hall, a few days since, to Mr. George M. Robinson of Maine, for about $500.

The Patriot says that the cheese factory of Daniel F. Tillotson, in Orford, is fast approaching completion, and a hundred and seventy-five cows are already attached to the institution. The factory with its appliances will cost about $25,000, and with the business energy of Mr. T. at the head will be a branch of industry that will add much to the productive interests of the town.

Police Justice Hall of Dover, fined Jeremiah Gogin, keeping open Sunday, $10, cost $9.28. Irwin S. French, drunkenness, fine $2, cost $7.80. Frank Hanlan, drunkenness, fine $5, cost $7.90. John Haughey, aggravated assault, bound over in the sum of $200. James McArdle, refusing to move upon request of officer, fined $1, costs $8.90. James Curry, drunkenness, fined $2, cost $8.90.

——OF THE——

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD CO.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportations of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West, to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

INVESTORS and CAPITALISTS,

Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1000, $500 and $100,

and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.

Interest Six per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Price 90 and accrued Interest in Currency, at which price they pay nearly Seven per cent. in gold on their cost.

All Government Bonds and other Securities dealt in at the Stock Exchange, received in exchange, at their full market value, and Bonds sent to all parts of the country, free of Express charges.

They can be obtained by ordering direct from us or through any responsible Bank or Banker in any part of the country.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Infection in the Air.

Experimental chemists have repeatedly analyzed the air at unhealthy seasons, in the hope of detecting the invisible virus which produces epidemic disease. They have not yet discovered it, and scarcely any two of them agree as to its nature. This is of little consequence. It is sufficient to know that this poisonous principle exists, and that a safe, hard against its insidious influence has been provided. In the spring and early summer, when fever and ague, remittent fever, and other periodical diseases of that class are prevalent it is only necessary to fortify the system with a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to escape them. If this precaution has been neglected, which it never ought to be in any ill tract liable to such visitations, and if the paroxysms of malarious fever have actually commenced, they may always be checked and broken up by a course of that powerful vegetable tonic and alterative.

Quinine was once considered the only specific for chills and fevers; but it is now generally admitted that this nauseous alkaloid is a dangerous medicine, and that its secondary effects are more to be dreaded than any form of intermittent fever. It is simply a tremendous astringent. It does not touch the disordered liver, or regulate the bowels, or in any way improve the condition of the animal fluids. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS on the other hand, in addition to being a better and safer tonic than any preparation of quinine, has a balsamic effect upon the whole system.

It is aperient and antibilious, as well as directly invigorating, and purifies the secretions as well as regulates the secretive organs. It stimulates the appetite, strengthens the stomach, soothes the nerves, promotes healthful perspiration, and induces quiet sleep. As a stomachic it has no rival. Cases of indigestion that no other tonic seems capable of alleviating, are cured in a few weeks by its regular use.

PAIN KILLER.

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors,

1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and found wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the color it imparts natural.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. mh12dawlm

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being cured thereby. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them, all in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many since. If it was 50 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Bumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. Depot 10 Park Place, N. Y. mh12

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Ind., says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing it to be a preparation of valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLENS LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a test. Let all a afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

COUGHS, INFLUENZA.

SORE THROAT, COLDS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, LIVER COMPLAINT, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, BLEEDING OF LUNGS, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS and CHEST, are speedily and permanently cured by the use of

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF WILD CHERRY.

This well known preparation does not dry up a cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most medicines, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Consumption can be Cured

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR,

For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.

A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is even restored to its original color, with the vigor and freshness of youth. This hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remains can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently insure baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a graceful perfume.

THE ROCKINGHAM COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE commenced its session in this city, first at the High School Hall on Monday. The Institute is conducted by lecturers, and all the teachers are expected to take notes. Prof. E. D. Sanborn will lecture before all wishing to attend (Tuesday) evening on the "Origin of the English Nation," at the North Church, showing the origin of the language. "If the nation is great, its tongue will be great; no tongue can be great, unless it be the exponent of great deeds." This lecture is said to be one of great merit, vastly better than many of the highest priced ones delivered before our city lyceums. It is hoped the learned Professor will be listened to by a full house. He is a fine orator, and no one can fail to be interested.

Prof. Knights confines himself to Arithmetic; to those knowing Prof. K. it is enough to say that he will be present and lecture. Prof. Quimby lectures on the Higher Mathematics, and no one knows better how to make dark things plain than he.

The evening lectures are intended for all, and every parent in Portsmouth should be present. Supt. Hardy hopes to interest all, and to make this the most profitable Teachers' Convention ever held in Rockingham County,

Tuesday,—8 3-4 A. M., opening service, Rev. G. M. Adams; 9 A. M., grammar and language, Prof. E. D. Sanborn; 10 1-2, A. M., geography, Prof. C. A. Downs; 1 1-2 P. M., arithmetic, Prof. E. Knights; 2 1-2 P. M., elocution, Mrs. H. M. P. Miller; 3 1-2 P. M., algebra, Prof. E. T. Quimby; evening, lecture, Prof. E. D. Sanborn.

UNITARIAN PARISH.—At the annual meeting Monday afternoon, the same Clerk, J. F. Shores jr., and same Wardens, John S. Pray, B. F. Webster, J. A Grace, A. M. Hoyt, and John T. French, were re-elected. The sum of $5890 was appropriated for expenses the coming year, — $2500 for pastor and $1200 for music. The Parish debt was reported at $1750, and it being stated by the Clerk that one gentleman was ready to pay one-twentieth of the same, a committee of three gentlemen and two ladies was appointed to endeavor to wipe out the whole debt — which will doubtless soon be done by voluntary subscription.

It was voted to proffer the pastor an extra vacation of four weeks immediately; and at his suggestion, the Vesper service will be continued,—during the three summer months in the afternoon, and the rest of the year in the evening, as now. A music Committee was authorized to be chosen by the Wardens, consisting of two of their Board and not exceeding three others.

☞ Capt. Robert Shillaber, of this city, who is the last living man of the crew of the schooner Sarah Atkins mentioned yesterday, in her first sealing voyage hence, — corrects an error or two made by our correspondent. The schooner was named Sarah, not Samuel; she last sailed in 1828, and the next year sent a part cargo of furs, &c. to London, which were sold, and return made for the same to Dea. John Knowlton, the agent in this city. She was never again heard from, and probably sunk in a gale in the Straits of Magellan, with her whole crew of 21 persons from this city and vicinity.

☞ A reduction of the prices of tickets to Mrs. Scott Siddons' entertainment next Friday evening, will be noted in the advertisement. To gallery 35 cts., parquet 50 cts., reserved seats 60 cts. At these prices, the house should be filled with those who appreciate a first-class musical, literary and dramatic entertainment, such as we have few of here.

☞ Mr. Horace M. Smith, a native of this city, a well-known [typo, and one of the boys in blue, has fitted up the building in Ladd Street, formerly the Journal office, for a first-class eating-house and lunch-room, for ladies and gentlemen; and will open the premises to the public in a day or two. We wish him success in his undertakings.

BASE BALL.—The second game of a series between the first and second nines of the Granite State Club of this city, took place at the Plains, Friday afternoon. Game was called at the end of the 7th inning on account of the lateness of the hour. The first nine were victorious by a score of 54 to 15.

☞ Asst. Constructor Wm. H. Varney, U. S. N., has been ordered to Mare Island from this Station.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

THE TRAILING ARBUTUS.

Dear, lovely flower, whose fragrant lips unclose
To breathe a benediction to the Spring,
Soon as the blue-bird and the robin sing;
Sweetest and best that in the woodland grows;
Flusand like the morn, or white as drifted snows;
I love thee as the herald of the hours
That bring the beauteous train of forest flowers,
And all fair things God's loving hand bestows.
But most for her sweet sake who held thee dear;
Who, in glad Springs, roamed with me hand in hand,
These mossy paths where now alone I stray;
And yet whose gentle presence seems so near,
I half forget her Angel feet to-day
Walk the green pastures of the better land.

ALBERT LAIGHTON.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

☞ If the teachers and scholars attend all the meetings and lectures of the Institute, it is probable that this will be counted a school week, and the regular Spring vacation come subsequently. Let every scholar of the High and Grammar schools be present!

A TEACHER.

☞ Mr. R. B. Foobes of Boston, being at present engaged in the effort of raising a fund for the care and support of the three destitute children of Capt. Williams of the Oneida, invites contributions from all inclined to aid his efforts for the afflicted children.

☞ A reduction of fares on the Concord Railroad, amounting to about ten per cent., is to be made on the 1st of May. The freight tariff will also probably be reduced at the same time.

—Intemperance has been the curse of the human race through all time. In the earliest period there was a whole nation of "Gittites."

EMINENT MEN OF SCIENCE have discovered that electricity and magnetism are developed in the system from the iron in the blood. This accounts for the debility, low spirits, and lack of energy a person feels when this vital element becomes reduced. The Peruvian Syrup, a protoxide of iron, supplies the blood with the iron element, and in the only form in which it is possible for them to enter the circulation.

POOR MATTY KILBURN.

In Walpole, N. H., there is a very ancient tree, which is an object of interest to visitors, for there is a sorrowful tale connected with it.

Long ago, when the settlers lived in fear of the Indians, who often came down the river to rob and kill, a fort was built near the town, and there the people hurried for protection the moment an alarm was given.

Between this fort and the town stands the old tree, which was a vigorous young oak at the time the story begins. For a long while the settlers had been at peace, and began to think that the Indians would never come again, for their last repulse had been a most disastrous one.

But one autumn day, when the men were busy harvesting in the fields, a boy who had been fishing came flying home, pale and frightened, to report that the Indians were coming in a whole fleet of canoes, paddling down the "long river of pines," as they called the Connecticut.

Then the panic began, and all hurried to the fort, taking their women and children, their cattle, and as much of their precious harvest as they could gather in that short time.

The inmates of a few solitary houses on the outskirts of the town were left to their fate, for there was no time to warn them except by the bell.

Some of the women fled to the fort, leaving the men who were away in the fields, or on the hills, to defend themselves as they best knew how.

Some hid in the woods, fearing to try to reach the forts, for the canoes were very near now, and the keen-eyed savages could see the fugitives.

In one of these lonely houses lived John Kilburn and his twelve-year old daughter Matty, who kept house for him like a notable little woman as she was.

On that sad day John was looking for his sheep at the foot of Fall Mountain, and Matty was alone at home. He did not hear the bell, but he saw the Indians; he thought of his dear little girl all alone in the solitary house, and leaving his sheep to their fate, he ran home through by-ways, hoping to reach the settlement before the fight began. He knew it would be a bloody one, for the revengeful Indians had not forgotten their last defeat, and had turned out in full force to destroy their conquerors.

They were already on shore when John Kilburn, breathless and exhausted, reached his home to find brave little Matty preparing to defend herself with his gun in her hand and the dogs at her side.

"Why don't you run to the fort, child?" he panted, as she let him in.

"I waited for you; I knew you'd come, and now we will go together," she said, showing him her pockets full of the few precious things they owned; a little money, her mother's gold beads, the silver spoons, and the queer, big watch, which her father only wore on Sundays. Away they ran, leaving the dogs behind, lest they should betray them.

It was not far, but when they reached the hill that lay between them and the fort, they saw that it was too late to get in, for the fight had begun.

Glancing back, they also saw that retreat was cut off, for some of the Indians were already skulking about their house.

John Kilburn was a brave man, but he trembled as he stood there among the bushes, so helpless in the midst of his relentless enemies. He trembled, not for himself, but for the little girl who clung to him, full of faith that he could save her from every danger.

A shout from the hills made him look up to see a party of settlers, armed with sickles, scythes and guns charging down upon the Indians, intent on fighting their way into the fort.

If he were alone, John could join them and do good service with his gun; but Matty could do nothing and would only impede his steps and endanger herself.

He thought a minute, then swung himself into the oak under which they had paused. Leaning down he drew the child after him, and without a word let her carefully down into a deep hollow, made by the breaking of a great limb struck by lightning some years before.

The tree had decayed inwardly, while outwardly it looked hale and strong, for young shoots had sprung up around the broken place, and hid the hole with thick green branches.

"Aren't you coming, too, father?" asked Matty, looking up from her dark hiding place.

"No, dear, I am going to fight; you are safe; no one knows of the hole but me. Stay quiet till I come for you. Keep a good heart, my lass, and trust to father," answered John, leaning down to kiss the brave little face that looked at him from the green gloom.

Matty let him go without a word; for those perilous times taught stern lessons even to the children. She sat quite still, said her prayers with all her heart, and waited patiently for her father.

All that afternoon and night shots rang from fort and forest, flames rose from the lonely farm-houses, and blood flowed. By the dawn the fight was over, and the Indians slunk away defeated.

John Kilburn was mortally wounded, and only reached the fort to die, trying vainly to tell something which kept him from departing in peace. No one understood his broken words, as imploring looks and his feeble gestures toward the hill. They thought he tried to tell them that Matty was carried off by the Indians; and he died with his secret fear darkening his last hour.

For many days no one ventured to leave the fort, fearing to be surprised by the Indians, so poor Matty's cries were unheard; and when at last the men ventured to return to their work, all was still under the oak, and the rustling leaves could not tell them of the pale little face lying dead in the green gloom. A long time after that last fight, a boy, hunting for a lost arrow, climbed the tree, discovered the hole, and saw something shining far down in the dark. He could not reach it, but told his father that he had found buried money.

The man went, and discovered not only gold and silver, but little bones, which none could doubt had once been Matty Kilburn's, for the treasures that could not save her life proved who she was, and contradicted the belief that she had been carried away.

Many tears were shed over the remains of the once pretty, well-beloved child, and they were buried beside John Kilburn, whose dying trouble was now explained.

The old tree stands, broken, bare and solitary, but no one cuts it down, and children, as they pass it, look up with sad eyes, saying pitifully—

"Poor little Matty Kilburn!"

NEWLY MARRIED.—What your newly-married man cannot make out for some time is, how it happens that the world remarks no difference in him. How is it people jog by him with the same indifferentism in their manner as that manifested by them before his marriage? Does he not exhibit in his demeanor that perplexity of mind induced by his strong sense of added being?

The truth is, the newly-married man moves in a dream. A co-existence puzzles, bewilders him. He finds two faces reflected where for years he has been accustomed to contemplate but one. The kaleidoscope has returned and an array of old colors has been adjusted into a new picture. The relation of things to him has visibly changed. He is no longer one, but two. He is no longer himself; he is himself and somebody else. There is no addition of bulk or stature; and yet there is upon him a constant sense of enlargement. As to any feeling of responsibility, that does not come upon him till some time afterward. His cares so far are chiefly poetic; he has not yet had time enough to experience those which have not the charm of sentiment.

All this is very dreamlike. The circumstance of a young, loveable creature hanging on his arm and calling him husband may make the fact of matrimony very actual; but there is so much of what is visionary in the new existence, so much of what is new in the present life when contrasted with the life of even a few weeks before, that a man had need to possess, indeed, the vividest perception of the real, not to suffer himself frequently to sink into a kind of wonder and doubt as to whether things be really as they seem. It is a provision in nature—a startling discovery, made by a Scotch usher—that a man must be a bachelor before he can become a married man. Now, as a bachelor, it is inevitable that he should acquire certain habits and forms of thought which it is the business, or rather the mission, of a wife to modify or to put to flight. It is the abrupt subversion of an accustomed state of being that makes a newly-married man look upon life for a time as a dream. To find himself constantly reproduced in the presence of his wife may inspire him with much such emotion as may be supposed to have animated the fabled gentleman, who, having accustomed himself to a shadowless existence for some time, suddenly found his shadow restored to him.

Oddness may perhaps characterize the aspect with which life presents itself to him. It is odd for him to bear people asking after his wife in his own name, as if the contingency of a Mrs. entering into his share of the family name had remained wholly uncontemplated.

But what is certainly odder than the oddest of the odd experiences that befal a man in his honeymoon life is the amazing rapidity with which he sobers into husbandhood. The matrimonial adjustment takes some men longer than others, but of what duration, pray, is the longest period that subsists between the marriage ceremony and the awakening from its idealism? But better, far better even the briefest idealistic existence after marriage than that hurried utilitarian-like settling down of people as soon as ever the wedding ring is on. The rapidity of adjustment is shocking like Crusoe's solitariness. It is the mist that lends something of beauty to the morning. Do not let us be too hasty in blowing away what shadow of idealism overhangs our mornings of life.

FOWLS VS. WORMS.—M. Giot, the French entomologist, has lately found new employment for fowls. He says that French farmers have, during the past year, complained bitterly of the prevalence of worms which infest corn and other crops, the highest cultivated fields being the most infested. Fowls are known to be the most indefatigable worm destroyers, pursuing their prey with extraordinary instinct and tenacity. But fowls cannot be conveniently kept on every field, nor are they wanted there at all seasons. Therefore M. Giot has invented a perambulating fowl-house, which is described as follows:

"He has large omnibuses, fitted up with perches above, the nests beneath. The fowls are shut in at night, and the vehicle is drawn to the required spot, and the doors being opened in the morning, the fowls are let out to feed during the day in the fields. Knowing their habitation, they enter it at nightfall without hesitation, and roost and lay their eggs as well as in any other house."

—The entertainment of the 2d Cong'l Society, Biddeford, last night, at which selections from the "Cantata of the Haymakers" was produced, was attended by a crowded audience.

The Chronicle.

A FEARFUL ADVENTURE.—In Jacksonville, Illinois, on Thursday last, an insane woman created great excitement by her mad freaks. She escaped from her cell in the Insane Asylum, ran up upon the roof, ran to the edge and swung herself off, dropping upon a cornice several feet below. The account continues:

Upon this cornice, a foot wide, and some seventy-five feet above the ground, the wild maniac walked back and forth for a quarter of an hour. Men rushed to the roof and passed a rope to her, and tried to persuade her to fasten it about her body, but in vain. Below, beds were brought and placed, to break the fall, should she leap from her perilous position. After remaining on the cornice fifteen minutes, seemingly unconscious of all danger, she swung off, and holding by the cornice until her feet touched a cap of the fifth story window, she let go the cornice, and alighted erect and steady upon the cap, which was but a foot wide and four feet long.

There, at that fearful and dizzy height, she stood gazing about for a quarter of an hour. Then she seized firmly the rope lowered to her, and leaped into the air. The strong arms above gradually lowered her, and when she was about thirty feet from the ground she relaxed her hold and fell upon the beds below, and, although stunned, was taken up uninjured.

APRIL.—In olden time, in what is called the Alban calendar, the year had ten months of irregular length. April was the first, and had thirty-six days; in the old Roman calendar, as we have elsewhere mentioned, it was the second month, and had thirty days. Another change,—that in Numa's twelve month calendar,—gave to April twenty-nine days; but at the re-arranging of the year by Julius Cæsar, thirty days were given to the month, and it has so remained ever since. The name has sometimes been supposed to be derived from the Latin aperio, to open, as marking the time of buds and flowers; but it has been said, with more plausibility, that the name was originally Aphrilis, founded on the Greek name of Venus, Aphrodite.

While March never has received much praise, April has generally been well spoken of by poets and proverbmakers. The original of "April fool" has never been clearly shown; but the custom of sending people on "fools' errands," and of playing practical jokes on the first day of the month, seems to be well nigh universal. It is not a little remarkable that the Hindoos have in their Hull, which closes on the last day of March, a festival similar to our "April fool" season; and the fact that the observance of this season is so wide spread among the nations of the earth, shows that its origin dates far back into ancient times.—Oliver Optic's Magazine.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,

Coughs,	Neuralgia,	Female Weaknesses,
Colds,	Headache,	Fainting Fits,
Fevers,	Convulsions,	Nervous Fire,
Agues,	Sleeplessness,	Restlessness,
Biliousness,	Dyspepsia,	Dizziness,
Constipation,	Liver Complaint,	Children's Troubles
Diarrhœa,	Consumption,	&c., &c., &c.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS, and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs whatsoever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5tw
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthy. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN, WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5tw

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 1870.

Chat.

Postmaster General Cresswell says that unless a Pacific mail line of steamers is subsidized by government, foreign nations will control the commerce of that ocean.

It is reported from London that somebody has picked up on the coast a blue board, on which is inscribed, "City of Boston sinking, February 11."

The factions of the Republican party in Virginia have been endeavoring to heal their differences again.

The Gardner Journal, an Illinois newspaper, regularly appears with three blank columns, which are headed thus: "Special Notice: These columns are reserved for those merchants who ought to advertise."

One of the longest sentences on record may be found in Lippincott's magazine for April, in the article on "Florida." It contains over eight hundred words.

General Hooker is almost helpless from paralysis.

Ex-Collector Joshua F. Bailey is in Ohio, living on the farm of ex-Solicitor Jordon, and writes to Washington that he is ready to report to the Department if wanted.

Gen. J. H. Lewis, Democrat, is elected to Congress in Kentucky, in Golladay's district. The negroes voted the Republican ticket.

Frisco has had two more gentle shocks.

EXETER AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The discussion on the best method of applying manure, was quite spirited, the principal participants being Hervey Kent, Wm. M. Hunnewell, D. F. Hayes, J. P. Cilley, Thos. R. Davis, Gardner Gilman, W. A. Currier and Samuel D. Lane.

It was generally conceded that manure applied, so far as practicable, in liquid form, produces the best results. In many parts of England, the liquid is extracted from green barn manure by powerful presses.

Mr. Kent gave some interesting statistics in relation to manure. It appears that a cord of green barn manure weighing 3000 lbs. contains 2456 lbs. of water, 138 lbs. of sand, 332 lbs. of carbonaceous matter, and 74 lbs. of chemical salts, which alone have any fertilizing properties. The same quantity of chemical salts, corresponding to those found in manure, can be purchased for $3.35, but, although their use are beneficial, they do not produce the same results as the manure.

Mr. Kent also read from "How to make the farm pay," a work that every farmer should own, an account of some experiments at Michigan State Agricultural College, showing that two bushels of Plaster per acre gave an increase of 4153 lbs. of hay; 5 bushels of wood ashes, 3942 lbs; 3 bushels salt, 4184 lbs.; 20 loads of muck, 3683 lbs.; 20 loads muck and 3 bushels salt, 5318 lbs.; 20 loads horse manure, 5023 lbs.; 20 loads cow manure, 4874 lbs. The soil was a light sandy loam.

The virtues of salt as a fertilizer were highly extolled. Seaweed was considered valuable only for the salt it contains. Mr. Hayes considered salt superior for wheat, and excellent for most vegetables. It prevents "pumple foot" in cabbages. A man in Derry raised immense crops of vegetables, far greater than his neighbors. His secret eventually transpired. He made free use of salt. He considered the best method of applying any manure to be putting it on the surface, and barely mixing it with the soil, so that it will not evaporate.

Mr. Hunnewell has long been in the habit of putting in green manure in the fall, plowing it in lightly, and plowing again in the spring.

Mr. Lane thinks it better to cover up manure in the ground in the fall, than to pile it up on the ground; but thinks with Mr. Hayes, the greatest benefits are derived from manure applied in the spring. He does not believe in receiving hasty results from manure. Rotted manure will give best immediate results, but green manure lasts much the longest.

Gardiner Gilman put in 1 3-4 acres with turnips and carrots, used barn manure mixed freely with saw dust, plowed in 5 inches deep; crop, 900 bushels turnips, 800 bushels carrots; would have had 1-3 more had it been a good season.

W. A. Currier thinks very highly of hen manure; mixes it with hog manure, ashes, lime or plaster, or all three of the latter; best corn he ever saw was manured in this way. Mr. Hayes does not believe in ashes or lime with hen manure; thinks plaster will produce better results.

Hog manure should be composted, and should never be applied to warm, dry land; will raise corn stalks, but few ears; should be used in cold, moist land.

The discussion took a wide range, and various other subjects were introduced, and briefly discussed. — News Letter.

S. J. COURT, Exeter.—The jury in case of Ira H. Woodman vs. Town of Nottingham, rendered a verdict for Plf. amounting to $678, $100 of which was exemplary damages.

DIVIDENDS.—The Concord Railroad and Manchester & Lawrence Railroad have each declared a dividend of 5 per cent, payable May 2d.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

DRIVING THE DEVIL, AND GETTING DRIVEN.—A Scene in Fremont.—Fremont is a small but pleasant rural township. The population at the last census was 579. For years after 1800 the only religious society was Methodist, and it was flourishing. Late years it has not been large. Some five or six years ago a very beautiful house of worship was built by the Methodists and Universalists. In this the late Rev. T. H. Miller of Portsmouth preached occasionally. The removal to Nashua of Hon. I. H. Robinson, extensively engaged in the manufacture of carriages, will perhaps be the cause of less preaching by the Universalists than formerly, here.

On the northerly side of the town is a neighborhood two or three miles from the church and the center of business. Some good citizens in that part attend meeting at the Center, and some at the Baptist church in Brentwood, not far below; but others have been minded for years to have a meeting of their own at small private houses. In these, those that assumed leadership could display themselves. Broken-down preachers would visit them, and very frequently what were called revivals took place. A revival however is one thing, a reformation another. It was apparent to intelligent observers that the interest was in speaking in meeting, in which a number engaged, for out of meeting there was no reform of character or life. There was often great dissoluteness of morals, and what is always very deplorable, there were cases like what Bunyan gives, in which the more liquor one has in his stomach, the more religion he has in his crown.

Last autumn there was what they called a great time. A professed preacher from Maine was there a few weeks. He was not responsible to any denomination, not being a member of any. He would baptize all who wished, without uniting them to any church, and without any professed change of life.

Evening meetings are still held. We are to give an account of a notable one on a Sabbath evening not long ago. It was in the room of a small house. One excitable man became very zealous, and withal very courageous. He seemed aware that notwithstanding all their success, the devil was still among them. In this we suspect he was right. So with apparent moral heroism, he resolved to drive him single-handed. He stated this, saying he was going to pray and drive the devil. His prayer was loud, and might have been long—but in the midst of it, the wind blowing a gale, a window in the gable end of the house, just overhead, burst in with a terrible crash, when our hero, thinking it was the devil after him, ran in terrible fright from the house. He seemed aiming towards the desolate "Spruce Swamp," off to the southeast, possibly thinking if he could reach that, his satanic majesty would not be able to find him. The meeting was broken up; and although some, who knew what the trouble was, called after him, yet he dared not come back.

The good Book says, "The wicked flee when no man pursueth." Sometimes they do so when no devil pursueth. Some think the devil has to do with the winds, because in the Bible Satan is spoken of as the "prince of the power of the air." But that is a perversion of the meaning of this passage; The Most High "rideth on the wings of the wind." And Watts well says,

"He rides upon the stormy sky
And manages the sea."

TRAVELER.

☞ The reading and debate last Thursday evening, at Mercantile Hall, were interesting and insirnctive. The members took the parts assigned in the debate with earnestness and brought forward and sustained arguments which would have done credit to more practiced debater. An interesting subject is assigned for next Thursday evening.

NAVAL.—The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate; Commodore S. P. Lee to be rear-admiral; Captain Enoch G. Parrott to be commodore.

Assistant Constructor Philip Hichborn, of Mare Island Navy Yard, California, is to exchange places with Assistant Constructor Varney of this Station.

BASE BALL.—Monday, the Athletics of Philadelphia defeated the Marylanders of Baltimore, 34 to 16; the Unions of Morrisania defeated the Atlantics of Brooklyn, 26 to 10; and the Red Stockings of Cincinnati defeated the Pelicans of New Orleans, 51 to 1.—The Athletics of Philadelphia are to visit Boston in May.

☞ For our excellent report of the Teachers' Institute we are indebted to Messrs. Stephen W. Clark and A. M. Payson of the High Schools.

—Far Rockaway beach has been enlarged four miles seaward during the past few days by the filling of the old inlet, which formerly divided the main body of water from the shore. About $25,000 worth of oysters which were spread in the old inlet are destroyed. A house belonging to Mr. David Laugdon was washed seaward and then back again on the beach. His loss is about $15,000.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Infection in the Air.

Experimental chemists have repeatedly analyzed the air at unhealthy seasons, in the hope of detecting the invisible virus which produces epidemic disease. They have not yet discovered it, and scarcely any two of them agree as to its nature. This is of little consequence. It is sufficient to know that the poisonous principle exists, and that a safeguard against its insidious influence has been provided. In the spring and early summer, when fever and ague, remittent fever, and other periodical diseases of that class are prevalent it is only necessary to fortify the system with a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to escape them. If this precaution has been neglected, which it never ought to be in any district liable to such visitations, and if the paroxysms of malarious fever have actually commenced, they may always be checked and broken up by a course of that powerful vegetable tonic and alterative.

Quinine was once considered the only specific for chills and fevers; but it is now generally admitted that this nauseous alkaloid is a dangerous medicine, and that its secondary effects are more to be dreaded than any form of intermittent fever. It is simply a tremendous astringent. It does not touch the disordered liver, or regulate the bowels, or in any way improve the condition of the animal fluids. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS on the other hand, in addition to being a better and safer tonic than any preparation of quinine, has a balsamic effect upon the whole system.

It is aperient and antibilious, as well as directly invigorating, and purifies the secretions as well as regulates the secretive organs. It stimulates the appetite, strengthens the stomach, soothes the nerves, promotes healthful perspiration, and induces quiet sleep. As a stomachic it has no rival. Cases of indigestion that no other tonic seems capable of alleviating, are cured in a few weeks by its regular use.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the hands of medicators which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

GREAT IMPROVEMENT

—IN THE—

PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL.

The great obstacle to the universal adoption of COD LIVER OIL as a remedial agent, has been the repulsive taste and smell which have adhered to the various Oils prepared for market. This disagreeable feature has been entirely obviated in

MARVIN'S COD LIVER OIL.

By a careful selection of the Livers of the Cod, preserving them in a fresh and sweet condition, and by a process, that whilst it retains all the medicinal qualities of the Oil, at the same time completely eliminates all animal matter, we are able to present that which all Physicians, who have seen and tested it, pronounce to be a great desideratum to the profession, viz.: a perfectly Pure, Inodorous, and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as sweet to the taste as Sardine Oil, leaving no unpleasant taste in the mouth, and producing no eructations from the stomach. Its superiority to any known preparation of Cod Liver Oil, is at once acknowledged by all at the first sight.

We believe it to be the duty of every one who prescribes or sells Cod Liver Oil, to secure for their patients or customers the VERY BEST ARTICLE that the persevering study of man has produced, and we invite you to a trial of its qualities.

It is put up in neat Bottles, containing One Pint each, and packed in boxes of one dozen each. We solicit your order for one dozen or more for trial of its virtues. We append below the letter of Dr. Hayes, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts:

Gentlemen:—I have made chemical analyses of three samples of Marvin's Deodorized and Palatable Cod Liver Oil, as prepared by you, with the following results, one of the samples being marked new, one three months, and the other six months old. The samples do not differ in composition, the Oil in each case being free from animal tissue, or any trace of decomposition. This Oil is transparent, of a pale amber color, and remarkably free from disagreeable taste or odor. It is chemically Pure Cod Liver Oil, containing all its constituents and therapeutic properties, and its uncommon keeping quality is due to its purity. Respectfully, S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer and Chemist of Massachusetts. Jan. 27th, 1870.

Proposals For Navy Supplies—Wm. B. Slack.

ROCKINGHAM CO. TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—Monday evening, the Institute met at the vestry of the North Church. The meeting was called to order by Supt. Hardy, who after a few remarks introduced Rev. Mr. Downs, who proceeded to speak on the subject of education. He first spoke of man as a compound being, made up of the body and the mind or soul. Many fail in life, because they neglect the education or training of the body. As to man he may be either good or wicked, a blessing or a cause of harm to society. It is a most difficult thing to take an immortal soul, coming from the hands of the Creator, and give it the proper direction, to develope that beauty and symmetry of which it is capable.

The lecturer said that he should speak chiefly of the culture or education of the body. The first thing is to preserve the vital spark,—not only that, but to make the child strong and healthy. Everything in life depends upon that.

Unless one has health and strength, he cannot confidently undertake many things which under other circumstances he might and should accomplish. How many there are whose lives have been sad, sad failures, because they have not had the strength to carry out their high purposes. The speaker said he spoke feelingly, because he himself had suffered; when had he a kind friend early in life to give him the advice and direction he so much needed, it might have been otherwise.

The teacher's first duty is to care for the health of his pupils. God has made so much fresh air, that it is wrong to deprive pupils of it. It had often made a school pleasant, when without it the teacher is "cross," and the scholars too. The senses should be trained. The eye, the ear, and the hands may be so trained as to bring to us more accurate knowledge.

We are dependent upon the body to do the will of the soul. The more we train our bodies, the more facility and skill we possess. What wonderful power there is in the fore finger of the physician. We should have our bodies entirely under our control. By the body only can we reveal what is passing through our minds. It can be so trained as to give the fullest expression to all this. We should learn to do all this, and to do it well. A great deal of the world's valuable time is wasted in trying to read bad writing; for this there can be no excuse. There are very few who can really read well, yet it is something which most any scholar ought to learn, the power of expression in speech, both public and conversational, is important indeed.

The artist has to depend upon some part of his body to give expression to the conceptions of his soul. Lofty strains of music may be floating through the soul, but they are lost to him and the world, unless his voice is so trained as to give them expression. We depend upon the body for good manners, and many a young man has failed to make his fortune because his manners were against him.

The lecture was three-fourths of an hour long, and was listened to with the closest attention. It was a fine effort, and we hope to hear the speaker's lecture on Geography, which is said to be one of the finest ever delivered before a New Hampshire audience on that most interesting branch of study.

On Tuesday, the Institute opened with reading of the Scripture and prayer by Rev. G. M. Adams.

Supt. Hardy introduced Rev. Mr. Downs, who in the absence of Prof. Sanborn occupied the first hour. The good people of Manchester were unwilling to have Prof. Sanborn pass through their city without stopping to talk to them, and having lectured there last evening, he was unable to reach Portsmouth in time for the opening exercises.

Rev. Mr. Downs said that to him Geography was exceedingly interesting. Every teacher should prepare himself for the recitation hour, striving to learn something about each place that will interest his pupils. Florence is so called because it is a city of flowers. The word Tennessee means a spoon, and so on. In regard to the shape of the earth, is there any other shape that would be as well? The globe is the only body that could be wholly lighted and warmed by the sun. The light gradually dawns upon the earth; in any other form it would not be so; we should then lose all the beauties of dawn and twilight. The globe is the very best form for rapid motions, such as the daily and yearly of our planet home. God intended we should be a trading race. A pound weighs the same everywhere; if it were not so, there would be utter confusion in trade.

What is the world made of? We say of earth and rocks; but what are these rocks? The speaker here held in his hand a specimen of quartz, and went on to speak of its uses and what were made from it. The glass of our windows is made of it, and with other ingredients added, it assumes many different forms. Very few people know anything about the rocks they see every day. Teachers should know and be able to teach these things; scholars should be encouraged to collect specimens, and learn to call them by their right names. Is it not a mistake that there is so much more water than land? It may seem so, but we find no mistakes in nature. The existing is just the best proportion to properly water the earth. If there was less water and more land, our climate would at once be changed, and many places would be too cold to be inhabited.

Referring to the map, he observed that every considerable body of land has a point to the South, and an Island lying to the East of those points. They are also broader at the top, and every one has a bend in the western part. Some have supposed that a mighty flood of water once swept from west to east, hollowing out the western portions and depositing the materials in the form of the islands mentioned. Some learned men have supposed the interior of the earth to be inhabited, but from what is now known, it is impossible. The speaker then went on to show how regular the formations are, and it was one of the most entertaining and instructive lectures it was ever our privilege to listen to. We can but express regret that parents did not more generally attend. The largest building in the city should be filled to its utmost capacity, by attendants at the daily sessions of the Institute.

After a short recess, Prof. E. D. Sanborn of Dartmouth College was introduced to the Institute, and proceeded to deliver one of his excellent lectures on Grammar. He referred to the derivation of the words Grammar and Rhetoric, as coming from the Greek. The grammarian only tells us of the best uses. Grammar has been considered difficult to teach and to learn, but the teacher should be the fountain of knowledge on this subject, and thus able to interest his pupils. The speaker said that in boyhood he committed Murray's Grammar entire, word for word, without knowing what it really was or what it all meant. He went on to discuss the different Parts of Speech and the structure of sentences, and no one knows how to do it better. If the lecture had been less interesting, it would have been better reported, but we forgot to use our pencil and were compelled to listen. We are glad to know that Prof. S. will lecture on the same subject, Wednesday and Thursday.

Prof. Quimby next lectured on the subject of Algebra. He commenced by saying that the best preparation for teaching is to know something. He took the ground that teachers have, as a general thing, brains enough to teach what they know. He spoke unfavorably of Normal Schools, and said that it is a greater work to learn something than it is to learn how to teach that something; the latter follows, if the thing is fully learned. He proceeded to discuss his subject, not how to teach it. His remarks on Algebraic Notation were scholarly and critical; the words used and explanations given were faultless. It is hoped that Prof. Q. will publish a treatise on the subject of this lecture; it would be invaluable to our teachers.

The public should not fail to hear every such effort. To-day, (Wednesday), a large delegation from Manchester, will be present, including the Superintendent and all the teachers of the city.

Wednesday,—8 3-4 A. M., opening service, Rev. C. M. Dinsmore; 9 A. M., arithmetic, Prof. E. Knights; 10 1-2 A. M., geography, Prof. C. A. Downs; 1 1-2 P. M., algebra, Prof. E. T. Quimby; 2 1-2 P. M., grammar, Prof. E. D. Sanborn; 3 1-2 P. M., elocution, Mrs. H. M. P. Miller; evening, lecture, Prof. E. T. Quimby.

☞ All persons attending the Institute, coming over the Eastern, Boston & Maine and Concord Railroads, will receive "passes" to return from A. C. Hardy, at the High School Hall.

☞ Mr. Phipps, Secretary of the Board of Education of Massachusetts, will deliver a Lecture on Spelling before the Institute at 10 A. M., to-day.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle Office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle. ☞ Subscriptions may commence any time.

L—O—A—N
—OF THE—
CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD CO.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportations of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West, to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

Morning Chronicle.

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

WHAT ARE THEY AFRAID OF?—"I have seen Universalists and infidels die, and during a ministry of fifty-five years I have not found a single instance of peace and joy in their near view of eternity. No, nothing but an accusing conscience and the terrors of apprehension. Life was a blank, and death the king of terrors."—Dr. Spring.

Such statements as the above are constantly adduced by "evangelical christians," to support their assertions that Universalism, however agreeable to its believers while they are in possession of health, fails to sustain and comfort them on the deathbed—that a belief in universal salvation "will not do to die by." Dr. Spring doubtless spoke truth; but he (and all who draw the same conclusions from the same premises) reasons falsely, or rather does not reason at all, when he assumes that because he has never seen a Universalist die calmly and hopefully, that Universalism is unable to give peace and hope at the last hour. The late "Uncle Toby," commenting on Dr. Spring's statement, remarks that the Dr. never saw a Universalist die; which is very evident. I have seen what the Dr. never saw—a man of that faith pass away with as much calmness and confidence as tho' but lying down for a brief rest; but that man was a believer in universal salvation.

Granting that some professed Universalists die in fear; does that prove that faith powerless to comfort them in the hour which most men dread? Not at all; it simply proves that the religion of terror has more hold on their minds than the religion of love. It shows that the God of their childhood, the terrible and implacable enemy of his creatures, is more vividly before their imaginations than the God of mercy. It shows that the blind and unreasoning faith in (nearly universal) damnation which has been ground into them from their youth up, has been but partially overthrown by another faith, accepted as blindly and unreasoningly as the first, instead of being obliterated entirely by scriptural research and reason; in short, that the men who are terrified when dying are not Universalists, but believers in the creed which teaches that the Creator must have a terrible and eternal revenge on his creatures.

Fear is a potent influence with human beings; and that it is so is recognized by no class of men more than by evangelical christians. That they "put the evil day afar off" is true; but it is equally true that the terrors of an eternity of torment are held up to sinners as a principal inducement for them to repent—that the appeal which of all others has been most employed (and found most effective) to swell the numbers of evangelical christians, has been an appeal to perhaps the basest of human passions—fear. But that a Universalist should fear that an eternal revenge (not punishment) will be wreaked on him is manifestly absurd; that a man who believes in universal salvation should turn around at the last moment and believe in nearly universal damnation, is equally so. And the writer has never heard of a single instance, where Universalism had been taught in childhood, in which death brought any terrors.

The impressions received and the beliefs accepted during childhood are the most difficult to be shaken. Coming from parents, whom the child is accustomed to look up to as beings omniscient, any statement whatever is received as absolute truth. The various churches recognize this fact; all of them dwell on the importance of early religious instruction, well aware that the child's belief will largely control the man's faith. We see the child of Romanists praying to the Virgin, and believing in the infallibity of a mere man; the child of Episcopalians fears for the safety of those outside the pale of "the Church;" the offspring of Baptists hopes there may be some way for those to be saved who have been baptized otherwise than by immersion; and the sons and daughters of "evangelical" christians of all denominations, as men and women, generally support the doctrine of a material and never-ending hell, which but a trifling per centage of the human race will escape. Yet not one in twenty, of any of these religionists, has ever searched the scriptures to see if their creed is there set forth; having taken it for granted that such is the case, the Bible has been read (if at all) merely to confirm a received belief, not to get at the truth. And very many who are horrified at what they deem heresy, are utterly unable to show where the heresy conflicts with the teachings of the Bible, either from the scriptures themselves or by convincing argument founded thereon; and not a few good church members there are, who, if pressed to give a reason for the hope that is in them, would have to fall back on what they were told in childhood as their only ground of faith.

There is nothing surprising in the fact that a man brought up to believe in a God of terror and an eternity of despair should fear to die; nor is it any argument against the happiness and peace which a different belief can yield to its possessor. That a near view of death should appal one who believes he is immediately to be plunged into everlasting torment is but reasonable; that it can terrify one who trusts in a merciful God, is absurd. It is not Universalism, but Evangelism, which makes many deathbeds scenes of anguish and horror.

Converted heathen have been known to pray to their idols, or burn candles to joss, at the last moment; the faith of early days was too strong to be thoroughly eradicated by reason or the Bible, or both. Yet christians will continue to believe that christianity can yield comfort to a dying man, even tho' the dying pagan did go back to the errors of his former life to find it. And though some professed Universalists may likewise be troubled by the teachings of their childhood's days, those who have thought upon and studied the subject will still believe that "He will not always chide; neither will He keep His anger forever." PAKEHA.

New Hampshire Items.

Mr. William E. Drew, an employee at S. C. Forsaith's machine shop, Manchester was passing through a wood yard to Merrimack street, about half past nine o'clock, on his return from a meeting of the Good Templars, o which society he was Secretary. On this occasion, he had the record book of the Good Templars' Lodge in his right hand, holding it partially over the breast. When about midway across the yard, some one not recognized by him fired upon him, the bullet striking his book and passing nearly through it. The book served as a shield, and doubtless saved his life. He immediately dropped the book, seized his revolver, returned the fire and repeated it. Search was made about the locality of the affair, where a small pistol was found, discharged, and near by it was an old cap, badly soiled, with a bullet-hole through the visor, and marks of blood upon the inside. Traces of blood were found on the ground for some distance, showing that Drew had made a good shot, and seriously and perhaps fatally wounded his assailant.

Edward H. Grimes and a woman named Abby J. Hutchinson, alias Grimes, were arrested in Hollis, last Friday, for stealing a horse and tilbury belonging to Mr. Charles Hale, of Hollis, from a church shed, on the evening of the 12th inst. The female has been in jail for having two husbands, on complaint of the first one to whom she was married, a Mr. Hutchinson, from whom she has been divorced. The present husband of this woman, Grimes, connected with her in this crime, is not yet twenty years old, but has three wives living.

The prize of $20 offered at Dartmouth for the best topographical plan of the Agricultural College farm made by a member of the Sophomore class, has been divided, on the ground of equal merit, between Charles H. Sanders, of Fisherville, and F. H. Wales, of South Braintree, Mass.

For playing marbles on the street, in Manchester, several boys were this morning brought before the court and fined $2 each and cost. For keeping a dog without license, Francis Moffat was compelled to pay a fine of $1 and cost.

The scientific apparatus of Dartmouth College has just received an addition in the shape of a new induction coil, which is the most powerful instrument of the kind in the United States. It was built in Boston at an expense of $700. Though no battery has yet been connected with it sufficient to fully bring out its power, a spark 19 1-2 inches long has been got from it.

AUTHORS OF ARITHMETICS IN ROCKINGHAM COUNTY. — Arithmetics were few in New England before the commencement of the present century. Dabol's, Webber's and Pike's were the principal ones, we believe.

I. Hilton's.—This was by Mr. Hilton of Deerfield, a native of that town. It was a book of moderate size; and, before 1815, was much out of use.

II. Merrill's.—Phineas Merrill, Esq. of Stratham, was the author. Mr. M. was born in that town; represented the town in the Legislature several years, was eminent as a land surveyor, and assisted in preparing the elegant map of our State, published by Philip Carrigain, Mr. Merrill also aided materially in preparing the first Gazetter of New Hampshire,—but died before it was ready for the press. Like many before other literary men, his chirography was so poor that it was difficult to decipher his manuscript. The work was published, however, much by the aid of his brother, the late Rev. Eliphalet Merrill of Northwood. Merrill's Arithmetic was issued previous to 1810. He died December 31, 1814, aged 47.

III. Welch's.—Oliver Welch, a native of Kingston, was the author. It appeared in 1810, and became very popular. It was plain and easy in comparison to books on the subject now. About twenty years ago, Truman H. Safford of Vermont, a prodigy in mathematics when less than 10 years of age, had Adams' New Arithmetic put into his hands as his first study of this branch of knowledge. He began in the middle of the book, and in four days dashed out both ways, master of the book. We venture the statement that he could have mastered Welch's Arithmetic in four hours.

Yet easy of solution as most of the problems in this book were, so incompetent were some teachers, they found portions of it beyond their power. One found great difficulty in getting an answer to a question in Common Addition, in which a merchant sold three pieces of cloth, one of so much, another of so much, and so on; and another as much as all the rest. And a veteran teacher found a plain question in Reduction of Coins insolvable by him. Mr. Welch left Kingston, and went to Maine.

In 1834, this Arithmetic was revised and improved by Hosea Knowlton, a native of Northwood. He resided in that town, was a teacher of common schools, moved to Chichester, and was a member of the Legislature. The improved work was much used. It retained the tedious part of the "Mensuration of Planes and Solids," embracing such figures as the Parallelopipedon and the like, rarely if ever previously heard of. After a few years, Adams' New Arithmetic quite extensively took the place of Welch's.

IV. Leavitt's.—This was by Dudley Leavitt, the famous Almanac maker. It was a small work for beginners, entitled "Elements of Arithmetic." It was published before 1820. Mr. Leavitt also issued, "An Abridgement of Pike's Arithmetic." Dudley Leavitt was born in Exeter, May 23, 1772. He was a descendant of John Leavitt who came from England in 1638, but five years after the settlement of the State commenced. In early life Dudley moved with his father to Deerfield. When of age, he went to Northfield; next to Gilmantown, where, in 1798, his first Almanac was prepared.

He next settled in Meredith, where he lived till his death. He prepared his Almanac fifty-five years. At the time of his death he had Almanacs nearly ready for five or six years later. The work still goes on with his name, but if any suppose the calculations were made by him, they must be but little acquainted with the accuracy with which he was in the habit of making Astronomical calculations. He died Sept. 15, 1851, aged 79.

V. Little's.—Ezekel Little, a native of Hampstead, became a teacher, was employed in Boston about twenty years, and was the author of an Arithmetic, used to some extent for a time.

VI. Emerson's.—The First Page was for beginners; The Second was for those needing a higher work; The Third Part, a full and comprehensive work. It is called The North American Arithmetic. The author is Frederic Emerson, a native of Hampstead, but long a resident of Massachusetts. His system of Arithmetics was well received, but not extensively used in our State. J. V. in Exeter News Letter.

PLANT TREES.—It is seldom that one regrets setting out a fruit tree, but it is often the case that persons regret they had neglected to do so, and yet from year to year go on neglecting still. It requires exertion, toil and care to succeed well with fruit; but if a man gives the matter a little thought, and applies a fair share of common sense to the operation, he will not fail to succeed in raising any kind of fruit adapted to his climate. It is important to have a good soil, but this matter of soil can be pretty easily managed in most cases. In the first place it must be rich in vegetable matter, and if manure be scarce and high, clover or buckwheat plowed in, supply the needful food to the young and growing trees.

Agues, Sleeplessness,	Paralysis,
Biliousness, Dyspepsia,	Dizziness,
Constipation, Liver Complaint,	Children's Troubles
Diarrhœa, Consumption,	&c., &c., &c.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is quite free from all PERNICIOUS SUBSTANCES whatever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE is the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone.
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN, WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap24w

THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1870.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE.

Tuesday Afternoon Session. — The first exercise was a lecture on Arithmetic by Prof. E. Knights of New London Literary Institute. He spoke to some length on the properties of numbers, showing that there are many curious facts which facilitate operations in numbers, when readily remembered.

He rebuked the too frequent practice of putting many studies into a school, and requiring the teacher to become an adept in all. No teacher can arise to eminence in teaching, if required to give instruction in many branches; neither can he do his work so well. Both teacher and scholar suffer in consequence of this error. The lecture was rendered more interesting by the presence of a class of lads, whose prompt answers speak well for somebody's teaching. Prof. K. is a natural mathematician and knows well how to talk figures and more than that does not seem afraid of chalk.

The next lecture was by Rev. Mr. Downs on the subject of Geography. The characteristic of the Indian Ocean is that of a gulf. In the very beginning, the saltness of the ocean was not one of its characteristics. It must have come from the land. The elements of salt in the crust or surface have united and sent their compound on its errand of mercy, by the rivers and streams to the ocean.

The speaker made very interesting remarks on the origin of navigation. He spoke of the Mediterranean Sea as the place where the world began to learn it. The lecture was intensely interesting, and in no way inferior to those of the same gentleman delivered previously.

Prof. Quimby continued the discussion of the subject of Algebra. The next exercise was a lecture on Elocution by Mrs. Miller. We are glad to hear some one say in public what we have long believed, that the simplest style is the best. Reading should give expression to the soul-feeling of the reader, as well as of the author. One of the first things to be insisted upon is distinct articulation; finish one word entirely before beginning another; the breath should all be vocalized in reading or speaking; tones illustrating this were given. The lecture was a good one, and the best of all is it was practical.

Tuesday evening, the Institute met at the Middle St. Baptist Church, and listened to a lecture by Prof. Sanborn, on the "Multiplicity of Text Books." The lecturer commenced by stating that the American people are prolific in teachers and text books. During the dark ages the Greek and Latin authors were the only text books. What a field for a modern book agent Oxford of the eleventh century would have been, where there was no printed book or key, chart or translation. With all the study of the ancient classics, it is a matter of doubt whether they are so well understood as they were two centuries ago. Students, with all their helps, only try to learn a particular thing, which when recited is gone forever, and no general knowledge is gained, and no permanent progress made.

An old German philosopher said, "If the gods would give me all knowledge, I would not thank them; but if they would give me the everlasting pursuit of knowledge, I would render them everlasting thanks." Only that which costs us labor is worth having. What is acquired by one's self is retained forever. A scholar should use but one grammar in the study of a language; it should accompany him through the university; but now the young man can hardly get acquainted with one before he is required to get another.

The lecture abounded in flashes of wit, and the Professor made himself and his audience merry over the long advertisements of certain publishing houses. A single series of mathematics counted up twenty-one volumes, and this is no exceptional case. If you have as many children as John Rogers, you can hardly furnish them reading books. The three ends of culture are discipline, information and expression. Booksellers determine what text books and how many we shall use. We are taxed without representation, and it is time for parents to rise and assert their right to life, liberty and the pursuit of knowledge.

Any of the text books may be good enough, but none of them are so good as agents try to prove them. They are mere compilations, all borrowed.

The audience were delighted, and the applause at the close showed that the speaker had the hearts of his hearers with him.

After the lecture, Mrs. Miller gave two finely rendered recitations. The first was Longfellow's "Launch of the Ship;" the other was the "Lightkeeper's Daughter." In some respects the latter was the best effort of the kind we ever listened to. The imitation of the bell, pealing and tolling, was perfect. The audience manifested their delight by loud applause.

Wednesday.—The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Mr. Dinsmore. Then the audience listened to a criticism by Miss A. C. Morgan of the High School. The critic nicely hit off the rivalry between the different churches for the honor of having the evening exercises.

Prof. Sanborn's lecture on "The Origin of the English Nation," was a good one. He said:—The English is a composite language, made up chiefly of the Anglo-Saxon and Norman French, with combinations from five or six other sources. Webster's Dictionary contains 114,000 words; of these about 25,000 are Anglo Saxon, and four-fifths of the remainder are from the Latin through the Norman French. We can converse and write in the Saxon element, because (1) all words denoting relations, such as articles, conjunctions, prepositions and pronouns are from that source; (2) all irregular words, including adjectives, verbs and anomalous plurals; (3) names of familiar objects and domestic relations; (4) specific words, where the generic word is from the Latin; (5) words of business, the shop, market, street and farm; and (6) words of invective, satire, humour and colloquial pleasantry—all are from the Saxon.

In ordinary conversation we use about 3000 words; orators employ 10,000; Milton uses 8000; Shakespeare, 15,000; the Bible employs 5642 words. Sixty words on every page of the best authors are Anglo-Saxon, because all the connections are from that tongue. In the twenty-third Psalm, of 119 words, only eight are of Latin origin. The Saxon is the most simple, familiar and forcible element of our language.

The lecturer recited briefly the history, and physical and moral traits of the successive tides of population that have occupied Europe. The first inhabitants of England were Celts. The remnants of this race are now found in Wales, Ireland and the Highlands of Scotland. The second wave of population was gothic. To this family we belong. The Saxons, Angles and Jates who came to England between A. D. 450 and A. D. 600 belonged to the Gothic Stock. These tribes form the basis of the English character; and from them we derive the following characteristics: (1) personal independence; (2) love of liberty; (3) obedience to law; (4) respect for women; (5) reverence for God. These traits are all manifested in their words, which reveal their thoughts, feelings and sentiments; for words are the body of which thought is the soul.

How any person of ordinary culture can listen to the learned Professor, and not feel wiser, and prouder of his national origin, we are unable to see. After a short recess Mr. Phipps, Agent of the Mass. Board of Education, lectured upon the subject of spelling. He commenced by saying that mistakes in spelling made by those not having enjoyed educational advantages ought not to be considered a disgrace, but, when made by those who have had these advantages they should be so considered, for there is no excuse for it. The lecturer spoke of prominent men who were poor spellers, and the list contained such great men as those of Washington, and the great English writer Addison, as well as that of Andrew Jackson, who is said to have first used the letters O. K., for "all correct."

The speaker put his audience in good humor by giving various egregious mistakes, made by business men and even Western teachers. Out of 1792 candidates for civil service in England, 1766 failed in spelling. The latter part of the lecture was an earnest and forcible plea for the lower branches, especially spelling, which must be learned early in life, or it will not be thoroughly learned at all. The best example of good spelling was that of a young school of colored children, kept by a colored lady.

This was an excellent lecture and quite exhaustive of the subject. Perhaps it is easy to talk of other people's mistakes, but it is well that it should be occasionally done. Rev. Mr. Downs gave another of his excellent lectures on Geography. We would gladly report him more fully, but we gave him so much space yesterday that it is but fair to give it to some one else to-day. There certainly is no abler teacher here than Prof. Knights whom we have not sufficiently spoken of.

Afternoon.—The first exercise was a lecture on Arithmetic by Prof. Knights. He said that if the teacher is able to interest his pupils, there will be no difficulty about discipline. No truer remark than this has been made, and I dare say this power to interest is the secret of the Professor's marked success, as a teacher of Mathematics. The topics which he treats are not uncommon, but they are made uncommonly interesting by the skill and earnestness with which they are treated.

The next lecture was on Elocution by Mrs. Miller. It was principally an exercise of the voice, the class giving the vowel elements. She closed with the recitation of "Sheridan's Ride." It was well rendered. The next exercise was a lecture on Algebra by Prof. Quimby. As in his former lectures, he showed remarkable keenness. Like the late Dr. Hoyt of Exeter, he seems to delight in entrapping those attempting to answer his questions.

In this way much merriment is produced, and, when rightly understood, the best of feeling. Such a teacher vivifies everything he touches, and is worth a thousand of the slow kind. We were even more pleased with this lecture than either of his former ones, though we at times found ourselves among the clouds. The style of questions has been objected to, but, as the lecturer himself said, he was here to teach us something, not to hear us recite what we already knew. Algebra is a beautiful study, but it is generally poorly taught for want of time. Those who have to hear a large class recite in ten or fifteen minutes, cannot do justice to themselves or their pupils.

Thursday,—8 3-4 A. M., opening service, Rev. W. H. Alden; 9 A. M., grammar, Prof. E. D. Sanborn; 10 1-2 A. M., methods of instruction and discipline, Prof. H. Orcutt; 1 1-2 P. M., arithmetic, Prof. E. Knights; 2 1-2 P. M., mathematical geography, Prof. E. T. Quimby; 3 1-2 P. M., elocution, Mrs. H. M. P. Miller; evening, lecture, Prof. H. Orcutt.

S. J. Court, Exeter.—On Tuesday, Mrs. Mary E. Stevens recovered $16.40 damages of Everett V. Emerson, who chased and threw stones at Pif's cow.

On Wednesday, the case of Patrick Callahan vs. Ames C. Clement, a suit to recover $200 damages for false imprisonment, was tried.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Infection in the Air.

Experimental chemists have repeatedly analyzed the air at unhealthy seasons, in the hope of detecting the invisible virus which produces epidemic disease. They have not yet discovered it, and scarcely any two of them agree as to its nature. This is of little consequence. It is sufficient to know that this poisonous principle exists, and that a safeguard against its insidious influence has been provided. In the spring and early summer, when fever and ague, remittent fever, and other periodical diseases of that class are prevalent it is only necessary to fortify the system with a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to escape them. If this precaution has been neglected, which it never ought to be in any district liable to such visitations, and if the paroxysms of malarious fever have actually commenced, they may always be checked and broken up by a course of that powerful vegetable tonic and alterative.

Quinine was once considered the only specific for chills and fevers; but it is now generally admitted that this nauseous alkaloid is a dangerous medicine, and that its secondary effects are more to be dreaded than any form of intermittent fever. It is simply a tremendous astringent. It does not touch the disordered liver, or regulate the bowels, or in any way improve the condition of the animal fluids. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS on the other hand, in addition to being a better and safer tonic than any preparation of quinine, has a balsamic effect upon the whole system.

It is aperient and antibilious, as well as directly invigorating and purifies the secretions as well as regulates the secretive organs. It stimulates the appetite, strengthens the stomach, soothes the nerves, promotes healthful perspiration, and induces quiet sleep. As a stomachic it has no rival. Cases of indigestion that no other tonic seems capable of alleviating, are cured in a few weeks by its regular use.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1866.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and must state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Lame Back, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. PAIN KILLER.

Perry Davis & Son, Proprietors,

1840. PROVIDENCE, R. I. 1870.

Time tests the Merits of all Things.

☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor sect nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, it is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per Bottle.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says: "I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye

as PERFECTLY INNOCUOUS ARTICLE, which may be used without fear. Remember, it is the only one that has been analyzed and pronounced wholesome. Its effects are instantaneous, and the colour it imparts natural.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. TRY IT. mh12dawlm

For Moth Patches, Freckles and Tan,

USE "PERRY'S MOTH & FRECKLE LOTION." The only Reliable and Harmless Remedy known to Science for removing brown discolorations from the Face. Prepared only by Dr. B. C. PERRY, 49 Bond St., N. Y. Sold by Druggists everywhere. 4mdawmh10

Pimples on the Face.

For Comedones, Black-Heads, Flesh Worms or Grubs, Pimply Eruptions and Blotched Disfigurations on the Face, use Perry's Comedone and Pimple Remedy. Reliable, Harmless, and contains no Lead poison. Depot, 49 Bond St., N. Y. Sold by all Druggists everywhere. 4mdawmh10

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautifully black or brown. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 6 Bond Street, New York.

The official details of the late massacre in Greece are equally humiliating to the Greek government and the British Legation in Athens.

Hostility to the plebiscitum is gaining ground in Paris.

The force in pursuit of the Greek brigands has succeeded in killing or capturing the entire party.

The McFarland trial drags slowly along.

The New York legislature has adjourned.

Hon. Geo. W. Messinger of Boston died, Wednesday, aged 57 years.

☞ The British Government has received despatches from Athens confirming the intelligence of the fate of the captives in the hands of brigands. The Greek government had made every effort to save them but in vain. Negotiations having been exhausted, the troops moved against the robbers and drove them to a tower on the coast near Orope, where they were surrounded on Friday afternoon. Offers were once more made to the brigands, but were rejected, and at ten o'clock next morning an attack was made on their position. As soon as the troops began to move, Mr. Herbert and Count Boyl, secretary of the Italian Legation, were taken out by their captors and butchered, and subsequently, when the brigands found themselves hard pressed, Vianer and Lloyds were killed. The troops finally carried the tower, and the brigands, two of whose leaders had been mortally wounded, fled and were closely pursued by the soldiers. There are strong hopes that most of the band will be captured, in which case they will be summarily dealt with by the Greek authorities. The British press clamors for the punishment of the murderers, and demands indemnity for the slain from the Greek government.

Reported for the Chronicle and Gazette.

DOMESTIC WANTED, by Mrs. LITMAN, at No. 1 Austin Street.

L—O—A—N
—OF THE—
CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD CO.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportations of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West, to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

INVESTORS and CAPITALISTS,

Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1000, $500 and $100,

and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.

Interest Six per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Price 90 and accrued Interest in Currency, at which price they pay nearly Seven per cent. in gold on their cost.

All Government Bonds and other Securities dealt in at the Stock Exchange, received in exchange, at their full market value, and Bonds sent to all parts of the country, free of Express charges.

They can be obtained by ordering direct from us or through any responsible Bank or Banker in any part of the country.

Morning Chronicle.

From the Concord "People."

THE PROFITS OF FARMING.—Mr. Herbert says, "what we mean by saying that farming don't pay, is that it is not equal in profits to other kinds of business." And again, that "no business is considered paying that will not yield more than the interest upon the capital invested." This I understand to cover the whole ground of the controversy; that farming, where the same amount of intellect, learning, energy and capital is engaged, is not as paying as other professions or occupations, with the like capabilities and facilities. Such, I infer, is Mr. Herbert's meaning, or his remark that "farming don't pay" (as now conducted) would contain no point of dispute and therefore be unworthy the argument that has been arrayed against it.

With what listlessness and unthrift does the farmer plod along "the even tenor of his way" year after year, turning over the same pieces in the paternal fields that his father and grandfather did before him, paying no attention to the saving or manufacturing of manures. According to Dana it has been proved, by actual experiment, that the manure of one cow, if all saved for one year, both liquid and solid, is sufficient to dress 1 1-4 acres of ground. Many farmers in our State, keeping 15 or 20 head of cattle and horses, do not manure from year to year properly more than two or three acres of land; the remainder being lost by negligence in furnishing absorbents to their hog-pens and stables.

Neither do they pay any regard to rotation of crops or the condition of the markets, their only ambition being to raise enough to support their families until crops come again. Is it any wonder, Mr. Herbert, that such farmers and they are many—"are not worth one dollar more now than they were twenty years ago?" Why not charge the unprofitableness of farming to the right source—to the incapacity of its operators, and not against this first and most important of sciences? But Mr. Herbert says "he don't deny that some make money by farming."

If some men make money by farming, then the way is possible for all with like talents and opportunities. The same objections lie in the way of all other pursuits. Some merchants and manufacturers have accumulated enormous wealth by more than fair profit, others within my knowledge have failed periodically once in about three years, their creditors suffering loss. Nor is the legal profession uniformly successful. I have known farmers' sons educated for the bar at great expense, and yet they failed entirely in their profession; they turned farmers, and made successful ones. How is that, Mr. Herbert, "if farming don't pay?"

I have known a Judge of the Common Pleas Court of our County to leave the bench and become a successful farmer. He afterwards published a standard work on underdraining. Why did the Judge turn farmer, if farming don't pay? Perhaps Mr. H. can answer me, for I understand that he is a member of the bar.

I knew a farmer who had a farm left him by his father, worth from ten to fifteen thousand dollars, who turned merchant and in five years was penniless. I knew another man who could neither read nor write. He commenced life without a dollar, in a wild and mountainous region, and in good time accumulated $20,000, all by farming. In what other calling could he have been as successful? Farming pays those who are competent for the business. Those who are not competent had better become doctors, lawyers, merchants or manufacturers.

I quote another instance of a successful farmer and the profits of farming, which I think will compare with the profits of any other profession mentioned; "A farmer in the town of Arlington, Mass., purchased in 1835 thirty-six acres of land for $6,000, mortgaged the farm for the payment of one-half of it, and was thought by his neighbors to be a madman. From that time to this he has gone on devoting himself to the special crops of that section, until he is worth to-day, with his accumulations and interest, $250,000, which he has wrung out of the soil."

Here is one of your great estates, which, according to Mr. Herbert's theory, it would be impossible to have gathered from so humble and unprofitable a source. I think this man and his wife might "have gone to the beach," had his name booked at Saratoga or the White Mountains with your merchant princes, manufacturers and lawyers, if he had the disposition to run the risk of being snobbed by such aristocratic society; might have had "a residence on the shores of the Atlantic, with the balmy air and cooling breezes from the ocean to invigorate his nerves and strengthen his pleasures."

It is lamentably true that farmers as a class need more intelligence, politically and otherwise, and less party prejudice; so that when they vote it will be for men who will act for the common weal instead of for party merely; men in whose hands the interests of agriculture will be safe; men who will not need committees to remind them of their duties, but who will act promptly and faithfully for the interests of their constituents.

Farming, like all other kinds of business, in order to be successful, must be managed skillfully. All its operations must be directed by sound judgment. Managed in this way it always pays—not by producing princely fortunes, but by returning a fair equivalent for capital and labor expended.

The shoe manufactories of Dover, which now outrank in magnitude the cotton and print works of that city, have suspended work temporarily on account of the full supply of goods now in the market.

Mr. J. J. Hatlinger of Dover has sold in that city 266 copies of John B. Gough's autobiography. He has now taken the City of Portsmouth to canvas, and the Dover Bee says will be found a gentlemen in his intercourse with the people here.

Judge Smith of Dover is holding a term of the S. J. Court in Concord.

Let every one see to it that they have fruit trees engaged in season to plant out this spring, on every spot of ground that can be available to that purpose. The market will never be fully supplied with fruit.

Rev. De W. C. Durgin has accepted a call to the Church at Seabrook and Hampton Falls.

A committee, to consist of the Mayor, two of the Board of Aldermen and the President and two of the Common Council, of Dover, are appointed to make arrangements for a suitable public reception of Hon. John P. Hale, on his arrival home.

Some of the managers of the New England Fair met in Manchester for the purpose of arranging the purses to be offered for the best trotting horses. Eleven premiums will be offered, amounting to the sum of $2,200.

Joseph B. Sawyer of Manchester set a steel trap in his cellar in hopes of catching a big rat. After a few days the trap was missing. It was found at length, and confined in its jaws was the whole of a rat's leg. It appeared that the enemy had been fairly caught by the leg, and finding that there was only one way of escape, he had gnawed off the limb close up to his body.

Mr. Ezekiel Lane of Candia, while building a fence on his premises, met with a serious accident on Thursday last. A stake which he was pulling up broke, and Mr. Lane fell and dislocated one of his knees and badly bruised his shoulder. He is about 78 years of age.

Gov. Hoffman of New York has vetoed all the bills appropriating money to railroads, and there is sadness.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR,
For Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Vitality and Color.
A Dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for Preserving the Hair. Faded or gray Hair is even restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. This hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But where there remains can be saved, for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor, can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing also can be more desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

CITY COUNCIL.—In the Aldermen, (full Board,) F. Jones was granted permission to encumber State Street for building.

Ald. Nowell called attention to the filling in of the millpond at foot of Brewster St., stopping the sewer. Ref. to the Mayor with power to act.

Dr. Laighton's petition for drain on Russell St., ref. to Com. on Sts. with power. Likewise Wm. Varrell's complaint of injury from sewer through his land on Richards' Avenue.

Com. on Sts. recommended survey and plan of grade of Union St., which Surveyor Hoyt and the St. Com'r were authorized to prepare.

Ald. Cotton called attention to bad condition of curbstones on Washington St., at Brimstone Hill. Ref. to Com. on Streets.

Bill of Geo. Hough for $75 land damages on Freeman's Pt. Road, taken from table and ref. to Com. on Sts. It was stated that Wm. Hammond had settled his claim for the $25 voted him.

The Com. on Sts. reported that the Cutter heirs refuse to accept the $250 voted by the Board, for the proposed widening of Congress St. at Middle. After much discussion, and proposals to proceed legally to lay out the same, the matter was laid on the table for two weeks. Voted to pay the Leavitt estate the $200 they offered to accept for said widening.

The Appropriation Bill, from the Com. Council, foots up $141,000.05. Ref. to Com. on Bills on 2d Reading. The State tax is $30,000, County $22,000 almost, City Debt and Interest $23,000, new Schoolhouse at Creek $3500, new Steam Fire Engine $4400, Hose $1000, and Stone-Crusher $2000. Streets $6000, Roads $2500, Fire Dept. $5000.

The Mayor reported that the Creek Cesspool nuisance was under legal advisement. Also that the Com. on Fire Dept. has decided to order the Street sprinkling tank removed from Brewster St., in accordance with the request of the Board of Engineers. Ald. Miller thought the removal was unadvisable and unnecessary, as a few men could push the tank out of the way in five minutes, if by any possibility it should ever prove in the way of the engines. Mr. Plaisted states the cost of moving at $60 to $75, which is more than he can make out of the sprinkling and besides he can get no place to move it.

The Board concurred in the Council's vote of $75 for G. A. R. Memorial Celebration.

The Com. on Streets reported new grade for Summer St. extension—to fill 6 inches more in the valley, and cut a foot less on the hill—which was adopted and sent down—and being concurred in by the Council, it was voted that the Com. on Streets and the Mayor be authorized to advertise for sealed bids to build said street, and to open bids May 12th, and proceed to build the street.

Common Council.—(Messrs. Plaisted, Senter, Thompson and French absent.) A resolution was passed to appropriate $75 towards defraying the expenses of the G. A. R. on Memorial Day, the Aldermen concurring.

The Appropriation Bill was reported back to the Council by the Com. on Bills on 2d Reading, with the addition of $1000 each to the items for repairs of Streets, and Roads out of the compact part of the city, and $2000 for purchasing a stone-crusher—and as amended, passed.

The Aldermen sent down a joint resolution to settle the grade of Union St., which was concurred in. Also an amended grade for extension of Summer Street, which was adopted after an animated discussion, in which several side raps were given, one of them hitting the new fire-engine a little easy, and the yeas and nays being demanded in every possible direction,—Yeas, Marden, Gardner, Perry and Miller, 4; Nays, Sides, Waterhouse and Tibbetts, 3.

Adjourned for one week.

S. J. COURT, Exeter, April 28.—South Hampton vs. Gilman B. Currier, action to recover $21.76 alleged to have been paid to deft. as Town Treasurer, on trial Wednesday and Thursday. Kensington vs. Newton next in order.

☞ The first thunder shower of the season visited this vicinity, Thursday afternoon.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,
Coughs, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses, Colds, Headache, Fainting Fits, Fevers, Convulsions, Palpitation, Agues, Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Dizziness, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Children's Troubles Diarrhœa, Consumption, &c., &c., &c.
Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs whatsoever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5tw
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which inflict CHILDREN, WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5tw

GRANT AND MCCLELLAN.—Mr. E. A. Pollard, the historian of the Southern confederacy—a Virginian and the editor of a confederate paper in Richmond all through the war, writes a long letter to the N. Y. Tribune, from which we quote as follows:

To those at all acquainted with the comparative condition of the Southern Confederacy at different times of the war, the fact is certain that with reference to the inferiority of numbers opposed on the Confederate side, Gen. McClellan had, in the year 1862, advantages greater than Grant or any Northern commander ever had. He had these advantages steadily inviting him for six months; and that he did not avail himself of them, and that there was at last an accumulation of Confederate numbers allowed by him sufficient to whip him, so far from furnishing an excuse, but gives to his condemnation the additional charge of torpor and imbecility. In February, 1862, when urged by President Lincoln to advance, when the Federal troops in Virginia and about Washington numbered 193,142, and when McClellan himself boasted that his "Grand Army" was "magnificent in material, admirable in discipline and instruction, excellently equipped and armed," he had on his front, to dispute his passage to Richmond, a force which numbered of all arms a little more than 20,000 men! This estimate of the Confederate army at Manassas, is from a staff officer of Gen. Jos. E. Johnston, its commander, and must be taken as authentic. More than this, that little army was, in the early months of 1862, in the saddest state of disorganization, having been turned into an "electioneering camp" by the folly of the Confederate Congress, and, says a staff officer of Gen. Stonewall Jackson, "had McClellan then advanced, he would have found little else than demoralized men, disgracing the uniform of soldiers, covering the way to Richmond."

Did Grant ever have such a chance? And if McClellan did not use it, is not the act of omission in a military commander to be taken as proof of inferior generalship quite as well as that of commission?

Again; when McClellan went down to Yorktown, and opened another campaign there, the "fierce army" that then opposed him was exactly seven thousand five hundred men. Gen. Magruder commanded all that was then in the pathway of McClellan, while the bulk of the Confederate forces were still in motion in the neighborhood of the Rappahannock and the Rapidan, and he had no assurance of re-inforcements. The force of McClellan was then ten times his own; they had commenced a daily cannonading upon his lines; and a council of general officers was convened to consult whether the little army of 7,500 men should maintain its position in the face of tenfold odds, or retire before the enemy. The council was unanimous for the latter alternative, with the exception of one officer, who declared that every man should die in the intrenchments before the little army should fall back! "By G——, it shall be so," was the sudden exclamation of Gen. Magruder, in sympathy with the gallant suggestion. And so Richmond was saved.

McClellan was defeated at last by an army not greatly inferior in numbers, which he had supinely allowed to be drawn in from the ends of the Confederacy. But so far from its being a "fierce army," we report the fact as it came from the lips of Gen. Lee: "Nearly two-thirds were raw conscripts, who had never been under fire, and were only half instructed."

If any balance of generalship is to be held between McClellan and Grant as to the numbers of forces which opposed them in their respective campaigns in Virginia, or as to the veteran material of these forces, their condition of discipline, and, in general, their formidable character, we shall have no hesitation in deciding who was the greatest General. The test is not the most certain one, but the correspondent referred to has chosen to interpose it, and however insignificant this act of ingenuity may be in his own person, there are not a few Southern newspapers which have solemnly adopted it.

As to the general question of comparative merits as commanders between McClellan and Grant, what we have said of the former suggests the main difference between the rivals. McClellan may have been an excellent organizer of armies; it has been said of him that he had the pedantry of war without its inspiration. There could be no greater contrast to his moral timidity, the mechanical sense of order, the slow genius, if any genius, at all, of "Athelstane, the Unready," than those quick instincts of fight in Grant which gave him this merit of a great commander—that he never declined a battle, and that he went at it with a force of decision that sometimes appeared irregular, simply because it never calculated the inferior circumstances of the situation. His military genius might have been the unbrilliant and ponderous one of a commander determined to conquer by repeated strokes of physical force; but no one can doubt the readiness and determination with which he struck at all times. If he had no finesse, he had no procrastination. He was never bothered by that nice attention to details which is always adjusting and readjusting, which never realizes precisely the combination it desires, and which, instead of making real preparations, keeps itself only in a constant state of nervousness and distrust.

But the fact which we wish especially to bring to light, and which may surprise some readers, is that the Southern Confederacy, so far from being in the extremity of despair, described by the Washington correspondent, when Grant undertook the campaign of 1864, was not at any time of the war, in a military point of view, more able and seperate. The lapse from this condition was sudden and awful before the year was out, and from causes at which we shall presently glance. But the truth is indisputable to those who lived in the South at the time, and made careful and intelligent observations around them, that the Confederacy never turned upon her foe a more imposing and determined aspect than when, in the early months of 1864, Grant took command of the Northern forces in Virginia, and found on his front an army which, though somewhat less numerous than that which defeated McClellan around Richmond, was much more formidable. It was an army of 60,000 men, all told—the best seasoned army that Virginia had ever put in the field—composed entirely of veterans, and inspired by a combination of every circumstance that could breed courage or insure devotion.

Gen. Grant, however we may esteem him, as a commander superior to McClellan, has but small honors as a conqueror. Let it be said in justice to him that in the opening of the year 1864 he fought against disadvantages at which McClellan would have been appalled; that the Confederacy, at least in Virginia, was far stronger then to expel him than it was to drive McClellan from Manassas or from Yorktown; that he fought Lee's army with decision, with spirit, and with something of success. So far, the comparison between himself and McClellan may be held; and here it ends.

AWFUL ACCIDENT IN RICHMOND.—On Wednesday, the floor of the Court of Appeals in the State Capitol gave way, and precipitated the hundreds gathered there to hear the decision in the mayoralty case of Ellyson and Chahoon, upon the conservative caucus then sitting in the hall of the House of Delegates below. It is supposed that 20 members of the legislature are killed and wounded. The judges of the Court of Appeals all escaped unhurt; L. H. Chandler, counsel for Chahoon in the mayoralty case, was injured; James Mason and Judge Meredith, counsel for Ellyson, were also badly hurt. About 200 persons were hurt by the accident.

Directly after the disaster occurred the fire alarm was used to give the alarm, and the hook and ladder companies repaired at once to the scene. For three hours the place was full of horror. Almost every minute there appeared swung out by a rope tied around the middle of the body, some popular favorite, who after being swung on the shoulders of one of the fire brigade, mangled and dead, was brought down the ladder and laid on the green grass of the public park, where it was instantly surrounded by two or three thousand of those who had gathered to recognize the slain. The park was filled with weeping women and anxious men until two o'clock, when the last victim was drawn from the building. After this the police closed the park and refused admittance to any one, the bodies of the dead having been sent out. All the stores in the city were closed, and no more business was done during the day.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Infection in the Air.

Experimental chemists have repeatedly analyzed the air at unhealthy seasons, in the hope of detecting the invisible virus which produces epidemic disease. They have not yet discovered it, and scarcely any two of them agree as to its nature. This is of little consequence. It is sufficient to know that this poisonous principle exists, and that a safeguard against its insidious influence has been provided. In the spring and early summer, when fever and ague, remittent fever, and other periodical diseases of that class are prevalent it is only necessary to fortify the system with a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to escape them. If this precaution has been neglected, which it never ought to be in any district liable to such visitations, and if the paroxysms of malarious fever have actually commenced, they may always be checked and broken up by a course of that powerful vegetable tonic and alterative.

Quinine was once considered the only specific for chills and fevers; but it is now generally admitted that this nauseous alkaloid is a dangerous medicine, and that its secondary effects are more to be dreaded than any form of intermittent fever. It is simply a tremendous astringent. It does not touch the disordered liver, or regulate the bowels, or in any way improve the condition of the animal fluids. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS on the other hand, in addition to being a better and safer tonic than any preparation of quinine, has a balsamic effect upon the whole system.

It is aperient and antibilious, as well as directly invigorating, and purifies the secretions as well as regulates the secretive organs. It stimulates the appetite, strengthens the stomach, soothes the nerves, promotes healthful perspiration, and induces quiet sleep. As a stomachic it has no rival. Cases of indigestion that no other tonic seems capable of alleviating, are cured in a few weeks by its regular use.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 a bottle they would not do without it. Remember, which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time its more popular and extensive demand is larger and more extensive than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor sect nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Koeciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a staple medicinal agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Wednesday evening, the Institute met at the Middle Street Church. Prayer by Rev. Mr. Adams. Supt. Hardy introduced Prof. Quimby, who lectured on "The Philosophy of Mathematics." He remarked that the first part of his lecture would be what he usually presents to the students of Dartmouth, the very first day he meets them in college. He then gave definitions of certain terms. Quantity is anything that can be measured. Fear has no unit of measure, therefore it is not a quantity. Distance is a quantity. A line that can be mechanically measured, as with the rod or chain, is used to measure inaccessible lines, as the distance to the sun, by means of the relations they bear to each other. After speaking in an interesting manner on the subject of Algebra, the lecturer proceeded to consider the practical features of the Higher Mathematics.

At this point he introduced the remark of a young man who had few educational advantages, aptly illustrating the value of knowledge. The speaker had remarked that it did not take much knowledge to get through the world. "But," said the young man, "there is a difference between getting through and going through." This is the whole of it. The learned man goes through, and does some good, as he passes along.

He next spoke of the coast survey, its importance and the accuracy of the calculations. The Fire Island Base, of 8 3-4 miles, as computed from the Epping Base of 5 1-2 miles, was so accurate that there was an error not exceeding 4 or 5 inches. He next passed to the subject of Astronomy, as connected with mathematics. He mentioned the discovery of the planet Neptune, which resulted from the perturbations of another called Uranus. There was a deviation from the computed orbit, so small that no eye, without telescopic aid, could ever have detected it; but to the minds of Adams and Leverrier it suggested the existence of a planet beyond. With this basis they dared to reach out 1,800,000,000 of miles into space to feel for this unknown world. This is the history of its discovery, and it was a great triumph of mathematical genius.

The Professor then exhibited to the audience an instrument called "The Planimeter," by means of which areas can be readily and accurately determined. The lecture was exceedingly interesting throughout, and was delivered without notes. We are unable to report it more fully.

Prof. Sanborn, by special request, occupied a short time in explaining proper names. His remarks were very interesting, and were listened to by an attentive and delighted audience.

Thursday; The morning devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. L. L. Harmon.

Prof. Quimby gave another lecture on Algebra, as interesting as any of the preceding.

Prof. Sanborn then spoke most eloquently for an hour on "Historical Exponents," or central facts in history. Such was Hannibal taking the oath of eternal hate to Rome. His description of this great general's march over the Alps was as eloquent a passage as it has been our privilege to hear, since we used to sit and listen to the same voice in the old recitation room at Hanover. He spoke of the Pyramids and the railroad now passing under their very shadow, as the extremes of civilization. The Bema and the theatre are the exponents of Greek civilization; the forum and the camp those of the Roman empire; those of the dark ages were the monastery and the castle. The church and the schoolhouse are the exponents of the civilization of to-day. At the close the Professor was heartily applauded.

The next lecture was by Prof. Orcutt of Tilden Ladies' Seminary, West Lebanon. His subject was "Methods of Instruction." He did not expect any one to imitate him, for one's own way is best. He only wanted to give teachers the benefit of his experience. The teacher must get at the peculiarities of each scholar. There are four classes of pupils, the easy, the dull, the self-sufficient and the self-distrustful. The first are to be tasked, till they are obliged to work, as well as the dull. The discipline arising from the work done or effort made is what we are after, not mere acquisition. The self-sufficient must be made to know his place, and the self-distrusting must be encouraged. From the last class come many that are most successful in life. If they are encouraged, as they should be, they will learn to work hopefully and even confidently, ever looking forward to the success that is within their reach. The scholar should be made to do his own work; he gains no discipline or strength from the efforts of others; but his own are never in vain. The recitation hour should ever be held sacred, and no pupil be allowed to interrupt a recitation, with questions or examples to be answered or solved. The Professor dwelt at some length on the necessity of making instruction practicable, that things may be learned when the pupil engages in active life. We were glad to hear book-teaching condemned. We should teach subjects not books, a view broad and deep should be taken, and the pupils encouraged to ask questions.

The Professor is a worker, and talks with an earnestness that commands attention. From this lecture any teacher could learn much of value.

Afternoon.—Session opened with a lecture on Arithmetic by Prof. Knight, during which he discussed compound and annual interest, showing in a clear and lucid manner the difference between them. After considering the subject of proportion, he passed to square root, &c. This is the worthy Professor's closing exercise. He has not tried to bring up uncommon and puzzling points, but has faithfully discussed some of the more important. In closing he made some very fine general remarks, and was applauded. Prof. Quimby next lectured on Geometry. It was a straight-forward talk, and fully equalled any exercise of the week.

Mrs. Miller then recited Moore's "Bridge of Sighs" and "The Umbrella Lecture by Mrs. Caudle." The latter was much enjoyed, and was followed by well merited applause.

Friday.—8 3-4 A. M., opening service, Rev. J. DeNormandie; 9 A. M., arithmetic, Prof. E. Knights; 10 A. M., grammar, Rev. Wm. L. Gaylord; 11 A. M., discipline and methods of instruction, Prof. H. Orcutt; 1 1-2 P. M., geometry, Prof. E. T. Quimby; 2 1 2 P. M., elocution, Mrs. H. M. P. Miller; 3 1-2 P. M., lecture, "The Teacher," A. C. Hardy; evening, select readings, Mrs. H. M. P. Miller.

Saturday,—8 3-4 A. M., opening service, Rev. L. L. Harmon; 9 A. M., lecture on manners, Prof. H. Orcutt; 10 A. M., general discussion.

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM.—Mrs. Scott Siddons and Miss Alice Dutton are to furnish a first class entertainment at the Temple this evening. Miss Dutton is well known as a Pianiste of rare artistic ability, and Mrs. Scott Siddons is said to be the handsomest woman on the stage. She recently appeared in Hartford, and the Times of that city speaks enthusiastically of her. It says she is charming by right of her beauty, her grace, her well-bred ease, her refined representation of gaiety and light-heartedness; one could not help saying, a female Booth!—not yet in prime, but to be. Refined, expressive features, wonderful eyes, a graceful form, pleasant voice, distinct enunciation, aye, all the natural advantages Booth possesses. Careful study, correct thought, well calculated gestures, a rendering which exhibits and illustrates every thought of the poet, and all this n icely balanced,—most of the artistic acquirements of the great actor.

☞ We are desired to state that M. Godfieu, of Cambridge, is prepared to teach the French language in this city for $10 a term, if Classes shall be formed immediately. It is proposed to form two Classes, one somewhat advanced. Mr. G. comes recommended by Prof. Longfellow and others of Harvard College. Those interested will please apply forthwith at Mr. Foster's Bookstore.

☞ Hon. E. A. Stevens is this week removing his family to Boston suburbs. His removal is a loss to this community.

L—O—A—N
—OF THE—
CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD CO.
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad
Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportations of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West, to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

INVESTORS and CAPITALISTS,

Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1000, $500 and $100,

and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.

Interest Six per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Price 90 and accrued Interest in Currency, at which price they pay nearly Seven per cent. in gold on their cost.

All Government Bonds and other Securities dealt in at the Stock Exchange, received in exchange, at their full market value, and Bonds sent to all parts of the country, free of Express charges.

Communication.

THE NAVY.—Prior to the war of 1812 against Great Britain, we had very few men-of-war, and the general voice of the nation, as we well recollect, was opposed to their increase. That event at once changed that opinion, and war vessels and privateers were rapidly built and equipped. Our privateers made havoc of English commerce upon the Atlantic, and their prizes enriched many individuals.

At the conclusion of that war, our navy having been largely increased, we sent our floating batteries into the Mediterranean Sea, to batter down Tripoli and Algiers, unless they would deliver up one or two hundred of our seamen who had been captured by the pirates and were held in slavery, and also cease to demand "tribute money," which we had long paid to the Algerines for the protection of our commerce in that sea. The armament, under the command of Decatur, accomplished the object of the expedition.

A large increase of our naval force was made during the late rebellion. But a comparatively small part of it is now requisite for the protection of our commerce in foreign ports. Some writers are contrasting the superior power and number of the English and French war-steamers to ours. The situation and condition of England and France are widely different from our country. The area of the English islands is about equal to that of Maine and New Hampshire, and her national safety consists in her superior naval force, without which she would long since have been conquered by France or Spain. The vast amount required for the support of the English navy, raised by excise duties and taxes, is a heavy oppression upon the people. Therefore let not this nation envy or follow her example, or that of France.

It would be an idle supposition that any foreign nation could conquer this one, or get a foothold upon our soil. Such are our inexhaustible resources, wealth and power, and rapidly increasing population, (which in a quarter of a century will exceed eighty millions,) that no nation on the earth would venture to levy war against us. But should our navy be reduced one-half, and such an improbable event take place, it would not require a year to build, increase and equip a navy sufficient to conquer any naval force that should attempt to invade our seacoast.

Many valid reasons may be assigned against any immediate increase of our navy; and many may be assigned for its reduction, by converting a part into merchantmen, which, it is stated, are needed for the export of our surplus products, a large portion of which are now exported in British bottoms. The many millions of expenditures for the support of our navy are paid by the people, and largely increase their taxes. X. Y.

New Publications Received.

The Technologist for April, No. 3,—especially devoted to Engineering, Manufacturing and Building. A large and valuable monthly, issued by the Industrial Publication Co., New York. Only $2 a year. The first article in this number is by Horace Greeley, on "a new pursuit badly needed—Agricultural Engineers."

Farmers, Mechanics and Laborers Need Protection—Capital Can Take Care of Itself. Speech of Hon. Wm. D. Kelley of Pennsylvania, in the U. S. House of Representatives, March 25th.

☞ Rev. T. V. Haines, after preaching three years at the Congregational Church in North Hampton, was installed as pastor on Wednesday. Sermon by Rev. Geo. M. Adams of Portsmouth, other services by Rev. Messrs. Robie of Greenland, McLane of Hampton, Leach of Rye, Peabody of Stratham, and Chase. Mr. Haines is an able and popular man, as this fact shows after his long trial.

NAVAL. — Lieutenant-Commander Chas. W. Tracey and Lieut. Joseph N. Hemphill have been ordered to the Flymouth. Masters J. P. Merrill and Clifford H. West have been detached from that vessel, and placed on waiting orders.

MANDRAKE

is the great Vegetable substitute for Calomel, to Act on the LIVER.

IN FREEMAN'S MANDRAKE SYRUP it is combined with Iron and Vegetable Tonics, and forms the most perfect Spring Medicine.

It purifies the blood and imparts IRON to it.

It acts on the Liver and removes foul humors from the body.

It is a most excellent remedy for debility, especially for mothers who are down by nursing infants, and for all persons whose blood is poor, and who need iron and a strengthening medicine.

FALL RIVER LINE
FOR New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and all principal points West, South and South-west.
VIA TAUNTON FALL RIVER AND NEWPORT.
Cabin, $5.00; Deck, $4.00.
Baggage checked through and transferred in New York free of charge.
New York trains leave the Old Colony and Newport Railway Depot, corner of South and Kneeland Streets, daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows: at 4.30 P. M., arriving in Fall River 40 min. in advance of the regular Steamboat Train, which leaves Boston at 5.30 P. M., connecting at Fall River with the new and magnificent steamers PROVIDENCE, Capt. B. M. Simmons, and BRISTOL, Capt. A. Simmons. These steamers are the fastest and most reliable boats on the Sound, built expressly for speed, safety and comfort. This line connects with all the Southern Boats and Railroad Lines from New York going West and South, and convenient to the California Steamers.
"To Shippers of Freight," this Line, with its new and extensive depot accommodations in Boston, and large pier in New York, (exclusively for the business of the Line,) is supplied with facilities for freight and passenger business which cannot be surpassed. Freight always starts at low rates, and forwarded with despatch.
New York Express Freight Train leaves Boston at 1.30 P. M.; goods arrive in New York next morning about 6 A. M. Freight leaving New York reaches Boston on the following day, at 9.45 A. M.
For tickets, berths and state rooms, apply at the Company's office at No. 3 Old State House, corner of Washington and State Streets, and at old Colony and Newport Railroad Depot, corner of South and Kneeland Streets, Boston.
Steamers leave New York daily, (Sundays excepted,) from Pier 30 North River, foot of Chambers Street, at 5 P. M.

A CRACK IN THE HOG TROUGH.—The following from a recent number of the Prairie Farmer, is almost as good as Franklin's story of the whistle:

"A few days since a friend sent me word that, every day, he gave nearly twenty pails of buttermilk to a lot of "shoats," and they scarcely improved at all. Thinks I, this is a breed of hogs worth seeing. This must be the sheet iron kind. So I called on him, heard him repeat the mournful story, and then visited the sty, in order to get a better view of the miraculous swine. I went into the pen, and on examination, found a crack in the trough through which most of the contents ran away under the floor. Thinks I, here is the type of the failures of our agricultural brethren.

When I see a farmer omitting all improvements because of a little cost, selling all his farm stock, to buy bank or railroad stock or mortgage stock, while, in reality, he is robbing himself, and his heirs; thinks I, my friend, you have a crack in your hog trough.

When I see a farmer buying guano, but wasting ashes and hen manure, trying all sorts of experiments except intelligent hard work and economy, getting the choicest of seeds, regardless of cost, then planting them regardless of cultivation, such a man, I will give a written guarantee, has got a crack in his hog trough, and in his head, also.

When I see a farmer allowing loose boards all over his yards, fences down, hinges off the gate, manure in the barn-yard, I come to the conclusion that he has got a large crack in his hog trough.

When I see a farmer spending his time traveling in a carriage, when he has to sell his corn to pay the hired help, and his hogs are so lean that have to lean against the fence to squeal, I rather lean to the conclusion that somebody that stays at home will have a lien on the farm, and that some day the bottom will come entirely out of his hog trough."

MATTERS PERTAINING TO THING.—On Thing's brook in Waldoboro', Me., before the late freshet dwelt Horace P. Thing, whose dwelling and dwelling place are things of the past. On the stream he had a dam and a mill at the foot of a hill about fifty feet high. On this hill of sand, regardless of the teachings of Scripture, he had built his house and barn. In front of his house, a few rods distant and a little lower than the house, he had dug and stoned a well thirty-three feet deep. "The rains descended, the floods came," and the dam gave way, carrying the mill with it. The water washed away the hill until it came to the well. It washed away the earth, leaving the well sticking up in the air thirty-three feet. The bottom of the well being then undermined, the well tipped over and floated down stream. Having an invalid son, his supply of water being cut off, and his house being in imminent danger, he decided to remove to his barn, which was in the rear, and still higher than the house. Scarcely had he done this, when his house made a sudden and perpendicular descent of fifty feet into the raging flood beneath, and followed his well. The barn, too, he was soon compelled to evacuate, and it speedily followed the house. Thing's things are now scattered along the route of the freshet, in confusion.

—A man locked his wife into an upper room and not being satisfied with this punishment, but wishing to aggravate her still further, sent his son up with a bone. The young innocent took it up, and said: "Mother, father sent this up, and says there is a bone to pick." The mother replied: "Take it back and tell him he not your father, and there's a bone for him to pick."

—We will give an anecdote related by a man 75 years old. A good Catholic wanted his priest to pray that his land might be blessed. He told him the best thing to do was to put on the muck. Our informant has practised on this plan for 60 years, and it works well.

—The Ignis Fatuus or Will-o'-the-wisp was formerly supposed to be a mirage, but is essentially different, being composed of gases from decaying vegetable and animal matter, and is therefore a floating substance.

—A Boston gentleman who could not waltz, offered a young lady one hundred dollars, if she would let him hug her as much as the young man did who had just waltzed with her.

—Kerosene is the best antidote for a burn or scald. Immerse the injured part in cold water for a moment; dry with a soft cloth, taking care not to rub at all. Then bathe in kerosene, and the terrible pain ceases.

—The London Times states that the late Marquis Lousada, British Consul at Boston, was a natural son of King George the Fourth.

☞ The best protection to keep fruit trees from being infested with enemies which crawl up the trunk, is to apply Printer's ink. The canker worms and other critters get stuck by the ink. They are not the first villains which printer's ink proved troublesome to.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND BOTTLES PER ANNUM.
THE NEW ENGLAND FAMILY MEDICINE.
DODD'S NERVINE,
AND INVIGORATOR.
A THOROUGH TONIC AND STOMACHIC,
And expressly adapted to the relief and permanent cure of all forms of
NERVOUS DISEASE, &c., &c.,

Coughs,	Neuralgia,	Female Weaknesses,
Colds,	Headache,	Fainting Fits,
Fevers,	Convulsions,	Palpitation,
Agues,	Sleeplessness,	Restlessness,
Biliousness,	Dyspepsia,	Dizziness,
Constipation,	Liver Complaint,	Children's Troubles
Diarrhœa,	Consumption,	&c., &c., &c.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs whatsoever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.
Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.
Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.
LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.
Look out for Colds!
It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use the standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap24w
Children's Diseases.
For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which inflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.
Be Careful what Medicines you take.
Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap24w

Chat.

A countryman from Indiana was in Cincinnati a few nights since, and thought it would be smart to accost a colored damsel on the street. She struck him a stunning blow under the chin, and walked off majestically, saying, "Who sez de colored troops didn't fought nobody."

The Athletics of Philadelphia defeated the Marylanders of Baltimore, 23 to 9.

During Anna Dickinson's lecture in Cincinnati she was adorned in a black dress, and the only ornament she wore was a bread and milk poultice on the fore finger of her left hand, under which was valuable felon. She appeared to think a great deal of it, as she wouldn't let any one touch it.

THE SENATORIAL QUESTION. — Thus far half a dozen Republican papers have come out for the re-election of Senator Aaron H. Cragin, and two for General Gilman Marston. The Dover Enquirer of this week has a strong article for Senator Cragin, and a few days since, the Manchester Mirror had an article which labored to impress the doctrine of rotation on the minds of its readers; but Bro. Clarke neglected to state, while claiming that re-elections were exceptions to the general rule, that he advocated the re-election of Hon. Daniel Clarke of Manchester to a third term in the U. S. Senate, only six years ago. Mr. Cragin now asks for a second election to the same position. We shall consider the re-election of Senator Cragin an endorsement of his course; his defeat would be regarded contrarily. There are about 193 Republicans elected to the Legislature which is to choose a Senator in June, and of that number Mr. Cragin's friends claim 124 on the first ballot. The Claremont Eagle says New Hampshire needs Mr. Cragin in the Senatorial Chamber at Washington and will have him there.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Thursday evening. Prayer by Rev. Mr. Alden. Prof. Orcutt lectured on "School Discipline." The person who educated our children is not merely a teacher or master, but a school disciplinarian. Discipline is itself the great educational process. What, then, are some of the disciplinary agencies to be recommended.

1. A thorough organization and classification. The controlling and governing power of a well regulated and systematized school is great and effective,—the want of it ruinous.

2. Law is another disciplinary agency. Law is not only Heaven born and universal, but a necessity in all well organized society.

Man as a social being could not exist without it. Civil, family and school government are an absolute necessity. The Divine law is definite and exact; so must human law be definite and compulsory, and definitely understood by every child and scholar. Necessary school laws must be rigid and rigidly enforced. Persuasion may be employed in school government, when the necessity of subordination is not questioned by the pupil, but it may never take the place of authority. School law has its disciplinary influence while yet unbroken, and when no penalties appear; indeed, the real object is to prevent and not to punish evil.

3. Another disciplinary agency in school government is work. The teacher must work to arouse and inspire his pupils, and to fit himself for his daily teaching; the pupils must work to occupy their time and secure their improvement.

4. Still another disciplinary agency worthy of special attention is public opinion. The teacher must create this power, and employ it to control recklessness, subdue rebellion, and crush out evil habits.

5. Mental and physical recreation is still another powerful disciplinary agency. The mind and body are inseparable, and mental culture cannot be successful without physical culture.—Hours for recreation and gymnastic exercise are indispensable to successful study.

6. Another powerful agency in the school government is kindness. This should be exercised always and everywhere, but kindness cannot be substituted for authority, when the latter is necessary in the administration of public affairs.

7. Punishment is also a necessary disciplinary agency in school. It should be administered in justice and in love, and adapted to the nature and circumstances of the offense. It is not the "last resort," but the first and only means, when needed at all.

8. The last disciplinary agency mentioned in the Bible, is the hand of the moral and religious, but not sectarian teacher. This is much needed in these infidel days of Catholic power and effort in our country. The lecture was an interesting one, and was attentively listened to.

Mrs. Miller favored the audience with several recitations, and was repeatedly applauded. Her voice and manner are pleasing, and every one who heard her was delighted.

Friday; The session opened with prayer by Rev. James DeNormandie. The audience then listened to a criticism by Miss Eliza B. Moulton of New Market. Twenty mistakes in pronunciation were noticed in the exercises of yesterday. We forgot to notice the criticism by Mr. Durgin yesterday morning. The first lecture was by Mrs. Miller, on her usual subject, Elocution. After briefly speaking of emphasis, she introduced an exercise of the voice, giving the different pitches, from the Whisper to Full-calling. She showed great ability in instructing, and the class appeared well. The "Bugle Song" with echo, as given by herself and class, was admirable.

The next lecture was by Prof. Orcutt on "Method of Instruction."

1. The Questioning System. The teacher should follow such methods as will lead his pupils to think; the way of asking questions often suggests the answers; thus with little or no preparation the pupil can recite, and lose all the discipline of study and thought. If questions are used, exact answers should be insisted on. Inaccurate scholarship is no scholarship at all. Let the question be asked before the pupil, required to answer, is called upon; in this way the closest attention will be secured.

2. The Lecturing System. This should never take the place of recitation. A teacher has no right to do all the talking, when it is the proper time for the scholar to do it. Scholars should always be required to take notes, and to subsequently recite from them. In this way "good listeners" will be secured, a thing rare in our lecture rooms and churches.

3. Independent Recitation. Perhaps the best method is to require the pupil to tell what he knows of the subject in hand, without questions being asked. After the first is through, others may do the same. In this way each will be led to think for himself, and let it not be forgotten that the power to think readily and clearly is the great end in view; when this is attained, our thoughts are constantly recited in the business of daily life. The lecture was an able one and closed with excellent remarks on the subject of spelling.

At 11.30 A. M., Rev. Mr. Gaylord of Nashua spoke on the English Grammar. Many teachers encounter difficulties in interesting pupils in this study, because words are continually used which are not understood. There is no danger that instruction will be simplified too much. We should encourage the habit of investigation, for in this way the pupil developes the most naturally and perfectly. He gave a remarkable instance of this kind. A lad, in whom this habit was encouraged, was not sent to school till he was eight years old, but he soon completely outdid all his companions, and became an uncommonly successful student.

Saturday,—8 3-4 A. M., opening service, Rev. L. L. Harmon; 9 A. M., lecture on manners, Prof. H. Orcutt; 10 A. M., general discussion.

☞ A citizen of Kings County, Ireland, recently had his nose cut off by a band of ruffians, and naturally thought that he was horribly disfigured for life. A Dublin surgeon, however, thought otherwise, and has actually succeeded in forming a new nose from the flesh and skin of the forehead, which is declared to look better than the old one.

☞ Bangor officials, on Saturday last, boarded the steamer Alliance, from Boston, in search of liquor, and in their investigations, tapped a barrel of pickles and one of printers' ink. The consignees of the pickles now refuse to take them, and have commenced a suit for damages.

☞ Capt. Schermerhorn, of the Marine Corps, fell overboard at the Navy Yard, while going from the U. S. S. Plymouth to a wharf, Thursday night. He was rescued by watchman Samuel M. Joy, of this city.

EMINENT MEN OF SCIENCE have discovered that electricity and magnetism are developed in the system from the iron in the blood. This accounts for the debility, low spirits, and lack of energy a person feels when this vital element becomes reduced. The Peruvian Syrup, a protoxide of iron, supplies the blood with the iron element, and in the only form in which it is possible for them to enter the circulation.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Infection in the Air.

Experimental chemists have repeatedly analyzed the air at unhealthy seasons, in the hope of detecting the invisible virus which produces epidemic disease. They have not yet discovered it, and scarcely any two of them agree as to its nature. This is of little consequence. It is sufficient to know that this poisonous principle exists, and that a safeguard against its insidious influences has been provided. In the spring and early summer, when fever and ague, remittent fever, and other periodical diseases of that class are prevalent it is only necessary to fortify the system with a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to escape them. If this precaution has been neglected, which it never ought to be in any district liable to such visitations, and if the paroxysms of malarious fever have actually commenced, they may always be checked and broken up by a course of that powerful vegetable tonic and alterative.

Quinine was once considered the only specific for chills and fevers; but it is now generally admitted that this nauseous alkaloid is a dangerous medicine, and that its secondary effects are more to be dreaded than any form of intermittent fever. It is simply a tremendous astringent. It does not touch the disordered liver, or regulate the bowels, or in any way improve the condition of the animal fluids. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS on the other hand, in addition to being a better and safer tonic than any preparation of quinine, has a balsamic effect upon the whole system.

It is aperient and antibilious, as well as directly invigorating, and purifies the secretions as well as regulates the secretive organs. It stimulates the appetite, strengthens the stomach, soothes the nerves, promotes healthful perspiration, and induces quiet sleep. As a stomachic it has no rival. Cases of indigestion that no other tonic seems capable of alleviating, are cured in a few weeks by its regular use.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him.—Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medical properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

☞ The new, handsome and creditable book, "New Hampshire in the Rebellion," has fine portraits of the Governors and Army Officers of the State, at the time of the war; and very properly opens with a frontispiece of Ichabod Goodwin, who so efficiently and patriotically started the ball—and who, notwithstanding the heavy and unaccustomed responsibilities suddenly thrust upon him, shew himself equal to the calls of the hour in the position of Governor, as in every other station in which he has ever been placed.

There are also portraits and sketches of ex-Govs. Smyth and Berry, Gen. Natt Head, and many others—and the book is full of interest to every New Hampshire man. A copy should be in every family.

☞ The West End is receiving from the City Government, the attention that growing section deserves. The Councils on Thursday evening voted to define the grade of Union Street, and to build Summer Street. Union St. is now being graded and improved, and Summer St. will probably be completed for travel by the 4th of July.

At the meeting of the Aldermen on Thursday evening, the Mayor was very properly added to the Street Committee, to confer with the executors of Mrs. Cutts, concerning the improvement of Richards Avenue; and in reply to numerous inquiries as to the progress and prospects in this matter, we will state that the plan for the work will soon be brought under consideration.

☞ At last the people of Portsmouth have an eating house where good food, well cooked, can be had at all hours of the day and evening. Mr. Horace M. Smith, the proprietor of the new dining and lunch rooms on Ladd Street, was a member of the gallant old 2d N. H. Regiment, and deserves encouragement in his new business. Mr. Smith brings out tempting dishes to his callers and makes a speciality of his Oriental coffee and cream. We predict that the coffee house will become a popular resort for people who desire clean food and polite treatment.

☞ Mr. Woodbury Locke having sold his livery-stable stock to Messrs. Stoddard & Beacham, (who now run three large establishments, having in all about 75 horses in charge,) Mr. Locke will now devote himself to the sale of fine road horses and trotters, as heretofore. He has several nice animals in his private stable.

☞ A Marine from the Navy Yard fell into the river at Noble's Island, Thursday night, but by screaming so he was heard on board the Vandalia, drew somebody's attention, so that he was fished out. It was his second dip there.

☞ The Spruce Creek M. E. Sabbath School will give an Entertainment, consisting of singing, declamation, &c., at their church, on Monday evening, May 2d, the object being to replenish their library.

BAPTISM.—The Pearl St. and Court St. churches unite in administering the ordinance of Baptism at Noble's Island next Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

☞ Lieut. Percival C. Pope has been confirmed as Captain of Marines, by the U. S. Senate.

☞ A patent has been issued to Mr. Chas. B. Barlow of this city for a chimney cowl.

☞ Dr. Parsons will be out of town for one week.

New Hampshire Items.

The Statesman says "the people of Concord will never be satisfied until that great wrong—removing the rails from Suncook to Candia, and placing them on a track from Manchester to Candia—is set right. No legislature ever committed a more flagrant violation of chartered rights. It was nothing short of highway robbery."

Three sisters, Mrs. Sally Hayes and Mrs. Effie Hayes of Milton, and Mrs. Anna Fernald of Boston, whose united ages were 255 years, met at Milton on April 14. They have a brother, Capt. Thomas Card of Dover, aged 94 years and still enjoying good health.

Gen. R. N. Batchelder has been in Dover, on a short visit to Col. A. H. Young. Hon. Jacob H. Ela is also making a brief visit home.

The Catholics of Manchester are to erect an orphan asylum in that city.

Rufus Harris of Hudson has been missing since the 29th of January, when he started from Littlefield, where he had been at work, for his home. On Sunday over 100 citizens gathered and made a final search, but without avail. He perhaps fell into the river and was carried out to sea.

The Hebrews of Dover have a synagogue, which is the only regular place of worship in the State.

Mr. Wm. F. Chapman of Newmarket caught a tortise a few days since that weighed 40 lbs. Its shell would square 16 inches. It was sent to Boston.

Enoch Holt of Durham once cut six cords of hard wood in a day. It was measured by Deacon Paul Chapman of Newmarket. So says a correspondent of the Wolfeborough News.

The late freshet swept away part of the dam at Mathes' mill in Lee, and part of Edgerley's mill at Wadleigh's Falls.

In Tuftonborough, the number of deaths recorded is 25 for the year ending April 1st, which is a large number for so small a town. The births recorded for the same period is 11. It is a fact that the population of this and other New Hampshire inland towns is on the decrease.

Mr. R. V. Fisher has sold in Lancaster, the present season, as the result of a very brief canvass, 114 copies of "Hitchcock's Analysis of the Bible," a valuable and admirable work at $8.75 each, total sum $997.50. Such a sale of a work of this character, the Republican thinks speaks well for the intelligence and morality of that community.

MARRIAGES.

In Sivas, Asia Minor, March 3d, by Rev. W. W. Livingston, brother-in-law of the bride, assisted by Rev. Mr. Riggs, EDWARD R. MCCALLUM, Inspector of Ottoman Telegraphs, and REBECCA DANA TRACY, daughter of Dr. Stephen Tracy of Andover, Mass.

DEATHS.

In New Braintree, April 27th, Dr. W. L. BOWDOIN, of Salem, Mass., aged 50 years.

In Fernandina, Fla., April 27th, Capt. DAVID ELWELL, of Salem, Mass., 82 years.

BRIGHTON CATTLE MARKET,

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, APRIL 28.

[Reported for the Boston Journal.]

At market for the current week—Cattle 1303; Sheep and Lambs 4200; Swine 3528; number of Western Cattle 1057; Eastern Cattle 24; Northern Cattle and Working Oxen 225. Cattle left over —.

Prices Beef Cattle—Extra $13 00 @ $13 50; first quality $12 25@ $12 58; second quality $11 50 @ $12 25; third quality $10 25 @$11 25; poorest grade of coarse Oxen, Bulls, &c., $7 50 @ $10 00 ℔ cwt, (the total weight of hides, tallow and dressed beef.)

Brighton Hides 7 @ 7½c ℔ lb; Country Hides 7 @ 7½c ℔ lb.

Brighton Tallow 6½ @ 7½c per lb; Country Tallow 6 @ 7c ℔ lb.

Sheep and Lamb Skins $1 25 @ $1 50 each; Calf Skins 16 @ 17c ℔ lb.

The trade this week has been active and most of the Cattle were sold upon the first day of arrival. The quality of the Western Cattle was full as good as that of last week, and prices obtained were from ½ to ½c in advance of our last quotations. Several large lots were taken at a commission, and some of the best Beeves were sold at 14c ℔ lb, 28 per cent. shrink. The Cattle from Maine were mostly workers, for which there has been a moderate demand.

Store Cattle—Nearly all the small Cattle that are in a fair condition, are sold for Beef. There are but few sold for Stores except Working Oxen and Milch Cows.

Milch Cows—Extra $85 @ $115; ordinary $50 @ $60; Store Cows $35 @ $55 ℔ head. Most of the Cows offered for sale are of a common grade. Prices depend much upon the fancy of the purchaser. But a few extra Cows in market.

Working Oxen—The supply was not so large as that of last week. We quote sales at $218,50, $337, $245, $215, $175, $200, $240, $165, $260, $245, $230 @ $275 ℔ pair.

Sheep and Lambs—Most of the Sheep from the West were owned by butchers and taken direct to be slaughtered. We quote prices of extra lots at $5 50 @ $5 50 ℔ head; ordinary lots from $3 50 @ $5 ℔ head, or from 4 @ 10c ℔ lb. Prices were full ½c ℔ lb in advance of last week.

Swine—Store Pigs—Wholesale 12 @ 14c ℔ lb; retail 13 @ 16c ℔ lb. Spring Pigs 25c ℔ lb. Fat Hogs 2800 at market, prices 10 @ 10½ c ℔ lb. The Store Pig trade has improved, and lots sold quick.

L—O—A—N
—OF THE—
CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD CO.
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad
Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.
In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.
When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportations of the great West and South-West.
It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West, to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.
It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.
The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)
The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of
INVESTORS and CAPITALISTS,
Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.
The Bonds are in denominations of
$1000, $500 and $100,
and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.
Interest Six per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.
Price 90 and accrued Interest in Currency, at which price they pay nearly Seven per cent. in gold on their cost.
All Government Bonds and other Securities dealt in at the Stock Exchange, received in exchange, at their full market value, and Bonds sent to all parts of the country, free of Express charges.
They can be obtained by ordering direct from us or through any responsible Bank or Banker in any part of the country.

BEGINNING TO FARM.—A New York clerk, 28 years old, unmarried, with $3,000 capital, and an ambition to be a farmer, asked the Farmers' Club how he should begin his new career, and got the following answer:

Put all your money at interest at 7 per cent, on mortgage. Go hire yourself to a thrifty, money-making farmer; work for the first month for your board. Then get to give you something until you can make nearly full wages as a farm hand. See everything and remember what you see. Read farm books and papers. In a year or two buy a place on which the first instalment is $1000; use $1000 for stock; keep the other $1000 at interest and go to work. When you have been on the farm a year, marry some young woman who can raise chickens and knows how to make pantaloons.

CATTLE.—No matter what your object is in keeping cattle, whether beef or milk, you lose every day your stock is not gaining. A steer should grow perceptibly in weight all the time; he should thrive and arrive at maturity at as early a day as possible—that is, unless he is kept for ornament. He is either growing heavier and more valuable—or, otherwise. Even supposing that he kept exactly at the same weight during the winter months, his owner must be losing the value of every pound of feed the steer consumes; manifestly, then, it is for the owner's interest he should be kept growing. Milch cows, giving milk, will show very soon, by the guage of the pail, whether they receive proper care by way of feed, water and exercise.

HOW TO FEED CATTLE.—Feed should be given, not only at regular hours, but in regular and equal quantities. Perfect health in the human individual cannot be enjoyed without following this rule—no more can it be in the horse. Now starved and then gorged—now thirsty, then receiving three or four pailsful of water—will not do. A horse should never be so thirsty as to require over one pailful of water. Your horse is too valuable a servant to be neglected or ill-treated.

Another important point is, exercise; this he should have every day, unless the weather is very inclement. How can he be active, if allowed to stand still for days together? Do not our turfmen study and understand this point? Exercise is just as necessary for the farm as for the coach or race horse.

PIGS.—The time to commence fattening swine is as soon as they are born. This is the verdict of the most successful managers—of men who make the most money from their grain. They do not begin operations on lank, rawbone animals in September. If spring pigs are to be killed the same year, they commence fattening in spring. If they are wintered over, they are well fed and cared for all winter. The great point is to have no cessation in their growth. After they are once under way, it is a great loss of momentum to stop them, and it requires a greater time to get up motion again than it does for a railway train or a steamer after stopping.

DUCK RAISING.—Less is known about the diseases of ducks than of fowls. They are, in our experience, best hatched by hens, and kept in a dry pen for several weeks. Give plenty of grass, frequently renewed, keep water always before them in shallow vessels, and feed often. A pen of boards a foot high, covered with laths nailed across the top, with one corner or one end covered, to exclude rain, is sufficient. This pen should be frequently shifted upon dry, grassy ground. If one is noticed moping, swelled up, or out of sorts in any way, give soaked bread and milk, red with Cayenne pepper. The best are Rouens, Aylesbury and Cayuga Blacks. Points of excellence for common purposes are the size and number of eggs.

LAWNS.—Mow lawns early the first mowing, or at every subsequent mowing, the lawn will look brown; a thin sprinkling of salt is good for the lawn, just enough salt to see the grains on the surface about a quarter of an inch apart. An over-dose will destroy the grass. Frequent rolling is one of the best ways to get a good close sod. When coarse weeds get in the lawn, hand weeding is the best remedy.—Gardner's Monthly.

PERCHERON HORSES.—The most valuable Percheron horse in the country (the stallion Conqueror) is owned by Horace Woodman, Esq., of Saco. He is thought to be the largest horse in America. It is stated that the Percheron horses, introduced into Central Ohio within the last few years, are giving good satisfaction, and are being bred more extensively this year than any previous one.

—The best preparation for horses for the hard work of spring, is to feed them with perfect regularity and uniformity, and, in moderate quantities, giving them a moderate amount of some kind of work daily. Clean, dry, well ventilated and comfortable stables are vitally important. Attend to all these, and never drive animals hard in any time of emergency.

A SINGULAR CASE.—James Rutterford, who is under sentence of death for murder in England, has been reprieved on account of a cicatrix in his neck, three medical gentlemen having made a report that he could not be hanged by the ordinary means on account of difficulty, and that there was great risk of failure and prolongation of suffering.

—Don Piatt, who is sometimes sharp on certain Republican politicians, defines Democracy as "the organized ignorance of the country."

THE

MYSTERIOUS RANCHE;

OR

A SCOUT WITH KIT CARSON.

BY LEON LEWIS,

AUTHOR OF "THE BROKEN HOME," "RED KNIFE," "THE BOY MAGICIAN," ETC., ETC.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.—In a former narrative, "Red Knife, or Kit Carson's Last Trail." I had the honor of presenting, from strictly authentic sources, a series of Colonel Carson's exploits and adventures which occurred in 1867. In the present record, I have gone back to some of the great scout's earlier experiences, namely, to a series of events in which he figured prominently during the summer of 1863, and the following winter.—L. L.

CHAPTER I.

THE SCOUT AND THE SAVAGE.

The afternoon was fine—the Great Plain in full vendure.

And Kit Carson, in the midst of this beautious solitude, was as happy as the birds around him.

He was riding eastward, on the Santa Fe route, just east of Fort Larned, Kansas.

At length he drew rein.

He had reached an affluent of the Arkansas river, and found himself in the edge of a considerable growth of timber by which the banks of this affluent were lined. Looking through the openings in the verdure before him, he saw, half a mile away, to the eastward, a single horseman approaching at an easy pace.

"What!" he ejaculated. "That fellow must be a red-skin—more or less red-skin, anyhow. And yet he has a white woman on the horse before him. What is more singular, that white woman seems to be sleeping. What can this mean?"

Continuing to advance, the strange horseman was soon near enough to be seen with considerable distinctness by the watcher.

"There's mischery here," muttered Kit, under his breath, his eyes lighting up sternly. "That woman isn't taking this ride into the red-skin country of her own free will."

In a minute more the stranger reached the creek, in which he proceeded to water his horse, an Indian pony.

"I know him now," said Kit to himself. "It is that infernal Fleet Foot, the half-breed."

The savage thus designated was of the most villainous looking fellows the scout had ever encountered.

His long, tangled hair, his hideous features, his wretched garb, his dirty complexion, his black, bloodshot eyes, all gave him a most repulsive aspect. His arms—for he carried a hunting-knife, a revolver, and a rifle, in plain sight—gave to his ugly exterior a ferocity that was actually startling.

The recognition of the savage having been thus completed, Kit turned his glances upon the object the savage was holding upon the pony in front of him.

This object, as Kit had said, was a white woman, or rather a white girl. Her long, fair hair was dishevelled, flying wildly about her shoulders and half hiding her face, but it could be seen that her features were deathly pale, and scratched and bleeding in places, as if she had been struggling terribly with her captor. That she was a captive, Kit instantly knew by the fact that her hands were tied behind her, and he next saw that she was not sleeping, as he had at first supposed—nor dead, as he had for an instant feared—but that she was in a death-like swoon!

Ignorant of the gaze bent upon him, the half-breed, whose arm still encircled the slight figure, pushed away the disheveled hair from the pallid features, that he might look upon them.

For a moment he seemed facinated with the view of the pale, fair countenance, so rarely beautiful, even in its death-like rigidity, and then he bent his head and kissed the half-parted lips, not once merely, but again and again!

"This tired me out," said Kit to himself. "I must change my position a little—just enough to get the girl's head out of line—and then—"

At this instant, and just as the scout began moving into the desired range, the half-breed happened to look beyond the face of his captive to the ground, when his eyes encountered the tracks left by Kit's horse.

In another instant he had detected Carson's presence.

"It's you, ch, Mr. Fleet Foot?" called the scout.

The savage was silent.

"I see it is you," added the scout. "Who is that with you?"

"My new squaw," was the answer.

"Hold on a minute, Mr. Fleet Foot," said the scout.

"What more?" was the response.

"I know that this young lady is not going willingly to the country of Fleet Foot," continued the scout, with calm energy. "I know that she has been stolen, and it is in vain for Fleet Foot to say that she is his squaw."

"Well, what then?" was all the savage deigned to answer.

"The case is just this," continued Carson. "You will have to deliver the girl up to me, that I may take her back to her people."

"That I will never do," rejoined the half-breed bluntly. "This girl is nothing to you, nor have you any claim upon me. Why should we quarrel? I am as much a white man as a red-skin, and the young lady might have a worse fate than to become my wife, even if she becomes my wife unwillingly. There is no possible call for you to interfere with me. The course for you to take, Mr. Carson, is to go your own way and mind your own business, and leave me to mine."

As he ceased speaking, he uttered a wild cry of command to his pony, which instantly bounded away to the southward at full gallop.

The scout raised his rifle.

The figure of the miscreant was now fully uncovered, presenting a fair mark, but Kit was compelled to realize, in view of the bounding motions of the pony, that he could not fire upon the desperate villain without the greatest risk of killing the captive.

"The accursed trash!" he ejaculated, his long repressed wrath breaking forth. "Were it not for sacrificing the girl—But I can at least pursue him!"

He struck his horse sharply with his heels, and the animal bounded away at the top of his speed.

It was a long time before the chase thus begun showed which horse could make the best time. The pony was carrying the most weight, but he was much fresher than the scout's horse, so that the one circumstance for a time counterbalanced the other. At length, however, the increased weight told upon the pony. The scout commenced gaining.

"I shall catch him," muttered Kit, again speaking under his breath. "How can I save the girl from his desperation?"

At this moment a wild cry of dismay burst from the fugitive.

Just before him, not ten rods distant, he had marked a deep and abrupt depression in the plain, the bed of one of those creeks so numerous in this region.

As quick as lightning, the hunted miscreant had comprehended that he could not cross the creek at that furious pace, the depression being too wide for a flying leap. He had also comprehended that he could not stop the pony's wild pace in season to avoid it.

The scout saw all this too, and smiled grimly as he realized that a tumble was inevitable.

It was in vain that the half-breed, reduced to one hand, pulled upon the reins, sawing and jerking the pony's mouth. The animal would neither turn nor stop, and in another instant had hurled himself into the abrupt abyss, actually turning a somersault in the air, and sending Fleet Foot and the girl flying through space to the opposite slope of the creek.

At the same moment, as it seemed, the scout threw his horse back upon his haunches at the very edge of the creek, and slipped from his saddle, revolver in hand.

"I have you now, Fleet Foot!" he shouted, leaping toward the prostrate savage.

But, as terrible as had been the shock, as quick as had been the scout's movements, the half-breed had gathered himself up from the dust in which he had been rolled; had sought and found his unconscious captive; had drawn his huge hunting-knife and revolver; had placed himself in a double posture of assault and defence beside the motionless figure; and thus, at the instant of Kit's advance, he found that the desperate ruffian was still active, still deadly, still undaunted.

"Not a step nearer!" was the half-breed's defiant cry, while his face glowed like a furnace. "I am still master of the life of this girl, and even of yours. At a touch, at a breath even, I will fire upon you with one hand, while I plunge this knife into the girl's heart with the other! I've said it, and I swear it!"

Rivited to the spot he had gained, the scout stood erect, not ten feet distant from the revolver directed at him—not ten feet from the knife uplifted above the bosom of the captive—and there he remained motionless, not daring to stir, nor even to breathe, lest the half-breed should fulfil his terrible menace.

"It was the first and last time," said Kit, in narrating these things afterward, "that I was ever treed on the ground!"

And there the two men stood, thus motionless and silent, thus glaring at each other, with that helpless girl between them!

CHAPTER II.

A DAUGHTER OF THE PLAINS

The strange scene which had arisen between the scout and the savage had a singular termination.

As Kit, revolver in hand, faced Fleet Foot—but without during to advance a single step, less the unscrupulous wretch should kill the unfortunate girl—he was suddenly startled to see that the girl's eyes had opened widely, brightly and consciously upon him!

Before he could move, however—before he could even fully realize that the captive was conscious and observant—she had passed from under the unlifted hand and murderous knife of the half-breed, and was descending to the bottom of the creek!

At the same instant a wild appeal for help burst from her:

"Save me! save me!"

The swift gleams of lightning do not move quicker than Kit responded to that cry.

At a single bound he was upon the half-breed, whom he stretched senseless and bleeding with a furious blow upon the head from his revolver.

Thus stricken prostrate and helpless, the miscreant was instantly bound.

"Thank heaven!" then murmured a voice that was singularly musical, despite its intonation of excitement.

Kit sprang to the maiden and cut her bonds.

Never was seen a fairer, brighter, or weeter picture of womanhood than she presented.

She was scarcely sixteen, and was even small for her age; but her lithe, lovely figure possessed remarkable strength and agility, and its rare qualities were further enhanced by a soul of the most glorious type.

"You have saved my life, Mr. Carson," she immediately added, grasping his hand—"saved me from a fate worse than a thousand deaths! I thank you from the bottom of my soul, and shall remain your grateful debtor forever!"

Thoughts of the dreadful fate from which he had saved her—thoughts of the misery that would be spared to her loved ones by her preservation—caused the slight figure to sway and tremble, for a moment, like a reed in the blast, and Kit felt tears of joyous gratitude falling upon the hand she had so feelingly imprisoned.

"You are not seriously injured?" he asked.

"No, sir. Only a little scared—a little tumbled!"

"You're a brave girl, I see," said the scout, with a heartiness which showed that her words and bearings had gone to his heart. "Your face seems familiar to me, and I dare say I ought to speak your name as readily as you have spoken mine, but somehow I can't quite place you!"

"Oh, everybody knows you, Mr. Carson," was the rejoinder. "But with me the case is different. I am too small to be remembered. I must tell you, therefore, that I am Effie Lyon!"

"Not Colonel Lyon's daughter? Colonel Lyon of New Mexico?"

"Yes, sir. I am Colonel Lyon's daughter!"

"What! the very girl who has been at school for a year past in Leavenworth?"

"The very same, Mr. Carson!"

At this assurance the countenance of the scout fairly beamed upon Miss Lyon. He again took her hand with a fatherly tenderness.

"You'll excuse me, Effie," he said. "I ought to have remembered you at sight. My excuse is that I am always a wanderer—always on the wing; and that a succession of new faces is every day presented to me. There is another excuse too, Effie, in your case: it has been some time since I saw you."

The small face became wreathed with a look of contentment.

"And now, to explain matters," continued Kit, glancing at the half-breed's prostrate figure, and perceiving that he was still unconscious. "Tell me your story first."

"It is not a long one," began Effie. "As you seem to be aware, I have been attending school in Leavenworth. It was agreed that father should come for me at vacation—"

"Let me tell you why he didn't," interrupted the scout. "He was nearly killed, about the twentieth of June, in an encounter with the red-skins, and for ten days lay between life and death."

"Father! nearly killed?" faltered Effie, more disturbed by this news than she had been by her late terrible peril. "And I knew nothing of it!"

"But he's out of danger now," resumed Kit, "and will soon be himself again."

"But why didn't Edgar come for me, father being unable to do so?" asked Effie, opening her eyes wide in wonder.

"Edgar?" rejoined Kit. "Who is Edgar?"

"He is a young gentleman who has been visiting in our family once in a while for a year or two past. I mean Edgar Coleman."

"Well, as you are an only child, Effie, I dare say that you are the particular member of your family who is responsible for the visits of this young gentleman."

"I need not deny it," responded Effie, as a rosy flush swept over her pure cheeks; "but as father did not come, and as I did not hear from him, I became anxious about him. I feared that he might have fallen into the hands of the Indians. Every day added to this fear, and at last I determined to set out for home without waiting longer for an explanation of his non-arrival."

"And you did so?"

"Yes, sir. I joined a wagon train that was just starting for Santa Fe, and came safely and pleasantly enough until noon of to-day, when, during a brief halt at a crossing, when everybody was busy, and while I was gathering flowers along the wooded banks of the creek, this fiendish savage pounced upon me, stifled my cries, bore me to his pony, mounted with me in his arms, and got off unseen by wading up the creek and keeping to the cover of the bushes on its banks."

"The villain!" ejaculated Kit. "He must have been watching his opportunity!"

"He was. It turns out that he saw me in Leavenworth, before the train started, and that he has been hovering about it ever since, watching for a chance to seize me. He told me so himself."

"Do you know who and what he is?"

"Only so far as I have seen with my own eyes—that he is a half-breed, and a terrible villain."

"I can tell you something about him. He is called Fleet Foot, and his reputation is well worthy of his name. I do not pretend to keep the run of his species; in fact, I have trouble to tell one red-skin from another, so far as the generality of them is concerned; but this fellow has chanced to be brought to my notice occasionally for several years, and I have never heard of him anything but evil. As he never follows any business, it's likely that he gets his living—by taking it wherever he can find it."

"He's a thorough demon," affirmed Effie.

"He talked love to you, I suppose?"

"Yes, and at last to save him trouble, he tried to bind my hands behind me, and then came such a desperate struggle that I at length fainted. This must have been an hour since, or just before you saw me!"

"He has scratched and bruised your face, I see."

"Well, he got about as much as he gave me," said the little heroine coolly.

"You have torn your sacque and dress, I see, in several places, and soiled them."

"And lost my hat altogether. But I can tie a handkerchief over my head, and the rest does not matter."

"Well, Effie, you can travel, anyhow!" exclaimed the scout admiraby. "I am glad to see you take your awkward adventure so coolly. But tell me where it was that you began to recover your senses—to know where you was!"

"It was just before the red-skin undertook to run away from you. I hope you didn't think I was unconscious all that time. I knew a thing or two, you may be sure. I must have groaned some in coming to, but the red-skin was too busy with you to notice it. At last, when I realized all that was going on, and recognized you—that was when you and he were talking so earnestly—I knew enough to feign unconsciousness and watch for a chance of deliverence. When we tumbled into the creek, I fell upon the red-skin, as good luck would have it, and didn't get so much of a shock as I expected. And this is the whole story.

"I am glad you fared no worse," commented Kit. "And now for our prisoner. I never kill a red-skin in that helpless condition, unless the guiltiness of blood is fresh upon him. It is our duty, however, to extract the reptile's fangs—in other words, disarm him!"

He suited the action to the word, adding:

"I will carry away his weapons, of course, a mile or two, and then hide them in some place where he will not be likely to find them."

"Then you will give him his liberty? It would not do, I suppose to leave him where he is?"

"No, Effie. Some of his four-legged relatives—the wolves—would come and eat him before morning."

"His pony has ya ished."

"Yes. He is doubtless miles away by this time."

"Then the red-skin will have to continue his journey on foot?"

Kit untied his hands, but tied his feet, and left him, Effie remarking:

"In that way we shall get a good start of him."

"That's the idea," rejoined Kit.

Then the couple resumed their journey. The scout was well acquainted with an honest ranche-man named Woodbury, who lived on the Arkansas, about ten miles from the scene of this adventure, and they started for it. Conversing pleasantly by the way, the couple rode forward at a fair pace, Effie knowing no fear by reason of the scout's presence, and Kit knowing none by reason of his matchless ability and experience.

The sun was just setting when the couple, after a long and wearying ride, came in sight of the ranche they were seeking.

"There it is," said the scout, indicating a dark object on the distant horizon.

The travellers had now arrived near enough to the ranche to see its outlines distinctly, and accordingly fixed their attention upon it.

"The door is closed," observed Kit, as the couple rode nearer, "and so are the windows. But the proprietor is as brave as the bravest, as you may know by the fact of his living here. I dare say he has seen us approaching."

As they advanced still nearer to the lonely ranche, they noticed that a strange air of desolation pervaded the premises. Not a sign of life was visible, and the little garden inclosing the house had been given up to weeds.

"This is odd!" muttered Kit. "Mr. Woodbury had a very beautiful garden when I was here last summer. But I now see no stock, no signs of occupancy whatever."

"He may have moved away," suggested Effie, "and a different sort of man may now have possession of the place."

"That's so; or the red-skins may have killed him," returned Kit, over whose face had come a sudden shadow. "I'm not pleased with the looks of the thing, any how! The house itself has gone to the dogs since I was here. It's rather late to retreat, however," he added, looking up at the sky, out of which the light of day was fading, with the abruptness peculiar to the plains. "Now that we are here, we may as well make a call. In ten minutes it will be dark, and we'll do well to be prompt in our observations and inquiries."

By this time the travellers were within a few rods of the stone wall projecting the door-way of the ranche, and here Kit drew rein, looking sharply about him.

"The place looks more and more deserted," he said to Effie, in a low tone. "I do not see so much as a dog. Just sit where you are, Effie, while I step to the door."

CHAPTER III.

THE RANCHE—A SURPRISE.

Dismounting, the scout made his way cautiously to the entrance of the house, and then, seeing no one, into the dwelling itself, finding the door unfastened.

In the course of a minute he returned to his young companion.

"There is no one here," he announced.

"Perhaps the late conduct of the red-skins, of which we were speaking, has frightened Mr. Woodbury away?"

"Mr. Woodbury has not been here lately," he asserted. "There hasn't been a stroke of work done on the place this summer!"

"He may have gone away last fall, then, and not have returned?"

The scout again shook his head.

"I fear your former suggestion is the true one," he remarked.

"Namely, that the Indians have killed him?"

"Yes. The door is full of bullets, and the turf walls are burnt and smoked, in places, as if the red-skins had fired into them at short range. I fear Mr. Woodbury has been killed!"

"Has the house been ravaged?"

"No. Everything appears as Mr. Woodbury would have naturally left it, only in a disordered state. The furniture is here, such as it was, the dishes, the household stuff of every description, but everything is dirty, damaged and going to pieces. I'll tell you just what I think, which is, that somebody has killed Mr. Woodbury, and than this somebody has taken possession!"

"Is there any sign of this somebody having been here lately?"

"Yes. I cannot say how lately, but I should say within a day or two, although the hearth is perfectly cold. There is a pail of water in the pantry, part of a ham, a bag of corn, a bag of flour, a dish of salt, and various other articles of food. There is a bed of skins in each room, which look as if lately occupied."

"This is very singular," commented Effie. "Mr. Woodbury must have a strange successor. Who can be he?"

"I think he's a red-skin!"

"And why?"

"Because the lock and bars, which have been burst from the door, have not been replaced. This shows that the occupant is not afraid of the red-skins!"

Effie mused a moment upon this unexpected condition of affairs, and then asked:

"Well, what shall we do?"

Before replying, the scout looked at his horse searchingly, assuring himself that the animal was very tired.

"We'll halt here a little while," he then said; "long enough to take a bite ourselves, and allow Dobby to do justice to part of that corn in the pantry."

"I shall be glad to rest a while," observed Effie, as she alighted. "I am very tired!"

"Naturally enough, after all these adventures. But a good supper, and a good night's rest will bring you out again. Walk in, and make yourself at home. I'll just slip Dobby into the corral, so that he will not stray off in the darkness."

They made a fire, and had a coarse, but comfortable meal.

"Such a supper, with our hunger, is better than a feast without appetite," remarked Effie.

"I don't know why we shouldn't put up at this hotel until morning," observed Kit, as he also looked contentedly about him. "True, the landlord is absent, but we can get along without him."

"I think the only question is as to whether we can get along with him, if we should chance to return during the night."

"I'll answer for that contingency. On the whole, I think we will do well to stay here until morning. There's a room for each of us, and plenty of buffalo robes to make us comfortable.

As he spoke he laid some more wood upon the fire, to light up the interior of the ranche, and a bright body of flames almost instantly illuminated the scene around him as perfectly as it could have been illuminated by the sun at mid-day.

"Look at that!" suddenly cried Effie, in a startled whisper, as she leaped to her feet "What is that?"

"What? Where?" demanded the scout.

"That writing, in red letters, upon the wall behind us!" exclaimed Miss Lyon, the blood receding from her face, while her form shook violently.

She pointed to the wall opposite the fire place—the wall upon which those ruddy flames shone so vividly—and there the scout beheld several lines of coarse and irregular writing, evidently the work of a human finger, which had again and again been dipped in blood.

This terrible revelation was as follows:

"I am attacked, this 10th of March by Fleet Foot and a dozen others. Already terribly wounded. Expect to go under, as the door can't hold out much longer.

JOHN WOODBURY."

It was a message from the dead!

The mystery of poor Woodbury's fate stood terribly revealed.

In his last moments, mortally wounded he had written with his own blood, that fearful message.

Before the scout and his companion could withdraw their gaze from that dreadful revelation, they were further startled by sounds that came to their hearing from within the ranche.

Then their eyes met.

"I heard footsteps!" murmured Effie.

"And voices also!" replied Carson.

At the same instant a dog was heard snuffing at the entrance of the ranche. Then the dog began barking furiously, while the sound of hurried footsteps arose in front of the door!

The scout and his companion were startled.

Their minds was so full of the the terrible fate which had overtaken the former occupant of the ranche, poor Mr. Woodbury, as revealed by that strange writing on the wall, that they could think of nothing but red-skins.

The approaching footsteps became louder.

"Who can they be?" whispered Effie.

"Indians?"

"We shall soon see," was Kit's answer.

The above is all of this story that will be published in our columns. The continuation of it from where it leaves off here can be found only in the New York Ledger, which is for sale at all the bookstores and news depots. Ask for the number dated May 7, 1870, and in it you will find the continuation of this beautiful tale. The Ledger is mailed to subscribers at three dollars a year. The Ledger has the best stories of any paper in the world; and Henry Ward Beecher, James Parton and Fanny Fern have articles in every number.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified, and cured, by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the previous contamination until they were painfully suffering, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of the fact.

Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfelt tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites attack of enfeebling or fatal diseases, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly developing its virulence, here a hideous form, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercles may suddenly be deposited in the lungs or both, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the necessity of a thorough purifier. SARSAPARILLA is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear.

Persons afflicted with the following complaints may expect immediate relief, and in length, cure, by the use of this SARSAPARILLA: St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, and other eruptions or visible forms of Scrofulous disease. Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, and many various affections of the muscular and nervous systems.

Syphilis or Venereal and Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. But long continued use of this medicine will cure the complaint. Leucorrhœa or Whites, Uterine Ulcerations, and Female Diseases, are commonly soon relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute Directions for each case are found in our Almanac supplied gratis.

Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of extraneous matters in the blood, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising, as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. This SARSAPARILLA is a great restorer for the stomach and vigor system. Those who are Languid and Listless, Despondent, Sleepless, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affections symptomatic of Weakness, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.

The Chronicle.

BRAVE CONDUCT OF A YOUNG LADY. About three weeks ago Mr. Henry L. Gurney, of Somerville, Mass., was called to Washington on business, and during his absence the household goods at his residence on Cedar Street were "turned upside down" in the course of the usual spring cleaning, the only members of the family at home being his two daughters, one about twenty and the other about fourteen years of age, and an old man who had been employed to do all sorts of work. On the night of April 12th a presuming housebreaker, taking advantage of Mr. Gurney's temporary absence, entered the house in search of plunder. Going up stairs he opened the door leading to the sleeping apartment of the two young ladies, when the current of air produced was so strong that it had the effect of waking the youngest daughter.

On looking round she discovered the head of a man protruding through the opening, but preserving her presence of mind, and believing that the midnight stranger intended mischief, she quietly pinched her sister, which waked her immediately. The older daughter also discovered the strange head, and without saying a word instantly jumped out of bed, en deshabille, sprang for the unwelcome visitor, and seizing him by the coat-collar sung out, "What are you here for? you are a thief!" The cowardly rascal turned on his heel, not expecting such a cold reception, and rushed down stairs, the young lady still following him, regardless of accidents or incidents.

On reaching the doorstep, she again caught the thief by the collar, but he broke away and has not been seen since. After the brave young lady returned to the house, the thought struck her that she was alone in the building, the old man happening to be away on this night; and upon reflecting what a hazard she had encountered, she was hardly able to reach her bed again on account of weakness induced by the adventure, and for several days she was sick. The only article obtained by the robber was an earring.—Traveller.

—A young minister was preaching to the prisoners of the N. H. State Prison. He had selected for his text the words: "Seek ye first the kingdom of Heaven and its righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." He made earnest and effective appeals to the unfortunate beings, and closed with this remarkable anti-climax: "My dear hearers, some of us are addicted to the habit of profane swearing; some of us to hard drinking; some of us to licentiousness; and many to other foul sins; but seek ye first the kingdom of heaven and its righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher lately sent the following note to the proprietor of the New York Ledger:—

My Dear Mr. Bonner:—I have just received a curious letter from Michigan, and I give it to you verbatim:—

"OWASSO CITY, Mich., 1870.

I have heard of men who wrote letters and forgot to sign their name, but never before met a case in which a man signed his name and forgot to write the letter. H. W. B.

—The best thing in the current number of the Harvard Advocate is this:—The other day Molecule propounded the following to Atom:—"A boy said to a gentleman, 'My father and mother have a daughter, but she is not my sister.' Now how do you explain that?" Atom reflected, but all in vain. To his every suggestion Molecule replied by a mild but decided negative. At length Atom was forced to give it up. "Why, it's simple enough," said Molecule with an exasperating smile, "the boy lied."

SUSPICION.—Anybody can soil the reputation of an individual, however pure and chaste, by uttering a suspicion which his enemies will believe and his friends never hear of. A puff of idle wind can take up a million of the seeds of the thistle, and do a work of mischief which the husbandman must labor long and hard to undo, the floating particles being too light to be seen and too light to be stopped.

—An Irishman, on board of a man-of-war, was desired by his messmate to go down and fetch a can of small beer. Teague, knowing that preparations were making to sail, absolutely refused. "Arrah, my shoul," says he, "and so, when I am gone into the cellar to fetch beer, the ship will sail away, and leave me behind."

—Two young ladies work within ten feet of each other in a paper-mill at Lee, Mass., and have not spoken to each other for fifteen months. It was about a young man. But when they do once get to talking won't they make things clatter?

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation of the prostate gland, and retention or the incontinence of urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and are happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you in one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Scott, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered so long. I feel bound to attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to be worthy affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and a valuable suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,

D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER
is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold.

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in various forms for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Jan. 28, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Incosed please find our rate of advertising. Yours, T. B. H. STENHOUSE,

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.
TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon the subject of your medicine. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer you could hardly live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken pills, I may say by the quart, also honored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me so much? Well, I began before I had taken half of it, and the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I still got worse (apparently.) When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had made up my mind it was of no use trying, any more—and all the time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a free passage of my water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a tap—water stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling so badly. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever I was in my life. This is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement saved me. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to write to me, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time. so I remain your ever well-wisher, EDWARD L. HOWARD,

(A Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)

Dr. H. T. Helmbold,

Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of one little lieutenant of N. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chamberlain who has charge of his bedding.

I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a little unfortunate. Managers of Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering more from Weakness than from habit, may be restored to health and happiness, if not knowing it as a weakness instead of a bad habit) most unjustly inflicted upon them. Thanking you on behalf of the Institute, and hoping that others may be alike benefitted, I am respectfully yours,

COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

He strongly recommended it, and all kinds of advertised Remedies and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no more edie hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your Remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of Buchu, Cubebs, and Juniper Berries, it recommended to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with our Druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much improved in health, and continued to improve all the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer, and see if it would effect a permanent cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

I ascribe being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

Constipation,	Liver Complaint,	Children's Troubles
Diarrhœa,	Consumption,	&c., &c., &c.

Take Care of Yourself.

DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera,—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which it PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnia nor other used for nervous complaints, and is wholly free from any deleterious drug or spirit ever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.

Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.

Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.

The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.

Look out for Colds!

It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap54w

Children's Diseases.

For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.

Be Careful what Medicines you take.

Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap54w

The Sorosisters are down on long trails.

CONGRESS.—The Senate on Monday, passed the bill granting 940,000 acres of public land in aid of the construction of the Portland & Astoria (Oregon) Railroad, by a vote of 97 to 69.

In the House, Mr. Garfield of Ohio introduced a bill from the committee on banking and currency, providing for issuing $95,000,000 of currency to States having less than their proportion, and for the cancellation of $45,000,000 of three per cent. certificates, and $45,000,000 of legal tenders. The bill also provides for free banking on a gold basis. It was ordered to be printed and recommitted. It is looked upon as an important measure. The most notable feature is that it creates a new four and a half per cent. bond running twenty-five years as the basis of the new bank circulation, and if the trial proves that banking can be done on it, then all existing banks must adopt it within a year.

New Hampshire Items.

The late Hon. Chandler E. Potter, of Hillsborough, N. H., has left an unfinished history of New Hampshire. This contains graphic, impartial biography of Rev. Stephen Batchiler, embracing numerous items and historical facts that have not hitherto been made public.

The Concord Railroad has been leased to the Northern R. R. for five years. This announcement causes great excitement in Manchester, and the friends of the movement for electing a new Board of Directors denounce it as illegal.

John R. Robinson was tried last week at Keene for an assault with felonious intent. He was sentenced to ten years in the State prison.

Mrs. D. Lynch of Manchester was shockingly burned on Wednesday night, by the breaking of a kerosene lamp. She died on Monday.

Mr. Benjamin Richardson was seriously, and it is feared fatally, injured, at Pittsburg, Friday morning, while coupling cars.

THE GREAT BIBLICAL WORK OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.—There never was a time when the human mind was more active in its inquiry into the meaning and authority of the Bible; and there never was a time when greater help was given to the intelligent student. Take Dr. Smith's "Dictionary of the Bible," for instance. Here is a book, which no one man could have prepared, but which embodies the labors of one hundred of the first Biblical scholars in the world. It is the high water-mark of Christian scholarship.

The English edition was no sooner completed than Hurd & Houghton, New York Publishers, took it, placed it in the hands of Professor H. B. Hackett, perhaps now the foremost Biblical scholar in the country, and associated with him Dr. Ezra Abbott, of Harvard University, who has a miroscopic eye for errors of every kind.

These, assisted by more than twenty eminent divines and scholars in America, have produced an edition which must take rank as better than the best, for it contains all that was in the great English Edition, with maps and engravings, and has important matter added to it.

It must be years before we shall see any book that begins to compete with this for completeness and thoroughness. No one who studies the Bible can afford to be without it. It is furnished to agents and sold by subscription in New England by the house of H. O. Houghton & Co., Cambridge, Mass.

☞ The Bangor Whig says a little daughter of Mr. Russell of that city, on Sunday morning last, gathered some brush and leaves and blew the brands of a smouldering bonfire that had been built by some boys the evening before, into flames. By some means her clothing took fire, and before it could be extinguished, she was so terribly burned that she died Tuesday noon.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Friday Afternoon; First was a lecture on Mathematical Geography by Prof. Quimby. The exercise was exceedingly interesting. At the close the speaker exhorted teachers to act themselves, and not try to imitate anybody. If you try to wear the clothes of another, everybody will see that they do not fit. Next, Prof. Orcutt read a short essay on School Manners. Morals, he said, are the sun behind the cloud; manners displace the cloud. Manners, civility and politeness mean one and the same thing.

In the days of our forefathers, children were in subjection. The bow and courtesy are seldom seen now except on special occasions. Teacher should practice all the little civilities of life, and thus inculcate the principles, and inspire a spirit of the highest civility. Hon. A. J. Phipps, Agent of Mass. Board of Education, then spoke briefly and in a very entertaining manner. This gentleman's extensive acquaintance with schools renders his opinions and views of particular value.

Rev. Mr. Gaylord made a few remarks on the manner of hearing recitations. He thought that the teacher should never ask the question in the book, or indeed use a text book at all. We were glad to hear this idea advanced. The closing exercise of the afternoon consisted of readings by Mrs. Miller, assisted by Mr. P. T. Conlee of Dartmouth College. Mrs. Miller has been his only teacher in Elocution. The exercise was creditable to both. The last piece, "Boston Street Cries," was finely rendered by Mrs. Miller, and much enjoyed by the audience.

Evening; Mrs. Miller's recitations at the Middle Street Church were listened to by a large audience.

The opening prayer was offered by Supt. Hardy. We do not propose to mention the readings separately, but they were well rendered, and the audience were richly repaid for their attendance. The reader was frequently applauded. Perhaps the best efforts of the evening were the "Polish Boy" and the "English Martyrs." The latter is a pathetic production by Mrs. Hemans. An extract from "Fanny Fern," showing the trouble some folks have in trying to read the morning newspaper, was finely given. "The Bells," by Edgar Poe, and Jean Ingelow's "High Tide on the Coast of Lincolnshire", were excellent, showing finely the reader's power of imitating the sound of the bell &c.,

Supt. Hardy took occasion to thank the Wardens of the society for the use of their beautiful church, and the people of Portsmouth for their kindness and courtesy. He likewise expressed his obligations to the reporters. He stated that more than one hundred teachers had registered their names, and that between twenty and thirty towns were represented. We congratulate him on the successful close of the evening sessions.

Saturday; the Institute convened for the last time. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Mr. Alden. The lecture of the morning was by Supt. Hardy on "The Teacher." He began by saying that the teacher's duty is, not merely to state a fact, but to repeat it, until it becomes to the pupil unconscious power. Habits of thoroughness must be formed in the incipient stages of education, or the chances that they will never be formed are constantly increasing. What is to be taught? The pupil must be educated in a three fold manner.

Physically. The most brilliant minds of the past have suffered for want of a healthy body.

Morally. There is a controversy going on, as to whether the Bible shall be read in the schools. Why should it be removed? Have its teachings been evil? Have they tended to retard our national growth? We hear but one answer, and that is, "It is too pure, we cannot live before its rays."

Intellectually. Usually intellectual training is placed first, but I place it last. First see to the body, then to the moral, and lastly to the mental culture. Let the parents understand your objects and plans, that the school may come to be regarded as a part of the home. In this way all interested will work together, the task will be an easier one, and vastly more will be accomplished.

A school should be as systematic as a well trained army. Have an interest for your pupils; you must love both them and your profession. If you would have friends, you must be friendly.

Seek to improve yourself by study and every available method of self-discipline. When their school days are over, your pupils will carry the principles you have instilled into the world, and remember them through life. Be strong, then, in your faith that the bread cast upon the waters shall return after many days.

Hon. Wm. Claggett then spoke briefly on "School Government." He took the position that a school can be governed without corporal punishment, and for proof cited his own experience. If a boy will not behave, let him be expelled; that will have more influence than anything else. The power to expel should be vested in the teacher. Mr. Claggett's points were well made, and he was attentively listened to.

The following Preamble and Resolutions were offered by S. W. Clarke of the High School:

We, the teachers of Rockingham Co., feeling that we have derived much good from this session of the Institute, and that we shall go back to our work with truer views and higher purposes, wish to make suitable expression of this feeling; therefore

Resolved: that we tender to Supt. Hardy and the lecturers who have assisted him, our most sincere thanks for the valuable instruction they have given us.

Resolved: That we consider the lecturing system, adopted by Supt. Hardy, vastly superior to former methods of conducting Institutes. The Resolutions were unanimously passed.

The following additional one was proposed by Mr. G. H. Jenness of Rye, and also passed.

Resolved: That we are in favor of the continuation of the Teachers' Institutes.

The following Resolutions were presented by A. M. Payson, Principal of the Girls High School.

Resolved: 1st, That in the judgment of this Convention, which judgment is based on efficient and careful observation, the Teachers in our country can never attain to the marked distinction of equality in power and culture, with the highest type of professional skill, until professional schools are established for their express training and preparation.

2d, That it is the duty, in our opinion of the general government to appropriate $25,000,000 for the founding and sustaining five Universities, where any person of either sex, may obtain the most thorough and complete preparation for Teaching.

One University, it was thought, should be located in Greenland, N. H., one in West Virginia, a 3d in Missouri, a 4th in Colorado, and the 5th in California.

Mr. Payson supported his resolutions in very pertinent and eloquent remarks, and found a ready response in the audience, that these universities should possess all the means and appliances of instruction in the other professions, and in general literature. In other words, the studies should embrace Law, Theology, Medicine, Philosophy, (including literature and science), the Fine Arts and teaching as a profession.—The resolutions passed.

After remarks by Rev. Mr. Barber, Mr. Jenness, L. D. Spalding and others the Institute closed with singing and an exercise under the charge of Mrs. Miller.

This was one of the best Institutes ever held in this State, and reflects great credit upon Supt. Hardy; may he live to conduct many more such in old Portsmouth.

Our reporter acknowledges the services of Master Willie R. Foster in furnishing notes of Supt. Hardy's lecture.

HORACE GREELEY.—The New York Telegram styles Mr. Greeley a peculiarly peculiar man. It says Horace adores his wife, works hard, will have his own way about the Tribune, and swears oaths that are cancelled in Heaven, because he is in a newspaper office, where a saint would swear. He likes to help along a young man who is talented, and is self sacrificing and generous to a fault. When his mind is made up, it's made up.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Infection in the Air.

Experimental chemists have repeatedly analyzed the air at unhealthy seasons, in the hope of detecting the invisible virus which produces epidemic disease. They have not yet discovered it, and scarcely any two of them agree as to its nature. Yet a tale of little consequence. It is sufficient to know that this poisonous principle exists, and that a safeguard against its insidious influence has been provided. In the spring and early summer, when fever and ague, remittent fever, and other periodical diseases of that class are prevalent it is only necessary to fortify the system with a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS to escape them. If this precaution has been neglected, which it never ought to be in any district liable to such visitations, and if the paroxysms of malarious fever have actually commenced, they may always be checked and broken up by a course of that powerful vegetable tonic and alterative.

Quinine was once considered the only specific for chills and fevers; but it is now generally admitted that this nauseous alkaloid is a dangerous medicine, and that its secondary effects are more to be dreaded than any form of intermittent fever. It is simply a tremendous astringent. It does not touch the disordered liver, or regulate the bowels, or in any way improve the condition of the animal fluids. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS on the other hand, in addition to being a better and safer tonic than any preparation of quinine, has a balsamic effect upon the whole system.

It is aperient and antibilious, as well as directly invigorating, and purifies the secretions as well as regulates the secretive organs. It stimulates the appetite, strengthens the stomach, soothes the nerves, promotes healthful perspiration, and induces quiet sleep. As a stomachic it has no rival. Cases of indigestion that no other tonic seems capable of alleviating, are cured in a few weeks by its regular use.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus persevering in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state that it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. ☞ FOR THIRTY YEARS! ☜
PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER
The Great Family Medicine of the Age.
THIRTY YEARS
Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, sect nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.
THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deservedly so, the proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTUAL remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.
What the Doctors Say:
AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively, in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."
ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says; "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only spells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."
NANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.
Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about
ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,
Can be taken as a fact. Let all afflicted test it at once. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION
Has been accomplished in hair dyes. The horrible compounds containing LEAD, SALT and SULPHUR are discarded. The leading chemists implore the public not to use them, and Professor Chilton, whose reputation is second to that of no analytic chemist in America, has recommended

PERSONAL.—Hon. Jacob H. Ela was in town on Saturday.

☞ The New York Circus will exhibit here, May 20th.

☞ Arshowe & Co. of Market Street think honest tea is the best policy.

☞ Mr. Thos. B. Gammon of this city has been appointed a Mate in the Navy.

☞ Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul are to make their last appearance here on the evening of May 10th, previous to their departure for Europe.

☞ A prominent citizen, who is interested necessarily in a business way in the goings on at the Police Station, made his daily call there on Saturday and took a look at the prisoners. Among the rest was a beerfull woman, up for calling a fifteenth amendment naughty names. She was voluble and demonstrative, and at last clasped the bewildered young man about the neck, and required much moral suasion before she consented to separation. The surprised victim retreated, and is said to strongly oppose woman suffrage.

☞ The Charter Oak is one of the staunch and reliable Life Insurance Companies. It has always been this; but of late years has been adding all the modern improvements of the business, and has just now a new specialty of gradually-reducing premiums — so that it claims to offer inducement which cannot be excelled by any other sound Company. Their losses are always promptly paid, without higgling; and any information concerning the very mportant subject of Life securities, may be obtained of the Agent, Mr. John S. Harvey. The old Charter Oak will be found strong as its name. We commend it to all interested — and who is not?

☞ The Dramatic Musical Entertainment by Mrs. Scott Siddons and Miss Alice Dutton drew a large and select audience to the Temple on Friday evening; and right royally were they entertained, with piano playing worthy of Mendelssohn, and elocution and characterization fit for Shakespeare.

The Midsummer Night's Dream was splendidly rendered by Mrs. Siddons, who is at once a majestic and lovely little woman, and was elegantly costumed in crimson moire antique and white lace, with golden crown. She took all the numerous characters finely, and her whole performance will long remain a cherished memory with every appreciative soul who witnessed it.

Miss Dutton's performances on the piano are of course beyond criticism; and the combination of the two, in accompaniment or alternately, was highly enjoyable—as was the tableaux of the two beautiful and talented lady participants. We can rarely hope to look upon or hear the like.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

NORTH HAMPTON, April 30th.

At the installation of Rev. T. V. Haines over the Congregational Society in this town, eight ministers of neighboring charges participated in the services. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Adams of Portsmouth, from Luke 15:1. "Then drew near unto him all the publicans and sinners for to hear him." It was an excellent and appropriate discourse, and was well received by the audience. The charge to the pastor was by Rev. Mr. Leach of Rye, address to the people by Rev. Mr. Robie of Greenland right hand of fellowship by Rev. Mr. Peabody of Stratham.

Mr. Haines is well and widely known as an excellent sermonizer, and during the three years he has preached here, he has proved to be a faithful pastor, endearing himself to the members of this church. This Society was organized about a century ago, and has had seven pastors, one of which, Rev. Jonathan French, occupied the sacred desk for over fifty years.

Major Joshua Pickering of this town, while at work on timber a short time ago, very narrowly escaped serious injury if not death, by being cut on the top of his head by the corner of an axe in the hands of a fellow workman, who was scoring into a stick of timber lying near the one which the Major was lining. The axe made a scalp wound three inches in length, grazing the skull. Had he been one inch nearer, the result must have been fatal.

J. W. B.

☞ The cottage of the late President Peirce, at Little Boar's Head, Rye Beach was sold last week, by auction for $4975. John McNeil of Concord, a nephew of the ex-President, was the purchaser.

☞ Admiral Porter, after investigating all the circumstances of the case, asserts that the officers of the Bombay are wholly responsible for the Oneida calamity. He contradicts the report that the Oneida was not amply furnished with boats, and repels the charge that her officers were carousing, having left the deck in charge of a midshipman. An officer of the navy just arrived from Yokohama says it was ascertained on trustworthy authority there, that Captain Eyre of the Bombay would have stopped his vessel after running into the Oneida, but for the implorations of Lady Temple, wife of the British minister, who was apprehensive that the ship would be a wreck. It is the opinion at Yokohama that Capt. Eyre is a weak rather than a bad man.

SUICIDE.—A dog deliberately and calculatingly committed suicide, on Sunday, in the basin of the fountain in the State House yard, at Hartford. He was a large, good-looking dog, part mastiff, and had been at play with other dogs a few moments before. He soon left them, walked to the basin, went in and held his head under water till he was dead.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

CORRECTION.—Some slight inacuracies occurred in a recent notice in the Chronicle of the former publishers of the Journal, &c. The Journal was published from 1813 to 1821, by Charles Turell, when it was sold to Harrison Gray and Eben Child, and it remained in their possession, with Turell as printer and N. A. Haven Jr. Esq., editor until June, 1825, when it was transferred to T. H. Miller and C. W. Brewster. Mr. Miller remained in the establishment until 1836, when Mr. Brewster became sole proprietor. Its name, "The Portsmouth Journal of Literature and Politics," is the same as it was in 1821 having under gone no change even in the style of the type in which it is printed It was not Charles Gordon Green, now of the Boston Post, but Nathaniel Green, an older brother, who was an apprentice in the Journal office and afterwards Postmaster of Boston.

PHOTOGRAPHY.—The many friends of Mr. Charles Davis, will be pleased to learn that he has decided to remain in Portsmouth and has resumed his old place in the firm of Davis Brothers at No. 17 Pleasant St.

We learn that they contemplate the erection of a finer gallery on the ground floor as soon as a suitable location can be obtained.

The celebrated "Berlin process" is spoken of by a foreign correspondent of Harper as being the first successful attempt of photography to aspire to the legitimate standard of the fine arts. Artists have hitherto affected to turn the cold shoulder to the hard, literal and too often expressionless lines which their "big brother," the sun, paints through the camera lens; but they must now do their best, or yield the palm to the soft, clear, flesh-like, and yet well defined pictures of the new process. We have seen some specimens of card and imperial photographs in this style at Messrs. Davis' rooms, which certainly leave nothing to be desired in the way of a perfect likedess. They have been at considerable expense in obtaining and perfecting the details of the process, which we are sure their patrons will fully appreciate.

THE COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT.—We take pleasure in mentioning the Benefit Concert to take place at the Temple on Thursday evening the 5th. The indefatigable exertions for the progress of music, both instrumental and vocal, in our city evinced by the beneficiary, Mr. C. H. Thompson, who has labored for years among us, is worthy of a hearty recognition from all lovers of this beautiful forte. The success, so deserving, which crowns the Portsmouth Cornet Band, giving them a reputation of which they and our city need to be proud, can find its solution in the talented baton of its zealous leader, and this first compliment calls upon us to render tribute worthy the cause. So too, in the progressive improvement of our church music Mr. Thompson has contributed largely, and we have no need to remind our readers that the choir of the Unitarian Church stands high for talent and taste in the rendition of sacred themes. It would be superfluous to earnest and comical basso Mr. J. P. Cobb, who made so permanent an impression upon our musical community in Opera Buffo the past winter.

—OF THE—
CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD CO.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad
Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 237 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 437 miles.

In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportations of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West, to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipment, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of
INVESTORS and CAPITALISTS,
Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.

The Bonds are in denominations of
$1000, $500 and $100,
and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.

Interest Six per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Price 90 and accrued Interest in Currency, at which price they pay nearly Seven per cent. in gold on their cost.

All Government Bonds and other Securities dealt in at the Stock Exchange, received in exchange, at their full market value, and Bonds sent to all parts of the country, free of Express charges.

They can be obtained by ordering direct from us or through any responsible Bank or Banker in any part of the country.

BIBLE DICTIONARY.
RIVERSIDE MAGAZINE.
CHARLES DICKENS.
MOTHER GOOSE.
HALL'S HEALTH BOOK.
HEALTH BY GOOD LIVING.

Next to the Bible and Webster's Dictionary there is no book so essential to every family as a DICTIONARY OF THE BIBLE.
When you buy a Dictionary you get an Unabridged, or you are not satisfied. In getting a Dictionary of the Bible, it is sound sense to get the very best in the market. There is no question whatever that this is now publishing in parts. Three volumes have appeared, and the fourth will be completed this year in monthly parts. Subscribe now; get the three volumes and receive the parts as they come out. It is the Great Biblical Work of XIX Century.
SMITH'S UNABRIDGED
Dr. Howard Crosby says of it: "It is worth more on a Bible-reader's desk than fifty commentaries." One can find plenty of unsatisfactory abridged dictionaries, but no one should be satisfied until he has
The Very Best in the English Language.
Price in numbers, 75 cents each. There will be 32 numbers.
Three volumes now ready (24 Nos.,) $6.50 each.
N. B.—Any one sending the names of three subscribers with the money will receive the Dictionary free.

A MAGAZINE FOR YOUNG AND OLD.
No family that has children in it should fail to have that "prince of juvenile magazines", (see "Sabbath at Home")—
THE RIVERSIDE MAGAZINE
FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.
A SUPERB ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY.
It stands at the head of juvenile literature in America.
The subscription price is $2.50 a year, but any one who sends the names of four subscribers and $10.00 will receive the Magazine free for a year.
N. B.—Special attractions begin with the May number, and those who choose can send $1.70 and receive the Magazine for eight months.

CHARLES DICKENS.
Now is the time, when Dickens is to be talked about for a year, to read his splendid novels. There is no edition in the market so cheap and complete as
THE GLOBE EDITION.
14 vols. $21.00. Any volume separately.
N. B.—For the names of 16 new subscribers to the "Riverside Magazine" and $40.00, the publishers will send free of expense a complete set of the Globe Dickens.

MOTHER GOOSE.
Mother Goose has had justice done her in a Superb Edition, illustrated by eighteen full-page pictures by H. L. STEPHENS, ten pages of music by CHARLES MOULTON, and ten smaller illustrations by GASTON FAY. It has a full account of Mother Goose, valuable historical notes, and is altogether
The most Notable Picture Book of the Season.
Price in fancy cloth, $3.75.
N. B.—This book will be sent as a prize to any forwarding three new Subscriptions to the "Riverside."

HALL'S HEALTH BOOK.
DR. HALL, Editor of "Hall's Journal of Health," is perhaps the best known household physician in the country. He has prepared an eminently practical book, called
HEALTH BY GOOD LIVING.
It gives a plain and intelligible account of the common things that affect our health,—diet, heat, clothing, exercise, sleep,—and illustrates the prevention and cure of disease by natural agencies.
CONTENTS:

The Object of Eating.	Dyspepsia.
When to Eat.	Neuralgia.
What to Eat.	Nervousness.
How Much to Eat.	The Unity of Disease.
Regularity in Eating.	Air and Exercise.
How to Eat.	Food Cure.
Biliousness.	The Argument.

Morning Chronicle.

RATHER QUEER.—Two attempts to throw passenger trains from the track of the Boston, Hartford and Erie railroad in the town of Franklin were made within three days, but the designs of the would-be murderers and robbers were frustrated. A young man named William M. Comey started from his home in Mill Village on Tuesday evening to attend a meeting in Franklin, about three miles distant. While crossing the railroad track on the way, to shorten the distance, he discovered sticking up between the rails a long tie or sleeper, one end of which was run down into a cattle guard, and there wedged in with stones. Against this five other sleepers were piled crosswise of the track. This place was about a mile from the station in Franklin, at which he saw the evening train for Boston, already two hours behind time. He immediately began to remove the sleepers, and had barely succeeded in getting the last one out of the way, when the train rushed by at almost lightening speed, engineer and passengers unconscious of the danger which they had escaped. After the train had passed Mr. Comey proceeded on his way to the town, and had gone but a short distance when he espied two men just leaving the road bed to cross the fields. He spoke to them and received no reply.

On Wednesday morning Mr. Comey went to Boston and informed the officers of the road of his adventure of the night before. They requested him to keep watch in the vicinity of the place where he had discovered the obstructions, and this he agreed to do. A guard was also placed over other portions of the road by the company, and every precaution was taken to prevent any similar attempts at destruction being made.

Thursday morning, Mr. Comey started from his residence at about half-past three o'clock, and was walking down the road-bed between the tracks when he discovered some men at work in the same locality where he had found the sleepers on Tuesday evening. He crept cautiously towards them in the darkness and hid himself in some bushes within sight of their operations and within hearing of their remarks. He saw them pile a large number of ties upon the track, bracing them in the same manner as before, and then gather large rocks and place on the top of all. Their nefarious work being accomplished, they set down and waited for the train to come, drinking occasionally from bottles in their possession. They remained until about half an hour after daylight had appeared, all the time within sight of Mr. Comey, who could do nothing but lock on in silence.

When the would-be murderers saw the train, which was the steamboat train with passengers from New York, about as far off as the Franklin station, at which it did not stop, they left the obstruction which they had made, and climbed up a ledge near by. Mr. Comey immediately jumped from his hiding-place, and, knowing that he could do nothing single handed towards removing the obstruction, ran down the track towards the swiftly approaching train. Tearing off a red scarf which he wore on his neck, he waved it in the air as he ran as a signal of danger. The men seeing that there designs were in danger of being defeated fired twice from the bluff on which they stood at Mr. Comey; one ball went through the rim of his hat, and the other cut through his coat sleeve, slightly wounding him in the arm. Thus narrowly escaping death, he kept on until his signal was seen by the engineer, the whistle sounded "down brakes," and the train stopped within a few feet of the dangerous obstacle in its way. The obstructions were removed and the train then proceeded to Boston without further interruption.

Mr. Comey's story seeming improbable, he has been arrested as the real criminal. He professes to be greatly surprised at his arrest, declares himself ready and willing to have the most searching inquiry made into his conduct on the two occasions when he represented he discovered the attempts at wholesale destruction of human life. He has always been considered an exemplary man.

Mr. Comey talked pleasantly and freely about his connection with the affair, and burst into tears when the feelings of his wife were referred to. He has been married five years. He professes to have no fear of the result of the investigation, and says if he were guilty of placing the obstructions on the track he deserves to be tied to the end of a railroad train and dragged there. He would have gone to Boston and even have submitted to incarceration voluntarily to aid in the unravelling of the mystery, had the detectives requested it. The whole matter is a perplexing mystery. No one but Mr. Comey can be found who has seen any such persons as he describes, and it is said no traces of them have been discovered.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 30.

This is a thriving city, situated at the head of Narragansett Bay, or rather the head of the Bay is within the City, walled up and fenced in as an ornamental pond or miniature lake, forming the principle attraction to the public park, a delightful resort for citizens and strangers during the warm afternoons and evenings of summer.

Providence is about forty-five miles from Boston, with which it has good railroad connections. Among the most noticeable buildings is the "What Cheer," a spacious freestone structure occupied by banks, offices and an elegant Masonic Lodge. The name refers to the salutation with which Indians greeted Roger Williams when landing to effect a settlement. The Custom House Building contains the Post Office and other offices of the U. S. Government; it is built of granite, and is similar in appearance to the Custom House in Portsmouth.

The famous Arcade is also a granite building, 226 feet long, 81 feet wide, and three stories high. No less than 75 business firms are keeping shop within its spacious walls. The atheneum has a library containing about thirty thousand volumes. The Mechanics' Association, Franklin Lyceum and Franklin Society have each a good library.

A short description of the Barstow Stove Company's works may be interesting to your readers, especially since one of your most popular citizens, Hon. E. A Stevens, has become connected with it, his headquarters being at No. 116 North St., Boston. Hon. A. C. Barstow the senior partner has been engaged in the stove business nearly forty years. The foundry and buildings appertaining to it ocupy two and a half acres of land. The moulding rooms are very spacious, and it is a pleasure to watch the skillful workmen at their tasks; none but the very best are employed. Great piles of flasks are conveniently housed and kept in condition for immediate use.

The building devoted to the storage of patterns is full of them all carefully marked and each in its appropriate place, the most minute piece being found when wanted, without the loss of a moment of time. Every operation is reduced to a system. The castings produced at this Foundry are remarkable for smoothness and nicety of adjustment. One object familiar to every New Englander met my eye, a "Bay State" cooking stove which a workman was finishing up, in the mounting room. The Bay State has been in use nearly a quarter of a century, and many families prefer it now to any of the newer patterns.

The Barstow Co. make their own patterns and use no others; they manufacture more than fifty kinds of stoves and furnaces of their own designs. The capacity of the works is equal to the production of twelve tons of stoves and ranges per day, employing about 200 men the year round. Why can not some such enterprise be started in Portsmouth? MOTT.

☞ The keepers of the drinking shops in New York took advantage Sunday, for the first time in several years, of some uncertainty in the excise law, and threw open their doors to all comers. It is a coincidence worthy of note that the murder return is very large. Four assaults—each one ending in death, or likely so to end—are reported for that single day. At the same time, the number of arrests made by the police was far beyond anything known on any Sunday for years past.

—It was formerly a law in Germany that a female condemned to capital punishment should be saved if any man would marry her. A young girl in Vienna was on the point of being executed, when her youth and beauty made a great impression upon the heart of one of the spectators, who was a Neapolitan, but excessively ugly. Struck with her charms, he determined to save her, and running immediately to the place of execution, declared his intention to marry the girl, and demanded her pardon, which was granted on condition that the girl was not averse to the match. The Neapolitan then gallantly told the girl he was a gentleman of some property, and wished that he was a king.

"Alas, sir," said she, "I am fully sensible of your affection and generosity but I am not mistress over my own heart, and I cannot belie my sentiments. I prefer death rather than marry such an ugly fellow as you!"

"Well!" he exclaimed, as a last argument, "Marry me, and I will emigrate at once to America, and settle with you in Indiana."

Then her heart beat with hope. She married him, and is now applying for a divorce.

Correspondence of the Chronicle and Gazette.

YORK, ME., April 30.

Messrs. Editors:—Mr. J. C. Barston, who for twelve years has been an honest and successful trader here, has sold his premises and stock in trade to Messrs. Samuel W. & Charles H. Junkins of this place. Messrs. Junkins are young men of good business qualifications, and are said to have ample capital to carry on the business so well established by their predecessor.

Mr. Francis Plaisted, of this town, has killed an ox six years old, which he raised from a calf; the net weight of which when dressed was 1736 lbs.—his live weight being 2425 lbs., which makes the shrinkage 28 1-2 per cent. That is a very small per cent. He was the largest ox (girth 8 feet 4 1-2 inches) ever killed or raised in this town. Some large ones have been raised in the County, but it is said by many butchers who have seen the beef that this is the fattest they ever saw. The rough tallow weighing 170 lbs. and the fact of only 28 1-2 per cent. shrink, is conclusive evidence that it is hard to beat. Mr. J. Sanborn of Kittery will have the beef in his market where it may be seen and purchased.

The Methodist Society here have purchased a small piece of land adjoining their parsonage, and have torn down he old house which was standing on the same.

Two weeks since when some men were removing the foundation of the chimney, they found thereunder the bones of a human body. Upon a piece of plank or timber, just above, was inscribed "June 17, 1673," showing beyond a doubt that the house was built nearly 200 years ago; but how that skeleton came there produces a large amount of conjecture. It is a mystery and one which that old veteran "the oldest inhabitant" cannot clear up. P.

MAINE ITEMS.—Harry Stewart, dealer of a faro bank in Saco, was arrested charged with larceny of a watch and sum of money from James D. Hutchins, who was intoxicated, was bound over for trial and managed to make his escape from the Police Station, but was captured in Portland as he was about to take passage on the Steamer for Boston.

Mr. Aaron McKenney of Saco,. 93 years old and whose winter woodcutting exploits were mentioned some weeks since, has this spring made 5000 shingles in the old fashioned way, riving them from the solid block, and finishing them in a machine.

During the late freshet, a bottle was dropped one morning into the Saco, at Bartlett, N. H., and was found on the intervale of the Saco city farm at five in the afternoon. Quick traveling.

Mr. Azahel Goodwin has sold his country store and stock of goods at Cape Neddick to Mr. Daniel Goodwin.

Bark Kremlin of York, thence in ballast for Cienfugos, went ashore March 22d on Saranac Keys and became a total loss. The captain and crew arrived safe and well at Old Providence, Ireland, in the ship's boat.

Capt. George A. Deering of Saco has been appointed assistant paymaster in the Navy.

The Biddeford Journal says the late Mrs. Hannah Kenney of Eliot died in her house alone, in her bed, evidently without awakening from sleep. Neighbors mistrusting something to be wrong from her failing to be about at her usual early hour, entered her house by forcing a window, and found her as mentioned. Palsy was probably the cause of her death. There is a character in that vicinity, who rendered himself quite conspicuous at the funeral of the above mentioned lady, by disturbing the religious exercises after a manner he had been accustomed to persist in for some time. He is evidently a monomaniac or something else equally unfortunate. He raises his voice to a tremendous pitch, and screams out that "the dead ain't nowhere." But for the first time, after his long continued practice, on this occasion the clergyman officiating succeeded by summoning forcible means, in restraining the intractable.

☞ All the horses in Great Falls, Dover and Biddeford, seem to be running away.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S
CONCENTRATED
FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,
THE GREAT DIURETIC.

The proprietor trusts that his Remedies, from the fact of their being advertised, may not be classed as Patent Medicines.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is a pharmaceutical preparation. The proper name is given, and it is the most active which can be made. It is endorsed as a cure by all medical works for such diseases as recommended by the proprietor. It is pleasant in its taste and odor, free from all injurious properties, and is taken by adults and children. It is tonic, diuretic, blood-purifying, and invigorating. Enfeebled and delicate constitutions of both sexes will find it far more strengthening than any of the preparations of bark or iron.

See medical properties contained in Dispensatory of the United States, of which the following is a correct copy:—

BUCHU.—Its odor is strong, diffusive, and somewhat aromatic; its taste is bitterish, and analogous to that of mint. It is given chiefly in complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, chronic catarrh of the bladder, morbid irritation or the prostate gland, and retention or inability to expel the urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. It has also been recommended in dyspepsia, chronic rheumatism, cutaneous affections, and dropsy.

Cure of Gravel of Five Years Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

SAVANNAH, TENN., May 14, 1869.

Dr. H. T. Helmbold.

DEAR SIR: We introduced your "Fluid Extract Buchu" in this county about eight months ago, and am happy to state that it is meeting with universal favor. We wish to inform you of one instance (among many) where your "Buchu" has worked wonders. A man in our county, named J. B. Estell, had been suffering about five years with gravel.

About six weeks ago he bought of us one bottle of your "Buchu," and before he was through with one bottle he passed a gravel that weighs eight grains, which we now have on exhibition in our drug store. He says that he will never be without the "Buchu" in his house again. Your preparations are gaining favor every day.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,

Cure of Bladder and Kidney Affection of long Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

WESTPORT, CONN., Sept. 9, 1869.

H. T. Helmbold, Esq.,

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about seven weeks ago for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and I now feel perfectly well and free from the pain that I have suffered with 'so hard." I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours truly, THOMAS J. BENNETT.

Cure of Kidney and Bladder Affection of a Patient Seventy-eight years of Age. Thanks to Mr. Helmbold.

GIRARD, PA., March 31, 1869.

Editor Cosmopolite: Desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of Helmbold's Buchu, and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised Remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder disease, from which I have suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me Helmbold's Buchu, which I commenced using with little faith, and no apparent beneficial results for about a month.

At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use, and now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly 78 years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found sufficient permanent relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, that I feel I ought to publicly record the fact, as an acknowledgment to him, and in humble suggestion to the public. Yours respectfully,

D. M. LAREN.

DR. KEYSER
is a physician of over thirty years' experience, and a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, and of the University of Medicine and Surgery of Philadelphia. Hear him:

Mr. H. T. Helmbold.

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say that I have used and sold the article in this form for the past thirty years. I do not think there is any form or preparation of it I have not used, or known to be used, in the various diseases where such medicate agent would be indicated. You are aware, as well as myself, that it has been extensively employed in the various diseases of the bladder and kidneys, and the reputation it has acquired, in my judgment, is warranted by the facts.

I have seen and used, as before stated, every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves—tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Twelve years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits; and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I value your Buchu for its effect on patients. I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu or any other proprietary compound of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. H. KEYSER, M. D.,
140 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.
August 11, 1868.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, JAN. 28, 1868.

Mr. H. T. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: Your communication requesting our terms for advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising "cures for secret diseases," it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation in a drug store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Buchu. It was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. Incosed please find our rate o advertising. Yours, T. I. B. H. STENHOUSE,

HELMBOLD'S BUCHU.
TESTIMONIALS.

A Permanent Cure of Gravel of twelve Years' Standing. Stone Passed and to be Seen.

BURNSIDE, CONN., Dec. 15, 1869.

Dr. Helmbold,

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last twelve or fourteen years the greatest sufferer man could be and live; but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours, and women to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors, both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken bottles by the dozen of your and so liquored medicines, but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about, I could not rest night or day.

It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement headed "Kidneys." I read it through and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle, but, mind you, had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things that cost me so much? Well, I began taking it, and therefore I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I felt quite worse than ever. When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I felt really bad. I felt so, before I had finished the second, that I had made up my mind it was of no use trying any more—And all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it, so I gave it up and went to Hartford on Saturday to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite downhearted.

On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken any of his medicine, but on my return continued using the "Buchu," and in the afternoon I had a discharge of water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same—forcing a stream and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling so badly. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday. I have been as well as ever I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised.

I cannot tell you all, but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement caused me. Why not publish more? If any one wishes to see this won er, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time. I remain your ever well-wisher, EDWARD L. BOWARD,

(A Home and School for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)

Dr. H. T. Helmbold.

Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Buchu presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of our little Lieutenant A. J., his pride is no longer mortified, and he is free from the daily morning anathemas of the chamber-maid who has charge of his bedding.

I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Buchu with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent and Matron of Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering from Weakness of the Bladder, may thus be spared punishment, that is (not knowing it as a weakness instead of a bad habit) most unjustly inflicted upon them. In thinking you in behalf of the children, and hoping others may be alike benefitted, I am respectfully yours,

COL. YOUNG, General Sup't and Director.

A Case of Twenty Years Standing.

PHILADELPHIA, PENN., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist.

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upwards of twenty years with gravel, bladder, and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I found all kinds of advertised Remedies and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to try no more medicines hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your Remedies. You advertised that it was composed of Buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the Druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to delay, and see if it would continue. Suffice to say, that I would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

Take Care of Yourself.
DODD'S NERVINE is a PURE TONIC,—harmonizes perfectly with the NERVE FIBRE,—gives increased energy to the STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and other viscera.—and SUPPLIES FRESH LIFE for the waste that is constantly taking place. It OPERATES SOOTHINGLY,—is as PLEASANT TO TAKE as any wine,—and with SLEEP and GOOD DIGESTION, which IT PROMOTES, RESTORES the afflicted to SOUND HEALTH OF BODY, and to QUIETNESS OF MIND. It contains no opium, mercury or strychnine (so often used for nervous complaints,) and is wholly free from any deleterious drugs—hateful as ever. Tens of thousands are testifying to its curative powers. See pamphlet accompanying each bottle.

Some folks can't get Sleep Nights.

Dodd's Nervine is a COMPLETE SPECIFIC for sleeplessness. It soothes the throbbing muscle like magic, and tranquilizes the mind. And everybody knows that GOOD SLEEP is better than all medicines.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.

The Nervine is also one of the best remedies ever employed in the cure of the numerous and troublesome ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS. See pamphlet.

Look out for Colds!

It is proverbial that people treat a cold (and the generally accompanying cough) as something that will cure itself; but neglect is serious and sometimes fatal. The fame of DODD'S NERVINE in the relief of colds is established. Use this standard remedy, and so far abstain from liquids of all kinds as to keep somewhat thirsty for a few days, and the worst cold will soon be gone. ap5tw

Children's Diseases.

For WHOOPING COUGH, Dodd's Nervine is administered with unexampled success. Mothers, remember this and save your little ones the agony of a most distressing complaint. It also works admirably in MEASLES, bringing out the rash well and leaving the bowels free and healthful. See recommendations in pamphlet. For the diseases which afflict CHILDREN WHEN TEETHING, nothing can furnish more instant or grateful relief. Remember, it contains no opium in any form.

Be Careful what Medicines you take.

Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to the nervous health and are ALWAYS followed by depressing REACTION. The strength that Dodd's Nervine gives is the STRENGTH OF HEALTH and COMES TO STAY. Beware of the whiskey preparations that have laid the foundations of so many habits of intemperance. Whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise, let the villainous compounds alone. Better die of honest disease than be burnt up by the fires of alcohol. For the ingredients that compose Dodd's Nervine see pamphlet on each bottle. For sale by Druggists and Country Stores. Price One Dollar. ap5tw

PLANTATION BITTERS.
S. T. —1860— X
This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid, it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits. For sale by all druggists.

☞ Messrs. Rogers Chilleson.—On City Hall is their proposition equipping at a stone crusher, which cleans good roads and durable once. There's the right kind of economy in it.

☞ The following example was given out for solution at the Teachers' Institute, by Prof. E. T. Quimby: Find the amount due on $100, which has been on interest 5 years, at 6 per cent., to be compounded every instant. Mr. S. W. Clarke, whose solution Prof. Quimby pronounced correct, says it is a straight-forward question, but requires a little thought and patience.

☞ Messrs. G. G. Longee of the Ocean View House, Rye Beach, and Jedidiah Rand of Rye Centre, recently brought down a car-load of 8 horses from Canada; among them a noble pair of iron gray mares for work on Mr. Rand's farm—young, sound and kind, and weighing 2300 lbs. Mr. Rand is a good horseman, and we congratulate him on the possession of so fine a team.

☞ Master William N. Ambler, son of Sergeant I. N. Ambler, has taken the agency for the sale of Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad," in this city. We commend the Agent to the reading public and the "Innocents Abroad" as one of the most amusing books of travel we ever read. Twain carries his readers through the countries he visits, lets them share with him the fun and enjoyment of the whole affair and fills up what otherwise might be called dry details of description of some of the places visited, with quaint allusions and laughable illustrations that cannot fail to amuse any reader.

☞ As we stated last week, the Unitarian Parish of this city proffered their pastor, Rev. Mr. DeNormandie, the month of May as a special vacation—but on Sunday last, at the close of the morning service, he left his desk, and stated that while appreciating the kind compliment, he did not deem it best to accept the offer, as his health is good, but prefers to remain and labor with his people. The report and action at the meeting referred to showed the parish business affairs in good condition; and the appropriations were more than usually liberal. The committee appointed to receive subscriptions to pay off the trifling debt of the parish, were Messrs. John Sise, A. L. Jones, and J. M. Tredick, and Misses Mary Pickering and Sarah A. Foster.

WOMAN IN OFFICE.—In every age and country it has been customary for man, the stronger if not the wiser of the two sexes, to bear rules or for as holding office is concerned. It has been understood that the cares and pleasures of domestic life are enough for females, of at most in civilized countries they may teach or have clerkships. In hereditary monarchies however, and especially in those of modern Europe, there has been a departure from this. Females have been placed on thrones. Two things have brought about this result. One is, the law of succession, which, it is enforced, embraces females as well as male. The other is, the gallant spirit of chivalry, which prevailed in the Welsh, Gothic, Lombardic and Saxon counties. The nobles of war were obliged to be [illegible] of [illegible] other great benefits, it gave a conspicuous place to females in the ranks of society. Before this they had been almost uniformly despised, degraded and crushed. And this respect and regard for woman at length helped to place her on the throne.

In the Roman Empire, A. D. 222, when Severus was in authority, his mother Agrippina, who had contributed to his elevation, aspired to share with her son the honors of the office. She was not only ambitious, but haughty. The Romans saw her designs, despised the plan, and defeated it by the artfulness of two distinguished persons in the Empire.

Even in civilized and christian countries woman may and should be elevated higher than she is. By this we do not mean the privilege of the elective franchise and holding civil offices. She cares but little as yet about these. But she is to have her place beside man as his helpmeet, chosen companion and trusted friend. UNCLE JOSEPH.

We are informed that our old townsman, James W. Emery, Esq., is making arrangements to remove to this city, to occupy the Cutts mansion in North Portsmouth, which he lately purchased.

Morning Chronicle.

A PRIVATEER'S LETTER—1814.

FROM CAPT. HENRY TREFETHEN TO HIS WIFE.

Contributed by Thos. Spinney, Esq., So. Boston.

A Description of Dartmoor Prisons.—This Prison or Depot is situated in the County of Devon, and lies about fifteen miles northeast of Plymouth, and twenty-six miles north-west of Exeter, the capital town. Its appearance and situation is the most unpleasant and disagreeable imaginable. The country around, as far as the eye can reach, is an uneven, barren and dreary waste—neither a tree, shrub, nor scarce a verdant spot can be seen for many miles around. Here and there appears a miserable thatched cottage, whose outward appearance bespeaks the misery and poverty that reign within. Here no cheering prospect greets the unfortunate prisoner's eye—bountiful nature here denies all her sweets, and seems to sympathize with the unhappy prisoner the loss of every joy that renders life worth preserving. The climate here is rather unhealthy. The prisoners are almost continually affected with colds. Almost continual rains prevail during nine months in the year, probably owing to its height, it being upwards of seventeen hundred feet above the level of the sea.

This Depot consists of seven prisons, each being calculated to contain from eleven to fifteen hundred prisoners, who are under the care of an agent appointed by and under the control of the Transport Board. Here are stationed as guards two thousand well disciplined Militia, and two companies of Royal Artillery. The prisons are all strongly built of stone, and are surrounded by two circular walls. The outer wall measures one mile in circumference, and on the inner wall are military walks for sentinels. Within this wall, distant about twenty feet, are iron palisades about ten feet high. Adjoining the outer wall are three guard houses, placed north, east and south. There are three separate yards, which communicate with each other through a passage about 150 feet long and 20 broad, guarded on each side by iron bars, and over which and fronting No. 4 is a military walk for sentinels. Opposite this passage is the Market Square. In passing into either yard you go through two iron gates, so that all communication may be stopped at pleasure, and which is often done to annoy and vex the prisoners.

The first yard contains three prisons; Nos. 5 and 7 are occupied by the American prisoners. The next yard contains No. 4 prison, is only occupied by the blacks, and is separated from the other yards by two walls. No. 3 yard contains three prisons; Nos. 1 and 3 only are occupied by the American prisoners. The inside of the prisons present a melancholy and disagreeable appearance. One would imagine they were rather calculated for the reception of cattle than for human beings. North of No. 1, between the inner wall and the iron railing, stands the condemned prison. This is a place of punishment for various offences committed by individuals. Four persons have been confined by Government, to suffer imprisonment here during the war, for attempting to blow up a prize. This prison is calculated to contain 60 men, who are allowed a blanket and some straw instead of their common bedding, and their daily allowance of provisions is considerably reduced. A small aperture near the roof admits the light.

Fronting No. 1 yard is a wall separating it from the Hospital, and fronting No. 3 yard is a wall separating it from the inner barracks. The Market, which fronts the passage leading from one yard to the other, is nearly square, and will contain nearly 3000 persons. The Market is opened every day, Sundays excepted, at 11 o'clock, and closed at 1,—and is proddctive of no small profit and advantage to the country people. At the upper part of the Market Square are two storehouses; one for provisions and the other for King's stores, &c. The other buildings attached to this depot are for turnkeys, clerks and others, one for the Doctor, one for the Governor and one for the Agent.

To enter either of the prison yards from without, you must pass through five gates. Fronting the outward gate is a reservoir of water, which is brought the distance of six miles by means of a canal, which supplies by the same means the different yards with water. The Hospital is under the superintendence of a physician, who has two assistants. Dr. Magrath is the present Superintendent, and a gentleman of eminence and skill in his profession; and will ever be remembered by the American prisoners with esteem and respect. The sick have received from him every attention that delicacy or humanity could dictate.

At this present time there are 5600 prisoners, nearly one half of whom are men who were impressed into His Majesty's service previous to the war. Many hardships have the prisoners suffered in this depot, more especially in the winter of 1813, which was exceeding hard and severe. Although very cold, and many of the prisoners almost naked, no fire was allowed them, nor clothing served to protect their shivering limbs and half famished bodies from the inclemencies of the weather. It must be observed that at this time they had received no assistance from their Government, and many of them having been plundered of their clothes, were by this time of winter little short of nakedness. In April following they received from their agent, Mr. Beasley, a suit of clothes and two pence half penny per day, which sum, though small, was a great relief.

The prisoners on many occasions have received harsh treatment from the Governor of this depot, he having uniformly endeavored to curtail them of the smallest liberty or indulgence. The recent massacre which took place by his orders ought forever to stamp the name of Thos. G. Shortland with barbarity, infamy and disgrace. His name will never be remembered by a single American prisoner but with sentiments of detestation, horror and contempt.

On the sixth day of April, 1815, as a small party of the prisoners were amusing themselves at a game of ball, some one of the number hitting the ball with too much violence, it flew over the wall fronting the prison yard into the soldiers' barracks. The sentry on the opposite side was requested to heave the ball back, but refused; upon which the party threatened to break through and regain their ball, and immediately put their threats into execution. A hole was made sufficiently large for a man to pass through, but no one attempted to do it. Soon after the alarm bell rang and the militia beat to arms. The prisoners, surprised at the alarm, ran into the passage fronting the Market Square, where appeared Capt. Shortland at the head of about 500 military, the front rank of whom were ordered to fire, and soon after the rear did the same with considerable execution, and pursued the prisoners into the yards.

The scenes of barbarity and horror that were witnessed on this day are indescribable. Seven were killed and thirty-eight wounded, some of whom have since died of their wounds, and many have lost their legs, arms, eyes, &c. A man by the name of John Washington, being severely wounded and overtaken by the military, begged for his life; but these ruffians, deaf to the voice of pity, deliberately pointed their muskets within six inches of his head, and blew his brains out. A young lad of fourteen years was run through the body by an officer of military. Many other instances of the most savage barbarity took place on this fatal day. Scarce a single person that was either killed or wounded knew for what reasons they were thus pursued and barbarously massacred. Capt. Shortland endeavors to justify his conduct by saying that the prisoners were attempting to break out. So far from that being the case, the prisoners were in momentary expectation of being drafted on board of cartels for their own country; and had the gates been thrown open to them, scarce a single person out of five thousand would have left the prison.

It was a notorious fact that Captain Shortland has long sought for a plausible pretext to glut his revenge and hatred against men whose principles and manners are so uncongenial with that of his own countrymen in general. The sixth of April, 1815, will long be remembered with emotions of horror at the savage ferocity of the military headed by Thos. G. Shortland—with grief at the untimely deaths of our defenceless and unprotected brethren.

Where, ye Brittons, on that day, was your boasted valor? Was it displayed in your wanton attack on a few defenceless men? Where was your valued generosity and clemency? Was it in opening the prison doors and discharging volies of musketry at the prisoners within? Where was the amity and friendship so lately entered into by your government? Was it shown in wantonly murdering those brave and unfortunate men who had been struggling for their rights.

Where sleeps the sword of justice that should avenge our wrongs? Behold the assassin beneath the protection of despots and tyrants, securely triumphing, and bidding defiance to justice. Oh, shame! where is thy blush? Oh, cowardice! where is thy confusion? But know, ye bloody butchers of our slaughtered brethren, that millions of free born sons of liberty shall ere long revenge their murdered countrymen; ere long shall the avenging sword of Justice leap from its scabboard and bid defiance to tyranny and despotism.

Farewell, ye unfortunate friends who fell the untimely victims of barbarity; no more shall ye be the partakers of my joys or the pleasing companions of my social hours; no more shall the scene of festivity or the welcome entrance of those you held most dear dilate your hearts with joy or, attune your souls to harmony and love. Farewell, ye murdered brethren, the innocent victims of inhuman assassins. Peace in vain extends to you her cheering olives; in vain did justice, humanity or mercy plead in your behalf; in vain did you beg but for a moment to prepare your souls for eternity.

Ye tender and affectionate parents, who are now anticipating the happy return of your affectionate children, how will the cups of anticipated bliss be dashed to the ground when you hear the fatal news of their untimely and barbarous deaths. No more shall the music of their voices sound delightfully in your ears; no more shall their affectionate regard reward the parental care of their early youth. Well may ye curse the destroyers of your happiness, the butchers of your sons.

Ye disconsolate widows, who with fond solitude are waiting to welcome and press to your affectionate hearts the partners of your bosoms, how will your hearts throb with anguish and your bosoms fill with woe when the fate of horror is repeated, and their loss confirmed. Behold the widows' arms are extended to embrace the dear pledge of their lives, while they in lisping accents in vain repeat the fond name of father.

Ye helpless orphan babes, no more shall you receive the tender caresses of your affectionate father; no more shall ye be dandled on his knee or receive from his glowing lips the kisses of paternal affection; ye sons of Columbia, the blood of your slaughtered brethren cries to you from the ground,—avenge our deaths!

Remember the 6th of April, 1815.

Religious enthusiasm in Bloomington, Illinois, has developed a passion among some of its inhabitants for appearing in public in the primitive costume of our first parents.

A DAY DREAM.

I sit in the twilight and listen
To music of long ago;
And dream of the voices that floated
Away from this world below.

A mystical, heavenly vision,
They come from the other shore,
And linger around, and gladden
The places they loved before.

A calmness they breathe o'er my spirit,
As songs of that Land they sing;
And flowers of love o'en their scatter,
And Gilead's balm they bring.

"My spirit, so worn, and so weary—"
I question, with listless sigh—
"Shall roam in that garden of Sabbaths,
By life-giving waters lie!"

The vision still murmurs of patience—
"You have yet a work below,
If faithfully done, its remembrance
Shall prove as that river's flow."

Thus, dreaming a day dream the vaguest,
Of loving ones gone before,
It taught me a lesson of beauty,
Refreshing my soul once more.

IN MEMORIUM E. H.

How poignant is the grief, we feel,
How deep the soul's distress,
Nature with all her wonted zeal
Is powerless to express,—
When they whose presence cheered our way,
Whose smile, like sunlit beam,
Dispelled the mist of care away
In life's elusive dream,
Are lost to sight—Upon the strand
With tearful eyes, we saw their bark
Diverging from life's golden sands,
And all was dark.
We view them, in the flush of youth,
In manhood's strength and power,
Nor deem the painful, certain truth
They wither in an hour.
Oh, death! thou lov'st a shining mark,
Unlimited thy power,
And shall we murmur if our God
Select the choicest flower?
Father, in all life's scenes below,
Whatever they may be,
In sunshine, shadow, tears and woe,
We turn to Thee.

Among the new Patents, is one of John Pepper of Lake Village, for knitting machine. Scant crop of maple sugar this year, in Milton and Tuftonborough.

Pigs in a pen at the roadside in Hooksett, scared a man's horse, and the rider being thrown from the carriage, brought suit against the town; but the Courts clear the town of responsibility in the case.

In the case Woodman vs. Nottingham, a man drove off an embankment into the water, and says he lost $531 in currency before he got out. He got a verdict of $678.

Within three months three children of Mr. James W. Cross of Wolfeboro' have died. While the corpse of the third was still in the house, Mr. Cross himself died.

Nathaniel White and others have given notice that an application will be made to the coming legislature for amendments to the Concord and Rochester railroad charter, so as to authorize the construction of said road from any point of the city of Concord through the towns mentioned in said charter, or the towns of Pembroke, Epsom, Northwood, and Barrington, and also to strike out the proviso in the second section which stipulates that no portion of the road shall be opened to the public until the whole line is completed.

Mr. David Legro, of Rochester has taken the job to lay the brick for a Hospital Building at the Strafford County Farm.

Hiram Walcott, a wealthy and highly esteemed citizen of Keene, committed suicide by hanging on the 22d, during the absence of his family. He was discovered by his neighbors, who were attracted to his barn by the noise made by a hungry horse. A sudden fit of insanity undoubtedly caused the act. He was about sixty-five years of age.

A fellow townsman gives the name of James Noise of Atkinson, as the author of an arithmetic, known as the Federal Arithmetic, and overlooked by J. F. in his communication on the "Authors of Arithmetics in Rockingham County."

—An ox and two cows undertook, a few days since, in Washington county, O., to chew tobacco. They all died.

—The man who has nothing to boast of but his illustrious ancestors, is like a potato — the only good belonging to him is under the ground.

During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.
"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such undeniable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. THE MCFARLAND TRIAL.—On Monday, Judge Davis said that the defence claim that Mrs. McFarland remained with her husband until he became poor, and then she left him; such is not the case. Mrs. McFarland remained with her husband for a long time after he had become a poor man.

The witnesses on both sides seem to agree that McFarland was accustomed to drinking hard.

Mark M. ("Brick") Pomeroy, proprietor of the N. Y. Democrat, testified: "McFarland called at my office, introduced himself, and asked me to purchase several letters from him and publish them in the Democrat; he said these letters contained a full description of the debauchery of his wife by Richardson; he told me Greeley and the Tribune people were running a free love establishment; he said I could make a sensation by publishing them and get even with Greeley for his conduct towards me in the political arena: he said Richardson had gained the affections of his wife; McFarland said they would be worth $100; I did not care to purchase them. Said whatever fight I had with Greeley did not extend to his reporters; that I did not care to mix myself with those matters at all and would not purchase from a man the evidence of his wife's infamy. McFarland said it would enlarge the circulation of the Democrat; I said I did not wish to increase it by the means he proposed; I told him I was very sorry for his troubles, but could not consent to fight with Greeley in that way; the prisoner's appearance at that time was that of a man who had something to dispose of, and was anxious to dispose of it. Did not read the letters. Never saw McFarland before or since.

Mrs. Runkle (Calhoun) testified to aiding Mrs. McFarland to go on the stage. McFarland was earnestly in favor of it. Once while at his house, which was hot and smoky, McFarland came in drunk and spoke gruffly and rudely to me. Mrs. McFarland was writing, while in 72 Amity Street, for the Independent and the Riverside Magazine. Did not know of any intention to bring Mr. Richardson and Mrs. McFarland together. I wished simply to enable her to earn her bread.

A CARD FROM HORACE GREELEY.—The Tribune contains the following:—

Certain journals having seen fit to censure the employment of what they term "private counsel" in the prosecution of the McFarland case, and connected my name therewith, I feel impelled to state the facts as they are, which I was forbidden to do upon the witness stand.

Daniel McFarland is on trial for the murder of Albert D. Richardson. His defence is insanity, the only defence possible in view of conceded facts. Of the merits of that defence I was not called to pronounce as a witness, and I have nothing to say in any other capacity. I trust the jury impanelled will render a true verdict thereon in the light of all the evidence that may be adduced. I have not the faintest wish that they should regard it with levity or unfavorable prejudices. Esteeming hanging sane men a mistake, I should esteem hanging one insane with horror, and whether his loss of reason is impelled by truth or falsehood makes no difference in the eye of the law—my interest in this case centres not in the living but the dead. Albert D. Richardson was my friend, and I have travelled and camped with him when we were almost alone upon the vast solitudes of plains, and I knew him as a brave, generous, and noble man. I never heard any one breathe a whisper to his discredit until this trouble arose. That he should be guilty of seducing a wife from her husband, is contrary to all I ever know or believed of him. That he could deliberately resolve to instal a woman known to him as a lewd wanton, as a mother of his children, is to me utterly incredible.

I am sure that the motive which underlies this tragedy has not yet been told; at all events, it is not generally understood. Richardson is dead; he cannot speak for himself; his memory must be vindicated by the efforts of his surviving friends, or not at all, and those efforts must be put forth under general disadvantages. Other stories have possession of the public ear and powerful influences and interests are enlisted in their support. Every scoundrel who looks upon woman merely as an instrument of his lust, and who never aided one in distress, except with the intent to make her his prey, rushes instinctively to the conclusion that Richardson was a seducer. He wants no evidence of this, but such as he finds in his own breast. And everyone accustomed to look on a wife merely as a specie of property whereof the title cannot be alienated by abuse, any more than if she were a horse or a dog, naturally inclines to the same verdict.

Anxious only that the whole truth in the premises should be developed, and that my deceased friend's memory should be vindicated from the unjust aspersion, I called on the District-Attorney a few days before that appointed for the commencement of this trial, to ask if he desired any aid in performing the duty assigned him by law. I acted in behalf of Mr. Richardson's friends and I am sure he would have gladly done as much and more for me had it been my fate to be first assassinated and then unjustly covered with obloquy, and his to survive me. If my efforts shall have contributed, as I now feel confident they will have done, to vindicate his memory from some part of the wrong which has been done, I shall rejoice, whatever may be the fate of his destroyer.

☞ Divers have visited the Oneida, sunk in 100 feet of water at Yokohama, and report that the position and conditions of the ship prove that her officers were right in giving the order hard-a-starboard, and that it is evident the Bombay's officers did not see the Oneida's red light, but were fatally wrong in ordering her helm to port.

LOCAL REMINISCENCES.

CAPTAIN JOSHUA W. KENNEY, the death of whose widow we record this week, was one of the enterprising men of Portsmouth. He was born in Dover, and came to this town when a boy to learn the trade of a cooper. Soon after the war of 1812 took place, and his courage and love of adventure led him to embark in the privateer Enterprise, and he was on board that craft in her memorable encounter with the Boxer. Subsequently he spent some years in New Orleans, but returned here to follow his vocation in what was then called Fore street, now the north end of Market street. In about the year 1826, he purchased, in company with Joseph D. Pillsbury, Esq., the pink stern fishing schooner Sarah Atkins, of forty-five tons burthen; and after a season at fishing, he conceived the bold project of a sealing voyage in her to the South Seas. Having obtained his outfit, and secured a picked crew of bold men, he sailed January 15th, 1827, and arrived at the Falkland Islands in safety. The schooner's company consisted of Capt. Joshua W. Kenney, master, Wm. O. Bodge, mate, John Card, Morris Ham, Robert Shillaber, Isaac P. Waldron, Geo. F. Blunt Jr. & Jos. W. Simpson. He had hardly commenced the object of his voyage, however, when a violent gale cast his frail bark upon the rocks of the Isles, where she bilged and sunk. To most men this would have proved the end of the enterprise, but with his indomitable pluck, courage and ingenuity, he, with his crew, went to work, got his craft afloat, repaired the damages to her hull, and made a successful voyage, bringing home after an absence of seventeen months, skins of such value, that when sold, after paying the expenses of the voyage, made to the owners a dividend of seventy-five per cent. on their investment. He arrived with his vessel in safety at Stonington on Saturday morning, June 12, 1828, 66 days from the Falkland Islands with 2160 fur seal skins, besides a lot of hair skins and oil. The crew* while at the Islands always slept on board and enjoyed the best of health. He at once took stages homeward. Arriving in Boston P. M. the same day, and finding none but a very expensive way of getting home, on Sunday, accompanied by his large, faithful and intelligent dog "Bunga," he set out afoot, and walked during the night from Boston to Portsmouth, where he arrived early on Sunday morning, to greet his wife and only son, born during his absence.

His dog "Bunga" became a favorite among the boys, who were constantly applying new tests of his intelligence. A piece of seal skin being shown him, the boys would run around the Square and bury it in some remote place, and then letting him loose to "seek and find," he would invariably go direct to the spot and dig it out with his fore paws, giving at intervals a full mouthed yell of delight.

Capt. Kenney was a strictly honest man himself, and looked upon any deviation from an honest course in others with little patience, which the following incident, occurring during his summer vacation, will show:—

He had a widowed aunt, the mother of two sons, his cousins. One of these sons during an absence, had sent home to his mother some funds for her support. The money fell into the hands of his brother, who squandered it upon himself, instead of giving it to his mother, who much needed it, and who soon afterwards died, without the knowledge of the assistance which had been bestowed by her son. These facts coming to the knowledge of Capt. K., and finding that he could get no satisfaction from his delinquent cousin, he bought a cowhide, secreted it in a certain store on Spring hill, and waited an opportunity to administer justice upon the offender. Seeing him upon the wharf one morning, he brought out his chastening rod, and accompanied by his dog "Bunga," walked up to his relative, who was a heavier man than himself, seized him by the collar, and then and there applied to his back a severe chastisement. "Bunga," looked on calmly enough, until two of the bystanders undertook to interfere in behalf of the culprit, upon which he stepped forward shewing his teeth, and with a low growl bade them "stand back," a hint which they deemed it advisable to accept at once. Having left his mark upon his victim, Capt. K. at once walked to a justice, acknowledged the assault and paid the fine imposed for the same, whilst the flogger repaired to every law office in the town, to commence a suit for damages sustained, but he could not find a lawyer, who after hearing his own version of the matter, would take his part, or have anything to with his case.

Flushed with the success of his first voyage after spending a few months at home Capt. K. again shipped another crew of enterprising young men and sailed for the same destination Sept, 26, 1828, assuring his friends that if unsuccessful there he would pursue his way to the extremest limit of southern seas until headed by the ice. Embarked on this voyage were Joshua W. Kenney, master, Mr. Brenton, mate, Francis Wingate, jr, Josiah Smith, Anjevine Ham, and John Jones of Portsmouth; Samuel Norton, James Jones, Josiah Spinney, of Kittery, Stephen Bartlett of Amesbury, Geo. Peck of New London, a Mr. Nugent and Oliver Runs March, colored cook. He arrived at the Falkland Islands without accident and so far pursued his business favorably, as to send to Stonington by another vessel a large invoice of valuable seal furs which were there sold and the proceeds remitted to his owners. These were the last tidings from him or any of the bold mariners who accompanied him for months, and years indeed, the widow though full of fears still hoped on, then came a rumor that she vessel had been destroyed, but that the master and crew were yet alive upon some remote island, that traces of them had been found, some spars which belonged to the Sarah Atkins were found and identified, upon one of the Falkland Islands, yet through a decade of years no tidings of the lost ones came, and then it proved that the spars were some that he left upon the island on his first voyage.

Thus with hope deferred, and with the anguish of doubt the widow lived and educated her only son, who with the spirit of his father adopted a seafaring life, and having completed his twentieth year, with a prospect of commanding a fine ship on his next voyage, he took the coast fever at Chagres and died at sea.

Bereft of her last earthly hope and the prop of her declining years, the afflicted widow and mother returned to the cottage in the valley among the hills of Eliot where she was born, and there the weary years of life's residue have been spent in the resignation of a christian spirit, until at the last peacefully she sleeps and dreams no more of the loved and lost. Journal.

*Mr. Bodge left her at the Falkland Islands and Jack Williams, Geo. Peck and Mr. Boston joined them and came home in her.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Prostration Played Out.

Violent purgatives, emetics, salivants, blistering and bleeding have had their day.

The sick can no longer be persuaded that the best way to cure them is to destroy the little strength that disease has left them.

Dyspeptics instead of dosing themselves with epsom salts, aloes, colycinth, jalap, and other powerful cathartics, tone their digestive organs and regulate their bowels with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Persons of bilious habit, instead of throwing the whole glandular system into a state of morbid irritation with mercurial pills, seek relief, and find it, in the operation of that wholesome vegetable alterative upon the disordered liver.

Nervous sufferers, tremulous, weak and despondent, recruit their shattered energies with a course of the great invigorant, and blow the day when the adulterated liquors of commerce were superseded by a medicated stimulant, perfectly efficient and entirely harmless.

Travelers by land and sea rejoice in the possession of an agreeable corrective, which protects them from the evil effects of malaria, from sea sickness, and from the disturbing influences of changes of temperature, and change of water.

The weak and debilitated feel their strength return, and their spirits revive under its bracing, sanative, gently exhilarating action.

It is the only stimulant which cautious physicians can conscientiously recommend to ladies in delicate health, or to the aged and decrepid.

There is not a city, town, or settlement, on the American continent, where it is not recognized as a household remedy, and a safeguard against epidemics; and, in short, whenever there is intelligence, prudence and common sense, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is pronounced a standard specific, for which, in the whole range of pharmacy, there is no substitute or equivalent.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

Their great value consists in this: They may be used so long as any disease affects any of the body; and by thus preserving in their use the disease will be cured, and the body restored to health, free from every taint and impurity. Their reputation proves their merit.

Thomas Smith, Coroner and Justice of the Peace, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, says BRANDRETH'S PILLS cured him of Dyspepsia and Heartburn, when every other medicine had failed to relieve him. Certificate dated April 2, 1868.

Dr. Turner, of Savannah, Ga., says he has, for nearly forty years, recommended BRANDRETH'S PILLS as a specific in Yellow Fever; that he never knew a patient to die who took them for this malady, being otherwise sound. Their prompt use takes out of the body those matters which feed the fatality of the disease. As a general family medicine he considers them far in advance of all others, and here he speaks from personal experience of their qualities. mh12

"Children's Lives Saved for 50 Cts."

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DIE ANNUNUALLY OF CROUP. Now, Mothers, if you would spend 50 cents, and always have a bottle of DR. TOBIAS' VENETIAN LINIMENT in the house, you never need fear losing your little one when attacked with this complaint. It is now 22 years since I have put up my Liniment, and never heard of a child dying of Croup when my Liniment was used; but hundreds of cures have been reported to me, and many state if it was $10 per bottle they would not be without it. Besides which, it is a certain cure for Cuts, Burns, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Mumps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Spasms, Old Sores and Pains in the Limbs, Back, Chest. No one who once tries it is ever without it. It is warranted perfectly safe to take internally. Full directions with every bottle. Sold by the Druggists and Storekeepers in the United States. PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER

The Great Family Medicine of the Age.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the PAIN KILLER to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "ills that flesh is heir to," are acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its fame is limited to no country, nor sect nor race. It needs only to be known to be prized.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. Sold by all Druggists.

CURE, FOR CONSUMPTION.

What the Doctors Say:

AMOS WOOLLEY, M. D., of Kosciusko County, Indiana, says: "For three years past I have used ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM extensively in my practice, and I am satisfied there is no better medicine for lung disease in use."

ISAAC A. DORAN, M. D., of Logan County, Ohio, says: "ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM not only sells rapidly but gives perfect satisfaction in every case within my knowledge. Having confidence in it and knowing that it possesses valuable medicinal properties, I freely use it in my daily practice and with unbounded success. As an expectorant it is most certainly far ahead of any preparation I have ever yet known."

NATHANIEL HARRIS, M. D., of Middlebury, Vermont, says; I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and the Lungs.

Physicians do not recommend a medicine which has no merits, what they say about

PANORAMA.—On Friday evening, the panorama of the "Streets of Boston," representing a verdant youth from the country on his travels and experience among the elephants of city life, will be unrolled at the Temple. The Agent says it is one of the best temperance lectures ever given.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular Parish Meeting at Easter having failed to elect Wardens who would accept the charge; Messrs. H. F. Wendell and J. R. Reding were chosen at an adjourned meeting since. A complete change of Choir was made—the new arrangement being for Mr. L. D. Spalding to sing the air, Mr. L. F. Newell, tenor, Mrs. Bennett, alto, and Mr. Davis, bass, with Mr. Tilton for organist.

THE CONCERT.—The programmes for Mr. Chas. H. Tompson's concert, to-morrow evening, are out, and we think no one will doubt that Mr. T. is to give more than the money's worth of amusement. The prices of tickets are low and the old Temple should be filled with one of the largest audiences of the season. We notice that Mr. Chase, the fine tenor of the Unitarian Choir, has peculiarly acceptable selections for the occasion.

HORSES ON THE RAMPAGE.—As one of our city Aldermen was leading a high spirited mare on Market Square, Monday evening, to accustom the animal to the strange appearance of a steam fire engine under operation, the sensitive quadruped bolted for the sidewalk, brought up against a stone post in front of the Piscataqua Bank and broke it off even with the ground.

On Tuesday forenoon, shortly after 10 o'clock, a horse with hay rack attached ran away and came to grief near the jail, at the West end. The rack was turned bottom up and the driver of a grocery cart, near by, left his own team to stop the frightened animal. The noise the hay-rack horse made frightened the grocer's horse, and away he went pell mell, as if making a reconnoisance in force on his own account.

Shortly after, another grocery wagon and horse were seen propelling by the Post Office, down State street. This sensible equine detached the hind wheels and body of the cart, near the ward room, and accelerated his pace towards Pier Wharf, but was captured without a bath.

The same afternoon, a horse and chaise belonging to a respected fellow citizen of national fame, passed down Pleasant Street on the run, turned and ran back again as if he enjoyed the fun.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

GREENLAND, May 3d.

BIRTH DAY SURPRISE PARTY.—On the 29th ult. the relations and friends of Maj. Asa Wiggin and wife, of Greenland, made them the recipients of a pleasant little ovation, in the shape of a surprise party—which was indeed a surprise to the Major—whose friends trooped in upon him to the number of fifty or more, enjoying, incedentally to the social festivities of the hour, a bountiful collation. The occasion of this highly agreeable visitation was the celebration of the Major's 80th Birthday.

On the afternoon of that day, he had planted over 2000 hills of potatoes, a test of the vigor superior to that of many younger men, which he still retains. The Major is still hale and hearty, and the frosts of 80 winters sit lightly upon his honored head. That he will more than complete a century, is the hope and anticipation of his many friends.

—OF THE—
CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD CO.
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad
Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 277 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 477 miles.
In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia, and thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.
When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportations of the great West and South-West.
It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West, to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.
It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.
The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing Business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)
The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of
INVESTORS and CAPITALISTS,
Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.
The Bonds are in denominations of
$1000, $500 and $100,
and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.
Interest Six per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.
Price 90 and accrued Interest in Currency, at which price they pay nearly Seven per cent. in gold on their cost.
All Government Bonds and other Securities dealt in at the Stock Exchange, received in exchange, at their full market value, and Bonds sent to all parts of the country, free of Express charges.
They can be obtained by ordering direct from us or through any responsible Bank or Banker in any part of the country.

Morning Chronicle.

From the Elko (Nevada) Independent.

CANTON, ME., April 4.

What kind of confounded climate is this I have got into, do you suppose? Here it is the fourth of April and a cold raw wind blowing, that pierces the very marrow in your bones, and the air is full of snow. We have had a week of pleasant weather, and I had begun to hope that "bare ground" was not far away, but this northeast wind feels more like December than Spring. I tell you I am getting about enough of this, and if it don't change mighty soon I shall pack my saddle-bags and trot south, and am as likely to bring up at Elko as anywhere else.

A week ago I saw a gentleman from Washington who appeared to be well posted in regard to men and things. I asked after my friends, Messrs. Nye, Stewart and Fitch. Nye stands just where he always has. There is not a man on the floor of the Senate who can get up and shake out of himself, at call, as good a speech as the old "Grey Eagle." "He's fat and lazy, and never will be hung for his virtue," said my informant. "Stewart did stand first rate, but has injured himself by his subserviency to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, the Central Pacific Railroad Company, and his favoritism for some very weak men. I'm sorry for him, for he is a worker, but his hands seem to be tied by a few great corporations." Tom. Fitch has not taken a trick, and now Sutro has defeated him before the Committee on Mines and Mining, he may as well go home. It is generally understood that he is doing his master's work, and some think makes the master bungle. The Bank of California is better known at Washington than I had any idea of, and the institution don't have quite as much "say" as it does in the Nevada Legislature. The people of Nevada can break the power of the whole vile clique who have ruled her in every department for the past six years, if they will only show a little independence; but they may expect nothing more in the way of assistance to railroads or reduction on tariffs until they put new men in Washington. The present incumbents establish their reputation. The news of that one hundred thousand dollars that Rhodes sent where the "woodbine twineth" has reached Washington and don't help the agent of the Bank a bit, nor any of the Nevada schemers. You will have to have a new deal for your land grants.

I have often thought that a word about the "Maine Law" would be interesting to your readers. This celebrated law is in full force in this state now, and probably always will be. It is now twenty years since the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating drinks was first passed and the people are not tired of it yet. The last Legislature put the screw on a turn closer, and provided new means for holding the rum seller to a severe reckoning. Now for the result. Drinking is not wholly stopped, nor is drunkenness, but it is controlled and checked. Public barrooms are unknown, and even the small back rooms up stairs or down cellar are only opened to the trusted few, and a red nose is no passport, for the violators of the law have learned to their sorrow that a man may have a red nose and drink water too.

The law is easily executed; the grand jury finds a bill; the respondent walks up to the District Attorney, comes down with a cool hundred dollars and goes his way with the promise that it shall cost him twice as much next time. Now and then a half-barrel of rum is smuggled into a neighborhood and peddled out among the old soakers, but is almost always found out by somebody getting drunk and 'slopping over.' You can travel from one end of the State to the other and not see a drunken man. Men do get "full" once in a while, but their "running" friends usually take care of them. A young man who is known to drink, is disgraced, and hardly allowed in good society, and a young lady who would taste wine or hand it to a friend had better be dead. The general sentiment of good society is strongly against all stimulants, unless prescribed by a doctor, and this sentiment gains strength by years.

The children will tell you of the time when every store and tavern sold New England rum for three cents a glass, and will point to many a farm that had run down the capacious throat of a former owner, at that low rate. There are now some "private bottles" kept in the corn crib, away from the sight or smell of the good wife, and a little flask may perhaps be found stowed away in some overcoat pocket, but universal drinking, as you see it in California and Nevada, is unknown.

How many hundred thousand dollars do you suppose is annually saved Maine by her liquor law? Look at the sum it takes to run the forty or fifty whiskey mills in the town of Elko, and ask yourself if this immense amount could not be better employed in legitimate and useful pursuits. This is not all; the county of Oxford contains about forty thousand inhabitants, and there has not been a boarder in the county jail for four months. Paupers have decreased fifty per cent. in fifteen years, notwithstanding we have passed through a period that "tried men's souls," and Maine bore her full share of the burden and heat of the day.

The sale of liquor is made a town affair. Each town has its "agent," who sells distilled liquors for medicinal purposes only. Sometimes a "ru o-board" of selectmen get in, and they appoint a "rum-agent," which means one who will sell to whoever will pay for it; but these agents now and then get "yanked" before the grand jury and are consequently kept under decent restraint. I am in favor of the "Maine Law," as the best temperance lecturer in the land, the best emptier of prisons, the best purifier of politics, the best preventive against pauperism, harlotry and the whole train of hateful miseries that follow in their train. If a man tells you there is more liquor drank in Maine than Nevada, tell him he is either ignorant or a willful liar. No State or county is to-day so free from the curse of intemperance as this; No State has so few criminals in its prisons, fewer paupers in its poor-houses, or fewer bawdy-houses and their miserable death showing inmates on its soil; and for these blessings it is more indebted to the rigid enforcement of its prohibitory liquor law than all other causes. Shut up the rum mills of Nevada, and, then look for a measure of official purity and moderate taxes.

VEGETABLE CATHARTIC PILL

LORRAINE'S VEGETABLE PILL,

—OR—

LA MEDICINE CURATIVE.

Mild, Certain, Safe, Efficient. It is far the best Cathartic remedy yet discovered, and at once relieves and invigorates all the vital functions, without causing injury to any of them. The most complete success has long attended its use in many localities; and it is now offered to the general public with the conviction that it can never fail to accomplish all that is claimed for it. It produces little or no pain; leaves the organs free from irritation, and never over tasks or excites the nervous system. In all diseases of the skin, blood, stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys,—of children, and in many difficulties peculiar to women, it brings prompt relief and certain cure. The best physicians recommend and prescribe it; and no person who once uses this, will voluntarily return to the use of any other cathartic.
